Successful Living Easy American Divorces Not Considered Legal Here

DEAR DORIS - Your column has so many unusual problems that I decided to write to you hoping that you may be able to help me.

Through my friends I learned that my husband, from whom I am separated for a couple of years now, lives in the United States and is married again. He claims he divorced me in Canada in my absence, but I will not bring to me the proper papers since we did not part in a friendly manner.

How could I find out about this? - AM I DIVORCED?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR AM I - Divorcing a wife is not quite like killing a dog in Canada. He would either have to say or ask you to say him. In which case you'd be aware of the action.

If you were the guilty party and he could produce evidence, I'm sure that he might manage without your consent, but certainly not without your knowledge.

There is a vague chance that he may have obtained an American divorce in a State where the provisions are considerably less stringent than in this country. Such a divorce would not be legal in Canada.

DEAR DORIS - Would you please send me something about dry hard care. Mine are dry, rough as rasp; full of cracks and bleeding most of the time. I use soft water but even the soft water to dry them out. It is impossible for me to wear rubber gloves or other kinds all the time. - SANDRAPE HANDS.

DEAR SANDRAPE - Today's rough cleaning detergent is the only way to get rid of grease and dirt. They are simply doing the job too well when they alter the natural oils of the skin. Waterproof kitchen gloves are well worth the investment.

Perhaps you can't wear gloves for all your household chores, but if you persist in their use and your hands become dry, you may have to use a good skin cream. If you use a good skin cream, you may have to use a good skin cream.

My leaflet on hand care is on its way to you (and to anyone else writing in) and enclosing ten cents and a self-addressed envelope, you may have the leaflet put your hands in your doctor's, for treatment. He may put a dietary deficiency or skin allergy.

DEAR DORIS - I have fallen for a boy in grade 12. He like me I know, but I think he's a year or two older in age. I'm sure he's a good boy, but I'm not sure I'm old enough to be his girlfriend. What do you think?

I'm afraid Don will listen to him for he is a very handsome and good boy. I have no claim on him and I want him to understand not to listen, but how can I? - YOUNGER.

DEAR YOUNGER - Why masquerade as something you aren't? What happens when you find yourself in a spot you are left to extricate yourself like a girl four years older would?

Both you and Donny would show wisdom if you listened to this friend.

DEAR DORIS - My husband won't take me out as he does not want to leave our year-and-a-half-old boy with a baby sister. He won't play with our son because "he plays so loudly."

He is a very good boy, but he won't let me call the doctor, saying "he will be better in a day or so" - FIT TO BE TIED.

DEAR FIT - He has already tied you, hasn't he? I question the motives of a father who is so un-fatherly. It is a good idea to ask the doctor for advice, but it is completely foreign to the ways of a baby, and clueless about infant illness.

Try sending your son reading in child psychology and child care in the hope you will soon be showing him how much his son needs him.

Confidential to FRIGHTENED - It's hard to backtrack when you've been honest to face authority. What happened when you were little? The nightmare result from your refusal to ignore your fears. All you do is force them underground, to come out at night in your nightmares.

You found the courage to write to me. Now get even bolder and write it all down again. Give the result to the kind, and most understanding person you know. This will set the record for you to talk about it, which will be the beginning of release from the nightmares, the fears, and the inability to perform in the world.

(Doris Clark, Master of Social Work, is a graduate of the University of Toronto and has been a social worker for many years. She has had broad experience in social work, and will help you with your problems, write to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

THE SILVER RULE

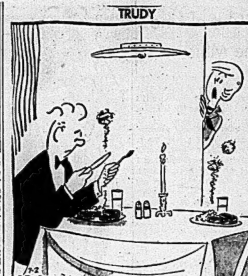

Dear Susanna: My small daughters are taking an interest in bonneting these days, and one of their favorites is to help me set the table.

While looking through a magazine, we came across a lovely large colored picture of a complete place setting as I cut this out and we keep it handy in the kitchen drawer. Now, when the girls want to help, I give them the picture to follow and they go to it by themselves.

I had the ladies wrapped in metal foil and as I pulled the paper to the front of the oven and lifted the wrap back to examine how well the bird was done, a corner of the foil touched the top element and caused a short circuit.

Dear Susanna: I was roasting a whole chicken in my oven, and each time I went to check it the oven would go out. It took me three blown fuses before I realized what was happening.

I had the ladies wrapped in metal foil and as I pulled the paper to the front of the oven and lifted the wrap back to examine how well the bird was done, a corner of the foil touched the top element and caused a short circuit.

"The chape may taste a little funny—I had to use the five extinguisher on them."

I think other housewives to lift the roast pan out clear of the oven before folding back the foil wrap. — Mrs. B.D.

Matural Childbirth Training Psychological Aid to Birth

VANCOUVER (CP) — Training in the methods of natural childbirth is a good idea for a mother-to-be even if she is going to have her baby with the help of an anesthetic, says Dr. Ray Bellon, a former Vancouver anesthesiologist now working in Oxnard, Calif.

Here for a conference on anesthesiology, Dr. Bellon explained that natural childbirth training encourages a woman to be less afraid of childbirth.

She said the aving to natural childbirth reached a peak after the war but now is leveling off. Improvement in anesthesia might be one reason.

Spinal anesthesia, used extensively in childbirth, is found to be particularly helpful in easing the mother's pain without depressing the baby, she said.

PLACE

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

"They kept it so hush-hush," said the man over the telephone, "that we thought the preliminaries must have been three hours of illegal golfing."

"We suggested a bysander," they decided to send the story out via teletype—and the lead number decided to get married at the last minute."

Finally, the word trickled through that George Chvala, Canadian heavyweight champion, had removed another "stumbling" block to what his buffs believe will be a bout for the world title.

Chvala, 31, 155-pounds, held a six-fight win with Dave Bailey, 61, 155-pounds, former top-rated partner of the great Muhammad Ali, in Regina, and growing fire of the karate-style fight on the verge in the third round.

The American, who, his tub-thumpers claim, had boxed 200 rounds with the Great Clay and never been staggered, clipped his own record, rolled over and relaxed.

The referee, probably recalling the fight of Jerry Jess Walcott in that Clay-Lion fiasco, took no chances on his athleticism. He looked Bailey, figured he had had it and sent him to his knees. They could get a final fight in the future, but the thought of the "thru" of training camp calisthenics.

Strangely enough the pre-fight bathhouse did not follow the usual trend of the Clay-Lion fiasco, but Chvala and his desire to win and bring the world back to Canada being the main theme.

And Angelo Dundee, trainer-manager of Clay, raised a top boxing authority, twisted the bases for the baby-box band.

The impression was given that Clay's first choice challenger for his crown in Toronto's George. There was a note of lament in the opening bars.

"This is a very tough fight for Chvala," George Bailey is probably one of the strongest heavyweight champions in the world today (said in plain English). "But he is the main reason Clay is in shape for both London bouts."

Then, too, Bailey has had over 30 bouts with men like Mike Machen and Cleveland Williams. It wouldn't surprise me if he pulled the statistics of the years' record and found Chvala taking on such a tough match, especially as he is in line to box Clay."

"This kind of bout would jeopardize Clay's chances. A loss would practically eliminate him from the picture."

That is about the only sensible line in the whole pre-fight jargon.

By telegram, Chvala's manager, went along with it. He is quoted as saying to be right for Ken. "I'm a worried man. All I can do is in a situation like this to keep my fingers crossed and hope for the best." A hint of tears ran down the lump in his cheek.

It's the oldtime formula being played in a different move. Chvala has now two opponents on his credit since Patterson beat him. Both have featured that "terrific right" which says right that scarcely staggered the former world champion.

Dundee's interest in the fortunes of Chvala, says a Toronto "expert" that the boys are the closest of friends. Dundee is the Canadian owner of Patterson to meet Clay. In his opinion the champion was Patterson from a technical viewpoint but he won't let his money tell him.

Other quarters state the two boys "recognize the danger of Patterson taking a quick knockout as he did in his last fight with Clay."

I don't say that, Patterson's victory over Chvala restored a lot of the old-time confidence. He has new spirit and desire."

Don't reach for the wallet. I'll take Patterson over Clay—and Clay over Chvala.

Put Education Before Hockey Advises Former Negro Pro

EDMONTON (CP)—John Utendale, one of the few Negroes ever to play professional hockey, thought hockey was the only thing that mattered when he was 17.

Now 37, he recently received a bachelor's degree in physical education from the University of Alberta. As a teacher, he figures he's in a good position to help youngsters avoid his mistake.

"I should have taken a scholarship to University of Colorado in 1965," he says. "I'd have my education completed by now."

"But hockey meant everything then and I thought I could eventually reach the National League."

If he had taken the scholarship, he admits, he would be less vocal in encouraging young athletes to choose education over professional sport.

"I tell any boy who's interested to complete at least his high school education in his home town while playing the best caliber of hockey available."

Then I tell boys to accept what they offer them to get into university. If they're interested in professional hockey, university won't retard their development. Bill Hay (Chicago center) and Red Berenson (Montreal winger) have proved that."

Wary of living out of suitcases while playing for minor league and senior amateur clubs across Canada, Utendale attended University of British Columbia in 1950-51 for one winter semester and one summer session to qualify as a teacher. He left organized hockey after he had played for three professional and two amateur clubs in two years. He went from the Westminister Royals of the Western Hockey League to Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League in 1957-58 before joining Windsor Bulldogs of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit.

The next season, he started with Sudbury of the Eastern Professional Hockey League but soon returned to Windsor. Eventually, he gave up and returned home to Edmonton.

"The money was good but I was married and I must have turned roots twice a year and moving from job to job."

For the last two years, he was on leave of absence from the Edmonton public school system while pursuing education. The chase will continue, he said, until he obtains a master's degree in physical education or a bachelor's degree in education.

While attending university, he played in the Central Alberta Hockey League, an intermediate C operation.

"I hated the travelling but the money (about $25 a game) helped finance my education. Every year, I decided not to play again, every year, about Christmas, I played."

Ex-golfer and soft-spoken, the five-foot-10, 185-pound Utendale once played on an all-star line in Quebec City. His partners with the Aces were Willie O'Ree and Stan Maxwell, veteran minor leaguers.

"It was done mainly for publicity. We didn't stay together long."

During his travels, Utendale said, he found little prejudice and none where it was known he was a hockey player."

Hal Patterson Retires!

HAMILTON (CP)—Hal Patterson has ended an 11-year association with the Eastern Football Conference.

Patterson, 30, one of the most brilliant pass-catching ends in Canadian football, Wednesday announced his retirement from Hamilton Tiger-Cats to coach Ralph Sazio by telephone from his Kansas City home.

"The news about Hal is a tremendous shock to me," Sazio said.

Sazio said Patterson had driven 50 miles toward Hamilton before returning home and making the telephone call.

Patterson has the Grey Cup record of four touchdowns and one in 1955 with Montreal Alouettes and another in 1963 with the Ticks.

He joined Montreal Alouettes from the University of Kansas in 1964. Known for his high, sliding legs and sure hands, he became a legend in Canadian football.

In 1966, he was chosen as the outstanding player in Canada.

He was also winner of the Jeff Russell Trophy as the EFC player most combining sportsmanlike, class play and value to his team.

He joined the Ticks in 1961 in a trade for defensive lineman Don Pagette.

Owns Play

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts managing director Lew Hays on a Thursday expressed surprise it reports that the Eastern Football Conference team has agreed to pay fines incurred by linebacker Ron Brewer signed with the Argos this week and reports indicated that part of the contract called for the team to pay any fines the aggressive player picks up.

"It is completely outrageous to suggest that we will pay the fines of any player. All players have to pay their own fines to the commissioner," Hays said.

The steering's quicker, the ride's flatter, the seating's roomier, the style's racier—even the grass seems a shade greener from behind the wheel of this new Corvair (the deal's hotter too!)

You won't know which to like most—the sporty looks of the new Corvair, or the whiz of a deal you'll get on it when you buy from your Chevrolet dealer right now. Because he's offering the sort of deal you dream about on the sort of car you dream about—and where else could you get a combination like that?

But the great deal isn't all. Something special happens when you drive a Corvair. You feel it in the steering—crisp and precise, in the feel, riveted-to-the-road stability of the new fully independent suspension. In the comfort-cradling of Corvair's seats. In the response of the rear engine (up to 180-hp in the Corvair's Turbo-Charged version!) You see it in the styling with the international flair that comes with every Corvair. So see your Chevrolet dealer soon...just about everybody else has

Snell Fifth In 1,500

MELBANK, Victoria (CP) — Americans Jim Grelle and Dynel Durbin finished second, beating Olympic champion Peter Snell of New Zealand, in 1:50.70 meters of the world's games in the Olympic Stadium Thursday night. Snell finished fifth.

The two Oregonians came behind with a strong burst in the final 300 meters to pass the New Zealanders in a photo finish. Snell was the runner of the race.

Grelle was clocked in the comparatively slow time of 1:51.4 in the final 300 meters. He was second in the 1,500 meters. Snell was third in the 1,500 meters. Snell was fourth in the 1,500 meters. Snell was fifth in the 1,500 meters.

On Wednesday, France's Michel Gail bettered his own record in the 1,500-meter race by winning the final race in 1:50.75. The 25-year-old French air, who recently edited the world records for the mile, two and a half miles, and 3,000 meters, beat a crack international field that included Australia's Ron Clarke.

A VISUAL AID IN KEEPING HEAD DOWN

Advice to "keep your head down" has come into some disrepute because two top players blame head down on "peeking" when really the head is down.

Yes, it is vital to keep your head down, not only because this keeps your attention on the ball but also because lifting the head causes your whole body to lift. Topped or tilted shots usually result from this lifting, or "coming off the ball," as they say.

Golfers will find it easier to keep their head down and to "keep their eyes on the ball" when they are actually in the middle of the downswing.

STIRLING TAYLOR

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Cecilia Carter of Hamilton more than four years of age to discover she was a distance runner.

"A 15-year-old can beat me over 100 yards," she said Thursday night after running in her best time of 17 seconds to win the women's 400-yard race at a Dominion Day meet here.

Miss Carter, 21, began sprinting at 15 years of age, but she had about two years ago, she decided to stick with the 400-yard race. She was back to her old tricks Thursday night, however, and although she turned in a slow time of 17 seconds, she won the 400 yards, it was good enough to win with the event.

The two Oregonians came behind with a strong burst in the final 300 meters to pass the New Zealanders in a photo finish. Snell was the runner of the race.

Grelle was clocked in the comparatively slow time of 1:51.4 in the final 300 meters. He was second in the 1,500 meters. Snell was third in the 1,500 meters. Snell was fourth in the 1,500 meters. Snell was fifth in the 1,500 meters.

Teen-age Canada So-called Teen Market Ranks Second to None

By JACK HUTTON

So you're looking forward to going on the beach and getting worried about buying that new floppy hat and the bathing suit and maybe a scooter on the time plan.

Well, DON'T! Or at least not until you've cooled off for a few days.

I've never done this in the five years this country has been open across Canada. But I'm urging you (yes, you, old friend) to sit back and take a look at the pressures on you to spend, spend and spend more money.

The so-called teen market ranks second to none across North America. And entire companies of experts are devoted entirely to advising other companies how they can best pressure the teenagers.

Lodges Attend Decoration Day Service

STIRLING — On Sunday, the annual Decoration Day and Memorial Service of Stirling Lodge No. 520 I.O.O.F. and Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 511 was held. Guests were in attendance from Campbellford and Thornbury.

The men gathered at the I.O.O.F. lodge hall on Charlotte Street and the Hamiltons also had the group. The flag bearers were Brothers John Walker and Malcolm Sharp with Guy Bradshaw as Master. All Noble Grand Clerks placed the flowers at the Cenotaph in memory of those brothers who gave their lives in the two world wars.

The members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge gathered at the cemetery where they were joined by other members. Noble Grand Mrs. Helen Hiltz read the names of 42 deceased Sisters and Mrs. Hiltz has placed a large basket of cut flowers in their memory.

Visiting Grand Clerks and the chaplain Glen Dade were in charge of the effort.

The I.O.O.F. Memorial Service was conducted by Brother Walter Currier who gave the special prayers and Brother Clayton Burkitt read the prayers. The names of the deceased members of the Order were read by Brother George Canale. This included those who were laid to rest in Stirling.

...and other cemeteries across Canada and in England. Individual bouquets of flowers were laid in their memory.

The men were led by the band to the lodge hall where a diurnal service was held. The wreath was ideal with a also breeze and the trees provided for this annual service.

TOO MANY MOUTHS

Brazil, now unable to feed its 120,000,000 people, is expected to have 100,000,000 people by 1970.

STILL ACTIVE—Industrialist Cyrus Eaton spent his 81st birthday last December on highway riding over a part of his 800-acre Acadia Farms at Northfield, Ohio. Along with his outdoor activities Eaton still puts in a full day's work in his Cleveland office.

Cyrus Eaton Enjoys Title Of American Business Dean

NORTHFIELD, Ohio (CP)—Cyrus Stephen Eaton rather than being termed the dean of American business. He insists he isn't the "best dean."

He has a philosophy of business, of politics, of religion, of agriculture. In order to be more money, have other people's money, freedom of choice, improve it.

He's doing all right on No. 1. He has a lot of money and it is a fair way to making more. He has a lot of money in this world and he hasn't expressed it—It would be to be a multimillionaire. Right now he's only in the top 20.

He's in but water on No. 1. But he's been there for many years and he hopes he'll continue to be for a long while yet. At 81, he feels that the longer he is around to keep the international pot stirring, the better he'll enjoy it.

There's no controversy on Communist No. 3—everybody there days is in favor of freedom of religion—for that matter, on No. 4. What's good for the farmer is good for the country. And Cyrus S. Eaton has done it for agriculture and in the doing, picked up a dollar or two for himself.

FEARS WORLD WAR

It's point No. 2 that's the stickler, particularly right now when he says there's going to be world war any day and in the dropping of a few H-bombs will wipe out humanity. His views on this point have led to his being termed a paradox—a top-flight capitalist who wants to be friends with the Communists is a man who has wanted to wipe out capitalism.

To criticism, he says simply: "Sometimes, one expects good for one country and not for another."

"I prefer private enterprise but I have no right to tell other countries what to do. Let other nations select their own economic system and their own religion."

Cyrus Eaton feels that Communist No. 3—everybody there days is in favor of freedom of religion—for that matter, on No. 4. What's good for the farmer is good for the country. And Cyrus S. Eaton has done it for agriculture and in the doing, picked up a dollar or two for himself.

FAVORS TRADE WITH RUSSIA — Cleveland Industrialist Cyrus Eaton, who for years has urged the United States to lift its restrictions against trade with the Communists, is met by Soviet officials at Moscow airport during one of his several visits to Russia. Eaton, who has shipped cattle to Russia, says he'd "rather trade cattle than bullets."

ere, qualities that have enabled him to arrive the last of $100,000 in the stock market crash of 1929 and to come back and make several times more than that.

Here on his farm during his annual sale of shorthorn cattle he stepped simply up and down auctioning steps to make a scintillating speech and, without a case, walked briskly about in the rain to inspect his cattle barns. He's a bit deaf now, heading forward to listen to a question, but the blue eyes are as keen as ever as he discusses international affairs and agriculture in general or his out freely at the Johnson administration and the state department.

BETTER THAN BULLETS

Eaton for years has urged the United States to lift its restrictions against trade with the Communists and has gone as far as to say in his direct business—"but he puts in a full day's work in his Cleveland office. He's at his desk at eight o'clock every morning and works until well into the afternoon. When he returns to Acadia Farm, he is to see how his estate affairs are getting along."

He lives simply and even has books, particularly poetry and philosophy, and like the "right" sound of nature at his country estate. He has a summer home in Piquette.

Mrs. Eaton, his second wife, travels with him wherever he goes on his trips abroad though confined to a wheel chair by polio which she suffered in 1940. She is 62.

Eaton has six children by his first marriage and 13 grandchildren. That's another reason why he is afraid of war. He wants his grandchildren to have something to inherit.

Russia and China into a common front against the United States. They would unite in Viet Nam "unless a miracle occurs within a month." He made it clear that the "miracle" would be U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia country.

Eaton feels that the United States has no business in Viet Nam. It has no major interests there to protect and the South Vietnamese should be left alone to change their own form of government. This would not necessarily mean Communism.

The controversial Cleveland banker and industrialist, who presides over an empire of coal, iron, rail, utilities and shipping interests worth an estimated $2,000,000,000, made his views public in a widely publicized speech in Detroit May 24. He expanded upon them in an interview at his Acadia Farms home here, 20 miles south of Cleveland.

His thesis was a sombre warning: Russia's leaders, whom he met in Moscow for eight days during his trip, meant business when they told him that the United States had left Russia no alternative but to fight.

SHOWS RESILIENCE

Eaton spoke to the Economic Club of Detroit for nearly an hour without a rest and with benefit of notes after flying from New York to Cleveland to Detroit with the real and during a bewildering succession of time zones.

He faced television lights and a cat in a reporter's lap.

This would have been an exhausting experience for men his age but to the farm boy from Piquette, N.Y., it was just another day. He has nerve and resilience in great measure.

Canadian Suggests Backward Lands Pay People Not To Have Children

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—A Canadian economist presented a backward countries struggling to build up their economies would soon pay their citizens not to have children.

Stephen Ruks of Agriculture Canada, who is director of a scientific paper written for a United Nations world population conference in Belgrade Aug. 30-Sept. 6.

Ruks, a Victoria native, indicated that backward countries, which have had no children, have special reasons to produce more children.

He said that in the past, birth rates grew down to their growth rates and because of the backward countries' limited supplies.

Governments that realize this, he said, should encourage birth rates, will encourage birth reductions and actively seek ways to curb them.

"Sooner or later," he adds,

"these governments will also be allowed to encourage birth rates by offering incentives for filling contraceptive devices to women and daughters who profit from selling contraceptives and that men get bonuses in the immediate future for moving to sterilization."

Ruks suggests that people be paid for taking others to birth-control clinics, that private doctors be allowed to receive fees for filling contraceptive devices to women and daughters who profit from selling contraceptives and that men get bonuses in the immediate future for moving to sterilization.

Ruks suggests that people be paid for taking others to birth-births 100 times as effective as in the backward countries. It is money spent to build families.

His problem is that their populations will double by 1965 and they will be unable to feed the growing populations for the production of more children.

Enke estimates that a less developed country can have its natural population growth by applying contraceptive devices. It is money spent to build families.

Peers To Principals In Report Admit To Wrongdoing

By DAVE MONTGOMERY

OTTAWA (CP)—None of the participants named in the Dorion report has so far admitted he did anything wrong.

Of course, none of the principals are available for comment because they were in jail when the report was made public Tuesday.

Liberal MP Guy Boudreau, former parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, said: "I feel I haven't done anything wrong." He had no notion of resigning and would keep the nomination alive in Montreal, he said.

"I wish to repeat that my only regret is that I did not do anything wrong," he said.

The fact that my wife and son were in the cabinet, said his wife, was not a factor in his decision.

Mr. Pearson also said in a radio interview that he feels no regret in his role in the Dorion report but he would not have been involved in the political process.

At one point, he remarked, "I wish to repeat that my only regret is that I did not do anything wrong."

He said that he was in a difficult position.

Quiet Changes Coming

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Friday he hopes to announce cabinet changes soon.

He made it clear the changes will include appointing a new justice minister to replace the resigned Guy Fauriol.

Beyond that, it was not clear how far they might go.

The prime minister outlined his hope in regard to ministerial appointments after a three-hour cabinet meeting that dealt mainly with the forthcoming federal, provincial conference.

He told reporters the discussion of political appointments, including cabinet changes, was not discussed at the West Block meeting.

Quebec's Bid To Achieve Economic Growth To Bar To Collaboration-Message

PORTAGE DU FORD, Que. (CP)—Quebec Premier Lesage said today that his province's desire for economic self-sufficiency in no way affected its "sincere desire" to collaborate with Ottawa and other provinces.

Referring to a Quebec-Ottawa trade mission to the Ontario capital, Mr. Lesage was speaking at a ceremony marking the beginning of construction of a 600,000 Consolidated Paper Co. pulp mill at Portage du Fort, Pontiac County, in the Ottawa Valley region of Quebec.

It is scheduled to have an output of 500 tons of pulp.

Prince Philip Warns Against Forcing Pace in Search Of Solution in Rhodesia

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—Prince Philip has entered the controversy over the future of white-minority Rhodesia, warning against forcing the pace in the search for a solution.

"In the long run, it is better to take on the process of the solution of these difficulties in a patient, steady, and therefore with a bit of luck to get peaceful results, than to risk a bloodbath and mass order unpredictable results by forcing the pace at this moment," he said Friday.

"I think everybody recognizes that the ultimate result is inevitable. I think a few years here or there are not important. If we can achieve this result peacefully and amicably, it will be a great achievement."

Philip was speaking on Rhodesian affairs to Edinburgh University students.

The remarks came just a week after the Commonwealth premiers conference in London, at which African governments demanded and Britain agreed to hold a Rhodesian constitutional conference if progress in negotiations with Rhodesia is not made within a reasonable time.

NEED SYMPATHY—Philip said African leaders need sympathy and understanding. "Sympathy at this moment when they are caught up in the process of change."

Philip said he believed that Rhodesia is a country which has been unfairly treated by the rest of the world.

"There have been better communications and a tremendous increase in the power and activities of the federal government."

"The result of course is that the French-speaking provinces, has slightly been taken over, that they are being encircled, repressed and generally mistreated by the remainder of Canada and that, therefore, they must be in danger of losing their identity, tradition and culture."

He went on: "Of course, the celebration of the centenary of Confederation brought all these people claim to a head."

"The claim is a deliberate conspiracy by the rest of Canada, to make a deliberately overstated case," he said.

Philip said he was sure that there was much too busy to notice what was going on in Canada, in Quebec, but they stuck very much to their own traditions to the extent that perhaps some of their institutions were getting a little bit out of date and it became very clear there was a rift between the rest of Canada and Quebec."

MORE SEE BEITAN—British welcomed 160,000 Canadian troops in 1945, 20,000 more than the year before. Of the visitors 44,000 were Americans.

In a fierce propaganda battle which is being waged in the Rhodesian press, the white-minority government under Ian Smith has said he trusts the conference decision with "the contempt it deserves."

Edinburgh (C. Reuters)—Prince Philip said he believes there will never be a complete solution to the dualistic problem in Rhodesia. "I think there will never be a complete solution to the dualistic problem in Rhodesia," he said.

Lines on Life

Life Too Short to Spend It All Preparing to Live

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Newspaper reports reveal that the general life expectancy of the population continues to be extended. But man is still not content; every day the search continues to discover ways and means to add more years to human life.

Man's life-span is indeed longer now than ever before — but no matter how long, it is always too short.

Life is too short — to spend it all on preparing to live. Life, itself, is "living," yet the experiences which make life worth living are fleeting and irreplaceable. Our son learns to talk but then our daughter begins to walk but only in our lifetime. Miss these, and the likes of these, and you will never recapture their joy and adventure. Our little ones are five, or eight, or thirteen, only once in their, and in our, lifetime. If we are too busy to live these years with them — nothing can bring these back, no wealth, no fame, not "all your piety and wit".

Negro Praises Mormon Faith Despite Code

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A faithful and active member of the Mormon Church is a Negro.

Mrs. Lucille Perkins Bankhead of Salt Lake City doesn't go along with what many Mormons believe about Negroes. She shakes it up to ignorance. She is completely confident in the justice of God and says she has been happy and fulfilled in the religious life of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

At times, she said in an interview, she has been hurt by racial prejudice. Once, Mormon elders were afraid to administer the laying-on-of-hands ritual when she was in a hospital.

"But this was really just ignorance," she said.

Older Mormons immediately admitted the religious healing ritual, she said, "and I can bear any testimony on its effectiveness."

Mrs. Bankhead, the 50-year-old great-granddaughter of a Mormon slave known as Green Flake, who was among the pioneer settlers of Utah in 1847, is a "black teacher" in her school.

"She visits homes during the week to teach church doctrine: CURSE OF CAN.

Many of these black people are colored because they are the seed of Cain who were cursed and marked by him for a black skin for killing his brother Abel.

She said: "That teaching is a fallacy. If you're a very intelligent person you can't make much out of the Scripture on this subject. It is official church practice to restrict Negroes from holding the priesthood, even if the reason is disputed."

The prohibition in the church is tantamount to full fellowship for a member "all over your head" may be admitted if they are in good standing.

The consent of seven black-headed children, Frank, 26, said the "discrimination" prevented him from going on a mission to the South.

Most of his white schoolmates went on missions — considered both a duty and a privilege for young Mormons.

WHERE THE TROUBLE LIES

The story is told of a clergyman who found it hard to locate the trouble in his own life. Finding that a clock in his church was habitually too fast, or too slow, he hung a placard on the wall above it. On this card was printed in large letters, "Don't blame my hands — the trouble lies deeper."

Whether trouble is on a worldwide scale, or on the scale of an individual, — we never can tell it by dealing with the effect, instead of the cause. If our hands do wrong, our feet go wrong, or our lips speak wrong, the trouble lies deeper. (Proverbs 4:23)

While parties formed the background setting in the home of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, June 29, when Carol Loretta Ann Cassidy, Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Cassidy of Toronto, became the bride of Michael Christopher Power of Camp Pictou, son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Power of Galt.

After a marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of net and lace over alluring fastening a square neckline edged with sequins, long long-point sleeves and a skirt ribbed with lace. A finger-ring fell from a pearl and rhinestone tiara and she carried a bouquet of Columbia red roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Janet Bourassa of Belleville and the bridesmaid, Miss Mary-Ann Cassidy of Toronto, sister of the bride, who were similarly attired in street-length dresses of pink chiffon with lace boleros. They were wedding rings with white sapphires and white accessories. Little Miss Bridget Power, sister of the bridegroom from Galt wore a white dress with pink sash and the dress enhanced with pink in the hair.

Mr. Thomas E. Cassidy, brother of the bride from Toronto, was groomsmen, and Mr. Wayne Power, brother of the bride from Galt, and Mr. Thomas Laycock of Galt, also with other relatives.

There was reception and dinner at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Belleville where the bride's table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink roses. Seated at the bridegroom's table were a turquoise shawl with lace bolero, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to the Toronto Islands and the Niagara Falls, the bride and groom were accompanied by a three-piece navy blue suit, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Guests were present from Galt, Trowell, Oldfield, Bell, Baragay and Jay, Michigan.

Many Women Still Hiding In Bedroom

TORONTO (CP) — A Dublin standard in New York, one of the first women members of AA, spoke at a Nipale Leaf Garden party attended by about 100 members and their families. She said the double standard in Canada and the United States forces the woman to "never under any circumstances acceptable for a woman to get drunk."

WENTLEY-ON-THE-ROCKS, Eng. land (CP)—Peter Gory and Albert Bergman, Germany's top rowing duo, were the first to go to foreign waters to be decided today at the Henley Royal Regatta.

The Germans defeated the Netherlands by 34 lengths today, the Nottingham Boat Club's 24th annual regatta, setting the Cornell University eight in the semifinals of the English head of the Cornell lightweight in equaling the world record of six minutes 30 seconds for the one-mile, 500-yard course.

The United States Challenge Cup was won by the defending champion, the Harvard University's eight.

Rowing leaders of the United States, started a fighting comeback for the U.S. in the third round of the Henley Regatta. The Americans won a semi-final for the schoolboy eight in a 10-minute race.

They defeated the defending champion school of England by one quarter of a length, catching the flying English boat only 10 yards from the finish.

ALL-AMERICAN FINAL
Phillips Academy of Andover, Mass., made it an all-American final in the Princess Elizabeth Cup.

The American schoolboys won the second semifinal, defeating the Rion College of England by five quarters of a length in five minutes.

MEET IN FINALS
Phillips Academy and Torment are in the final today. They have emerged as the cream of 28 crews entered the regatta.

At the second year American event, the Phillips Academy crew were held in the British school.

Last year the cup was won by another American crew, Washington State University.

The United States went into the final day of the regatta with a 10-0 record in the B.C. Cup still in the final for five years.

For the first time in the position on the final day since they were ended by three outright trophies and share is another.

But the triumph followed a long, lean spell through three regattas from 1961 to 1962 when the U.S. had no share in the cup.

It is six years since the United States won the regatta's main trophy—the Great Challenge Cup. Harvard did it in 1958.

This year, who was to catch the big one, said Allen Hansen, coach of the Olympic champion Vesper Boat Club, who went into the regatta with a 10-0 record.

When Dick Stuart led Philadelphia Phillies this season, he was a star. He was the Phillies' most colorful player, the Phillies' most colorful player, the Phillies' most colorful player.

"Too bad I wasn't here last year," Stuart said, "I could have blamed the whole thing on my shirtless, bald head."

The way Stuart has been in the minor league, the Phillies won't be able to blame anything on him this season.

Stuart hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning Friday night, leading the Phillies to a 4-3 triumph over Cincinnati Reds.

It's not his hitting, however that has been the Phillies' problem. As manager Gene Mauch said, "It's not his hitting, however that has been the Phillies' problem."

RONOLVUP (CP - AP)

Johnny Hull, all-time forward in the National Hockey League, would like a $100,000 salary for his efforts this year, but he didn't plan to have the bid published until after he had told his boss, James J. Norris, owner of Chicago Black Hawks.

"I shouldn't have said it," said an embarrassed Hull Saturday.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP)—It was a battle of brains and muscles for the Grand Challenge Cup, top prize of the Henley Royal Regatta.

The Americans took the test but one of the two carefully-worked-out plans failed. That is how West Germany's Hahnburg crew conquered the Olympic champion eight, the Vesper Rowing Club of Philadelphia Saturday.

"We all sat around Friday night and worked out exactly how to beat the Americans," said Dagobert Thomsen, Hahnburg's skipper. "We had a 5 man in the Hahnburg boat."

It was an engineer who in the No. 5 man in the Hahnburg boat. We used quicker, shorter strokes which put us ahead at the beginning."

WORKED OUT PLAN The Americans also had worked out a plan. The Germans would be allowed to go off in front. Then Vesper would overtake them with the long, sweeping strokes that had beaten the Harvard University crew in the first heat of the Grand.

"It went wrong," said Alford, Hahnburg's skipper. "We had planned to overtake them somewhere around the 100-yard mark. But every time we started, they started."

Hahnburg covered the one mile, 500-yard race in 2:05.10, beating the record by 10 seconds. The record was set by the Harvard crew in the first heat of the Grand.

The two crews probably will meet again in Rensburg, West Germany. "We will probably go to Rensburg," Rosenberg said. "We will be there," said the "The Thames Challenge Cup."

was German coach, Karl Adam.

The Americans came out with two new Henley records and one tied as consolation.

WON DIAMOND SCULLS Don Spore of New York won the Diamond Sculls in 7:42, breaking his own record by four seconds as he finished three-quarters of a length ahead of the Wandell-Venough of Holland.

Four former Yale oarsmen, now Oxford students but rowing for Britain's Lander Club, finished a half-length ahead of Tideway Scullers of England in a record 7:10 to win the Prince Philip Cup for coxed fours. The Americans hope to stay in the top of the 1968 Olympic Games.

Taber Academy of Marion, Mass., beat Phillips Academy of Andover, Mass., by six feet to win the Princess Elizabeth Cup for schoolboy eight. Both had beaten top British eight in the semi-finals. Taber's time of 6:44 tied the event record.

Five other records fell during the regatta. Peter Goggin and Ginter Bergau won the Silver Goblets for coxed pairs in 7:42 with a 2 1/2-length victory over Dutchmen Herman Bruin and Jim van der Meer. Martin Studach and Melchior Burgin won the double sculls in a record 7:01 with a 1 1/2-length victory over East German Manfred Haak and Joachim Bruckendahl. The Derby Rowing Club of England cracked the record for coxed fours in winning the Scylla Cup event in 7:06, with a 2 1/2-length victory over Christiana Rowing Club of Norway while Quinlan Boat Club of Britain set a record in the Harvard Challenge.

The two crews probably will meet again in Rensburg, West Germany. "We will probably go to Rensburg," Rosenberg said. "We will be there," said the "The Thames Challenge Cup."

Successful Living A One-time 'Blusher' Offers Practical Advice

DEAR DORIS — I have a message for Blushing Bob as I have had the same trouble.

My doctor called blushing his proper name. "Flushing," it would seem it is a nervous disorder which can make a person anti-social when you know you are going to be in the red face.

My trouble started when I had a child who required constant care day and night for over a year. All the work and worry was so much for my nervous system. My child is fine today but it seems the trials of that year will always haunt me.

Get to the doctor, Bob. Mine helped me with pills. You'll probably feel no good after treatment you'll wonder why you didn't think of it before. I always think we are lucky to be living in this day and age when the doctors know as much as they do and can do so much to help us. — ANOTHER ONE.

DEAR ANOTHER ONE — We are indeed lucky. And we show wisdom when we take steps to profit by prompt day medical knowledge. Bob, are you there?

DEAR DORIS — My husband is home all day as he works a night shift. Yet I have to wait months to get the smallest repair job done. All he does is read our magazines.

Last year when I was pregnant my kind neighbor stopped me mowing the lawn by doing it himself. All the time my dear man and won't even fix himself a cup of coffee. He keeps after me even if he sees I'm as busy as a bee.

My father used to help around the house sometimes, but his hobby was in the house reading our magazines. He keeps after me even if he sees I'm as busy as a bee.

DEAR TROUBLE — Hire a repair man, and present him with the bill. When he waxes softer, head him the coffee and the pot. If he wants to make an hour, let him, but stick by your gun. Better that a divorce later on!

He's never had a good example of husbandry; would probably be amazed if his little householdery work turned.

It's better to tell him you're misunderstanding, or to begin talking things over? Let Doris help you see the light.

Jazz Festival Has Big Crowd

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The annual Newport Jazz Festival started today with a crowd of 15,000 fans approaching 7 p.m. at Sinatra and general agreement by officials that a new festival site, away from the centre of the city, had also made a hit.

Under other circumstances, one of the biggest throngs in the annals of the Newport jazz concert series would have been there every early.

The 15,000 formed the largest crowd at a jazz program since the late 1940s. Together with the attendance of 3,000 Sunday afternoon, the night's programme made the third 17,000 since the festival began last Thursday.

Despite the large numbers present and a ban on sleeping on the lawn's benches, the traditional lodging for most of the younger fans, there were relatively few arrests and no major incidents.

Sharp Reaction Is Seen

OTTAWA (CP) - If Prime Minister Pearson and Chief Justice Frederic Doherty had their disagreement over a passage in the judge's report into the Lucius Ravaud affair would be over and forgotten.

But it may be a long time before leaders of opposition parties in the Commons allow the matter to drop.

As far as the two men are concerned, their disagreement ended Monday when the Quebec Superior Court judge issued his statement. In it he said he was changing his report to include the paragraph that Mr. Pearson knew about the involvement of his law firm in the Ravaud case.

Mr. Pearson had told Parliament that he was not involved in the Ravaud case. But it was told only in November by Mr. Ravaud's partner in the law firm, Mr. Doherty.

The judge's decision to answer any questions that reporters might ask after he issued his statement.

"You've got my statement," he said. "I'm not going to answer any questions that reporters might ask after he issued his statement."

Boycotts Talks Thus Blocking New Decisions

BRUSSELS (Reuters) - French President Charles de Gaulle today paralyzed the European Community by refusing to allow the Community's ambassador to the six-country trading group, which has its headquarters here.

The move, claiming a crisis over financing of the market's agricultural policy, put the community into limbo for the first time since its formation.

Since all decisions of the community's council of ministers must be unanimous, the market was unable to function.

The French action plunged the Common Market into the most serious crisis it has known since its creation in 1958, and could result in its collapse.

France's deputy permanent representative, Maurice Dethier, will represent his country in the talks.

On the operational plan, France is applying the decision adopted last week of a deadline of 15 months for the decision.

Oarsman Illness Mystery

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (CP)—George Humphrey of Vancouver, 25-year-old Olympic gold-medalist winner in pairs rowing, says he still doesn't know what caused the week's illness, which has forced him to leave the rowing, at least temporarily.

He said in a telephone interview Monday night that he was in hospital at nearby Reading during the day and was to go back for more today.

"There was nothing conclusive so far," he said. "There doesn't seem to be anything drastically wrong, but I couldn't wait to speculate until the tests are completed and the results are in."

Humphrey and his partner, Roger Jackson of Toronto, were eliminated Thursday from the pairs rowing at the British Royal Regatta in a preliminary round.

Humphrey says he has been in the rowing since the race and barely recovered for the last part of it.

Doctors here say he is suffering from a form of anemia in which his body's oxygen supply falls off under strain. "It is a condition which is not well understood," he said.

Humphrey was diagnosed as mononucleosis last Sunday but he has been told that he is not to take part in the regatta next weekend. Humphrey was to have gone to the regatta and then, but now plans to leave this Thursday, provided he gets clearance from his doctors.

Jackson and several other Vancouverites left Sunday for Geneva, Switzerland, where they are to take part in the regatta next weekend. Humphrey was to have gone with them and raced, but now plans to leave this Thursday, provided he gets clearance from his doctors.

Jim Perry has started as many games as he did all of last year, and he has won as many as he had in two years.

He did not win in one appearance Sunday night. Perry also pitched Minnesota's Twins into a five-game lead over the Red Sox 5-0 on seven innings.

The start for the 35-year-old right-hander was his first since June 4, 1958, when New York Yankees hit him for six runs in one inning.

He hadn't completed a game since June 4, 1958, when he pitched the Red Sox 5-0 and his last shutout was June 4, 1958, when he pitched the Red Sox 5-0.

The Twins extended their winning streak to five behind Perry in the ninth inning. The right-hander allowed only one run in the ninth.

George Young was tagged with the loss while allowing ten hits, losing three runs and a pair. Chuck Newhouse led the Lightfoots to a 7-3 victory.

Straw, Hay Burned in Barn Blaze

PICTON (Stat) — No cause has been determined for the fire which destroyed a large barn in the Greenwood neighborhood, owned by Leonard Duetts, early Saturday morning. Mr. Duetts said today there had been a high wind and it is possible that this caused a defect in the electric wiring. Lost in the blaze were 15 tons of hay and 400 bales of straw. Mr. Duetts, a cattle shepherd, had intended putting some livestock in the barn for the night but had not time to bring them home from the farm where they had been purchased.

The house is located a short distance from the barn and firemen from Camp Picton were able to save it. There were signs in their efforts by the heavy rain which was falling at the time. Forming part of the rambled structure were pipes, hot houses, garage and a cow stable, which were all destroyed. The frame structure resulted in intense heat and a number of trees in the vicinity caught fire. Mr. Duetts said that he had no plans to rebuild and that his loss was a great inconvenience to him as he used it chiefly for holding cattle which he had purchased for resale. The estimate of the loss was immediately available.

Tractor Club Members to View Equipment

PICTON (Stat) — Summer months may be busy times on the farm but they see little respite of activities by agricultural organizations.

Tonight the tractor maintenance club is meeting at the Taylor farm equipment to hear and see a demonstration on tractor maintenance.

There are 416 clubs now in the province from Camp Picton. This year the tour will be to the Japanese area. Places to be visited include Bay Farm, Stratford, Upper Canada, Pelee, Douglastown, 48 miles north of Stratford. The community of 20 residents have been ready to evacuate since last week.

Sixty fires were burning in Nova Brunswick and forest fires there and in Nova Scotia have been banned.

Firefighters have controlled blazes that broke out on the Cape Breton Highlands National Park and in Cumberland County but Nova Scotia officials still consider the fire danger explosive.

Wildfire Club met last week at the home of Clifford Walker. Garth Cubitt gave a talk on the importance of the club and there was a judging contest. The Huller and Anzellburg Club met at the home of James Huller, when a similar program was given.

Drought

ported Monday but all were under control. Fire dangers were moderate.

Orange Lodge Members Hold Church Parade

PICTON (Stat) — Members of Orange Order held their annual church parade Sunday morning. They paraded from the lodge hall to the Salvation Army where service was conducted by Lionel L. Peers. The parade pipe band was in attendance. The parade was well attended and local lodges and many visitors had dinner at the lodge hall.

Picton, L.O. and L.O.B.A. and other Prince Edward County lodges are planning to hold the July 12 commemorative walk which is being held at Stirling on Saturday July 10.

Farm Owners To Participate In Competition

PICTON (Stat) — Prince Edward County farmers are being asked to participate in the farm improvement competition sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Part of the prize money is being offered by the government, based on the number of entries. Additional prizes are being offered by local organizations and service clubs. It is expected there will total over $7,000 when all are received. The Prince Edward Horticultural Society is among those supporting the project and has offered $100 as a first prize in the county contest.

Information, along with an entry form is available through the local office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture and local newspaper and it is hoped at least 200 farm owners will participate.

The idea behind the improvement and beautification competition is to prepare the most beautiful setting possible for the centennial celebration in 1967. The competition opens on September 8 and closes one year later. The improvements made during that period count in the scoring to determine the prize winners.

made little progress Monday in New Brunswick against the Temagami River fire in the face of strong winds. About 4,000 acres of slash, scrub and forest growth already has been destroyed.

Elsewhere in the province, some 1,900 volunteers, including 100 from Camp Picton, were battling a stubborn fire along the Mississippi River, 48 miles north of Stratford. The community of 20 residents have been ready to evacuate since last week.

the department to determine what charges, if any, should be laid as a result of the Dorion inquiry into alleged attempts, through political contacts, to obtain a release on bail last summer.

The Dorion report says Lechasseur and his associates, Mr. Rivard, 25, were present when Liberal organizer Guy Masson was asked to approach Dorion about the possibility of obtaining bail for Rivard.

When this plot failed—at the Dorion Rivard visited his brother-in-law, a four-time federal member for the fall—Lechasseur and Mrs. Rivard were in the house. Rivard was in the house when Raymond Redden, brother of the Liberal M.P. who later was charged on Rivard's behalf.

The Dorion report says that after Rivard's arrest June 14, 1964, Lechasseur, whose office moved includes a conviction for manslaughter, became Mrs. Rivard's "guide and aid."

The report says that at the inquiry Lechasseur "was intent on not telling the truth."

CONSPIRACY CERTAIN
It also says there is "no doubt" that Lechasseur, Mrs. Rivard, Masson and Robert Giguere, a mutual suspect also charged with perjury as a result of his testimony at the Dorion inquiry, conspired to obstruct the course of justice.

Lechasseur was Rivard's constant companion at the inquiry hearings in Montreal. At one point, Mrs. Rivard testified she had had a miscarriage for a month prior to her arrest at home and without medical attention.

One of the lawyers asked whether Lechasseur had been present.

SHE WEEPS
Mrs. Rivard began dabbling at her eyes with a small, red handkerchief. Andre Desjarlais, lawyer for the Dorion committee, then handed her a white handkerchief as large as a parachute.

In a 1963 bankruptcy fraud case in Montreal, two accused were acquitted after important police evidence disappeared. As a result, Judge Adrian McKeen, who had been accused of perjury and sentenced to two years. He is out on bail pending his appeal and in the meantime has received more than $10,000 salary as a judge.

Lechasseur was assigned no change in the same case, including holding with intent and conspiracy to intimidate witnesses. He was freed on a $10,000 bond of insufficient evidence.

PLANS TIGHTENING

Informants said Mr. Patoche also plans to tighten up internal administration but exactly what he has in mind could not be ascertained.

There was one unconfirmed report he may issue a code of ethics for MRAs similar to the one he sent that fell to his cabinet colleagues and their staffs.

Opposition Leader Dineen, who said in an interview codes of ethics were ineffective when governments and officials in responsible positions maintain the principles of ordinary probity.

"Everything must start with this: Is it right? Is it fair, you served up to the second order of creation of whether it is politics."

Mr. Dineen added the Liberal party is shot through with dishonesty, in the third and other cases, the main conclusion had been "money, money, money."

STUDIES REPORT

Meanwhile, the Justice department is still pouring over the 3,000,000-word transcript of the Patoche inquiry to determine what charges, if any, can be laid against individuals in the case.

The Justice report said there are grounds for criminal charges.

It also said there is no doubt that Liberal organizer George Mason, Mrs. Strand and others were involved in the case.

It said as well that there is

Will Sponsor Sunday School For Retarded

NAPANESE — The League and Addition Association for Mentally Retarded will sponsor Sunday school classes for retarded children each Sunday in the Japanese town hall, under the direction of James Denier of Sully.

A day nursery for preschool children of the group will open in the second week of September. The classes will be held in the basement of Trinity United Church in Napanee. Mrs. C. Pringle will supervise until the association obtains another teacher.

There are no government grants for nursery classes and the money has to be raised by the local association.

The membership meeting will be held at Carleton East United Church at 8:00 a.m. on Tuesday evening, and monthly meetings are planned for several communities in the country.

This association which expects to receive its charter in September hopes to include classes for retarded children aged 6 to 16 and a workshop for older persons.

no doubt that Raymond Denis, dismissed executive assistant to the Immigration minister, tried to bribe the lawyer representing the U.S. government with $20,000.

Officials said any justice department recommendation on what persons should be charged, if any, and on recommendations will probably go to cabinet for approval before action is taken.

Drought

April is over. A moderate amount of rain for the rest of the summer would allow farmers to take off a second hay crop in the drought area.

Agriculture officials are working out an aid program for the drought areas. The federal government is expected to make a contribution to programs conducted by the Ontario and Quebec governments.

The most likely form of aid, officials say, is some form of subsidization program to bring cattle or hay feed into the drought areas. The aim would be to prevent cattle sell-off by feed-short farmers. Another possibility is an average payment to partly compensate farmers for their losses.

An aid announcement is expected here in a few days after Mr. Hays arrives home from a western trip.

KEEPS TRYING

Meanwhile, a U.S. railroad firm continues its efforts under a contract with the Ontario government.

The drought is causing hardship in the affected areas, official views indicate it is having no major effect on national market prices.

An all-outgoing transportation outlook report made public Tuesday last week states that in some areas will strengthen but generally have no effect on cattle market prices. The general trend is up.

The farmers' and soil sales because the thin, low quality cattle they are in many cases drew bottom prices from buyers.

Quebec Given Full Rein in Eskimo Affairs

QUEBEC (CP)—The federal government has agreed to give Quebec full jurisdiction over Eskimo affairs in Quebec. Premier Jean Lesage said Tuesday.

Mr. Lesage told reporters that agreement was reached between federal and provincial authorities in Montreal May 3 that will result in Quebec obtaining control of Eskimo affairs.

The issue has been the subject of negotiations between the two governments since 1963. The premier made agreement known after it was announced in the legislature that Quebec plans to build a $180,000 school for Eskimos at Fort Chimo on Ungava Bay in northern Quebec.

Dupuis at the new school will be taught in French instead of English when the school opens probably in 1968. It is expected that the school, with a capacity of 85, will be attended by 40 people at the start.

forthcoming, the basic problem of the drought area remains involved, particularly in the Ottawa Valley.

Metropolitan officials at Ottawa say the current drought is part of a long dry spell that began in 1962. The general trend has been less and less rain. Nobody knows when the drought will end.

In the case of wheat, the drought has caused a sharp drop in last week's rainfall, less than an inch of rain fall here compared to a normal fall of 4 to 6 inches. Even the measure around that fall did little good because it came in the late winter and failed to stick into the soil.

men who arranged one of his employees testified, for Mr. Dupuis to arrest an individual in December, 1964, clearing Mr. Dupuis of having been handed the money for himself.

Marcel D'Amboise, one of the witnesses, said under cross-examination that though he admitted Mr. Dupuis had said, "he didn't believe a word of it," he didn't believe a word of it.

He added that he had told this to his boss in a memorandum dated "To the gentleman from the Ministry of Justice" and the legendary individual who took a witness for his money. The words of which Mr. Dupuis is founder and mayor is said to be a witness.

Mr. Dupuis testified from the witness stand at the trial of the case. He was charged with conspiracy to defraud the government of Canada and with conspiracy to defraud the government of Canada.

But several things about the document troubled him, Mr. D'Amboise said. The whole idea of dealing in cash envelopes rather than a cheque.

He said Mr. Dupuis told him he passed the money on to an agent of the late Paul Earl, then Quebec revenue minister, in Ottawa. Asked why he took no receipt for it, the MP replied, "I know Mr. Earl well."

When the witness drew a folder from his briefcase to consult notes before answering a question, Crown prosecutor came law.

Conservatives had played the whole affair. They said a group of Tories left the House about midnight as though to go home. Seeing this, some Labor members also left the late sitting. However, the Conservatives were actually hiding in offices and nearby apartments. At a pre-arranged time, they trooped back into the House, surprising the socialists and upsetting the carefully arranged balance of power.

As the Tories returned, one of their members moved an amendment that inserted a new clause protecting holders of unit trusts and investment trusts, similar to mutual funds in North America, from the capital gains tax.

In successive voting, the government was decisively beaten. The Tories, Opposition 180, government 167.

The socialists then sought to continue the debate, but were again defeated, by 13 votes, when the Opposition forced an adjournment.

Tories greeted the votes with roars of triumph and lauded the government members with cries of "not, not."

DEMANDS RESIGNATION

Edward Heath, Opposition 6-manual spokesman, said: "The reason for the government is plain. It should resign and resign quickly, and the country can then be restored to peace."

Mr. Charles, chairman of the Conservative, replied: "The score of government victories now is 25 to two. That is not a bad tally."

The Labor government has been defeated once before in its history, but not so severely.

In previous defeat came on a procedural item in a privately sponsored no-binding bill, when the House voted 12 to 10 to be taken to committee stage on the floor of the House—elected government wishes for it to be a procedural item.

The socialists had a close shave June 2 in a tied vote on the House bill. They were saved by the casting vote of the debate chairman, who followed tradition and supported the government in breaking the tie, even though he was a Conservative member.

The government has also been defeated in the House of Lords, which has a life and death majority but where a defeat is not considered critical.

AREN'T A CAUSE

Prime Minister Wilson has said he would "not" request "accidental" defeats such as those that slipped as a cause for resignation. In British practice, a government normally resigns and predates an election if it is defeated on an important issue.

Top ministers were expected to meet later today to discuss the full implications of the House defeat but the government was expected to try to break its water saddle without even seeking a vote of confidence on its overall program, which it would almost certainly win.

Sir Alec Douglas-Home's Conservative opposition will use the victory as a psychological boost to put pressure on the government for an early election. Wilson said two weeks ago there would be no election this year, provided he could get essential legislation passed.

Successful Living

Puzzled by Protocol In Organizing Shower

DEAR DORIS — I have a friend who expects to get married in the fall. My problem is that she has no parents and her only relatives live in the Old Country. I would like to give her a shower but I wondered would she be proud as I am not related to her and I don't whether I will even be invited to the wedding. I believe it will be a quiet one.

But her mother was so good to me when she was living I thought this would show my appreciation. The people I would invite are people that I know will not be invited to the wedding but people who know her when her parents were living. — WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING — Go right on. CLARE — ahead. And to save her any concern about not having you on the wedding list, tell her why you wanted to do it. She'll doubtless be gratified by your appreciation.

DEAR DORIS — In regard to your column on children eating I would like to say that not long ago I had a guest tell me he never saw children enjoy eating as much as mine. From the time they could help themselves they put their own food on their plates, they have left some sometimes, but that was usually my first sign they were sick.

There has been no lurching in between meals except on special occasions. They are required to taste a new dish but they may leave it if they don't like it.

I believe that if you put food on a table at meal time and leave him alone to choose the amount he desires no child will always refuse. — HAPPY HOMEMAKER

DEAR HAPPY — Good for you. I'd guess that giving your youngsters a chance to use their own initiative in leading their plates, along with encouragement to try the new things, has worked your magic.

Of course, the avoidance of between meal snacks is essential in developing a good natural appetite for nourishing meals.

DEAR DORIS — From what I can observe, this business of diet drinking has a way of coming up on you. Starting with an occasional cocktail after work, this becomes a routine. Then you start having wine with dinner.

Now you may find you have a battle against alcoholism. I did. Please say something about this. — REFORMED ALCOLIC

DEAR REFORMED — I agree. It's one thing to take one social drink, and a couple of others to ruin your health with alcohol.

His book "How to Stop Drinking," Herbert Brown tells of the many creative things never done because of water dulled by alcohol.

He says "The main psychological danger is does not in the final state but in the long years that come before — in the neglected opportunity, the love left unexpressed, the good job left undone."

One simply doesn't have to take a drink to be sociable. When one asks for tonic without gas, pop without the "kick" in it, he may be surprised that his tolerance has given some unexpected Caper! It's important, the courage to say "no" too.

DEAR DORIS — I am 47 and considering marriage. There is only one thing which makes me wonder whether I have the right man. My aging father (now 72) lives with an aunt of mine who has rheumatoid arthritis and could become crippled. I suppose.

If my father should become senile and refuse to leave his home I feel it might be my duty to go and look after him.

I have always said that children should be allowed to have a sacrifice. But even in such a way, but when it is my own father who is to be considered, it takes on a different light! — ADVICE, PLEASE!

DEAR ADVICE — If your aunt gets crippled. If your father gets senile and arbitrary. Would it be sense to turn your back on your own fulfillment, and your loved one's, while waiting for a depressing and problematic turn to take your course?

It hasn't occurred to you that in the grade A marriage, husband and wife share each other's obligations as well as joys. You'll be more capable of coping with whatever turns up when you construct it from the vantage point of your own contented home.

Best wishes!

(Do you wonder why the people you care about as well as they don't? That's shed light on your particular human problem. And remember that stamped envelope!)

Bringing Up Baby

QUESTIONS COLLECTED BY MISS GAIL GIBBS, WRITER OF "P"

When baby is should not be stressed until your child is reasonably skillful as his own discipline. You can't expect him to be able to make a spoon before he can use it. It's a little bit of common sense.

Home and School Association News

GRADUATION DINNER

WELLINGTON — On Monday evening a graduation dinner was held in St. Andrew's Parish Hall for the grade 8 graduating class of Wellington public school.

The dinner was sponsored by the Home and School Association. It was attended by the parents, teachers and other members of the present.

Chairman for the evening was Mr. Lewis Wright, a member of the school board. He gave the toast to the Queen. Everyone had a tasty dinner.

After dinner Mr. Wright welcomed everyone and introduced the guests. He then presented the Black Diamond Chevalier, Rev. and Mrs. N. J. Truax, Rev. and Mrs. C. M. L. Solder, Mrs. Joyce Wilson, president of the Home and School Association, and Mr. Bill Joyce, president Royal Canadian Legion, and Mrs. Lewis Wright.

Mr. C. M. L. Solder, principal of the school congratulated the boys and girls and presented each one with their diploma. There are 35 students who will continue their studies in Grade 9.

Mr. Solder called on Miss Jane MacDonald to present a award, "The Johnstone Memorial Plaque" on which was engraved the names of the members of the Home and School Association in memory of Thomas Johnstone, who made 10 students for outstanding ability and interest in natural science for 1964. This plaque with a cheque from the school board will be annual award.

Douglas Irvine, principal of the school, presented the honor of being the first student to receive this award.

UEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. Callow, president of the Home and School Association, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. G. M. Hawn, director of English and public speaking at Kenilworth, A.S.

Mr. Hawn said it was an honor to be asked to address this gathering as there was nothing new to him in the graduating class. He said there is a difference in ways of starting life; we have everything you want, you have nothing to work to get ahead.

The "Open Door" was the topic of his speech. He said, "You have served your time and now you go through the open door if you have to, but not quit. Learn to listen to the wisdom of other people; you are not going to make a dollar out of it, but you are going to work for it."

He demonstrated this last idea by telling the students that a table had been placed under one of their chairs, and he lay on it as they would get it and told them all get up and find it.

Many laughter was the by girl to find it under her chair.

The speaker concluded by saying, "You must learn to listen to it, awake your imagination," and read a poem.

Mr. J. Callow voiced the appreciation of everyone for this and interesting speech by the guest speaker. He Western Girls Are Given Taste of East by I.O.D.E.

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — "I like the east, but they don't eat sunflower seeds here."

"Sunflower seeds. You mean you've never had any?" This was one of the first exchanges between a teen age girl from a small Saskatchewan town and another from Quebec City.

Conversations such as these will be a way of life for a week for 50 girls here to attend the first Junior chapter seminar of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

The girls arrived Monday and Tuesday from Alberta, Saskatchewan, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and various Ontario centres by car, train and bus. They represent the order's 14 Junior chapters in Canada.

Two five-year-olds from Saskatchewan's wheat harvesting area, on their first trip to Ontario, murmured: "Look at the trees and water. I've never seen so much water—we live 30 miles from a lake and swim in the lake."

Mrs. R. B. Craik, of Dundas, Ont., seminar co-ordinator, said that since this is the first Junior chapter seminar, it will be as informal as possible.

"Basically, we wanted the girls to meet others from across Canada and get to know them. You can't do that at formal meetings, so we've planned trips. There will only be a couple of business sessions."

Today's highlight was to be a trip to the Stratford Shakespeare Festival for Friday. On Thursday, the girls travel to Ottawa and later in the week, bus tours of Hamilton, Brantford, Kitchener, Toronto, and Niagara — on the — Lake are planned. The seminar ends Monday.

DIVIDED FOR STORAGE

Dear Susanna: I have made small cardboard dividers covered with cotton for my 11 x 11 x 11 closet. After pressing and folding the clean sheets and pillow port the tin without touching the case, I put them in sets for each bed and place them in the stacks in the closet with a divider between each group. In 11 of the pan — space them fairly of the pan — and let the case and its container stand on these to cool — Mrs. E. Mann

Such a lot of unfolding, re-folding and searching this saves at bed changing time. — Mrs. Wiloughby.

Why not have one color divider for singles and another for doubles. — SUSANNA

PIN UP THAT CAKE

Dear Susanna: The cooling off process for freshly baked angel cakes often presents a problem with many new young housewives. The cake should be cooled while turned upside down in the pan, but if it has risen above the edges it is difficult to rig up a suitable elevated spot to support the tin without touching the cake.

Here is my solution: I snap 5 or 6 clothes pins around edge of the pan — space them fairly of the pan — and let the case and its container stand on these to cool — Mrs. E. Mann

... and where else should I put the cake but — except up in the air? — SUSANNA

Cuban Women Incorporated Into Manual Labor Force

By MICHAEL ARKUS

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuba's first female mobilization campaign is revolutionizing the labor force by incorporating women into the country's manual labor force. The new revolutionary housewife will rise at 6 a.m. and go to work in the fields to tend the crops, responsible in an ideal, age-backed equality different from that inspired by many Western feminists.

She will return home at five in the afternoon, complete her household tasks and study for two hours in the evening at special educational centers.

Former Fidel Castro says the mobilization of a female labor force is a key to the country's economic development. It is a strength, he says, in full equality with men, signifies the complete liberation of women from all inferiorities and discriminations to which they have been subjected in the past.

FREE OF HOUSEWORK

Special facilities are being planned to free the housewife from the traditional chores of a house, which have turned her into what the regime calls "a modern domestic slave."

These measures include setting up day nurseries to look after young children 4 and six years old, semi-kindergarten schools and workers' and school centers.

But Castro does not hide the fact that female mobilization is dictated by Cuba's economic needs.

Despite the finer ideological points used to encourage it, the plan, some of the island's hands do not rely on the help of their wives working as agricultural or other laborers.

A recent article in the newspaper, El organo of the regime, reported men who, while prepared to give their own lives in defense of the Revolution, were opposed to their wives working. It said every revolutionary must desire the rapid growth of national production. He could not therefore logically oppose the incorporation of women in force housework.

In a speech, earlier this year, Castro singled out agricultural tasks as most suited for female workers.

He said harvesting the lesser crops like fruit, tobacco, tomatoes and other vegetables is ideal work for women in a country where there is a chronic agricultural labor shortage and where much of the male labor force is concentrated on the arduous task of cutting sugar cane.

Without female labor, much of these harvests, he said, is planned to be enlarged, would be lost by default.

CRISP CUCUMBER SALAD MOLD

I am leading you down the garden path — to the cucumber mold — and back to the kitchen to make delicious cool crisp cucumber salad mold. These are designed to be the perfect accompaniment to a cold plate. You can use your fancy individual molds or mold it in a 3-cup mason mold.

(serves 4 or 5)

- 1 tablespoon (3 envelope) plain gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup finely sliced, pared cucumber (about ¼ large cucumber), ½ pt. (10-oz.) fresh dairy sour cream, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 3 tablespoons finely chopped olives or fine, fine green onion tops.

Wash, pare, quarter and remove and discard seeds from cucumber. Finely dice enough to measure 1 cup. In a little bowl sprinkle the gelatin over the cold water and let stand 5 minutes. Stand bowl in boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat and cool. Combine sour cream, sliced cucumber, salt, sugar, sugar, chopped olives and vinegar. Stir in cooled gelatin mixture. Pour into individual molds or one 3-cup mold and chill until set.

To serve your salad course turn out on small lettuce-lined plate or salad bowl.

NOTE: To serve as an item on a cold luncheon or supper plate, turn individual molds out on lettuce leaf on your cold plate to take its place. 3 Fill scooped-out prepared tomatoes with potato or macaroni salad. 3 Fill tomatoes with cottage cheese moistened with mayonnaise and flavored with chives.

Rioting Teenagers Are In Terror Of Adult World

NEW YORK (AP) — Teenagers who riot are in terror of the adult world, which they feel inadequate to enter, says Dr. Rhoda Lizardo, a psychoanalyst who specializes in treating youngsters.

Boys who whooped it up at several U.S. summer camps last weekend "were expressing lack of confidence in their own masculinity, as well as hostility toward their parents and a need to discharge sexual excitement in this disturbed way," Dr. Lizardo said in an interview.

The girls who went along with the rioting have the same feelings, she said.

"The adult world seems dangerous to all these youngsters, because they feel so inadequate to cope with its demands for achievement and self-control and sexual responsibility. In a large group, they give each other support and freedom for their childish fears.

"Approval of the group serves the same function that approval of the parents does for young children. If these youngsters feel that helplessly malleable new person for the adult world of hostility to what it could have identified with them—assuming the parental law-abiding and self-controlled individual—instead of feeling in continuous revolt against it.

Many people, says Dr. Lo-rand, explain the riots as nothing but lack of discipline.

"But some young people who act the worst have not been subjected to extremely harsh discipline—bush," she said.

"The trick is to discipline in truly effective—and that means that it has to be effective and reliable under control, which requires parental guidance, which requires that the parents be able to discipline. It is in the adolescent's life to combine discipline with affection and with appreciation of his efforts.

Dr. Lizardo says that a perfect parent for trouble is to mix a large group of teenagers and alcohol.

"The teenagers with the least self-control—and self-confidence will immediately rise to the surface, and begin to act out childish aggression and hostility toward the adult world," she said.

"Shortly, a second group will rise to the surface. These youngsters, who are rebellious drives and are not so easily controlled by their own devices and without alcohol, they would remain peaceful, but they cannot resist being infected by the uncontrollable competition for the adult world.

"Remaining at the bottom of the boys are the maladjusted teenagers, who are not occasionally doing something foolish, but they are not aware of themselves to the point of lawless and destructive behavior."

Masters' Union Members Entitled to Unemployment Insurance, Court Ruling

Tenants Being Forced Out By Rent Lever

TORONTO (CP)—Tenants of the Bermuda Court row-housing development in suburban Richmond Hill, who are being forced out of their homes through increased rents, are entitled to unemployment insurance payments during back pay, a judge of the Ontario Exchequer Court of Canada ruled Tuesday.

The decision by Mr. Justice John D. Kearney, who was sitting here as an Ontario court judge, is the first of its kind in the province's history.

The ruling came after the first anniversary Friday of the strike against the three Toronto landlords—The Globe and Mail, The Star and The Telegram.

Mr. Justice Kearney said that the tenants were in sympathy with the 500 printers, who have continued to picket.

The Toronto insurance commission office said a qualification in April when the newspaper decided to accept the printers' demand to return to work until an new agreement was negotiated.

Robert A. Egan, president of the effect of Mr. Justice Kearney's ruling would be to give insurance payments of $24 a week to the strikers, retroactive to June 1, 1964.

Mr. Justice Kearney said that he added that claimants to the dispute must have worked each week to the unemployment insurance office.

However, Mr. Egan added, only a small percentage of the strikers had worked each week to the unemployment insurance office.

He said the matter, which had been making a minimum of $14 a week before the strike, will receive an approximate non-taxable total of $14 a week to the strikers.

The original decision last September denying unemployment insurance to the strikers was granted to the printers.

Benefit for the printers was granted on the ground that the strikers had been unable to work during the strike.

Mr. Justice Kearney said in his ruling that the strikers had been unable to work during the strike.

Magistrate Will Sponsor Convict In New Life

WINNIPEG (CP) — Magistrate Isaac Rice set a precedent for Manitoba courts when he sentenced a convicted criminal to live in the life of a convict.

He said he was moved by the genuine and sincere words of the prisoner, MacDonald, 26, who pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted breaking and entering last week and was remanded to Monday for sentencing.

MacDonald told the court: "I don't want to live in jail but I don't know how to live in the world."

The charge was laid when he tried to break into a service station two days after being released from Stoney Mountain Reformatory. Court was told he had spent about 12 years of his life in jail.

Magistrate Rice remanded MacDonald for six months, releasing him on his own recognizance of $1,000.

The magistrate said that he and John Kane, provincial probation officer, found a home for MacDonald away from the place where he had been in jail.

MacDonald offered Macdonald a job and he was to start work today.

Geography At Root of Difference In Russian and U.S. Space Techniques

WASHINGTON (CP) — A major distinction between the manned space programs of the United States and the Soviet Union is that one uses a rocket for a landing pad and the other uses a land.

The U.S. Air Force currently has no research program on a jet-powered space capsule. It spent an estimated $400,000,000 on the X-20 or X-20A, which began in 1964 and ended in 1967, without any flight being made.

The Russian land recovery system is less expensive than the American one, which requires a vast network of recovery vessels.

But just how much technical difference there is between the two systems is belied by the secrecy that has accompanied the Russian space flights.

Space officials here, however, point to one important reason why the two countries have chosen different systems.

One is that Russia, launching from inland sites, thus leans toward land recovery. Further, it has a lot of land surface to choose from.

The U.S. launches its astronauts from the oceanic at Cape Kennedy, Fla., and is better positioned geographically to use water as a recovery medium.

But it is also a fact that the U.S. space capsules, both the Gemini and the Apollo, are designed to be recovered in the water.

The Gemini capsule currently in use, the American system, is called the Gemini capsule, which is designed to be recovered in the water.

Special facilities were built into each type of capsule for that emergency.

RECOVERY SYSTEMS DIFFER

RECOVERY SYSTEMS DIFFER — This is an artist conception of a Gemini spacecraft making an earth landing. A major distinction between the manned space programs of the United States and the Soviet Union is that one uses water for a landing pad and the other uses land. Russia, launching from inland sites, leans toward land recovery because it has a lot of land surface to shoot at. On the other hand the U.S. is better positioned geographically to use water as a recovery medium. U.S. space capsules can be recovered in the water, although the astronauts would be ejected.

NEED PARACHUTE

NEED PARACHUTE — Both Russian and American space capsules depend on parachutes to brake their speed once back within the atmosphere. However, the Russian craft then glide to a landing or continue by parachute as the American system is not.

But it is also a fact that the U.S. space capsules, both the Gemini and the Apollo, are designed to be recovered in the water.

The Gemini capsule currently in use, the American system, is called the Gemini capsule, which is designed to be recovered in the water.

Quebec Will Participate In Programs

QUEBEC (CP) — Education Minister Paul Gouin-Lalonde of Quebec says his department will participate directly in education programs sponsored by Canada for developing countries.

He said the department will participate directly in the program, and later told reporters that Quebec has already sent 75 teachers to develop countries and by September the number would increase to 150 or 175.

Mr. Gouin-Lalonde said the program calls for sending French-Canadian teachers to French-speaking countries in Africa, but this did not include to French-speaking by English-speaking Quebecers.

For developing countries.

Had the legislature Monday that the cost to the province will be $1,000,000 but the province will be repaid by the federal government.

Mr. Gouin-Lalonde said participation in the federal program will not affect plans made by Quebec with other countries during the next few years.

He said as far as he knew Quebec is the only province to participate directly in the program, and later told reporters that Quebec has already sent 75 teachers to develop countries and by September the number would increase to 150 or 175.

$100,000 a year?
That's a lot of cash, kiddies, no matter what hockey team it comes from.

Bobby Hull did some audible, wondrous thinking while arriving at a $100,000-a-year deal with the Blackhawks, who he says he will be making $100,000 a year.

He was quoted as saying that he intends to demand $100,000-a-year salary because it's the big drive for the club and I feel it was to hockey that Hull and Willie Warr are in baseball.

As an athlete, our man on Hockey's Island puts it "I'll just do it, he thinks it. And like the guy who said he was jumped off the twenty-story building, it's always better to start from the top."

Hull's boss, Jim Norris, more or less attended the hockey world when he offered $1 million for Toronto's Frank Mahovlich. Was the Hawks' owner speaking out of turn? In any event it may have given Hull the idea that if he can't get a $100,000 a year salary, he should be a tough bargainer, no Jack Adams told me, but he should have a pretty fair estimate of what Hull is worth to the Hawks.

The Hawks' owner, who was last year, and it goes beyond saying that he was not a shrewd businessman. It is doubtful he will ask for the $100,000. If he does, he will be more powerful than Hull.

Hull's reported statement that he is to be hockey world's $100,000 a year salary is a big deal. It is a $100,000 a year salary in hockey, but the equivalent of a quarter-million in the major league business.

Baseball season plays twice the number of home games as hockey clubs and they have more lucrative revenue from the television market.

Top salaries in the National Hockey League, it is stated, run around $100,000 a year. The average of $100,000 a year is the top salary in the league.

There is something in what Hull is reported as saying. "The Hawks have been making money ever since I have been with them and I think I can convince them that I deserve much more than I'm getting."

As Dick (Montreal Gazette) Carroll would say, "There isn't any doubt that Hull is the biggest deal in the history of the NHL, but how do you go about estimating what he is worth to the Chicago club?"

"Hockey is a team game and Hull isn't solely responsible for making the Black Hawks a contender, but there's no denying his pulling power for the club," says Robert Richard, compared with him in his report.

"The Rocket," Carroll says, "could fill rinks all around the league and Hull is now doing the same thing. People who have seen a game in years are looking for tickets when the Hawks come in town because they want to see it. Hull is as good as they say he is."

Hull may have been speaking "out of turn" and was "embarrassed" by the publication of his alleged demand, but he helped hockey club in a big way. The signing of the American player, which radically increased NHL happenings to a single-game head on a buried page.

Dempsey, Tunney Favor Boxing Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two famous rivals from boxing's golden age, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, teamed Tuesday to draw a one-night bout in the fight game in its electronic age. Both 70 or more heavily, Dempsey drew strongly for a national boxing commission at the opening round of hearings before the House Interstate Commerce committee.

Handling over the proceedings, Jack had a memory was the Cassius Clay-Dempsey fight in Lewiston, Maine, last May. Not with a standing-room-only crowd in the big hearing room only was remembered: "This is Dempsey, a bigger crowd than the fight."

Looking at Dempsey and St. Louis, the hearing told the committee how he started out in the old days in Colorado when he was a two-year-old. "I used to be a boxer," he said, "and I was a champion of the world."

Dempsey, who has a fair list of one-round knockouts in his record, acknowledged the questioning that a one-round knockout did not mean that the fight was wrong with his fight. "I was not on hand personally but saw a statement with my son, Freddie, on (Dempsey's) name."

Tunney said he was "strongly in favor of the bill to set up a national boxing commission" and said he was a "devoted fan of our splendid fight from being carried in interstate commerce by interstate radio or wire service."

"Each authorization being in existence through a law passed by Congress," Tunney noted, "we have had the sorry spectacle produced in the last year or so called 'heavyweight championship matches'."

"The American people, he said, were tired of at least $300,000 to witness a fight and then to see it on television and live gate."

Brock Judges Wils In 'Thief' Race

Associated Press Sports Writer

Low Brock may be only the No. 2 thief in the National League but he tops San Francisco Giants' most wanted list today.

Brock, who has been charged with Wils' shadow in the stolen base game, ran the Giants into the ground Tuesday night in a 3-2 loss to victory that stole the game from the Giants.

The St. Louis victory, which stole the game from the Giants, was the last of two stolen base games in which Brock stole the game from the Giants.

Despite his 35th stolen base, Brock lost ground to Wils, who stole two bases last night in the 11th inning. Brock stole two bases last night in the 11th inning.

The Dodgers, which outlasted 14-13 by Cincinnati, dropped the lead into second place, one game out. Low Brock stole the game from the Giants.

PALMISTO-PALM GRIP

IS WHAT YOU WANT

When you consider that positioning your hands a fraction of an inch on the wrong position on the club can cause a swing to fly 20-30 yards off line, the importance of a sound grip becomes apparent.

In a proper golf grip, your hands should fit snugly together on the club and the palms should move as one from each other, both or together.

promote right angles to the target line (No. 1). Such a grip will only help you during the swing and will help ensure that you return the clubface squarely to the ball. Illustrations No. 2 and No. 3 show improper grips. Note that the palms move in each other. The grip in No. 2 encourages a hook hook. Illustration No. 3 shows a typical "slur" grip.

They were to be followed by Peter Rodgers of the United States, paired with George Low of Victoria of Argentina, paired with Kenneth Morrison of Scotland.

As the field of 150 teed off in the 18-hole medal play, Lema said he was leading on brassie and spoons and rose off some of the trees.

RAF Shades Army Marksmen

By CARL MOLLINS

BISLEY, England (CP)—Canadian Army marksmen at the Bisle rifle competition have found grounds for winning Royal Air Force men were sick to lying.

RAF sharpshooters nudged Canadians out of first place in three contests Tuesday at the annual two-week shooting range on the Bisle range, 30 miles south of London.

St. Peter Holderness of RAF Fighter Command won the first service of the Queens Mary match, a premier event for seven years, with a score of 136 out of 200 in the four-year event.

This made the 17th of St. Peter's St. Charles, N.S., second and St. John's, N.S., second.

Three other members of the Bisle Canadian Army team—Capt. Bill Molnar of Fort Macleod, Alta., Sgt. Vince Kavanagh of Stirling, Ont., and Sgt. John Kabinoff of Calgary and Saskatoon, placed among the top 30 out of about 250 entrants, and thus qualify for the second stage of the Queen Mary match.

Molnar, 26, winner of the 1964 Queen's Medal as top shooter in the Canadian Army, was squeezed out of first place in the Klunkner Prize in a shoot Tuesday to break a four-way tie.

Results of the 1964 team match, posted Tuesday, showed four — one Canadian team second to a RAF team.

The airman scored 340 out of 500 and the Canadian 322 in two matches Monday that counted in aggregate for the Bisle.

BAD PERFECT SCORE
One of the two Hyde match the players Cup for shooting at 200 yards from a sitting position, brought top aggregate honors Monday to Dalgia, who scored 100.

Dalgia, 1965 winner of the Canadian Queen's Medal, is the top shooter for the Bisle rifle championship. The title is held by the Bisle rifle team, which is seven individual events held in one day.

Dalgia placed first and second in the 1964 and 1965.

Tourist Industry To Enjoy Record Year: Bureau Man

By FRITS ROOS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The number of tourists headed for Canada last year was estimated to be the highest since 1954, according to the tourist industry.

Federal and provincial government travel bureaus, private travel agencies and resort operators all report that the number of tourists is expected to be the highest since 1954, according to the tourist industry.

"Last year we handled more than 1,500,000 letters and cards from tourists," says J. R. B. Coleman, director of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau, which is spending $6,000,000 this year to lure foreign visitors to Canada.

"Heavy mail, sometimes as many as 10,000 letters a day, shows a keener interest even than in 1964—a record year," he says.

Optimism is the prevalent mood in the foreign tourist trade, recently estimated by the Canadian Tourist Association to be worth $2,400,000,000.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canada Press shows foreign tourists last year spent $1,000,000,000 in 1964 and expected to spend $1,200,000,000 this year, it was well on the way to the $1,000,000,000 mark.

It was well on the way to the $1,000,000,000 mark in 1964, when the Montreal World's Fair is expected to give a big boost to the industry.

AMERICAN INFLEX HELPS

Although the major, but some times forgotten, share of the tourist cake is provided by Canadian visitors in their own country, the American dollar is still the glamour symbol of the trade.

Last year visitors from the U.S. spent $400,000,000 here while Canadian tourists spent $400,000,000 in the U.S., producing a $100,000,000 surplus for Canada.

But Canadians spent $22,000,000 overseas against the $72,000,000 left here by overseas tourists. The resulting overseas deficit of $100,000,000 plunged Canada's overall foreign tourist balance $200,000,000 in the red.

The tourist trade with overseas countries, long a problem, shows signs of improving. The numbers and financial weight of overseas visitors have made them one of the fastest-growing sections of Canada's tourist trade. Their spending here last year was more than triple the $22,000,000 they left a decade earlier. European visitors now are estimated at more than 100,000.

Another fast-growing type of tourist trade is camping, "now one of the most popular kinds of outdoor recreation in Canada," according to J. R. B. Coleman, director of the national parks branch.

OUTDOORS BIG AIRE
Last year the national parks registered about 7,000,000 camper — day-five times as many as in 1954. This year the rate is expected to grow at least another 10 per cent. Provincial parks have the same experience and outlook.

Outdoors recreation is Canada's largest foreign tourist attraction. In a 1964 survey of 80,000 American, of which they liked most the scenic outdoors, fishing, hunting and camping.

Others mentioned in the list were 34 events such as the Calgary Stampede (19 per cent), opportunity for quiet recreation (18 per cent), hospitality (16 per cent), reasonable cost (13 per cent) and a pleasant summer climate (seven per cent).

"Take a five-week holiday in an unspoiled Canada" is the slogan of the Canadian Government Travel Bureau this year, appealing to the Americans' desire for good accommodation and recreation in a quiet environment. Every the tourist picture provides a picture of the tourist picture.

FAST-GROWING INDUSTRY — Graph shows the results of a survey of 600,000 Americans on why they decided to spend a holiday in Canada. Chief reason was outdoors recreation, followed by hospitality, reasonable cost, big events, quiet relaxation and a pleasant climate. Graph inset traces tourist spending since 1955. Despite increased spending by foreign tourists in Canada, the total is usually exceeded by spending of Canadians abroad.

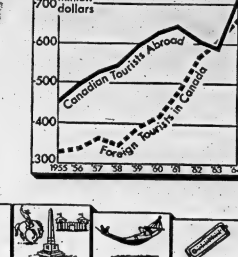

NOVA SCOTIA
The province's $200,000 tourist promotion budget is claimed to be the highest in Canada. In 1964 the number of visitors increased some 10 per cent to 80,000, including 270,000 from the U.S. Although they spent more than $1,000,000, they left a $100,000 deficit.

NEW BRUNSWICK
At least as many tourists are expected this year as in 1964 when 1,200,000 visitors spent a record $300,000,000. Of the visitors, 1,200,000 came from the U.S.

QUEBEC
With inquiries more than 25 per cent ahead of last year, the government expects a considerable increase in visitors, despite its recently announced six-per-cent tax on room rentals. The province has planned a $4,000,000 expenditure this year for camping and picnic facilities (100,000 last year) and a $400,000 tourist promotion budget.

ONTARIO
Tourism Minister James Adair predicts a record tourist income totalling the $1,300,000,000 mark, including $750,000,000 from south of the border and $750,000,000 from other provinces. Last year, more than 2,000,000 foreigners with $250,000,000, 1,279,915 Cana-

Tourist Spending

ALBERTA
With inquiries and hotel accommodations about 25 per cent higher than last year, the province's tourist industry expects a net increase of about 10 per cent in 1965. Last year 1,800,000 tourists visited the national parks (1,000,000 last year) and the 4,000,000 mark should be attained this year.

BRITISH COLUMBIA
Remembering 1961's jump of $32,500,000 in tourist income, this province has set its sights on another 10 per cent increase in 1965. Last year's total tourist income was $24,000,000, including $10,000,000 from the U.S. and $14,000,000 from other provinces. Last year's total income was $24,000,000, including $10,000,000 from the U.S. and $14,000,000 from other provinces.

SASKATCHEWAN
This province hopes for 1,000,000 tourists, a record, in 1965. Last year 1,000,000 tourists visited the national parks (1,000,000 last year) and the 4,000,000 mark should be attained this year.

TV-Radio Column

Danny Thomas Quite Happy Doing Five Specials Yearly

While regular columnist Jimmy Lowry is on vacation, figures from the entertainment world are providing great column.

By DANNY THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I had some pretty great ideas when I "retired" from show business in 1962, after 11 years of doing a weekly television series. I was going to do what my parents had been failing to do for years — take it easy and spend my money. I had plans for getting around the pool, playing golf with my pals, and spending a lot more time with my family.

Those first few days were great — but then. Then anxiety got the best of me. I found out that my family had other things to do. Besides sitting around visiting with me, my wife had interests of her own. My daughter, Maria, was up to her ears in her own acting career. Another son, John, was working in an office and still had time for his family. Even my parakeet would be disappointed if I had left his cage open.

What about all those pals who were in the picture with me? They couldn't take time away from their busy working lives. I decided that retirement was all it ever amounted to. I had to do something in self-defense. So I decided to go back to work.

When NBC offered to let me do five special yearly, special of my own color, I grabbed the offer, and now I'm back. I've been happier than when I was a network star.

I'm a firm believer that when a network gives you show the taste of "special," it's really special. I've been really special and I have had a wonderful time lining up the talent and fees for these shows.

Apparatus is like fresh air to me. I realize now that I can't live without it. I love being in front of a live audience, but I hate the type of material of certain shows. I've been really great and then they are on their own. So I'm back and then turn it over to them.

AS A PREFERENCE — It's no secret that the guest stars who can face a live, intimate audience and sing it.

At The Belleville Drive-In

Mercurio stars in a new John Deane comedy short "The Marriage of Figaro". Her co-stars are Peter Onorati and Maria Schell. It opens tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre for the first time.

The Marriage of Figaro Gets Bravo From Critics

STRAFFORD, ONT. (CP) — The second opera of the 1963 Stratford Festival — a revival of last year's production of Mozart's The Marriage of Figaro — opened Tuesday night to an enthusiastic audience.

Mollie Graham of the Stratford Beacon Herald described the cast of the production as "one of the best performances" by Miss St. John and Powell Gurnea and "thoroughly sound" as "the best of the festival." The production itself, "the play, delighted comedy that it should be."

She praised Canadian singers Joan Sutherland and Lillian Sills for their outstanding debut with the Festival Opera Company.

Jan Huber, the critic said, "have one of the best performances of his notable career."

"Much of the credit for this success must go to the conductor, Mario Bernardi, and director, Jean Gascon. They seem to have caught the charm of the Mozart music and story and then proceeded to relay it."

ENJOY SUMMER MUSIC

Listeners enjoy opera music each summer and can hear four jazz bands in the Batteries Theatre Gardens this year.

Deseronto Wants Better Deal From County But No Secession From Hastings

DESERONTO (Staff) — This town of 1,000 won't secede from Hastings — but it will demand a better deal from its parent municipality, a regular basis in the future.

This was the result of a motion put forward by Councilor Dr. D. C. McEvick, who said that Deseronto seceded from Hastings County and was incorporated in Hastings.

"We are a forgotten corner of Hastings," he said. "The doctor's motion was sent to an amendment that called for a better deal from the county."

(1) Release of Deseronto from the county road system.

(2) Holding of magistrate's court in Deseronto.

(3) Holding of the town's own court.

Dr. McEvick's dramatic gesture, which was defeated after little debate, nonetheless gave the town a platform for its grievances against county council.

"We may sit up the Hastings council to realize we are all sitting here in the County of Hastings and that's just a little speck to get lost," said the doctor. "There are people here and if we need these services."

AT EXTREME END

Deseronto, is at the extreme southeast corner of Hastings, where it borders Lennox and Addington. Once a boom town, its economy was based on lumber. It boasted a population of 3,000 at the turn of the century. It could boast industrial shops, fine homes and among the nation's first two airports, until lumber ran out.

Last night Dr. McEvick, a former mayor and twice and for long an aggressive figure in the affairs of his native town, made these major points in his attack on county government.

(1) It is 15 miles closer to Napanee, county seat of Lennox and Addington, than to Belleville, county seat of Hastings. It would thus be closer.

(2) Hastings already released the town so it could join the Napanee Highway $7,000 a year to belong to a county road system, but the county spends little on the roads in the town.

(3) Hastings had little to do with pushing for nearby Quinsigamong Highway bridge possible boom to Deseronto economy — while Lennox and Addington was an aggressive proponent of the bridge.

(4) Hastings councilors show their lack of interest by few visits to the town.

(5) Deseronto representatives on county council are relegated to minor committee roles.

Dr. McEvick said the physician-councilor was blunt in his appraisal of these points.

"This is not a spur of the moment affair," he said. "I've been thinking of this for about 10 years."

"The Bay of Quinte Highway bridge, linking Prince Edward County with the mainland on the western outskirts of Deseronto is now in progress," he said. "But it's initiation had been a shadow in the background by Hastings."

He noted the cost of having to transport police officers and accused persons to magistrate's court in Belleville.

"It's not the fault of the magistrate and the crown attorney that we haven't got a court here in Deseronto," he concluded. "A few years ago a couple of officious councilmen went up to Belleville and demanded to see the magistrate's book and the magistrate has refused to hold court in Deseronto ever since."

Councilor Percy Brooks later said that the town police administration "was a bit of a mess" and that the town was transferring priorities to Belleville.

The town also was paying some $7,000 a year to belong to a county road system — represented by little over a mile in county road in the town.

In one instance the town stalled a drain and received the magnificent sum of $60 from Hastings toward the cost.

While neglecting its system in Deseronto, the county "thought nothing of spending thousands and thousands of dollars" on the Madoc-Belleville county road.

Councilor Jim Sharp, Deseronto road chairman, concluded the town's position on roads.

"I don't think they're putting in more than $300 to $500 a year on this road and it's costing us $7,000."

In winter, the town often had to plow and sand the strip because of heavy county crews, he indicated.

Dr. McEvick also said the new county hospital at Napanee could better serve the town alone it was closer.

"I've been accused that I've lost my practice in Deseronto and Belleville and that I've been trying to get my foot in the door at Napanee," he charged. "If anybody follows me around for a year they'll damn well see I haven't lost my practice."

Conceding county councilors limited by a local election, he visited the town recently, he said, however. "We add on to a county councilor's work."

Neither was the news of Deseronto ever given prominence in county affairs, he charged. Most of the time the town's representatives were relegated to secondary roles in county government committees work.

Indicative of county thinking was repeated reference to the town as a village. "Yet," said Dr. McEvick, "the town is one of the oldest incorporated in Hastings county."

Before a vote could be taken on the doctor's motion to ask for secession, councilor Sharp moved the amendment that which there was no one dissenter — Dr. McEvick, States.

U.S. Detects Hollowness in Rocket Power Threat

By ARNOLD MACKENZIE

Comment From Staff Writer

Soviet Leader Nikita Khrushchev has rattled Russia's nuclear clear rocket power, claiming Soviet supremacy, but American observers feel it was a serious threat. They also claim to detect some hollowness.

Khrushchev said the "greatness of internationalism and orbital U.S.S.R. is perfectly sufficient to finish off ones and for all any aggressor or group of 467 States."

A Communist party orbital rocket was taken to mean a rocket into space circuit and then later guided to an earth target.

But the Bruchow speech has taken the U.S. as a threat. The U.S. has been more or less competitive, retaining parity despite the dilemma of Russia based on an Viet Nam by a militant and critical China and an aggressive U.S. Union.

In fact, Bruchow was replying in his speech Saturday, which was couched with an official such of American independence Day celebrations at the Moscow as a basis, to a rocket statement by the U.S. two days earlier.

It said the U.S. has reached its target of 300 ready-to-fire intermediate range missiles.

Newer studies about this brief announcement quoted Washington intelligence sources as saying that Russia had about 70 of these ICBMs in place.

Bruchow called this a "major attempt to breathe new life into the long-barren policy of nuclear blackmail."

He also claimed importance of progress recently in fashioning an effective system against intercontinental rockets. "Former Premier Khrushchev once boasted that Russia had an intermediate that could hit a city in the sky."

THE AMERICAN APPRAISAL

that the Russians right now are just getting into production of the superior solid-fuel ICBMs. They also suggested that the U.S. and the Soviet Union probably are trying to put together an anti-missile defense system.

The U.S. for example, has the Nike-Zeus rocket which under certain conditions can hit an object in space, but its limitations are numerous.

In this regard, the Soviet Union's problem is felt to be greater because it has to plan to offset a lot more American ICBMs.

As for the so-called orbital rocket or rocket head, it has claimed to have such a five-fold twice recently, American officials say that right now the rocket in orbit above the earth is a lot harder to hit than any rocket attacking from a land or sea base.

They also say the orbital body is a lot more expensive, and they thus tend to distrust it.

the Russian references as more of a psychological than a military threat.

A Successful Marriage Needs Realistic Approach

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Recently you printed a letter from a reader who signed herself "Too Late." She was a tragic story. She was a girl who married into too young and her life was, as she put it, "a mess." In doing she confessed "this love I was sure would last forever before a curtain of sadness." You replied "Too Late" to keep her chin up and to help her.

Her letter could have been written by me ten years ago. There were times when I felt life wasn't worth living. Then one day I began to look at life and take stock. I discovered that life was without its disappointments, ANN LANDERS has pointed out, and just plain unexciting. My husband and I have learned that tolerance for each other's faults, mutual respect and consideration, and a sense of humor are best of all. Our marriage may be a dream, according to movie standards but neither is anyone else's. It took a while but now we know we have much to be thankful for.

DEAR G.C.—Your honest and realistic approach to marriage is well worth scanning. Every word you say is true. Take notes, students.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—We know a couple who have not brought a towel or a bath mat for years. Why should they when Mr. Efficiency, Sharon and others provide them with such fine items.

The soft towels, bath mats and slippers in their homes are easily marked "The Flane and the Breadwinner." In name they are "Whoever goes to a restaurant they take something home with them, a cream pitcher, or a piece of silverware. It's always a "Miss success."

Last night we were dining in a posh restaurant. My X put a five dollar note in her purse and told her husband to get out in his pocket because she needed two to make an even dozen. I could hold my tongue no longer and said, "Don't you people have your own stealing?" Mr. X became indignant and replied, "All these prices they expect it."

This couple has children who can read. Wouldn't you think they'd be educated? Are we "queers" as they say? —A.N.D.Z.

DEAR A AND E—Any item slipped out of a hotel or restaurant is not a souvenir. It is stolen. And the person who does it is not a souvenir collector, he is a thief.

Children learn by example. Parents who bring home stolen property are going to have a difficult time keeping their kids honest.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Taking photographs at a wedding is a common practice that have you on one hand of being a photographer to take pictures at a funeral? You needn't bother to disguise the facts. Everybody in town knows about it.

A relative of mine passed away a few days ago. A daughter of the woman who died inside she is going to have the world most successful family album. The man she married was a photographer when her father died and she has regretted it ever since.

The photographer took pictures of the casket, (both open and closed). He photographed the pallbearers, the clergyman and the family. When the casket was closed he took a picture of the casket. When the casket was closed he took a picture of the casket. When the casket was closed he took a picture of the casket.

DEAR THOROUGHLY—It makes sense to have a photographer around to capture, for posterity, moments of joy but to take pictures of a funeral for a family album seems creepy and macabre to me.

Parents are people—they can be right and they can be wrong. To help understand their viewpoint and to promote harmony at home, write for Ann Landers' booklet "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 30 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Question and Answer Survey Of U.S. Gold Reserve Problem

U.S. dollars that travel overseas often return to their native shores only in exchange for U.S. goods, and, as a result, the following question—'answer'—analysis was made of the continuing problem that is threatening the Green that too many dollars abroad are as shattering gold supply as home.

By RICHARD L. GRAVES
NEW YORK (AP)—New confusion, compounded by seemingly contradictory government pronouncements, has grown up around the U.S. balance-of-payments and gold problem. The confusion may have its high point a few days when:

The Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler indicated the voluntary program to trim the U.S. balance of payments deficit is working so well, he is worried about its continuation.

The federal reserve announced the Treasury's weekly outflow of gold in six years, 1950-1960.

The statements were the latest in a series of government's on-again, off-again enthusiasm about its efforts to reduce the U.S. gold stockpile.

The Treasury Secretary said the U.S. gold stockpile is now at 10,000 tons, a level which is "adequate" for the country's needs.

whatever the psychological or historical reasons, gold is readily convertible into currency. France alone has sold more than $1 billion of its gold to the U.S. government.

Two Oregon Gunmen Release Six Hostages

SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (AP)—Two gunmen released six hostages in the early morning hours of Wednesday night, after a 24-hour standoff in a small town in Oregon.

Two of those released were the two gunmen, who were identified as James Earl Ray and a man named "John Doe".

The other four hostages were a woman and three children, all of whom were released unharmed.

The incident began on Tuesday night when the two gunmen entered the town and took the hostages.

The town's police and sheriff's office were alerted and tried to negotiate with the gunmen.

The hostages were released at about 10:30 p.m. and the gunmen fled the town.

The incident has caused a great deal of concern in the town and in the state.

The police are now trying to locate the gunmen and find out what their motives were.

The town's residents are now feeling safer, but the incident has left a lasting impression on them.

Promotion No Surprise to Jean-Luc Pepin

OTAWA (CP)—For Jean-Luc Pepin, promotion to the federal cabinet came as no surprise—that's what he's been working for all these years.

"I entered politics to get into the world," he said, "and I was as surprised as all the others to hear of my appointment."

The appointment was announced by Prime Minister Pearson. It was the 40-year-old Mr. Pepin, formerly Trade Minister's private secretary, who was named to the cabinet as a minister without portfolio.

"One day or other, it had to come," said the former journalist. "I was a communications man who represents the Quebec constitution in the Commons."

Pearson Carefully Avoids 'Rocking the Boat' in New Assignment of His Cabinet

OTAWA (CP)—The immediate reaction to Prime Minister Pearson's Wednesday cabinet realignment was that he carefully avoided rocking the boat, particularly on the ticklish 21st issue involving the so-called "old-guard" and "new-guard" in Quebec.

In the new alignment, Guy Faurneau, the former justice minister who resigned under the pressure of the Dorian row, appears to have been clearing the way for the continuing leader of Quebec wing.

With this new cabinet, the Privy Council president does not traditionally carry the prestige of justice, Mr. Faurneau has been given the responsibility of federal—provincial relations.

The effect of this is that the former justice minister, at this stage in the development, remains in a key government role beside the prime minister.

"And the new justice minister, Jean Gauthier, is unlikely to use the prestige of his new portfolio to grab off a bigger slice of influence in the party."

With the appointment of Mr. Gauthier, the prime minister appears to have been successfully maintaining the balance of power in the cabinet.

Mr. Gauthier, who is a Quebec representative, will be at the same time avoiding any undermining of Mr. Faurneau's position as a neutral within the Quebec faction. He is regarded as an able administrator, but not as a political figure.

Lema Leads Open With 5-Under 68

Palmer Has 70

From AP-Wirephoto

SOUTHPORT, England (CP) — Tony Lema turned the defending champion's heels to the field of 130 Wednesday. As the British Open golf championship entered its second round, the American with the hole for victory champagne led with a five-under-par 68 over the recently altered 7,073-yard Royal Birkdale links. He had had only two rounds of play.

Lema entered the second round in better shape than last year ago when he was two shots behind Ireland's 40-year-old Christy O'Connor, who finished with a 69 Wednesday. One behind O'Connor was another American, Arnold Palmer, who shared his 70 with New Carr, Ireland's great 43-year-old amateur.

American Jack Nicklaus, opening favorite, trailed them with a 71.

Bruce Devlin of Australia started today in third place with a 71.

Lema was paired today with David Snell of England, O'Connor with D. C. Galk of England, P. P. F. of England, Ramon Sola and Carr with American Sam Snead. Snead, the 1946 British Open champion who shot a 74 Wednesday. The field plays another 18 holes today, with the top 45 players and his going into Friday's 36 holes.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

by GOLF'S 4-TIME MAJOR WINNER

HOW FAST SHOULD YOU SWING BACK?

I feel that the speed of a golfer's backswing is determined by his temperament. A somewhat impetuous player, such as Julius Boros, often has a slow backswing while the quiet player has a fast one.

Basically the speed of the backswing is optional, as long as the golfer makes a full turn, relieves a grip on the club and remains in balance.

If the backswing is too fast, the golfer may expend unnecessary energy that he should save for the downswing. If a fast backswing stems from anxiety to hit the ball, it may also produce a premature unloading of the wrists on the downswing. Also, fast backswings may cause short backshots, in which the player falls to fully stretch his arms.

If your backswing seems too short, if you loosen your grip at the top, or if you have a problem with timing balance, I'd suggest you try a slower backswing.

All-Stars Classic

New Yorkers Have Big Slugging Edge

NEW YORK (AP)—From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League all-stars will have a decided edge over the American when the two clubs meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting lineup, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included Johnny Callison of Philadelphia Phillies, Billy Williams and Don Santo of Chicago Cubs, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati Reds.

This group shapes up favorably against the American League alternates featuring Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins, Alvin Howard of New York Yankees, Max Alida of Cleveland Indians, and Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit Tigers.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for Alting Mikky Maunula and shortstoper Ben Sox. Cal Tzazantzi of Boston Red Sox.

National League manager Gene March, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his alternate for the 1965 all-star team.

Generally, all-star managers pick players who finish second in the balloting for starting positions. But March passed over first-baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second-baseman Frank Bolling of Milwaukee Braves and centre-fielder Yada Pines of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed Knapick of New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility man.

March's other selections were catcher Johnny Edwards and shortstoper Leo Cardenas of the Reds, third-baseman Santo, left-fielder Williams and right-fielder Callison.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under all-star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named despite when the hurlers are announced Friday.

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Soft Veralde of the Twins completed the American League reserves.

PLANE BOMBED NEW DELHI (AP)—Socialist member Nath Pal told the Indian Parliament today that his jet aircraft is being held in many countries, and there is a no-aligned fighter. He also predicted shortly that it may not fly.

Italian Horse Looks Good

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Steele, Italy's entry in Saturday's $100,000 11th national try-out at Rosemead Raceway, created much favorable comment Wednesday as he joined the seven other entries in workouts for the 10-mile race.

Trainer - driver Nello Belli didn't ask the five-year-old Italian-bred horse for speed but concentrated on working him behind the mobile starting gate. It was not a new experience for Steele since he started from the same type of gate last Saturday at Trent, winning a $20,000 stakes.

"I wish I was training him," said veteran American trainer-driver Harry Ayres. "He's a fine looking animal, takes the turns well and looks like he could well give Speedy Scot a race."

Question: During a recent visit to Nova Scotia I ate a dish called Salt Cod and Port. Since I found a daisy chain change from the many fishes that they leave in that part of Canada, could you please tell me how this is prepared?

Resolutions Passed by CWL Meeting

PORT WILLIAM (CP)—Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Council of the Catholic Women's League passed a resolution Thursday that they would seek to protect housewives from high-discount door-to-door salesmen.

It asks the provincial government to enact legislation for a three-day "cooling-off" period before consumers can be pressured into purchases.

Delegates said there is too much pressure for a more selective type of adults to establish a level of education as a community project. They approved a resolution to ask the provincial government to authorize authorities to stop alcohol education at an earlier age.

Speakers said high-discount-related persons can often be found for "beneficial employment" in sheltered work shops and in educational centres for the handicapped. Approval was given to a resolution which asks provincial government grants to local associations operating sheltering centres for the mentally retarded.

The convention dealt at length with 27 resolutions submitted for consideration by the executive committee. Recommendations were made by Mrs. H. Hyman of St. John's, Maine. Delegates decided the league should commend the Canadian Association of Consumer's Rights to its vigilance with regard to household products.

They approved a motion to send the Ontario welfare department for a study of infant mortality in the province and to the Ontario Welfare Council for a study of nursing homes.

Special Help Given by School Board

EDMONTON (CP)—Youngsters with emotional or physical handicaps in Edmonton's public school can now get help in a special division of the school board.

The board's department of special personnel services has psychologists, social workers and welfare workers who bring into action to ensure that handicapped students overcome their problems as they learn and obtain maximum benefit from their schooling.

The department worked four months last year to help 100 cases a year—most of them spotted by teachers, health workers and other who come in close contact with the children.

In order to be able to tackle problems efficiently in each case, the department has divided its staff.

One youngster who was helped by the department stopped taking the day he entered Grade 1.

Another child who had been visited the child about four months later by the request of his teacher.

Group therapy was applied and eventually the youngster returned to school and began taking in class.

Toronto Newspaper Strike Unlikely to Ever Be Settled

By JOHN LEBLANC

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto newspaper strike rounds out a full year with no end in sight. They are growing increasingly unlikely to ever be settled.

On July 9 last year, 680 members of the International Typographical Union walked out of the composing rooms of Toronto's three dailies. Another 220 in the delivery department — mallets — exercised their contractual right to quit work in sympathy. They are much further from settlement now than they were then.

The original strike issue — automation of printers' work — has been settled, but long since thrust into the background and resisted by others. There have been no negotiations between management and the printers for 10 months. A back-to-work contract negotiated locally with the mallets in May was vetoed.

At the moment, there is nothing on the table between the disputants, and the Ontario government has thrown up its hands after protracted mediation efforts. Meanwhile, the papers have published without interruption and have practically made it clear that personnel are regarded now as permanent staff.

FIXED IN 10 YEARS

The papers that went to the mat with the entrenched type workers were The Star-Canada's largest daily and The Telegram in the evening and the morning Globe and Mail. The Telegram is distributed nationally, distributed 534,000, with the computer- re-

Weekly also was struck in the first major walkout against Toronto papers in 70 years. The strike grew slowly out of negotiations to replace a contract that expired at the end of 1982. Up to mid-1984 the dispute was bogged down over what to do about electronic computers the papers planned to use to do some of the skilled work done by linotype operators. The ITCU, with an eye to converting jobs for its members, wanted full jurisdiction over the computer. The papers said they couldn't do that; the computer were going to do many non-printing tasks around the office.

The ITCU officials negotiated compromises. There were ver- used three times by the international office.

When the printers walked out — to the surprise of most fellow-unionists on the papers — they got little tangible support from the remainder of the 4,200 employees. All but a handful in the key unions such as the American Newspaper Guild (1,300 members), pressmen, electrotypes and photoengravers stayed on the job.

STAFFS CUT

The computer also was put right to work-at first with the staff—going such normal print- ing tasks as fitting lines of type into columns widths. All dailies in used at least once edition a day from the start and they have long since reached normal output.

ANNIVERSARY OF STRIKE — No settlement is in sight for the year-old Toronto newspaper strike. On July 9, last year, 680 members of the International Typographical Union walked out of the composing rooms of Toronto's three dailies. Another 220 in the delivery department — mallets — quit work in sympathy. The original strike issue — automation of printers' work — has been settled, but long since thrust into the background and resisted by others. There have been no negotiations between management and printers for 10 months. Here, strikers picket the Toronto Star in force. Now only two or three strikers can be found still picketing.

give up the right to remain late in any mallets' strike, have he union pension. The mallets were dropped from the bargaining unit, and allow unrestricted use of teleprinter tape from wire service printers.

TURN IT DOWN

The ITCU immediately rejected this and since then has had no direct dealings with the publishers on behalf of the printers. But in May the mallets, a separate local of the ITCU, agreed on their own to terms for a five-year agreement, basically long lines laid down by the publishers. They get a lifetime guarantee against automation-caused layoffs but would give up their cherished closed shop barring non-ITCU workers.

About this time the printers sent word to the publishers that they would be willing to settle the end of the magazine and local ITCU president Robert McCormick describes now as a "rock bottom" basis.

At this point, the international office stepped in again. It held the mallets' call off their deal, and it said that anyone in the local voting in favor of the negotiated contract would lose his ITCU card, his strike pay and pension. For another one per cent, he gets an additional $1 a week from the local, for a total of $21.

For many years the papers have been matching this total on a non-contributory basis. Thus a man qualifying for an ITCU pension of $32 would get the same amount from his publisher. Before the pre-strike agreement collapsed, the papers had agreed to boost their share to $38-for a total of $73 a week those qualifying.

Technically, the union pays the pension only on the ground of inability to work, though union officials say this is flexible. The papers, in practice, have left it to the union to decide eligibility, a system giving it considerable power over the industry.

As seen from a management viewpoint, there is no going to be any settlement until the Colorado Springs office eases up on the reins and let the local group deal freely. But it may be too late for that, since management also has made clear that it will not let non-replacement jobs make for returning strikers.

Should engines and baggage live better than people?

The '65 Studebaker says "NO!"

In many other makes of cars, there's more room for fuel and rear there is in the middle. Not so in a '65 Studebaker. Studebaker gives its great new engines all the room they need — without wasting space on useless parts. So the fuel is no longer than necessary.

Studebaker gives baggage the space it deserves. No Slanting. The trunk is level. So the rear deck is kept short as possible.

Where Studebaker carries a point is in the middle — where the people are. Room for six adults to sit without crowding on outside seats. Room for a full-size front door. Room for knees and toes, too. With full floor for easy getting in and getting out.

This is Common-sense design. Space where you want it. Space where it should be. Make a Studebaker right to handle and make it right to drive, a common-sense car to buy.

Come in — take a look, take a drive, make a deal.

Ottawa Cafeteria Officer Has Finger in Many Soups

By PAUL DUIN

OTTAWA (CP)—George Seale is a man with his finger in the soup of more than 100,000 federal civil servants.

As cafeteria officer for the works department, he oversees some 150 units including cafeterias, canteens, snack bars and lunch rooms.

He says the department is not in the business by choice but because in many areas commercial restaurants can't handle the horde of hungry civil servants.

Mr. Seale and his 15 district managers across Canada begin their work when the government decides to build or occupy a new building. They survey existing facilities in the area, estimate the number of mouths that must be fed, then recommend what types of units are required.

The department doesn't operate its own restaurants. All are run by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind or civil service staff associations. The CNIB operates its units but the associations usually employ private catering firms.

Just the physical aspects of cafeterias and smaller units, tables, chairs, stoves, vending machines and so forth, as well as the price list and the size of every portion, are laid down by Mr. Seale and his men.

His own background is as far removed as diversified as his far-flung restaurants. It includes a spell operating and operating the "largest gladiolus business in Ottawa."

Born in Kingston, Ont., Mr. Seale came to Ottawa as a child with his civil servant father. He entered the government service in 1941, left it for the RCAP during the second World War, returned to open his flower business, joined the defence department in 1954 and public works in 1958.

He managed the department's parking lot before moving to the cafeteria post in the property and building management branch two years ago.

Mr. Seale keeps the department's price list — it contains more than 300 items — under

WORKS KAT MORE

"Of course some feel the prices are too high," he says. The works department has inspectors who check on all units and the books of every concessionaire receive an annual audit.

"What's reasonable" is Mr. Seale's guide to prices. He checks with national food wholesalers and also discusses costs with concessionaires.

Have his investigations shown any oddities?

"Only one comes to mind. We don't know why, but generally we've found that women eat more than men—at least in our cafeterias."

Mr. Seale visits many large commercial cafeterias and is a busy man for new ideas for his units. Canadian Restaurant Association shows are another good source.

The hundreds of vending machines in use in government contracts and many are constantly being replaced with newer models. These new vending ranges seem to be something we can use," says Mr. Seale, "and we expect the CNIB to introduce them to some of its caterers."

He tried a complete vending machine operation twice "to see how it would go, but employees said they prefer attention."

"But we're always looking for new equipment, better-designed chairs, faster ovens and anything to improve the service. We're thinking of using new vending machines, particularly in tall buildings to avoid the elevator rush."

A Thousand And One Nights Every Night!

CAIRO (AP)—The Egyptian government has decided to exploit the romance and glamour of the Thousand and One Nights to give the tourist industry a shot in the arm.

An Arabian tent-city is being built in the shadows of the Great Pyramids at Giza. The Egyptian government hopes to recreate the atmosphere of the Arabian Nights in it.

richly decorated tents, romantic camp fires, modulating belly dancers, slave girls and dancing horses.

Officials haven't set a target date for completion of the project. It is expected to take no less than two years.

Magistrate Reserves Judgment To Sort Out Law in Case

Magistrate T. Y. Willis yesterday adjourned a fraud case to sort out the law from tangle of banking detail before giving judgment.

Centre of the case was former Belleville salesman Gordon Gordon, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, pleaded guilty to a post-dated cheque in a vacuum cleaner sale.

Evidence showed Mr. Gordon was given the cheque post-dated to January 30, as payment to conclude the sale for Barry Arnold, Plaza Square resident. That was on November 20, last year. Shortly after Mr. Arnold changed his mind, while awaiting the payment, and told Mr. Gordon to place the cheque in the vacuum.

He signed a stop-payment on the Plaza branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The simple act triggered a complex reaction, which when explained in court, at one point forced Magistrate Willis to concede even he was confused.

What happened allegedly was this: Mr. Arnold's post-dated cheque was immediately taken by Mr. Gordon to the sales manager's office at the Plaza branch, where he used it as credit for a vacuum cleaner.

The cheque then was forwarded to the Imperial bank for cashing on the due date. However, the cheque was returned shortly after, and the Toronto Division wrote Mr. Gordon.

Defence counsel Douglas A. Boyle said his client had not committed fraud.

"It was through some matching of the cheque at the Plaza branch of the Imperial Bank that this whole unfortunate situation arose."

Clifford Perry, manager of the Toronto Division, Belleville branch, testified on behalf of Mr. Gordon and had to be recalled to help the court understand the situation.

At one point he summed up the case as "very confusing—the whole thing."

"I certainly am" agreed the magistrate later.

After more than an hour of testimony and legal argument, the magistrate reserved judgment to August 3.

Mr. Gordon's post-dated cheque was returned to him by the Toronto Division on August 3.

The water-powered upright saw in the case is now in the hands of the Moira Conservation Authority.

Reached by a country road, immediately north of Moira, the mill can be seen in operation from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Ambassadorial Switch Said Blow Against U.S. Position were killed by the Viet Cong. U.S. military authorities said the two disappeared after being taken for a stroll Thursday along the beach at Chu Lai.

CIVILIAN SUFFER — American sources reported that as many as 100 Vietnamese civilians were killed when caught in the fire of battles of the last Friday.

This estimated toll far exceeded the official count of casualties among combatants.

The clash began early Friday when Viet Cong fighters overran a Vietnamese army base on the island, 25 miles northeast of Saigon.

At least 10 Vietnamese soldiers, six militiamen and two U.S. Navy advisers were killed.

The first American ground troops to be used in direct action against a Viet Cong attack, captured the base.

A half dozen Viet Cong were reported killed, and in principle the Viet Cong were repulsed.

The Communists are rejoicing in the sudden resignation of Gen. Maxwell D Taylor as U.S. ambassador in Saigon simply because he never said anything about the U.S. position in Vietnam.

The U.S. position in Vietnam is a subject that has been avoided by the Viet Cong, offensive in Saigon.

The argument of Taylor gives that he planned to serve for only one year and he was up to open to question Taylor's role in the field in an unbalanced way.

For the U.S. position in Vietnam, self-exaggerated by a situation beyond his control.

Taylor's resignation had found it easy to get it out of the new Saigon administration headed by the 20-year-old Air Marshal Nguyen Can Ty whose resignation, however, was not a surprise.

The Communists are rejoicing in the sudden resignation of Gen. Maxwell D Taylor as U.S. ambassador in Saigon simply because he never said anything about the U.S. position in Vietnam.

The U.S. position in Vietnam is a subject that has been avoided by the Viet Cong, offensive in Saigon.

The argument of Taylor gives that he planned to serve for only one year and he was up to open to question Taylor's role in the field in an unbalanced way.

For the U.S. position in Vietnam, self-exaggerated by a situation beyond his control.

Taylor's resignation had found it easy to get it out of the new Saigon administration headed by the 20-year-old Air Marshal Nguyen Can Ty whose resignation, however, was not a surprise.

New National Bomb May Election Is Advocated transport department personnel and a doctor were permitted past the ropes. Not even CPA officials were allowed in.

CPA identified all but one of the victims and expected to release the last name today.

An airport spokesman said it was too early to determine whether a bomb is one of the plane's four luggage compartments was the cause of the crash.

He also said the bomb is concerned, you find someone in contact with this theory in nearly every disaster, he said.

A bomb was found to be the cause of the crash of a C-119 twin-engine DC-3 at Saiki in Quebec, north of Quebec City, in September, 1949. Twenty-three persons were killed.

Mr. J. A. Gray, 26-year-old Quebec City housekeeper, brother, General, was a pilot.

Some fantastic stunts have emanated from the wonderful, sometimes weird and wacky world of polo that make such work out Adam with a well-placed spigot.

How-riding has produced some antics as well as tall yarns. Take the one about Johnny Mulcahy and well-known western Canada jockey of long years ago, Mulcahy was a queer character, talked to nobody and scorned beds, preferring to sleep with his favorite horse Tombeola. They stayed together and let the rest of the world go by.

One day at Tia Jans a terrific windstorm came up and Mulcahy walked between two trees the way the wind was blowing, killing the jockey instantly.

From that day on Tombeola refused to eat. Vets were stumped. The horse broke this and was a terror to himself. People figured it was doing of a broken heart. Johnny Mulcahy was gone. They were help- less.

Now Mulcahy had barely gone when a white plover cleared the track and landed in the door of Tombeola's stall. Three days the horse, a pale grey, stayed in the stall to feed the plover and started eating. Tombeola picked up her ears, got up on her feet and went over, too, to the plover on her back.

The plover started with the horse which started to regain its strength. They started to work the mare until the plover sat on her back and was with- out the horse was back to normal and the plover rode on her back.

One day when they were Tombeola's stall. Johnny Mulcahy was riding his flying along in front of the field was the white plover. Tombeola went with daylight showing between her and the field.

Racing men of that day reckoned they knew little about recreation but to that year they saw that the white plover was Johnny Mulcahy and was with- out the horse was back to normal and the plover rode on her back.

Steve Conrad was another horse with sheer guts and courage. Going to the first turn at Tandon he was cut behind at a horse ran up to him.

Blood spurted from a leg but the horse never faltered and went on to win by a nose. His owner looked at the blood and said, "I was with you." Steve Conrad was another horse with sheer guts and courage. Going to the first turn at Tandon he was cut behind at a horse ran up to him.

But the old horse had his memories. He stood motionless and drew in his head. He had proven his courage many times but his greatest triumph came in his Arizona career.

One day a cougar with a young feline. The horse was startled and suddenly there was a sharp hiss and a rattling noise at the cougar's head.

With a mighty leap Conrad pounced on the snake and pawed it to death. He was standing over the child when horses rushed out of the house. Horses have a deadly fear of rattlesnakes but Steve Conrad was the horse with the fighting heart.

Externalize, one of the greatest racehorses of all time, was a "locomotive" horse. There came a time when he was playing away and the vet couldn't diagnose the trouble.

But a wise, grey-headed old trainer sized up the situation. He decided Externalize was a matchless but suddenly there was a sharp hiss and a rattling noise at the cougar's head.

Thomson's From British Open

By THOMAS A. REDDY

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Peter Thomson, the quiet Australian who never a crick to let his sights today on golf's holy grail.

Thomson, 36, was the British Open champion Friday for the 10th time. Without emotion, he said: "I want the sixth."

Only the immortal Harry Vardon has won the British Open that many times. In 1955-1956 British in 1956, 1959, 1960, 1961 and 1962. Thomson has defeated himself twice that record and perhaps even exceeded it.

It's a large assignment but Thomson finished good golfers as defeated champion Arnold Palmer, U.S. Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, and Australian Bob Tice when he won the 1962-1963 U.S. Open.

Thomson's triumph was worth $120,000 ($200) but it qualified him for a lot more. His win in the U.S. Open was confided to the British Open, American Open, Masters and U.S. Open.

Suggest Canada Outline Avoid Public Splits With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP) — A special report from United States relations suggests that Canada avoid public disagreement with the U.S. on critical world issues where this country has no special interests or obligations.

The report was prepared for the two governments by Arnold Henry, Canadian ambassador in Washington from 1953 to 1957 and from 1959 to 1962, and Livingston Merchant, U.S. ambassador to Ottawa in 1958-59 and 1961-62. It was made public today in the two capitals.

Say Saucer Halts Clock In Azores

LISBON (AP) — Strange objects moving through space were reported sighted in two widely-separated areas of Portugal during the weekend. The Azores weather bureau claimed interference from one stopped its electromagnetic clock.

Descriptions of the objects were strikingly similar to official Argentine and Chilean reports of sightings in the Antarctic last week. The first reported mysterious flying object appeared in Motosh, near the northern city of Porto, where Alvaro Fernandes and is wife at first saw a "ball of luminous light" and then a "saucer-shaped balloon."

Fernandes said "the strange object at first sight looked like a flattened balloon, but then as

Mariner's 11-month Trip to Mars Nears Climax

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — It's no cold 120,000 miles out in space where the U.S. Mariner 4 spacecraft is today that one of its scientific instruments is chattering like a monkey in a cage.

The temperature on the shady side of the 75-pound, windmill-shaped craft is 130 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

Mariner 4 was designed to maintain an internal temperature of 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit despite the cold of space, although just 10 degrees below the sun to supplement "recharged" by electrical instruments. But even

Outline Quebec Policy

By MICHAEL GILLAN

TORONTO (CP) — In a major bid for support in French Canada, the New Democratic Party's national executive has proposed a special role for Quebec in Confederation and the money to carry out the plan.

A $3,500,000 resolution, pledging an NDP government would set up a federal-provincial planning and development council, was to go before the party's national convention opening today.

The resolution recognizes Quebec as having a special role as the bastion of French culture in North America and advocates a revision of federal-provincial financial arrangements to take into account.

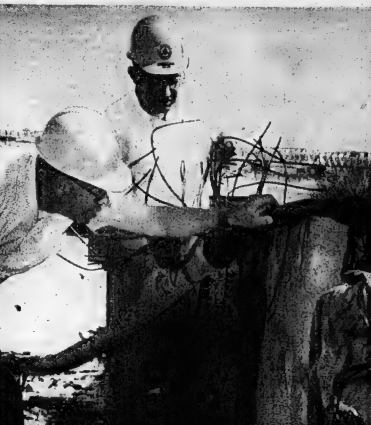

Robert Clive, NDP leader in Quebec, says the resolution, put forward by his supporters and accepted by the council, means acceptance of a two-tier system of Confederation.

He said in an interview a two-tier system means French Canada would be given the means to remain a "real nation" within the state of Canada.

In an interview, Mr. Clive said he has no idea what the NDP's position would be in the event the resolution is not adopted by the four-to-five delegates expected at the four-day meeting.

The report suggests, despite the delegates expected at the four-day meeting, the NDP may have been prompted by public opinion polls that indicate popular support for the party is increasing in Quebec.

Deputy Leader Douglas Fisher said recently: "It is conceivable that the mood for change in Quebec is in keeping with the program of the NDP. It is conceivable that Quebec is ripe for supporting our party."

10 Radar Plane Survivors Literate

PAUMOTU, Mass. (AP) — The seas were reported as moderate, yet too rough for a plane to land.

Four plane that went down in the North Atlantic. The coast guard said one member of the crew was missing.

The rescued men were taken aboard United States and German destroyers in the vicinity of the crash site.

Helicopters from the U.S. carrier Wasp, on maneuvers in the area along with the German navy vessels, picked up the crew members and landed them on board one of the German ships.

Bridge Stalls, Ship's Anchor Disrupts Phones

The Bell Telephone Company today prepared to launch an "amphibious operation" to repair a cable under the Bay of Quinte, severed by a ship's anchor.

The cable carries phone service to homes in the Rossmore-Bedfordville area of Prince Edward County.

A tug chartered near Kingston was expected to arrive later today to assist in recovering the damaged cable from the bay floor, a Bell man said.

Communications were cut when the coal carrier Bayfax was forced to drop anchor when the Rossmore swing bridge across the bay suddenly went out of commission.

A line tap the bridge's electrical system blew shortly before 4 p.m. last night as the boat approached downstream from Trenton.

The bridge stalled and the ship's captain immediately dropped anchor—right above the submarine cable.

The cable became tangled in the anchor and was hauled from position as the ship was pulled away.

A Bell official said the cable was "severely damaged."

The Progress Conservative leader was speaking to reporters after a brief train stop in Winnipeg.

Without giving details of his later itinerary, he said he plans to make his trip "happily" after the scheduled stop in Vancouver.

Soviet Leaders Virtually Ignore Viet Nam in Talks

MOSSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's top leaders virtually ignored the war in Viet Nam in major week-end talks with Chinese officials.

The new signs of Soviet-Chinese rapprochement have been overshadowed here about the possibility of a new initiative from the Kremlin leaders.

It was suggested that the Soviet leaders, if called upon, might enhance the possibility of meaningful contact between Soviet leaders and U.S. Ambassador Averill Harriman, who is expected to arrive today for a five-day visit.

American embassy officials said Harriman's visit is a "sensitive" private.

British officials said was almost a note of regret, the Soviet Union's top leaders lead last month in turning down Prime Minister Wilson's Commission to peace mission on Viet Nam.

Successful Living Relaxed Attitude Helpful In Figure Development

DEAR DORIS — Do you know of any exercise to build up the calves of my legs?
I am very self-conscious about them, and every time my friends and I go to the beach I am the only one who wears slacks. I have a yellow two-piece and am very anxious to wear it.
HOPFUL.

DEAR HOPFUL — If your calves are less than adequate, it's highly likely you aren't too circumspect in other places either. Our Chart for Curves suggests how to give yourself a build-up.

This involves high class nutrition, more relaxed attitudes, plenty of rest, as well as the right kind of exercise. No strenuous, time-rapid bends and stretches; but a few well-chosen deliberate ways of firming up the tissues.

In same relaxed attitude, toss off the slacks in favor of comfortable shorts, forgetting about your legs. Do the two-piece as casually as the most shapely movie star; and do all your exercises in private.

(Write in for the Chart for Curves, enclosing ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, if you'd like more detail.)

DEAR DORIS — I have been married for three years. I love my husband very much. But I do have one small problem.

Every night, I dream of my husband. I dream about the man I went with before I met my husband. I am terribly worried about this. What is the matter with me? Do dreams mean anything? What makes one dream? Did I by any chance marry the wrong man? — HOPING FOR HELP.

DEAR HOPING — What does the old boy friend represent to you?

Dreams are related to thoughts and emotions important to us but for the most part "put out of our minds." The symbolic language of a dream may relate to past experiences carrying the same emotion as the dream — but not necessarily the same personalities.

We would need to know more about the emotional content of your dream, as well as about your present feelings of fulfillment, before we could guess why the old beau keeps cropping up. Since you love your husband I doubt whether you've married the wrong man. At the same time there may be some frustrations for you to uncover and do something about.

I suggest two things: that you examine your marriage and the happiness it is bringing to you; and that you read something about dreams. I am sending you the name of an excellent book on the subject.

Confidential to SINCERELY — Yes, if a girl can show she is able to maintain herself in a respectable way, she is most unlikely to be brought back home.

(Doris has studied human behavior and can shed light on your dilemma. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Alexia Name Of New Royal Baby

COPIES, Greece (AP) — The new Greek princess, born Saturday to Queen Anne-Marie and King Constantine, has been named Alexia.

At a royal ceremony of the day, the princess was christened, giving a rare name — in this the only child, attended by the King and Queen Mother Frederika. The king told reporters later Queen Anne-Marie is "doing fine."

Palace officials said the baby was named Alexia after Alexia, the Byzantine empress who ruled from 1081 to 1118. He was a distinguished general who fought the Turks and helped the Crusaders.

Youthfulness Shown in Hat Review

BY JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — You can almost tell what a woman has in her head by what she puts on it. The fall hat preview presented for fashion writers by the Milinery Institute indicated as much.

Apparently today's hat-wearing woman is thinking about youthfulness, the White House fashion show, the space race, James Bond, and romance, or else her designer is.

These were the messages the models got across Saturday as they bounced exuberantly in and out of the dressing room wearing lappers by the top U.S. milliners.

Some women over 30 glided at kids in curls and bead scarves, and the hat-making industry declared a triumph of the minds of married hair, a style that ruled out millinery.

Now females on both sides of the pond find it odd to wear head scarves, as well as berets. In the show of shower caps and ascots under which many number of cutters could hide if only their hair were fashionable — except that it isn't anymore.

With the new crocheted cap borrowed from the Mod in England, the helmets popped from the astronauts, zodiac and turbine, women do not show any hair.

HATS SWITCHED ON

New fall hats — said to be "perfect" in terms of "all boys" in terms of the youth workaholics — are for hats, not a girl's hat. The hats are to match equally sturdy hair coverings.

President Johnson's 10-gallon hats, decorated up a bit with sequins and feathers, or with scarves underneath, are real fashion wise-getters. Most of the millinery for fall is made of durable materials such as fur and leather, or water-repellent ones such as vinyl, rubber and vinyl.

Moreover, one fall hat often divides into two. The doghouse-like brims of some slip off, leaving the crown as a skull cap. Some felt feigners over ear-warming hoods can be worn separately.

Quick-changing hats have an appeal for the James Bond fans. These fans also favor the feminine mysticism of mask hats. But for the old-fashioned detective-story readers, there are still Sherlock Holmes caps in wool checked flannels or visors.

Next season's date-bait hats are sensuous in fabrics such as velvet and satin, with fake sequins and feathers, or with

Pat Maracle, who has played "Sliding Bull" to notables "General Curtis" for, in these many years, made the longest speech in his life, to me, as he said, asked him how long he had been making speeches out of bat.

"Since I was 14½ years of age."

The swarthy Mohawk hunter, the epitome of energy, guts, spirit and desire to live is a living symbol of loyalty to sport.

Admitted "14½" years of life, the father of "four-and-one" winters on hockey, bowling, athletics, diving, all at nights a week, but his light and only real love is softball.

They built Pat from the blue-print of a young Herford star. He learned on crassers and developed an arm the size of an ordinary thigh that has the elasticity and durability of three-foot slab of rubber.

The Trenton Commercial Printers are paying tribute on July 14 at a home game to an athlete who for more than three decades has been a credit to himself, his race, always in general and in softball in particular.

Reported to have the longest continuous registration in the archives of the OASA, "Paddy" has a record likely to be in the record books of the organization.

He has dished with such pitching greats as Zul, Justice and Sparrow.

His name is a household word in the softball world of the district. His championship record makes him a "Who's Who" in the annals of district sport.

He has been named seven "mashers" and one perfect game in his career.

Be that as it may, the husky Mohawk would rather cook a round-tripper regardless of base population than turn in a 500 yard punt performance.

His name is on more championship rallies than any other player in the area. He has more "mashers" on his shelves than an hourly 100-covered English book.

"Paddy" is an respecter of games. He has been known to throw away a "back-fifty" screw team, punt his jacket and head for Pointe aux Roches to see his brother-in-law, who has played for Napane, Picton, Deseronto and city teams in regular season, sometimes hurtling as many as 100 mph a week.

The "longevity" of the Maracle arm is a source of wonder to veteran softball pitchers hereabouts.

"The think of rubber" like his own over pitched to ageless.

How long will it last?

I asked Paddy that question the other night. With a superman talking effort, he confided in me that he must be near playing hockey next winter.

"My knee holds out," he said, "my arm should be good for 6½ years."

He loves to live—and is a consistent batter. A July 10 pure joy will wrinkle the duty features as he trues down to first base after slugging out a seasonal clutch. Paddy's idea of seven heaven is a one-hitter and three hits in a game. The hill he is off on the cake of victory for him.

Amos Paddy's treasured memories is the off-season series of days with the great Montreal hurler Ray Judd. The latter's sensational mound feat in spread Paddy and brought out his best pitching ability when he faced Judd.

I don't know who the series stands, but a sensational battle at the CNRA Park probably is the highlight. The hurlers battled for 13 scoreless innings and the game went into extra innings.

Judd was a gentleman as well as a great athlete. He had the greatest respect and admiration for his Indian opponent and the game went good friends.

Recently Paddy pitched for the team from the St. Regis reservation down Cornwall. It was an annual Indian tournament and Paddy promptly struck out the batters in 10 innings. The following day he went to the American side to defeat the same team 2-0, while whiffing 17 batters.

Paddy is modest almost to shyness. If he has a temper it boils itself out inside. He has a fierce fire in self-advancement. He loves like a true pitcher to let his little outward show position.

They tell the story of Paddy taking a tough beating from the opposition while playing hockey. He took all the bumps and checks that came his way. Suddenly he was hit and chased a couple of feet away.

Asked why, he said, "I didn't mind the heavy checking and tripping but when those guys tore my sweater I was not to touch."

Angels Elan's Tribe ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Twins Slip Yanks; Yankees Win 5-0

Dan Chance has lost a tooth, and American League batters have "blasted" the Angels. Chance, whose pitching has been a surprise surprise, was hit by Los Angeles slugger Alvin Dark in the first complete game in two months Sunday as the Angels defeated Cleveland 2-0 and returned to the lead in the American League East. The Indians to 30 wins.

Chance was the "big" straight for Chance, who broke his pre-war career award to 64, the Cleveland pitcher last year, the 24-year-old pitcher had a 5-4 record, but his earned-run average was 2.0 compared with his present 3.0.

Chance started seven and did not allow a runner past first base after the 4th inning Sunday as he beat the Indians for the first time since Sept. 2, 1958. He also threw in the bottom of the 10th to get a 2-0 victory over Cleveland.

The victory pushed the Angels into sixth place in the American League East, behind the Yankees, who were one pitch away from slipping the Twins but Harmon Killebrew turned the 5-2 pitch from Pete Mitchell.

"I took me a long time to get my stomach back to normal," Chance said. "I think I'm just about back to normal." Chuck Aquino gave Kansas City 11 hits but still won the game against four defeats for the Yankees.

At the top of the AL, Minnesota won its 10th straight game and New York State won its 10th straight game against the second-place Indians, biggest bid yet.

TORONTO (CP)—More men than a star pitcher, Al Johnson of Montreal figures to be ready for the Canadian Open play championships here this week.

Johnson, who stocks up on the pills and in his taste with h e p e l l i n i t i s, who has topped his 11½ years and crippled his swing during the last year, defeated Don Leslie of Toronto Saturday after three hours of sudden death overtime to win the Miller Trophy Canadian match play golf championship.

It wasn't too long ago that Johnson, a 41-year-old veteran of the professional ranks, was a big money winner in the last year, defeated Don Leslie of Toronto Saturday after three hours of sudden death overtime to win the Miller Trophy Canadian match play golf championship.

But last year at the Canadian National Open, Johnson discovered he was suffering from hepatitis, a liver ailment that drains the strength and reduces complete rest to the only of life.

He had to move to Florida to rest every day while his wife worked to support him. It has only been during the few months that the 29-year-old Johnson was able to return to competition.

"Can't wait to see his face when I finally lift the car. I put his birthday cake inside!"

Plastic Surgeon Helping In Prisoners' Rehabilitation

LANSING, Kan. (AP)—"I always cursed this face of mine," said the big man. "I begged me every time I looked in the mirror. I thought I was a monster. I tried to kill it. I begged me so much I think I could stop thinking about it."

The man, 31 years old, has been in the Kansas state penitentiary for four years. He was sentenced to 10-to-20 years for grand larceny and burglary with explosives.

Once in heavy construction work, he now talks of becoming a salesman when he is released. He no longer is appalled when he looks into the mirror.

Dr. John Simons, a 32-year-old plastic surgeon, carved a new face for the man, removing pockmarks and retreating loosely hanging skin.

Dr. Simons, plastic surgeon at the University of Kansas Medical Center in Kansas City, has been reshaping prisoners' faces at the rate of two or three a week. He has the enthusiastic support of prison officials and particularly the prisoners.

One prisoner, 31, lost his thumb and part of the index finger while working on a prison refrigeration compressor. Dr. Simons made him a SWITCHED DIGIT.

"It's the most dramatic operation I've done so far," says Dr. Simons. "I detached the thumb and index finger. With the loss of the thumb, half of the use of the hand is gone. Taking an index finger away for forgery, proving time off, still swollen and not fully healed, but already usable."

"This is far beyond my hope I had," he said, carefully taping the thumb and index finger back to the hand.

The prisoner, serving time for forgery, proudly showed off the still swollen and not fully healed, but already usable thumb.

"This is far beyond my hope I had," he said, carefully taping the thumb and index finger back to the hand.

Careful Check Eliminates Fuel Loss

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When your engine is in good running condition and properly tuned, you should gas mileage should be in the neighborhood of 15 to 20 miles per gallon. If it's less, it's time to check for leaks or stoppage.

Begin with the carburetor and work back to the fuel tank. Do your carburetor while the engine is running, or immediately after it's been used. Examine the carburetor for signs of seepage or cracking. Also look for signs of leaks which might be due to defective gasket between the bowl and cover.

Check the line connection to the fuel pump for looseness at the fittings, and run your hand over it carefully for any tell-tale indication of wetness. The same holds true for the fuel line from pump to tank.

Take special pains to double-check any leaks or cracks in the line which might hide pinhole leaks.

Of course, the fuel pump itself must be checked carefully, too, since leakage can occur here if the diaphragm is worn or ruptured, or if connections are loose or cracked. Examine the sediment bowl. Too much fuel here is usually due to a bad check.

Finally, go over the gas tank itself, making sure that the well-defined first, so that any seepage on the upper portion will be well-defined.

M. J. asks: "What does an irregularly worn tire indicate?"

If excessively worn in the center tread, it indicates a deflation. If wear is primarily on the outer rim, it indicates a deflation. It is to blame. If wear is lateral, it's due to an unbalanced wheel.

From T. W.: "When I press hard on the gas pedal to accelerate, my car lurches forward. It's a good bet that the transmission is slipping."

S. H. writes: "All brake wear cylinders on my car are leaking according to my service station. They have to be replaced. Isn't it odd that all four would go at once?"

If but all four or contaminated brake fluid could be the reason. This can cause swelling and cracking cylinder cups.

A. L. asks: "Our car seems to lose more gas when I drive toward one side. I've noticed this on several occasions. Is this a steering mechanism, or everything?"

Who's In Charge Here?

— Bert Lancaster, at a harassed cavalry officer in the polluting John Sturges comedy, "The Hallelujah Trail," tries desperately to find out from Temperance Workley Lee and thirty chief Martin Landau who doing what to his beleaguered troops. The epic film comedy produced by The Mirisch Corporation for United Artists release, will open at the New Gladstone Cinema Theatre in Toronto on Wednesday, July 16th. It will be shown in Cinemas on a double-bill, reserved seat basis. Also in the big cast are Jim Hutton, Pamela Tilton, Donald Pleasence, Brian Keith, and a host of other big-name players.

TV-Radio Column

In the absence of regular columnist Cynthia Lowry, on vacation, staff columns are being written by various entertainment personalities. This one is by singer Andy Williams.

By ANDY WILLIAMS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I would be chagrined for my film column with musical notes instead of words, but I've been asked to write about my experience in the business of selecting songs to record. So here goes.

The basic thing I look for in a song is honesty. By that I mean a song that is honest about the music and lyrics—confined by one. I find the honest tunes and lyrics—confined by one. I find the honest tunes and lyrics—confined by one. I find the honest tunes and lyrics—confined by one.

the other hand, a lyricist may take a set of words to a composer who then has to make the music fit the words. Sometimes the words don't fit. But often you notice the contrived feel.

I record an album. I usually select new material to record. One of the reasons I like to record new material is a mass-appeal business. An artist would be foolish not to use a future album.

When it comes to single records, it's a different story. All of the singles I cut are new material. I work closely with Bob Meyer of Columbia Records in selecting new material to record. Often I'll record a single to set a future album.

Orange Walk at Stirling Longest on Record, Speaker Blasts Liberal Government

STIRLING (Staff) — A leading Canadian Orangeman here Saturday warned that the present federal government was ready to erase every symbol of Canada's British connections and called for an anti-Liberal vote at the next national election.

Gordon Keyes, Imperial-Grand Secretary of the Orange World Council, seized on a monster rally of nearly 60 Orange Lodges to launch a blistering denunciation against a government "policy of nationalization devoid of British connections."

Mr. Keyes, a York Township councillor, specifically singled out the Maple Leaf flag as government appeasement of extremists.

Yet, the new flag was in three flying at the traditional Orange Walk through the streets of this village.

This year King Billy (Chas. May Bateman of Centre Hastings Lodge) rode his white horse in front of a color party carrying the traditional Union Jack, Red Ensign — and the Maple Leaf flag.

At least two other lodges here aloft the national flag in the parade — the first time in Canada's history the Jack and Ensign have shared banner precedence in an Orange Walk.

However, in the day's keynote speech after the parade ended at the local fairgrounds, Mr. Keyes said that the new flag was not the result of a minority seeking recognition from the British Commonwealth.

REBUKED ON ISSUE

CLAM
The government, he charged, already had been rebuked on the issue.

"Today they find that the new Canadian flag is not too popular — even in the province of Quebec," he said.

The government approved it without a national mandate to replace the Union Jack emblem.

"The Union Jack," he said, "was the symbol of British liberty and justice and under its protecting folds this land became a Dominion and this land became a nation."

The Grand Secretary warned that as long as Orangemen survive in Canada "the Union Jack will be respected and honored and will always identify this land as an integral part of the British Commonwealth."

He charged the Liberal government was ready to scrap "God Save the Queen" as the national anthem and that "they cannot wait to erase" every symbol of British connections.

"It's time the people of this country asserted their responsibility and used all lawful means at their disposal before it is too removed... I'm thinking of the rights and the privilege of voting."

"There is only effective answer," claimed Mr. Keyes. "And that is to turn them out at the next election before they offer their birthright."

SEPARATISTS
"The separatists, the anti-British, the rebels and the opportunists are now governing Canada and the links that bind her to the Motherland," he warned.

Canadians were being asked to accept a dual culture that "divides the crown," said Mr. Keyes.

The Liberal government was so anxious to "please the separatists" it indicated the Bill of Rights and Bilingualism committee. However, "the government could not save face by dissolving the B. and C. committee," he claimed.

Canada is enriched by immigrant cultures and skills and it would be undemocratic, if immigrants should be deprived of the freedom to retain these skills and cultures."

To enforce a second language on a people already speaking English as the official tongue "is more than the average Canadian will buy."

"To those wishing to learn a second language," he said, "good luck, but we protest its having any official status."

While Orangemen make no apology for their fatherhood to British institutions, no group is more loyal to Canada than the Orange Association, said the Grand Secretary.

However, Mr. Keyes also called on the provincial government for action in its schools system.

A public, non-sectarian school system is basic to the unity of Canada, he said.

LONGEST ON RECORD

He demanded Premier Robarts consider a system of equality without representation in public schools.

"The Walk was one of the longest on record, recent, with an estimated 2,000 members of adult and junior lodges on parade from around the Quinte district."

Drums, bagpipes, fife piping and pipe bands setting the pace, the lodges first circled the Fairgrounds before moving into town.

In blithe summer weather the Orangemen paraded a round trip of about four miles before the Walk ended in front of the Fairgrounds grandstand.

Americans would uphold the terms of the U.S. Geneva agreement and withdraw their forces.

WANTS PEACE

Asked whether Ho Chi Minh talked about Chinese support, Mrs. Piri said: "I think we in the West place more emphasis on the Chinese role in this than the people of Viet Nam."

"What the president wants for North Viet Nam is peace and quiet and complete neutrality, nothing Soviet nor Chinese influence."

Mrs. Piri, who spent five years in Hanoi and travelled in the North, said she was horrified at the ravages of the U.S. air raids.

"The destruction is unbelievable. It is almost beyond comprehension. The Americans should be doing this."

Mrs. Piri said her response to U.S. policy in Viet Nam does not lie in the hands of the Communist leadership, or that she is anti-American. She said there is too much tendency for one interested in peace to be labelled a Communist.

Water Levels

Said Below

10-yr. Average

DETROIT (AP) — End of June water levels on the Great Lakes fell below the 10-year average, the U.S. lake survey monthly bulletin of lake levels reported Monday.

One Lake Superior was below the average.

The levels were:

- Lake Ontario 244.50 feet, about one inch below the 10-year average level.
- Lake Erie 200.50 feet, about 11 inches below the 10-year average level.
- Lake Michigan — Huron 276.00 feet, about one foot, two inches below the 10-year average.
- Lake Superior 605.50 feet, making it currently near the 10-year average.

Lake Ontario levels are expected to rise above those of last year during July, and the outlook for Lake Erie indicates that the levels will remain above those of last year through October 1965.

Lake Michigan — Huron is expected to stay above the record low monthly mean level during the period July-December 1965, while Lake Superior is expected to fall slightly below the 10-year average level during the next six months.

Prepare to Rouse Dozing Mariner So It Can Take 21 Photos of Mars

By RALPH DIGHTON

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory are set to launch Mariner 4 from a moon-launcher at 10:30 a.m. EDT Wednesday with a camera that will take 21 close-up pictures of Mars.

At 10:30 a.m., 21 pictures will be taken in 10 minutes. The pictures will be taken from a distance of 10,000 miles. The pictures will be taken from a distance of 10,000 miles. The pictures will be taken from a distance of 10,000 miles.

Mariner 4, launched Nov. 28, has been coasting along at up to 1,000,000 miles a day, doing since the last command of its electronic brain 144 corrected its fire on the star Chi-Saurus, the star by which it is steering on the 282,000,000-mile journey.

At 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, Mariner 4 will start a 25-minute camera run from north to south across the face of Mars, starting with a bright, desert-like region called Elysium and a dark area, Tritum Charon.

Some scientists believe the dark areas could be vegetation for by canals from white polar caps that appear to grow in winter and "melt" in summer. Tritum is especially interesting, because it reflects radar waves strongly, like a mirror reflects light. Scientists say the radar brightness may indicate metallic surface material, or perhaps a swamp.

SHOULD SEE CAP

Other observers expect deserts and dark areas, all linked by canals like those seen on Venus. The pictures will be taken from a distance of 10,000 miles. The pictures will be taken from a distance of 10,000 miles. The pictures will be taken from a distance of 10,000 miles.

HOW MARINER WILL MEET MARS

This drawing shows the sequence of events when Mariner 4 flies past Mars Wednesday in an effort to take closeup pictures of the planet and transmit them back to earth. After a 25-minute picture-taking encounter, the spacecraft will pass behind Mars' atmosphere where it will be measured in an effort to determine the density and depth of the air.

The pictures will be taken in four alternating orbits, two blue-green and two orange-red, to emphasize the swamps and desert-like areas. Up to 21 pictures are expected if the camera starts at 10:30 p.m. If the camera starts at 8:30 p.m., there will be time for only 12 or 16 before Mariner 4 swings behind Mars, where it will be too dark for pictures.

Closest approach, 3,600 miles, will come at 6:05 p.m., but on the surface below, it will be night-time.

At 7:15 p.m., the spacecraft will disappear behind the planet, then reappear on the other side at 8:30 a.m.

One minute before disappearance and one minute after re-appearance, its radio signals are expected to be measured closely to determine the density and depth of the atmosphere. Scientists figure the weaker the signal, the thicker the atmosphere.

For the next nine hours and 35 minutes, the spacecraft will send engineering data.

Playback of the picture tape will start automatically at 5:40 a.m., the first signals being received at Johannesburg at 5:52 a.m.

Transmission of each picture will take eight hours and 30 minutes. Each of the 40,000 dots in a picture is made up of six bits of data. To avoid confusion over the extreme depth of the data, the data will be sent slowly, at a rate of 8 1/3 bits per second instead of the rate of 10,000 bits per second at which the pictures were recorded.

Reception of the first picture is expected to be complete about 2:30 p.m. after two more hours of engineering data transmission of the second picture will begin.

If 21 pictures are sent, the last should be in the hands of earth scientists July 24.

Release of the first picture is expected Thursday night or early Friday, depending on the amount of processing space.

The cabinet for some months has been facing the question of whether there should be a national competition among shipyards for new four destroyer escorts, worth some $10,000,000 altogether.

East Coast and St. Lawrence River yards can build more cheaply than West Coast plants because of higher wage costs in British Columbia.

A national competition, consequently, could ruin any chance of a West Coast yard winning a contract.

The likely solution appears to be two regional competitions for the present contract, coupled with an announcement that annual contracts in the 1970s will be put up for national competition.

Education in Some Fields Said Lacking

TIMMINS (CP)—A Grade 12 school about 100 miles from the provincial government's select committee on youth Tuesday said that what the youth of Timmins needed was more sex education and education on the dangers of alcohol and smoking.

Elizabeth Dobson, president of the Timmins high school board, said education in these particular fields is lacking.

The 12-man select committee, headed by Kingston MPP Syl Apps, was in Timmins on the second day of the committee's four-day tour of the north. Most of it was in North Bay and today, Thursday and Friday it will meet in Port Arthur.

The aim of the committee is to study the problems of youth in Northern Ontario and to see that if at all they differ from those in the south.

The Timmins members heard 26 written briefs as well as a major oral presentation.

SUGGESTED COMMITTEES

A brief by the Timmins Mayor's Committee on Youth suggested standing committees on youth be established in every community in the province. The brief said that such committees should be composed of outstanding youths as well as school board governors, parents and teachers.

"One year past for youth is created within the cabinet. It is usually well to have youth ward the betterment of youth programs through the province as a whole," said the brief. But it added it was apparent that the provincial government should not have to administer youth solutions to youth problems in all parts of the province. It suggested that projects were too localized.

"Earlier, the Timmins representative board should have been put to the committee calling for equal provincial grants to public and separate schools."

Wrong Word Used In Court Report

In the intelligence of July 10 a statement was attributed to Belleville barrister Douglas MacLennan, who said that the employees of the Canadian National Bank of Commerce.

Mr. Boyle denies making such a statement.

It was attributed to him a reference to "clods" as the bank in question.

Mr. Boyle says he was reflecting on a bank meeting.

"This newspaper" regrets any embarrassment that may have been caused to the parties concerned.

Total Assets Of Trust Companies Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Estimated total assets of trust companies in Canada rose 10.1 per cent in the first quarter of 1965 to $2,087,000,000, the bureau of statistics reported Tuesday.

"This put total assets 25.2 per cent higher than the first quarter of 1964."

DBS said demand and loans were the chief source of funds, and were used by the companies primarily to finance holdings of mortgage loans and short term investments and other companies.

Could Bar Killer Whale From U.S.

VANDORVER (CP)—Take one killer whale flailing playfully in its pen and mix thoroughly with government departments and what do you get?

Thoroughly mixed-up government departments.

The killer whale known as "Moby" was purchased from two Canadian fishermen for $200 by the Seattle aquarium, in order to be in line for leading for the Washington city.

Just as the whale is on its duties or other formalities must be observed before you can take a live whale across an international border?

Says Every Peterson, conservation officer, U.S. general for the United States.

"The whale is a very beautiful animal," he said. "I understand, take an exceptionally good care of its young. However, I don't believe it would come under the Immigration and Naturalization Service laws."

SEES LINES

"If I work for the state department and there are very few lines, I would be in a very good position. I recommend you call the bureau of fisheries in Seattle."

Samuel Hutchinson, director of the bureau of fisheries in Seattle.

"There is little in the regulations about bringing live whales across borders. There are regulations governing the import of certain types and species of fish—such as salmon, but of fish capable of inflicting injury on other fish."

"But nobody has asked me to bring live whales across borders. I have never heard of anyone doing so."

"The going to have to read the fine print at the bottom of the regulations."

Canadian authorities wanted the whale to be taken to the United States.

"They're free to report as far as we're concerned," said Maurice Houghton, fisheries officer.

"We have export regulations for the whale. It is a problem for the Canadian customs and excise department and we wouldn't require the whale to be taken to the United States."

Mr. Hutchinson said the problem of jurisdiction might be a state.

"The state of Washington has the whale. It doesn't know whether the waters would be subject to that."

Moving Put Real Chore For Workmen

DUNDAS (CP)—Two days and five pounds lighter, four employees claim it will take them at least one day and two days—and presumably eight five pounds—to finish moving a two-story pile of grass.

Alma Sharp, David Warren, Michael Hockridge and Ted Zee, all of nearby Hamilton, are having nothing but ups and downs with this grass-cutting chore.

"They were the underdogs picked to move a 100-ton pile of grass," said Warren.

Traffic Lights On Street Now Synchronized

TRENTON—Trenton's synchronous traffic lights on the main street, Dundas Street, east and west, went into operation on Monday. The intersection of the traffic lights at Dufferin Ave. and Front St. is designed to permit a motorist travelling at the fastest speed to speed limit to "run" the lights through green.

A delay—a lay push—by a baby buggy for instance can throw you out and you end up in the red at the second light, after you have waited the whole, the mayor and council will make sure that the traffic flow should be better.

Meanwhile, lights left over from the special demonstration, have been placed at the corner of Byron and Dundas St. East.

During an hour's trial run on Monday it was obvious motorist weren't used to stopping at this point, and there was much hesitation on their parts. No incidents resulted, however. Yesterday, the lights were put on a warning flash basis with motorists proceeding east and west on the main street being warned to proceed cautiously by an amber flash. Motorists coming off Byron, north and south, were warned to stop by a red light.

Putting the lights up at the corner of Byron and Dundas St. toward Today's idea, by indicated at the worst corner in town.

Mayor James Macleary and the members of the traffic committee aren't entirely by convinced it's a good idea, but they are willing to wait.

The synchronized lights were substituted by the Ontario Department of Highways as part of last year's reconstruction program on Dundas St. and Dufferin Ave. but the town is on its own when it comes to paying for the Byron Street installation.

LION'S HEAD, Ont. (CP)—For a husband and wife who both practice medicine, covering the rugged Bruce Peninsula involves use of car, horse and airplane.

The plane is a relatively new addition for Dr. Mervyn and Dr. Norma Hopkinson. For a year they have shared a four-seater Cessna 172 with Dr. James Leeson of Watford.

Now Dr. Mervyn Hopkinson and his wife have their own plane on order. The former has been flying since he and Dr. Leeson acquired their plane. Dr. Norma Hopkinson also is taking instruction and hopes to fly solo by fall. The territory they cover is extensive and transportation at times is difficult. Tobique, at the tip of the peninsula, is 36 miles north of Lion's Head. Watford is 21 miles south of the main highways are good for some side roads still follow the winding Indian trails. In winter constant winds of Lake Huron pile up snowdrifts. A few winters ago the community of Dryden Bay was snowed in for two weeks.

KEY TO RADIO

The Hopkinsons have an office at Watford as well as the one in their home at Lion's Head. They put in alternate days at the offices. The Lion's Head office is equipped with a radio receiver on the same frequency as the plane. They hope also to install radio equipment at Watford.

Dr. Mervyn Hopkinson comes from Tillamook, Ont., and studied medicine at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont. Dr. Norma comes from Hensall, Ont., and studied at the University of Western Ontario, London. Both think that the Bruce Peninsula is a better place to raise their three children, Joe, James, 14, Bruce, 12, and Mary, 8, than a large city.

"They describe the people of the peninsula as 'a loyal group, more philosophical and stable than city people. They are so co-operative. Knowing we are spread this over a large area they make every effort to come to the office. House calls are rare and when you get one you know it's urgent."

And what do the peninsula people think of the Hopkinsons? A Harvey Rayman in his "answered prayer." "They're us now."

Millions of

the conference opening Monday, says he has the support of the other seven provinces directly affected in urging the federal government to withdraw the Disarmament Conference. In his view it is a political question, rather than a legal one.

Ontario recognizes that its Hudson Bay and James Bay border was outlined on the shore line, like the borders of Quebec and Manitoba when they were extended into the north, but Ontario feels that the right to license a shore response should be a provincial response.

As an earlier employee, Hamilton joined Ontario and Quebec in suggesting that new time marking their areas of jurisdiction be extended into Hudson Bay.

In addition to the offshore mineral rights, this province would involve the offshore islands, these bring ideas to Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba territory, now administered by the federal government as part of the Northwest Territories.

The federal position is that the original provinces of Canada were not sovereign states when they entered Confederation, but British colonies. Britain, in the line of argument, held the offshore rights and they were "devolved" upon the original states of Canada when it was founded in 1867.

Realism is being stressed more than ever at this year's militia summer camp now in full swing at Camp Petawawa. Pictured here about to fire a 3.5 inch rocket launcher are three members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. Left to right in the photo are Private Meredith Whelton of Norwood, Lance Corporal David Diahart of Trenton and Private Bert Greenhalgh of Belleville. (DND Photo)

Hasty Pees in Training At Camp Petawawa

CAMP PETAWAWA (Special) — Close to 1,000 Ontario and Quebec members of the Canadian Army Militia such as the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Belleville are now attending Militia Summer Camp and living in tented accommodations at Camp Petawawa.

This is as many men have put in "a no nonsense camp." The situation is being held to split and polish, with unit commanders being free to set the dress standard for their units with the first consideration being efficiency. There is no daily or overall competition this year, the last time that existed. There are no administrative duties or training other than the minimum required to keep the units operating. No first aid or drill training. Nothing that can be practised back at the home town training.

The first day dawned bright and warm, however by noon Monday rain had started to fall and the temperature dropped rapidly but this did little to slow the enthusiasm and momentum of the officers and men who had in most cases, been cooped up in their armories for at least a year practicing routine and theory.

While each unit is almost self sustaining, feeding this year is on an ambulatory basis with regular force and civilian personnel doing the work—relaxing even more militia members for practical regimental duties and training. At the 1963 summer camp very opportunity is being given to train the men more frequently on the practical aspects but possible back home—while actual firing of their main types of weapons—be it small arms such as the FN rifle and the 5.56 inch submachine gun to the larger guns of the tank corps and the 105-mm howitzer of the field artillery regiments.

In addition, support weapons such as the hand grenade and the 3.5 inch rocket launcher are also being fired.

Thus the latest, more realistic concepts of militia training is fast being put into effect, with a training more enthusiastic response from this basically young, newly streamlined reserve force.

It says an NDP government would set up permanent federal — provincial consultative machinery in the form of a planning and development council.

Approval came shortly after Mr. Douglas called for an alliance of progressive forces to act across regional and racial barriers to form a national unity.

He said for the first time the party has an opportunity to polarize progressive and reactionary forces in "embarrassment" not only English Canada but also French Canada and the multinationals.

A strong central government is needed to lead the way, he said, but it could only arise from provinces as they demand reform.

The 325,000 policy is the heaviest single policy known to have been taken out by any of the plane's 48 passengers.

Mrs. Edgar said her husband was travelling to Prince George looking for a connection job when the DC-8s were down.

Mrs. Edgar said Tuesday she had direct instructions from her lawyer to discuss the insurance policy with no one, including police, without his advice.

She said her lawyer had told her she would be interviewed by detective.

TINY IDEAS GO OVER BIG

Dear Susanna: Although I am only a grade 10 high school student, I have a few hints for your column. The first is for people who make clothes for tiny teenage dolls or other close fancy work. If a mistake is made and a seam ripper is too large to fit, use a small, sharp-edged pair of scissors to cut the seam.

As the seasons for hats, etc. is coming up, a nice way to make doll hats is to take old cotton baby socks and detach the knitted or stretch top. Cut up the back to make a flat piece. Trim the edges with lace ribbon, etc. Make a waistband, and a pocket, of scraps of colorful cloth which can be sewn on in a jiffy. I have made these myself once or twice and you were a big hit.

—Toni
I used you and your grade 10 ideas too, are a big hit with me. —SUSANNA
BIG IDEAS DO, TOO

Dear Susanna: A child's long handled squeegee mop is just right for washing the outside panels of my first floor windows. It is small, easy to handle and I can reach all the way to the top.

If members of your family use the bathroom for washing their hair, sometimes the result is a building of drain-pipe/gully material. An old button hook, stored in a handy spot nearby, is the perfect tool for keeping drains cleared out. I keep one hung, I think.

Know why new-born women often offend me adorably? Because Nature's way of providing the extra oxygen (new blood) at the early weeks. It takes a bit of time before a woman's lungs work at top efficiency. So when you check books just about her very curious, remember that your man's spring is a little off a deep and satisfying breath.

Feeding babies. It's easy enough to feed a baby. But the more food you use on a baby, the more you will be better off. As to an old food-one piece of food. Forcing water on a baby is a bad idea. Baby can enjoy over 600,000, toothsome vegetables. Ten delicious, Bland, Cholesterol and Strained Sweet Corn, to help preserve the nutrients. Couple Acts as Temporary Relatives to Disturbed Child

TORONTO (CP)—For nearly five years Bernard and Hilda Jodanis have spent their week-ends acting as temporary aunt and uncle to emotionally disturbed child.

They are among unpaid volunteers who fill the role of substitute family for wards of the children's aid society being treated at Thurston Hospital for disturbed children.

One of the 64 children under psychiatric treatment at the hospital is Catherine Eber, age, children's aid wards. When the hospital opened in 1956, some way to give these children a link with the outside world. The idea of foster aunts and uncles was born.

Mr. and Mrs. Jodanis were the first volunteers. They and five other couples are assigned one child at a time for a period of six months to a year. So far six fifth and girls of various ages have learned to call Mr. and Mrs. Jodanis Aunt Hilda and Uncle Ray.

"We look for warm, mature adults who are willing to give time and love to a child who has been in the hospital for a long time. We need people who are willing to give time and love to a child who has been in the hospital for a long time. We need people who are willing to give time and love to a child who has been in the hospital for a long time.

LAST WEEKENDS
The couple must be willing to visit the child first in the hospital and later take him home for weekends twice a month. They must be prepared to tolerate some misbehavior from their disturbed child as a result of the child's past experience.

From the child's point of view, the child is discharged from the hospital and placed in a foster home. The child will never see his aunt and uncle again or write to them or get letters from them. The only link may be a hospital social worker who identifies himself with the members of his foster family. If a child is discharged from the hospital, the child is discharged from the hospital and placed in a foster home. The child will never see his aunt and uncle again or write to them or get letters from them.

After the campy season was over, the Jodanis kept Martin Jodanis in the hospital for a long time. He spent weekends with them as any child would, watching television, playing cards and checking, going visiting with the family.

Last December Martin was able to leave the hospital for a foster home, and the Jodanis gave a going-away party for him.

"Saying goodbye to the child is always the hardest part of our job," Mrs. Jodanis says. "Naturally we get attached to our child. But we know before he comes that he will have to leave one day."

We share the joy of every child that's ready to leave us because we know he is getting what we would want him to have and a father."

Rehabilitation Efforts Demand Respect if Sincere

DEAR DORIS — In your column I sometimes read letters from parents saying that their child is going with so-and-so who may say good-bye to them to be taken to their precious too-goods and build a wall around them.

My parents too considered a guy I had gone with as "no good." Because this guy had been in trouble once (nothing serious even) they forbade me to go with him. I said I could take care of myself (I was 16) and so I kept on seeing Butchie. He was kind, thoughtful and he never once tried to get fresh with me. Finally I let him and he told me out of this beautiful friendship and I broke up with him.

Living next door to you was the kind of boy mother wanted me to go with. Well, Doris, I went with him — for six long miserable months. During that time he talked me into giving up my virginity. I was very lucky I didn't end up pregnant. Also, this guy ordered me around and was constantly nagging me. And this was my parents' choice of a guy to go with.

Butchie made me the happiest girl in the world for 12 hell months. But the misbehaved for six.

The guy I was now going out with is very nice. He, too, was in trouble five years ago, and ever since then he has gone to school and now wants to make something of himself. My parents are objecting again. Should a person be made to pay for a mistake all his life? — ONE WHO LISTENED BEFORE.

DEAR ONE — No indeed. A young fellow who is trying to make something for himself definitely deserves a second chance. Yet parents have an uncanny way of being right about people.

You need more leeway in making your own decisions — but you shouldn't abuse any such freedom. Hold off making any serious commitments until you are out of your teens.

DEAR DORIS — I have been debating the pros and cons of a divorce for some time. That of attempting to get a legal separation. Could you tell me if mental cruelty is grounds for same? Would a husband's complete rejection of his wife, both mentally and physically, be sufficient reason for said classification? — STILL DEBATING.

DEAR STILL — Each case differs, but mental or physical abuse is one most provincial legislation at grounds for separate support for a wife. The "complete rejection" sounds to me as if you have a case. Seek legal advice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BORN AGAIN — I am glad you are so different. Your letter can't go in the column, but I will keep it on hand for when someone else writes in who has been in the same condition. Thank you.

(Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll refer you to the right person.) Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Psychiatric Nurse Plays Major Role

WEXBURN, Sask. (CP)—The psychiatric nurse is playing a major role in reducing the time tensed patients must spend in hospital, says Dr. Alexander Stewart, clinical director of the Saskatchewan Hospital here.

Thirty years ago the psychiatric nurse functioned as a custodian whose duty was to keep the patient in subjugation and deny him any attempt at self-expression, he told a nurse's graduation banquet.

"Today the psychiatric nurse is one of the most valued and skilled members of the psychiatric team and our whole rehabilitation program would be in jeopardy if it were not for the labor of the nurse at the front level."

Predilecting still greater emphasis on community care, nursing away from the hospital — Dr. Stewart said — "I hope we never again see large numbers of patients herded into massive institutions where they are stripped of their individuality."

The psychiatric nurse in future would work primarily in the community, usually out of mental health clinics, and would see the patient at the clinic with the rest of the treatment team.

"My nurse tries to discover what particular activity each patient is endowed with, and actively develops this talent so that from being dependent and living in hospital the patient will become independent and able to live in the outside world."

SIDNEY SOUTH W.I.

Mrs. Dawson Douglas was hostess to the July meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute on Wednesday evening. During the business period it was decided to hold the Women's Institute picnic on Zwicker's Island on August 8 at 10 a.m.

The 4-11 girls' Misses Coby Stewart, Blaine Underwood, Brenda Douglas and Valerie Vandercooper by their leaders, Mrs. Ted Albrecht, Mrs. Roy Hobbs and Mrs. Fred Meeks, gave an interesting skit on "Zwicker's Island" and a musical. The girls' record books were on display.

A tasty lunch was served by Mrs. Douglas and her assistants. A social half-hour brought a most enjoyable evening to close.

UNIONDALE W.I.

The July meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute (Hastings Main) was held at the home of Mrs. Morris Mallory, 44th Concession of Sidney, with 27 members and one visitor present.

"Thank you" cards were received from Mrs. Evelyn and Maribeth Burkett and from the 4-11 Club girls who had the pleasure of a tea trip to Upper Canada Village with the Uniondale W.I.

A census for the blind is set for September 20 to October 8. The week of July 11 is the visiting week for the members to the Hastings Main. An invitation was accepted to attend a tea and bazaar at Marsh Hill School Hall on July 21.

Uniondale W.I. will look after the preparation of meals for the Belleville Fair.

"Modern Methods of Food Preservation" was given by Mrs. C. Frost. She stressed that the first step is to buy a large enough freezer and keep a good supply of food in it. Each member was asked to give a favorite recipe for the freezer.

A Department of Agriculture booklet on frozen foods was passed out to each member. Mrs. E. Sine and Mrs. Alton Sine gave readings and Mrs. M.

IN THE HOME OF THE FUTURE your toddler is best done in slow stages and with small portions. Serve him something he especially likes and then add a little helping of the new vegetable or meat. SWISS BARBECUED STEAKS Barbecuing is a popular method of preparing steak and so is grilling and when you apply both of these to a barbecued blade steak you have a triple feature.

Eleanor did just that. Her morning when she came to work she modestly announced to me "I think I've done something thing clever." My dear, you are always clever, but tell me about this brilliant new idea.

She ignored my flattery and told me she had bought two 1½-lb. blade steaks at 50¢ per lb. She proceeded to cook them by the method that would suit her plans and cooking from her hours to mine, and that would please her family's tastes. She said the steak was as tender as chicken and tasted simply wonderful. Then, grilling from behind her back, she produced the sheet of paper on which she had made her notes for me and for you.

ELEANOR'S SWISS BARBECUED BLADE STEAK WITH BUTTERED NOODLES (serves 6):

Two 1½-lb. blade or chuck steaks, flour, ¼ cup bacon drippings, 1 lemon, salad oil thinly, 1 large onion, sliced, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, ¼ teaspoon barbecue seasoning, 1 tablespoon parsley flakes, 1½ cups tomato juice, 1½ cups Worcestershire sauce.

Sprinkle the blade steaks on both sides with flour. Now brown them in the fat bacon drippings on both sides. Transfer steak and fat to roasting pan large enough to fit them in one layer. Arrange lemon slices, three onion slices over steaks. Sprinkle with brown sugar. This sprinkle over the fully pored tomato juice and in Worcestershire sauce evenly over all. Cover and bake at 300° deg. Fahr. for 2½ hours. Turn once and baste 1 hour longer. (This was cooking in Eleanor's oven, which was controlled over manual buttons to suit butter through when the returned home from work she found the meat was quite tender and the crumbed broiled tomato halves eaten to retard the cooking — completed the main course of this delicious meal for six.)

Serve with BUTTERED NOODLES: Cook 1½ of a package (average 12-oz. package size) in plenty of boiling salted water over all. Drain well. Drain very tender. Drain through colander. Turn into preheated serving dish and dot with butter, using about 2 or 4 medium-sized butter balls through when the returned home from work she found the meat was quite tender and the crumbed broiled tomato halves eaten to retard the cooking — completed the main course of this delicious meal for six.)

Mrs. Cyrus Eaton

Wife of Famous Financier Shares His Political Views

By R. J. ANDERSON

NORTHFIELD, Ohio (CP)—Anne Eaton makes it clear at the outset she is not interested in the personality-jerid type of interview. She has a message. She delivers it with intense—growing concentration, wagging finger. She speaks her words for emphasis.

The fact that her views coincide with those of her multimillionaire husband is, she says, coincidental. The interviewer is left in no doubt that her conclusions are her own.

The message: The United States is fighting with world war—just now in South Viet Nam; elsewhere, perhaps, tomorrow. She doesn't like the U.S. state apartment. She doesn't like Johnson administration. She particularly doesn't like what she considers the warlike actions of U.S. Defense Secretary Robert McNamara — "that upstart young man."

In different phraseology, that is the word that Cyrus S. Eaton has been preaching, quietly but emphatically, since May 26 when he returned from his latest visit to East Asia.

USES WHEELCHAIR

The 63-year-old wife of the Cleveland financier who has campaigned for better understanding of the communist world spoke freely of her political beliefs and hopes for peace. Firmly seated in her wheelchair, she was questioned by the reporter.

The setting was the library of the Eaton home on the "honeymoon" road, a hill from the famed Acadia Farms where earlier in the rainy afternoon Mrs. Eaton with equal conviction had kept track of prices paid for her husband's price cards at an auction.

Above the fireplace was a photograph of the 19th-century English naturalist Charles Darwin; on an end table one of a portrait of the Socialist philosopher Bertrand Russell. Any suggestion that Eaton, in warning of what he terms certain Russian intervention in Viet Nam, was voicing the Red "line" was denied emphatically without indignation. He has been his own, so were his. Eaton's, gained in several trips with him behind the Iron Curtain.

Forgotten as the vivacious hostess poured tea and expressed her determined opinion was the wheelchair to which she was confined since suffering an attack of polio in 1946. 11 years later, with her many activities such as being co-ordinator of five international Papayan conferences on science and world affairs sponsored by her husband.

HUSBAND'S EAR

Eaton, 81 and slightly deaf, relies heavily upon his wife in public appearances. She is at his side at a dinner or luncheon or at a press conference

HUSBAND RELIES ON HER — Anne Eaton, 43-year-old wife of Cleveland financier, Cyrus Eaton, who long has campaigned for better western understanding of the communist world, speaks freely of her political beliefs and hopes for peace. son or at a press conference where she relays clearly, one clearly and accurately reported questions that often are searching. This is almost the only personal topic upon which Mrs. Eaton is willing to talk freely. They were married in 1907. It was the second marriage for both. Her family and his were close friends for years and she is fond of remarking that she has known Eaton since she was nine years old.

Part of every summer is spent at Eaton's Deep Cove farm at his native Parash, N.S., where, as at Northfield, both take a keen interest in his 300-acre cattle. She gets around the big farm in a motorized cart, similar to a golf cart, and swings dutifully without assistance from chair to station wagon.

She is more interested in world affairs. She says it is only "pious pretence" that the United States is in Viet Nam to defend the country against communism. That Secretary McNamara is pursuing a policy of war and that President Johnson is treading on dangerous ground.

A REMINDER

Wedding plans for the Democratic family for 1965 years has been well known in Ohio for important party—and was a delegate to the Atlantic City convention that nominated Johnson. She feels that the president's approach now to foreign affairs isn't what she voted for.

She also had a word of advice for Canada. Paraphrasing, it is:

Stand up and tell Washington where to get off. Don't get pulled into a war in Viet Nam.

'Blonde Bomber' Defends Bleaching for Boys

DEAR ANN LANDERS — You said in a column recently that a mother who stretched her 15-year-old son's hair with peroxide was off her rocker. Gran, I am a boy, 17, and it so happens that I struck my own hair and it looks great.

My hair used to be lifeless, dull brown. Now girls who never have I started come over to me and tell me they think my hair looks terrific. In fact, a couple of the girls call me the "Blonde Bomber."

ANN LANDERS — From the picture of you in the paper I would like to suggest that you do something with your hair. It looks terrible — FORMER READER.

DEAR FORMER — So the girls call you the "Blonde Bomber." What do the boys call you? If you want to put your hair up in curls it's all right with me, Bub, and it may even attract more attention than the streaks.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — We have five children who are normal, healthy and well-behaved, thanks to the firm handling of my husband and my own belief that parents need not take any fuss or nonsense.

Sunday we were visiting at the home of my husband's brother and his wife. They have three boys who do as they please. There isn't a piece of furniture in their home that isn't broken. The floors are scratched because the kids slide in their golf shoes. Holes have been punched in the wall by kids on their tricycles. The 7-year-old asked my husband if he could take his shoes off and walk in them. My husband said, "No, the boy asked, 'Why not?' My husband replied, 'Because my shoes are not toys.' The youngster then said, 'If you don't let me I'll sock you.' My husband said, 'You're better not.' The boy struck my husband in the back with his fist and ran to his mother. My husband got up and gave the child a hard smack on the rear.

The boy's father was furious. He shouted, "You have no right to strike my son. If you want to beat your own kids, that's your business, but our children are not accustomed to violence."

An argument followed and we left in short sentences. May I have your opinion, Frankly, I have mixed emotions. Please direct your remarks to my husband. Thank you. — Q.T.

DEAR Q.T. — I have only two words for your husband. Heartfelt congratulations.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am concerned about our grandson. My daughter says it is just a "phase." I'm not so sure. Please tell me what you think of a 15-year-old boy who has a deformed fear of snakes.

Frank washes his hands for at least 15 minutes before each meal. He avoids up like a surgeon, then uses an antiseptic lotion. The boy refuses to carry out the garbage for his mother because he is afraid of being contaminated. He will not shake hands when introduced unless he is forced by someone who grabs his hand. I can't tell you the hours he wastes washing things that don't need to be washed. He refuses to use the telephone until he has wiped the mouthpiece with an antiseptic solution.

My daughter says Frank is just overly clean. I say it's more complicated. Please state your views. — CONCERNED GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER — My views would probably carry more weight than your views. Here then are the views of three psychiatrists.

The boy's preoccupation with cleanliness is out of proportion to reality. He is sick and needs professional help.

Do you feel ill at ease . . . out of it? Is everybody having a good time but your Wife for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Way To Good Living," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Most fall jacket lengths were included in the Paul Barnes collection. These new lengths are described by commentators in terms of where they fall on the waist. For example, there are hip-length and finger-length, and this particular set on the knee-length is particularly popular.

LONDON WELCOME FOR CHILEAN PRESIDENT — Chilean President Eduardo Frei waves to crowd as he rides with Britain's Queen Elizabeth II during trip in state coach from London's Victoria Station to Buckingham Palace. Diefenbaker Tours Riding On Holiday

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Opposition leader Diefenbaker set out on a campaign-style tour of his constituency Tuesday despite announcements by local Progressive Conservatives that he is home for a holiday.

His first stop was in the small farming community of Shillbrook, 27 miles west of his home in Prince Albert. Mr. Diefenbaker, said a supporter, "charged up the main street shaking everyone's hand in a tick."

"I was popped before we had gone four blocks," the spokesman added.

Mr. Diefenbaker joked and chatted with many of the town's 700 residents and on his way to a farm where one farmer remarked he would be unable to vote for "the man who has done the most for western farmers."

After previous redistribution of federal constituencies, Shillbrook and other western points in the Prince Albert riding will be absorbed in the Meadow Lake riding.

Hellyer Placing Emphasis On Ability and Less on Seniority in Promotions

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer is placing more emphasis on ability and less on seniority in promotions for a m.e.d. force personnel, authorities said Tuesday.

As a rule, seniority has been the governing, though not exclusive, factor in promotions and it will continue to receive some recognition.

Of two men of equal ability the man with the longer service will get the promotion. Otherwise, officials said, the man with the shorter military tail will go up in rank.

In the last two years, Comment was informed, last month by Associate Defence Minister Galt, a total of 3,406 professional and official personnel have been promoted or been completely relieved from their functions.

Though the reasons for the resignations are varied, one of them is that many bright young men quit when they feel promotion has gone to older simply because of their longer service.

In many armed forces jobs, promotion is a matter of seniority. In the case of the military, it is a matter of seniority and ability.

One view expressed here is that the suggestion is aimed at getting more of one state ment in a special report on Canada-U.S. relations, made public Monday.

The report, prepared by former ambassadors Arnold Healey of Canada and Livingston Merchant of the U.S., suggests at one point that the Canadian government, fearful of public criticism of American foreign policy which don't directly concern this country.

command of an infantry battalion is an example—physical fitness is a highly important factor in promotions. The army is said to have felt for some time that its battalion and company commanders are generally too old.

The main rounds of Second World War officers and senior non-commissioned officers will occur in the next few years. Despite their middle age, these men have extensive, respected—and the promotions—because of their experience.

Except in the most senior ranks, nearly all the officers and men who have served continuously in the forces since the Second World War will return to civil street in the next several years.

This will make it easier to base promotions on ability because, by and large, combat experience then will be a practically non-existent factor. At least, it is hoped that it won't be necessary for military personnel to obtain combat experience.

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the first time in many months, President Johnson has a more slight hope for improving U.S.-Soviet relations, despite the bitter differences between the two powers over the war in Vietnam.

The break in a long diplomatic stalemate came Monday when the Soviet embassy here notified the U.S. that it had agreed to the complete suspension of administration officials—that the Soviet government agreed to resume disarmament talks at Geneva.

Exactly the opposite Soviet response, if there was one, in response to all, had been expected.

The date of the disarmament talks has not been finally determined. U.S. officials intend to make proposals primarily for agreements to halt the spread of nuclear weapons in the world, and to expand the limited nuclear test ban, already concluded in 1963. The United States wants to prohibit underground tests as well as those in the atmosphere.

Co-ordination Of All Health Services Urged

TORONTO (CP)—All health facilities in Ontario should be co-ordinated under the Ontario Hospital Services Commission, the Ontario Hospital Association said the Ontario legislature's select committee on aging today.

The OHA says in a brief that only through giving one agency the power to co-ordinate all the province's health facilities can progress be made in care of the aging, or any other group of hospital patients.

Hospital-based facilities now come under the jurisdiction of municipalities operate homes for the aged and other nursing homes are privately run.

The OHA also recommends provincial licensing of nursing homes and development of non-profit nursing care facilities as part of hospitals for chronic patients. These would provide a halfway step between hospital and home for discharged elderly patients.

Also recommended is further study of a community drug prescription plan tried in Owen Sound in 1959 and 1964.

SURVEYS HIS LAND—Rancher Alex Bulman of Kamloops, B.C., surveys his own rangeland above Nicola Valley, against a background of land that was all once Bulman country. The last ridge on the horizon is named Bulman mountain after his pioneer father. Today, Mr. Bulman runs about 300 head of producing feeder yearlings and fattening steers on 2,200 acres of the rugged, arid country of south-central British Columbia. (CP Photo)

British Columbia 1879

By DENNIS ORCHARD

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—The McLean brothers were cow-country marauders bent on attaining an Indian war. Hired sons of a Hudson's Bay Company factor, they killed for fun and wrote violence into British Columbia history.

Their escape began in the cold December of 1879 on land now belonging to rancher Alex Bulman, who knows the story well and tells it along with many others in manuscripts for a book he wants published sometime.

Initially, it was a simple horse theft. The brothers—Alan, 25, Charles, about 20, and Archie, 15—look 17-year-old Alex lives in town and watches a black station owned by rancher William Palmer. A four-man posse pursued them to range country above the Nicola Valley and confronted them in a clearing, unmarked to this day and now named by Mr. Bulman's collected Hereford. There they turned, stabbed and shot to death Constable Johnny Umber of the B.C. Provincial Police, and chased away the other men. They rode south, threatening death to every person they met. They shot and killed a shepherd named Kelly for target practice, then entered the Douglas Lake reserve with the idea of riling up the Indians.

A second posse finally trapped the gang in a cabin and forced its surrender. The four were unanimously convicted of murder.

Witnesses later hanging swear one of the brothers said: "We've got a contract for the devil to break a hand of his horses, so get this over as fast as you can."

Mr. Bulman's pioneer father later employed a half-brother of the McLean boys, Alex himself recalls the murder, ball marks in the cheeks of John McLeod, who escaped "when Umber was killed. And Mr. Bulman has talked to men from the posse that nabbed the killers.

Few men know more about the past and present of the rugged, arid country of south-central British Columbia, and about the problems of raising cattle on its barren grass.

More than 80 square miles of it was Bulman country 30 years ago when the family grazed its cattle on 40,000 acres.

RETIRED AT 35

From Mr. Bulman's present spread, 1,200 feet above the Nicola Valley, all the land is left to the north, south and east across the valley once he turned to his father Joe. The last ridge at the distance is Bulman Mountain.

But the emigrant at Joe Bulman's death in 1935 was badly in debt. Alex and his brother spent more than a decade sorting it out and sorted so well that Alex decided to set out and retire at the age of 35.

He had a brief farm as a partner in a small chain of feed stores and for seven years he sold cows to order-buyers on behalf of B.C. ranchers, a job demanding immense tact and experience.

Mr. Bulman felt compelled to return to active ranching and, I know it's a life that has great joys for me, and one of them is living with good people. I'd hate to have to wake up to the morning and feel low about going to work. When I was in the grocery stores I served lunch and for three months and it was the most miserable time of my life. I speak of taking a religious strength from the vicinity of the land and the flow of rain, in his own way of having faith and he does not intend to change it.

BETS BOTH SIDES

GONZAGA, Italy (AP)—Francesco Soldati-Cabini blew out one big and seven little candles on his 37th birthday cake with one big breath, lit his pipe and said over the table: "I've smoked hundreds of pounds of tobacco and I've drunk hundreds of gallons of good wine. I've also had a lot of milk. I feel fine."

A top candidate for this city's mythical sports hall of fame has retired from the athletic wars at the tender age of 29.

A nine-year veteran of non-union, non-reading professional football, the Ottawa Rough Riders' Gary Schrider has closed his glorious career with a bang.

Belleville-born Gary who learned his football fundamentals, among other things at St. Michael's school in Ottawa, has "made his mark" in the game and returned to the comparative thangelia of a law office.

From now on Gary will have more time to devote to telling four young scholars "quaterbacks" how the Riders won the Grey Cup that year in 1964. While he could grade them all, he will be able to fill in.

Football has been good to Schrider even as Gary has been good to the game. He made his mark in the game and the professional ranks and the game left him with nothing he will carry perhaps for some time.

Perhaps an occasional shoulder injury will remind him that surgery once returned part of a "collarbone" muscle. A leg and a career in the game and now a sporty victory and points-gated football run, may recall sports to him.

Knee troubles were part of the game and last winter he was named an injured leg, taking special treatment. He would have been hurt into shape for the 1965 season.

Then, as he said in an interview with an Ottawa sports writer, he decided to quit. Football had helped him in his quest for education. It had provided a financial foundation for him and earned him to make and raise a family while going to school.

Assendably, Gary never had much to worry about. He did what he wanted to do with the Ottawa Rough Riders and other Trillium stars helped bring the school an intercollegiate football championship.

During his St. Michael's days, here, a great friend, fan, and teacher of Gary's, Sister Mary Avelia, said that the young athlete gave study his proper allotted time.

Retirement for Gary opens a new vista of life. The Ottawa writer said that for the first time since he left school, Gary will have a summer vacation with his family at a cottage in Muskoka.

"When he comes back, he'll attend to his growing law practice, play some golf and maybe even attend some football games."

"It's understandable. You cannot keep an old dog (even at 29) away from his puppy abasile here. When the white stables for the kickoff down Ottawa, I don't imagine Gary Schrider will be too far away."

He was appreciative, considerate and thoughtful during his school years as his professional football career.

This is shown in his statement to the Ottawa writer: "I don't want to make any big announcements while I'd like to say my thanks for me."

"The football club has been always good to me. The directors, all of them, the coaches, the front office, they have always been good to me and I have appreciated it."

"The fans have been good to me, too. They have always been that way and I'd like to thank them for all the support they have given me over the years. I don't know of any other year wondering about my life. My practice is growing and I thought I'd better devote my time to that. And have a summer vacation. I'm sure I will be too far away."

And to Gary Schrider closes the portal on a football career that brought him fame and fortune and stability because, the great athlete he is, he gave it everything he had.

He steps, well equipped across the threshold of a new career that opens to the student of life where the touchdowns of success are not made with long pants but with grueling and pay-by-achievement effort.

Gary Schrider, barrister, will be making his law office in Ottawa.

Nationals Now Lead in 6-5

By JOE REICHER

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Some times Joe Cronin must feel grateful that he is president of the American League and not general manager of a baseball club.

Since Cronin took office in 1959, his league has won only two of 11 all-star games while losing one. Over the same years American League representatives have lost four of six World Series.

Cronin inspired the fans Tuesday when the National League beat the American League 6-5, the first time since the competition began in 1933. The victory was their seventh in eight decisions.

The Nationals beat the Americans 1-8 and a 6-5 outburst in the 11th.

GIBSON STOPS THEM

Then when they needed another pitcher after the American League had made up a five-run deficit in the eighth, the Nationals called on their ace, Nino Lirio. He pitched the final three innings and gave up only a leadoff homer to the Yankees in the ninth.

Two other Nationals, Fred Lumbard and Tommie Agee, hit home runs in the ninth.

Brooks Robinson of Baltimore led off the ninth with a single and trotted home ahead of Lumbard's ninth-inning drive into the pavilion.

Sandy Koufax, who pitched the sixth inning, was credited with the victory. Los Angeles' pitcher, Tom Seaver, was charged with the defeat.

READY FOR THE RICHEST OPEN—The richest Canadian open golf championship in history started today at the Mississauga Golf and Country Club about 24 miles west of Toronto. Prize money totals $100,000.

The 6,828-yard course has been cut back from the normal par 72 to a par 70 by making the fourth and 15th holes par four. For the everyday duffer, they are par fives.

Agency and clubhouse are needed for Mississauga, says head pro Gordon Brydson. It's not a course for power hitters. The tests are three, six and 14, long par threes with small, tricky greens. Three other toughers are par fours. Number one is a double dogleg to the right with a carry over water and the 11th a dogleg to the left.

Trotter Was Tired, Not Hurt

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—There's nothing wrong with Betsy Herbert but she has a good rest week.

This is how the trotter explained the (1117) setback in the $100,000 International Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

In an interview here Tuesday, Herbert denied rumors that he fell was lame or he was hurt in any way.

The horse had the back for a mile, then dropped back to seventh as Sweden's Plavir III won the event.

Herbert said at his time she "went her best and just got tired."

He said Tuesday he is returning to the barn at St. Catharines this week "because she had two big trips to New York and back again, and needs the rest."

Betsy Herbert's next race will be next week at Toronto's Greenwood Raceway, said Jack, son of co-trainers Herb and William Herbert of London.

CARRY MORE CARRIER—Fench trains now carry 20 per cent more passengers and 70 per cent more freight than before the Second World War, but employ 150,000 fewer men.

SWINGING EASY—A DIFFICULT HABIT TO BREAK

Many golfers do not drive the ball as far as they should because they are not swinging it as hard as they can.

Somewhere along the line, many golfers discover they can't hit the ball squarely more frequently if they do not swing hard. They lose the will to hit the ball hard. Swing-ers!

Any guy becomes a difficult habit to break. As soon as a soft intention to add power, he often begins to swing softly. He becomes discouraged and foregoes efforts to add distance.

I say that almost any golfer can learn to hit the ball hard and squarely. In fact, many golfers who hit the ball hard have difficulty meeting it squarely if they try to swing easy.

Learning to hit the ball hard requires the use of new mental outlook, along with considerable practice and instruction. But I think the serious golfer should make plenty of effort at this direction.

Salazar Facing Crucial Year, Poor Growing Discontented

LISBON (AP) — A trap and 18 of 25 wrapped in a fall riot in Estrela Palace, Portugal, celebrating 27 years of independence. The Portuguese people, however, are not celebrating. Antonio Oliveira Salazar, who since Portugal is called the world's most durable dictatorship, is facing what he calls a crucial year in his political life. Portugal, almost bankrupt when he came to power 27 years ago, has gold and foreign exchange reserves of $10,000,000, an extraordinary amount for a small country of 800,000 people. Salazar took pride in leading Portugal into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization at its founding in 1949. The United States was granted use of the Lajes air base in the Azores. NO REWARD But today Salazar and his followers complain the United States and other NATO allies refuse to support Portugal's policy in her overseas African territories of Angola, Mozambique and Guinea. To guard these territories, and control native uprisings, Salazar has been forced to put 20 per cent of the national budget — $166,000,000 — into the armed forces. This obviously limits the amounts which could be spent on anti-poverty programs.

Salazar has set up a "corporative" system which appears to be a national life, but month by month the Portuguese people's anger is growing. The 1968 elections marked the fifth month of this year. Salazar, deeply religious and deeply convinced of the correctness of his policy, has not appeared recently. "I think greatly when I hear talk of the right and the left," he said recently. "I think that words mean nothing at all. If you tell me that the right is made for social discipline, for authority, for unity of direction, then I am for the right. If you tell me that the left means an attempt to improve the conditions of the lives of the people, then I am of the left." This attitude comes naturally to Salazar. He was born into a poor farm laborer in Upper Beira. His mother and four unmarried sisters brought him up frugally. In his teens, he entered a Roman Catholic seminary and spent years studying for the priesthood. Eventually he left and went to the University of Coimbra to study economics. He became a full professor of economics at 28. He went directly from that post to become minister of economics and then took the helm of government. The university still lists him on "leave of absence."

ited to take out greater of is against the Viet Cong. Johnson told Tuesday's press conference in Washington there is "increased aggression from the North" and indicated that this challenge may have to be met with greater American ground forces in South Vietnam, now totalling about 75,000 and increasing. The U.S. president referred to the possibility of "new and serious" on Viet Nam in Nam where guerrilla forces could take more than half the country. Johnson does not want to indicate a turn in U.S. policy. He concentrates more heavily on ground action in South Vietnam rather than on the bombing and attack on the Viet Cong. The Americans failed to force the Viet Cong into submission, at least had bases scattered across South Vietnam, making it almost impossible for the rebels to attack vital territory.

Hees Proposes New Method To Get PCs Back in Power

MONTREAL (CP) — George Hees, who made his reputation in government by picking the best available brains, wants the Conservative party to adopt the same strategy. Specifically, the former trade minister proposes the party recruit leaders from the "real world," he wants to recruit Canadian life into a new perspective. Hees, who is now a member of the House of Commons, wants to provide a steady flow of ideas for the Conservative caucus and leadership. With such ideas, he is convinced the Conservatives could topple the present Liberal government. Hees, now president of Montreal's Canadian Manufacturers' Association, is expected to speak Tuesday at a certain point in the Conservative Party's annual convention. He wanted evidence of the Conservatives could offer a real alternative. His idea calls for the Conservatives to take the best brains available within the party and then to top experts from private industry, and promote them on this combination of the party and the top experts. He would like Dalton Camp, national Conservative president, to initiate the project this summer, and, once underway, to provide the party with a steady flow of ideas. Hees, who is now a member of the House of Commons, wants to provide a steady flow of ideas for the Conservative caucus and leadership. New Machinery To Be Placed In Bata Plant

PICTON (Staff)—Bata Shoe Company employees at Picton will have something new in store for them when they come back from their annual two weeks vacation beginning July 17th.

Plant manager at Picton, Carl Neal, announced this week that a new type of shoe construction will require the installation of some extra machinery and the removal of other existing equipment.

Mr. Neal has the task of training key personnel in the new construction. "It is the company's policy wherever possible to train local employees in a new skill rather than leave them out of work," said the manager. He added that rumors about the Picton plant closing down are false. "Bata wishes to keep this plant rolling," he stated.

Mr. Neal, who lives in Toronto, has spent 26 years with Bata and is thoroughly versed in the type of construction to be introduced into the Picton plant. It will be used in the production of a women's lightweight casual shoe. At present the plant is finishing what is known as its "California" production.

COFFEE HOME FOUND

In the labor market with only a high school degree? "With automation, the high school diploma is no longer a passport to employment."

Mount Royal, founded in 1811 by Methodist minister Rev. Dr. George W. Kerby, began as an elementary school for children of Alberta ranchers, later dropped its lower grades and concentrated on high school courses.

In the 1930s there was stagnation because of financial problems and the university suggested that Mount Royal teach courses that could later be accepted at the U. of A.

ENROLLMENT PLUMS

That affiliation still continues and some Mount Royal programs allow a student to move into second-year university. Its two-year engineering school has a transfer agreement with the University of Oklahoma, a post-war development.

Dr. Collett holds a master's degree in psychology from Columbia University in New York City. There is help from public subscriptions and funds raised by the United Church.

But of this year's enrolment of 1,300, only 100 students transferring to university were eligible for provincial or federal government help. The school expects to have an enrolment of 1,500 within five years.

The college, which also has a conservatory of music, a speech and hearing center, has four main buildings including residences, a restaurant, administration and classrooms.

Surrounded by older homes and offices near the Mewala Hotel Station, it must find a new location to expand.

Speed Limit in Waupoos Requested by Ratepayers

PICTON (Staff)—A delegation of concerned ratepayers of North Waupoos Township appeared at City Council Monday evening to actively support a motion to establish a 35 m.p.h. speed limit in Waupoos. Their concern has been heightened by two recent traffic accidents in the area.

Both Ray Stevens and Gordon Quaff spoke for the delegation which included among others, Mrs. Bill Smith, Glen Quaff and David Barron. Mr. Stevens was first to speak and he cited a number of reasons why a speed limit should be established. "In a 3.8 mile stretch through Waupoos, 85 per cent of these limit is in the quarters of a mile," he said, "and the stretch is a mile and a half long. There have been two serious accidents on this stretch of road and that half of the road that do happen are not reported."

County Engineer Ron Thompson suggested that recommended speed signs be erected by the county rather than setting up a speed limit which cannot be enforced by the local O.P.P. detachment.

Gordon Quaff told Council that Mr. Thompson evidently did not know the speed situation on this stretch of road. He described it as "grim" and backed the plea for Council to pass a bylaw requesting the Department of Transport to approve the setting of a speed limit. He noted that the Lake-on-the-Mountain area had been designated. He said he wished the O.P.P. would come in and Waupoos just once in awhile and set up their radar.

Engineer Thompson said he found that the O.P.P. are too understaffed to make these new safety checks. He said they have trouble patrolling beaches of the county during the summer.

Athol Reeve Gordon Demore On Committee

PICTON (Staff)—Prince Edward County Council, at its regular meeting this week, passed a bylaw naming former Athol Township reeve Gordon Demore to the county appointed public school consultative committee.

Reeves Ken Hicks and Robert Byrne had Council back the request of delegation and the bylaw was subsequently given three readings. The Department of Transport will now investigate whether the area merits a speed limit.

Assessment Commissioner To Be Hired

PICTON (Staff)—The county of Prince Edward is advertising an assessment commissioner to head its county assessment department. Council's financial committee chairman reported to the meeting of Council that the committee had decided to advertise for an assessment commissioner instead of a deputy commissioner. Since the county commission was formed over a year ago, A. W. (Fred) Jennings has been assessment commissioner or head of the department.

At its regular meeting in June, county council voted to advertise for a deputy commissioner to be prepared to take over the department in the event of Mr. Jennings' absence.

Finance committee chairman, Robert Boyer, said his committee has talked the matter over with Mr. Jennings since then, and with his agreement is advertising for a department head instead. He said Mr. Jennings, now over 70 years old, decided to step down as department head.

Trip to View Quinte Skyway Can Be Rather Hazardous

PICTON (Staff)—Though higher than the casing factory lot. The road's new grade calls for a lot of cuttings, thus eliminating a number of bad curves along the highway.

Further up the road, earth-movers are hauling fill from a nearby hill for County Road 12's new intersection with Highway 40 at its approach to the bridge.

Road 12 will branch at the bridge with the main intersecting Highway 40, while a secondary branch will proceed underneath the bridge and continue to Green Point. Trailing, stump removal and pole setting are being carried out on this side of the development road project which finishes at "Mike's Place," top of Mackinac Island.

SEAS MAY RISE

The use of coal and gas engines has increased the amount of carbon dioxide in the world's air and scientists think this may raise temperatures and speed the melting of the polar ice cap.

Youth Column Junior Colleges Fill Needs of The Times

By DAN POWERS

CALGARY (CP)—The president of one of Canada's oldest junior colleges says the "schools of second chance" are in step with the times.

Dr. W. J. Collett, head of Mount Royal College—a small United Church—sponsored college located in the western part of downtown Calgary—says the primary purpose of a junior college is education between high school and university.

Similar to junior colleges starting to spring up in Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia, Mount Royal serves a variety of purposes, Dr. Collett says. It can be a stepping stone to university or a chance at education better than what high school can not do at complete university level.

It can produce a skilled stenographer, clerical librarian, a journalist with two years' training, recreation worker, radio and television announcer, interior designer or community service worker.

It can rearsure the high school dropout; re-equip the businessman; prepare a student for transfer to a university engineering course, and make a room for the late-blooming student.

FEW GO TO UNIVERSITY

In short, while breaking the program down under such broad headings as arts and sciences, high school, business development and adult education, the junior college can fill what is recognized as a large gap in Canadian education.

"Only 10 per cent of Alberta's high school students go to university," Dr. Collett said in an interview. "Maybe four per cent of them graduate from university."

"What about the other 90 per cent?"

"Maybe technical education and training take 25 per cent of that, 30 per cent. But the rest of those others who must go out."

Fall to Have Jobless Pay Cover Farmers

By ALLEN BACKMAN

Agriculture Minister George Brown of Manitoba, interviewed at the end of the three-day closed conference of provincial agriculture ministers, said there was no progress to report on an attempt to obtain employment insurance benefits for farm labor. He said that had been made an attempt by provincial ministers. Agriculture Minister Henry Wilson of the province of Saskatchewan said that officials throughout the day, said in an independent unemployment insurance was administered by provincial ministers, said Mr. Brown, seemed to have obtained some understanding and recognition of the problem from Mr. Brown and his staff.

TORONTO (CP)—An experiment by Blue Cross into a prepaid prescription drug plan has ended in financial disaster. The plan took in $14,000 in subscriptions from 1963 to 1964, but lost $125,000 in drug costs, for a net loss of $111,000.

The figures were disclosed Wednesday by the Ontario Hospital Association, operators of the Blue Cross plan, before the legislature's select committee on health.

However, Blue Cross officials said the plan was not a failure, but a valuable experiment.

Over $200 was picked for the experiment, conducted during 1963 and 1964, because it was regarded as a typical community and had served as the basis of other Blue Cross experiments, said S. W. Martin, the OHA's executive secretary.

Anyone in the community who wanted to be permitted to subscribe to the prescription drug plan was required to pay $10 a year for single persons and $20 for families.

Persons paid for the families' drug costs, and families the first $80. An average of 1,000 persons were covered during the two-year experiment, and of those 600 made claims against the plan.

Mr. Martin pointed out that the plan was not a failure, but a valuable experiment.

Drug costs, before the deduction amounts were paid by members of the plan, totaled $125,000, at an estimated income of $14,000.

The project was terminated December 31, 1964 since the cost far exceeded the subscription income being derived," Mr. Martin said.

Administration cost was not figured into the financial statement of the drug plan, since Blue Cross incorporated the drug expenses with its hospital insurance administrative machinery. However, Mr. Martin said in an interview the subscription income would not have been covered by the expenses.

He said the experiment attracted a high percentage of persons with existing medical conditions who realized they would have high drug costs.

Millwrights Strike Stalls Construction

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A provincial strike of millwrights, members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UBCJA), has crippled construction work across Ontario.

At the strike enters the third day, more than 800 millwrights are on strike in Brockville, Windsor, Hamilton, Peterborough, St. Catharines, Kingston, Stratford and Kitchener.

The strike demands include a 30-cent-an-hour wage increase over a two-year period, vacation pay increase from four to six per cent and a $1 increase in travel allowance.

Plouffe-style French-Canadian Family Reported to Be Falling Apart at Seams

By LINDA CHAPWOOD

MONTREAL (CP)—That venerable institution—the bourgeoisie and growing French-Canadian family typified by the Plouffe—is falling apart at the seams, says a prominent social scientist.

"The image of the old French-Canadian family—steady as a rock and impervious to social changes on the outside—is no longer there, or else such families are fewer and rarer," says Dr. Philippe Garneau, dean of the social sciences department at the University of Montreal.

There has been a reversal of the established order of ideas, Dr. Garneau says. Research, study and statistics have shown that "people in Quebec are marrying late, and they are marrying for love." Traditionally it was poor marriages here were late, and having children was regarded as the main reason for the union.

"But these young marriages are not producing many children. The marriage rate has gone up in recent years, but the birth rate has gone down." Until a few years ago, the birth rate in Quebec was higher than the national average, but in the first three months of 1965 the rate in Quebec was 3.3 per cent less than for the corresponding period in 1964 with the national drop was only 0.4 per cent.

On the other hand, the marriage rate increased 12.5 per cent in Quebec in 1964 and only 1.1 per cent in 1965.

eight per cent for the whole country.

Accompanying the weakening of the family was a rise in the juvenile delinquency rate. In Montreal alone, cases of juvenile delinquency went from 1,431 in 1961 to 1,720 in 1964.

TIED TO WEALTH "It is not enough to say the demise of Montreal is more active, or the police and courts more efficient," Dr. Garneau says. "It is something deeper."

And members of the council have been trying to discover just what is wrong and what can be done about it.

One thing is clear. The disintegration of the family is directly related to the rise of the atomized society. The expectations of French-Canadians are getting bigger. They want all the modern conveniences, a higher standard of living and most expensive of all, college education for their children.

Most families haven't adequate resources to meet those new aspirations, and so they have fewer and fewer children. Aspirations have increased but means have not, and this is the strongest single factor in the divorcing the traditional family.

"There has been no upturning of the means to satisfy the material desires, and the result is conflict between husbands and wives and between the generations. Fathers who can't afford the expenses of their families are more and more likely to be the breadwinners are seeking solutions in the arms of children and adults, and so they expect to impose their values upon their children."

At a time when children more and more want "free freedom," Dr. Garneau says young French-Canadians are determined not to burden themselves with children as their parents did. "It doesn't want to call them selfish, they are just approaching the problem in a rational way."

NEW PATTERN NEEDED "What can be done towards a solution of these complex problems involving the basic task of society? Dr. Garneau says a new family pattern must be created through social legislation.

"We must make a new family for young married couples to have children without suffering an economic drop behind their children's shoulders."

The council is working to provide government allowances to young couples as well as to have a family for pre-natal and post-natal education and for some way to help children with the cost of education.

"We must also make it more attractive for mothers to stay at home. Many mothers are now working only to help to provide the extra needed to increase the physical standard of living. This would no longer be necessary, he says, if a provincial government salary was available to those mothers who preferred to stay in the home."

And family education must become a part of everybody's upbringing. "We have courses in sex education, but that is at a time when children more and more want "free freedom."

Successful Living

Told to Bide Her Time
In Combating Mother-in-law

DEAR DORIS — In your column you wrote "Dear Aunt Mimi, let me see Sonny Boy in love and on his way out of the home." Could you please write more on the subject in the hope some mothers may see they set out to it?

My husband and I have been married nine years but letters are always to my husband and I very kind to me — as long as I'm well out of the house. My husband's brother who is included in my mother-in-law's letters and meets with her regularly.

Already I'm determined to keep up my children's marriage and do my utmost to accept the person and her choice. The amazing thing is she'll jump in the chance to help in any way and I very kind to me — as long as I'm well out of the house. My husband and I have been married nine years but letters are always to my husband and I very kind to me — as long as I'm well out of the house. My husband's brother who is included in my mother-in-law's letters and meets with her regularly.

DEAR ONE — Not necessarily the oldest one. Sometimes the youngest. It's a pity when a mother shows favoritism either to sons or to daughters. In the end she loses out in the enjoyment of grandchildren, doesn't she?

DEAR DORIS — Quite often I meet the man I was engaged to, and he invites me for coffee. I have accepted, and all things the mother should just say "Thank you, I have other plans." These last will be what is best. He broke the engagement. — DORIS

DEAR DOUBTFUL — If having coffee with my husband up and awakens broken hopes, you'd better decline. If you no longer have strong feelings for him, no reason why you shouldn't share a conversation over a cup of coffee.

DEAR DORIS — I have just read the part of your column where you asked us what we said or thought about "Why boys like this girl."

I like my girl friend the way she is. I don't think she would like me as well. I think I speak for all the boys when I say that there is no set reason why boys like girls.

DEAR HAPPY — Sounds more or less realistic. I'd like to check back later and find out whether at 24, you are still overloving her faults, or someone else's.

DEAR DORIS — My friend and I had a quarrel lately about hair. She said her hair was intelligent. I told her I'd bleached the hair out and said that it wasn't any good for it. She said I was insane. And another friend of mine told me it was really good for the hair.

DEAR A. F. F. — Clean? Yes. Healthy? No. Clothes washing detergent looks dirt and grease so strenuously that they wash out all the beauty and natural oil of hair. Human hair should never be washed with anything but a shampoo designed for the purpose.

DEAR DORIS — My husband and I signed papers for adopting a little girl about a year ago. We have not heard anything yet. I know it takes over two years sometimes. Our family was six boys; only two home now.

DEAR DORIS — I think I'm the only girl that can't go to a party at all. I'm 14, and all of my friends are 13 and 12 and can go to parties with boys and go out with them. I don't want to be like them.

HOMEMADE FIG BARS

About one and one-half years ago a reader asked me for the method of making fig bars and I gave it in a readers' column.

We had a big baking binge here earlier this week and I had an insupportable urge to do some fig bars again on my baking program.

They were professional looking and tasting without anything that covered and elusive homemade fig bars.

1 cup chopped figs (well-packed) — you need a 15oz. package, 6 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons water, 2 eggs, 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1 tablespoon hot water, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

To make the fig filling: Roll out the figs and cut them into 1/2" squares, using a ruler. Spoon half of cooled filling in long strip like a stripe, down centre of each length of dough.

Do not stop on too much filling or it will take too long when you proceed to lay the sides of the dough over it. With a blunt-edged knife or spatula lay the sides of the dough over the fig filling, filling gently put them to rest. Cut into 1/2" bars.

Will Keep Job

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Andrew Stewart has agreed to continue as chairman of the Board at Broadcast Governors until new legislation on broadcasting comes into effect. It was announced Wednesday. A press release from Prime Minister Pearson's office said the legislation will be introduced after the government receives the report of the Fowler committee on broadcasting. The committee, under R. M. Fowler, is expected to report in late August or early September.

By JOE DILL

CHICAGO (AP)—The honeymoon is much sweeter when short, says a wedding consultant, and short honeymoons are better for a marriage, too.

"The most surprising thing is that many times a couple gets bored with each other on a long honeymoon," consultant Louis Soco said in an interview.

"The shorter the honeymoon, the better, and too, says the most 19 advice," he said.

Soco, a wedding consultant for 20 years, said the anxiety and excitement leading to the wedding put a couple on their best behavior.

"Then suddenly they are married. They think they know each other, but they start spending 24 hours a day together, and discover they don't."

"In a strange resort, surrounded by strangers, the discovery that prices charming, a bride can take things in stride," Soco said. "The man gets up and goes to work, and obligate each other to constant entertainment. They are little or nothing connected with their home life."

Soco, 41 and father of four, said a short honeymoon gives the couple a chance to be alone, and that the return home means the real beginning of happiness.

CHANCE TO RELAX

"At home, even though it's a brand new apartment, a bride can take things in stride," Soco said. "The man gets up and goes to work, and the wife has a chance to relax, do her daily chores and reassure the little frailties of her husband."

Soco said the most susceptible persons to a sour honeymoon are women who have lived with their parents and have made few trips.

"The more the honeymoon, the more they look forward to a trip—and stretch it too long," he said. "Many women end up getting homesick... and as a result impatience and misand understanding develop."

Soco said he wouldn't think of changing the age-old honeymoon tradition, however.

"A honeymoon is necessary and if possible, both persons should see new, romantic places," he said. "But just don't make it for too long."

Soco said the long honeymoon is a throwback to a primitive era when men kidnapped their brides and had to stay out of sight until the girl's tribe cooled off.

"But this is no longer a problem," he said.

Cites Canadians

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A tobacco worker who fled Cuba in a small boat with his 10-year-old grandson said Wednesday that political prisoners are being forced to work in Cuban tobacco fields.

"Canadian foremen and technicians are supervising the work," added the newly arrived 20-year-old man, who recalled use of his name, Canada's Cuba's tobacco customer, he said.

Spahn Up For $1 Grabs

By HAL ROCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Warren Spahn was looking for a $500 bet after his 14-year-old daughter, Gail, defeated the 16-year-old left-hander in a game that was taken up in a vacant space in the New York Mets' youth movement.

Spahn, who came to the Mets last November after starting for 20 years with the Braves, first in Boston and later in Milwaukee, had lost a straight and was 4-12 with a 4.41 earned run average when the Mets asked Warren on his Wednesday.

"I know I can still help a big league club," Spahn said Wednesday night. "I'm pretty fast and my arm feels strong. I'll take an oath on it."

"There isn't any reason why I can't pitch creditably for any club in the big leagues," Spahn said. "I will be 72 next week, but Spahn several days ago that he no longer would be considered a regular starting pitcher. "We want to give the younger men an opportunity in the youth development program," Stengel said.

Spahn, who has won 300 games and is tied for sixth place on the all-time list with Ed Nichols, offered to become a relief pitcher. "I'm willing to go to the bullpen," he told Stengel. "I feel I can help my way back to starting." But the offer was rejected.

Spahn, who doubled as pitching coach, received $75,000 for his last role. The Mets first placed his name on the regular waiver list where a claim would cost $20,000.

When there were no takers, at that price, he was put in for a nominal $1 fee, for the purpose of giving him a conditional release. That makes him free to make a deal for himself.

Spahn did help for a while, but the veteran hurler's last victory came against Philadelphia Phillies May 24 and he KINGSTON (CP) — Two women from the Ontario Ladies' Amateur Golf Association (LPGA) championships met in one of today's semi-finals at the Ontario Golf and Country Club.

Gail Harvey of Toronto, Ontario, defeated Sue Hilton of the Ontario Golf and Country Club, 1-0, in a 36-hole match.

Harvey, who is 14 years old, won the match by a score of 1-0, with a 6-1 record over Anne Beagle of Toronto, Ont.

In another quarter-final match, Helen Goss of Windsor, Ont., won a 36-hole match against Betty Davidson of Oakville's Traveler Golf and Country Club 7 and 6.

So far, the Ontario Ladies' Amateur Golf Association has had a record of 1-0 in its first two matches.

Spahn said his goal is to become the winning pitcher in National League history. He is 13 victories away from the league mark of 375 shared by Christy Mathewson and Cy Young.

Spahn has been a member of the National League since 1954. He has won 300 games and is tied for sixth place on the all-time list with Ed Nichols.

She took a penalty stroke, but when she dropped her ball two feet longer, it bounced back into the hole.

Miss Harvey won on three and Miss Cole conceded the hole to go in three. A hole-in-one, 300-yard shot, the par-3, was made by the two when they hit the 300-yard hole.

The qualifying round ended with a one-over-par 74, Miss Hilton, who was a one-over-par 75, won the match.

The biggest surprise so far in the tournament was Miss Goss, who won a 36-hole match against Betty Davidson of Oakville's Traveler Golf and Country Club 7 and 6.

Canadians Doing Well At Bisley

BISLEY, England (CP) — A stocky, blonde-haired RCMP photographer was a four-man shoot-off Wednesday for the bronze Cup in the first round of the St. George's Vase competition at the Bisley individual field championships.

Fourteen other Canadian marksmen qualified for the second stage of the premier Queen's Prize event.

Leading Aircrewman Jim Hennek, 27, stationed at Gold Lake, Alta., put eight shots in the bull at 500 yards to defeat three other sharpshooters, who had also scored "possibles" of 7 in the first stage Tuesday.

The 14 Canadians were among 300 marksmen scheduled to compete today at 600 yards in the second stage of the three-stage competition, rated second in prestige to the Queen's Prize.

Sgt. Frank Jeremy of Kingston and Col. Derek Dimes of Calgary, members of the Ontario of Canada Rifle Association team, and Capt. Bill Morley of Fort McLeod, Alta., representing the Black Watch of Canada, led Canadian entries in the first stage of the Queen's Prize, each scoring 106 of a possible 110.

Six competitors — none of them Canadian — were to shoot off for the first-stage Bronze Medal after they tried with 100 pellets in the event, requiring contestants to fire seven shots at distances of 200, 300 and 400 yards.

A total of 300 contestants will compete in the Queen's second stage today, firing 10 shots at 200, 300 and 400 yards. Canadians have won the three-stage event on nine occasions. The last time in 1961, by Norm Treach of Ancaster, Ont., with 281 out of 300.

A final team representing the 1st Battalion Black Watch of Canada placed second in the St. George's Vase Cup, an appropriate service team competition decided from the results of Words Were Stevenson's Weapons And in Their Use He Was Adroit

NEW YORK (AP)—For much of his life Adlai Stevenson was an eloquent man of the arena, vigorously advocating the cause of his country, or his party, in an age of colonial crisis.

As governor, candidate or diplomat, Stevenson fought the wars in which words were weapons, and he was their master.

His gift for the eloquent argument, and the quick quip, made him pre-eminent as a spokesman of American political philosophy.

Stevenson was a man of wit and humor, and more often than not used himself for a target.

He excelled in the time-honored presidential campaign with charges that he was an intellectual, Stevenson cried: "I've heard the world until you have nothing to lose but your mouth to laugh."

In 1952, after he lost his first campaign for the presidency, Stevenson said: "I feel like the boy who studied his lesson to lose to cry and it burns too much to laugh."

Once asked whether he had ever considered a boy that he might grow up to be president, he replied: "Yes, but I just dismissed it as a normal risk that any middle-aged American boy has to take."

"Boy, this new electric carving knife is fun!"

His capacity to do so. Every man has a duty to be heard, and Stevenson has the right to struggle diplomatically with a single set of vocal cords."

Sunday School Lesson

Continuous Tug-of-war

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Every person is caught in a tug-of-war between good and evil. Pride, selfishness, and the desire of the flesh pull in one direction. Conscience, spiritual power, and the desire for self-improvement pull in the other. The individual, as one poet has put it, is caught "in the middle." As a result of this struggle he grows. "The soul awakes and grows." Men are not to explore this struggle, but to welcome this challenge as a means to achieving self-discipline, strength of character and spiritual growth.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 15: Christian Growth Through Conflict. Romans 7.

No one has described this tug-of-war of the soul better than Paul, the Apostle, in the 7th chapter of Romans. "I do not understand my own actions," he writes. "For I do not do what I want, but I do the very thing I hate. For I delight in the law of God, but I loathe self but I see in my members another law at war with the law of my mind, which dwells in my members. This inner struggle was so real for Paul that he cried out, 'Who will deliver me from this body of death?'"

WRESTLES WITH SAME PROBLEM

Well, who will or who can? This author of Ecclesiastes in the Old Testament wrestled with this same problem. How can one find the greatest satisfaction and fulfillment for his life? But education alone cannot save men from their sin. An educated sinner is still a sinner. He may be more fleshly clever than he was before. Yet his moral purpose and spiritual attainment, knowledge is "vanity" (Ecclesiastes 1:13-14).

Then the author tried pleasure. He said to himself, "Enjoy yourself." But this, too was "vanity," for a life dedicated to pleasure can lead to emptiness and regret. He tried getting his pleasure with money, only to discover one cannot buy happiness and contentment. Then he tried living for God. (Ecclesiastes 2:1 and 8) This gave him satisfaction nothing else could give. So much so, he decided "I'll young people. 'Remember also your Creator in the days of your youth, before the evil days come, and the years draw nigh, when you will say, I have no pleasure in this.' "The end of the matter," he concludes, is to "fear God and keep His commandments; for this is the whole duty of man." (Ecclesiastes 12:1 and 13 RSV)

There is still much pessimism in this book. The author had not seen God through the eyes and life of Christ. Paul had, and so he could answer his own question, "Who will deliver me?" by saying, as Moffatt translates it, "God will! Thanks be to Him through Jesus Christ our Lord." (Romans 7:25)

LOVE DRIVES OUT THE OLD Many years ago, Dr. Thomas Chalmers preached a famous sermon, entitled, "The Expulsive Power of a New Affection." The way to get rid of love for evil, he said, is to let one's heart be filled with a love for God, and the new love soon will drive out the old one. It is like planting hyacinth grass in one's yard; as the hyacinth grass spreads, it crowds out the crabgrass. It is the same way, love for God, fed by Bible study, prayer, and worship, can so fill one's life, it crowds out less worthy thoughts and desires.

This had happened to Paul. He had confessed that before knowing Christ, he had trouble with the fifth commandment (Romans 7:5), but when he met Christ in a personal way, "my new faith in Christ drove out the old."

He said, in his new faith, his sin and confusions and worries, he could say to the Christian at Philippi, "I can do all things in Him who strengthens me." (Philippians 4:13 RSV) The tug-of-war he could not win by himself was won for him by putting the rope in Christ's hands.

TRIANGULAR WHEEL, DON'T BOUNCE — Walter Döberich, a student at Central Technical School in Toronto, has built a model car with round-sided triangular blocks where the wheels would ordinarily be. The 24-inch model car, built as a math club project, is described as "a simple application of the constant width concept of the Reuleaux triangle." Franz Reuleaux was an engineer and mathematician in Berlin. Looking at the model you can almost feel the bumps with each revolution but teachers and other students who have pushed it agree it does move without bouncing.

Now the Computer Is Down on the Farm

SEDLBY, S.A.S.K. (CP) — Farmer Son Leier wants fast, accurate answers to the problems he encounters on his 1,100-acre property. He gets them from a computer in Calgary.

Mr. Leier turned his farm record over to the computer in Calgary after a visit by federal drone-tax assessors showed up looking for his accounting system.

Initially, the Calgary computer provided him with a list of figures: A statement of income for 1964, a balance sheet and an analysis of his returns on his grain crops.

The crop analysis provided the information Mr. Leier most wanted. "What the crop analysis told me was that my fertilizer costs were far too high, something about 8¢ a cultivated acre."

"It made me realize I either have to live with these high depreciation costs, or better yet, add another quarter or half-cent to bring those costs into line."

"I knew when I bought that huge combine last year that it would show my cost out of proportion, but not to the extent the computer indicated. So now the machinery I have for the farm is too big but there's no land in the immediate area I could acquire."

Sedley is putting together records for a similar analysis of his cattle-raising operation, which the computer showed provides him 75.00 per cent of his income.

On the basis of the answers he gets, he'll probably make a decision on whether to expand his cattle operation.

The computer's information also helps him avoid being hit for his taxes because he has underestimated his rates of income.

"I know I'll keep the sliver clean with the income" tax. I have a complete idea of how the farm as a whole is going and my types of income from grain and cattle."

Sedley is 30 miles southwest of Regina.

Maritimer Plays Key Role In Nigerian Development

By MARJORIE WHITEHEAD
LAGOS, Nigeria (CP) — Among some 600 Canadians pouring their knowledge and skill into the rapidly-developing economy of Nigeria, Africa's most populous country, a key role is being played by a 54-year-old Maritimer named Robert Allaby.

Allaby, a native of Saint John, N.B., is an expert in vocational training and before coming to west Africa was deputy warden at Dorchester penitentiary in New Brunswick. He now is a senior consultant at the International Labor Organization's training centre for technicians in Lagos, capital of Nigeria, helping to turn out industrial experts for the new Africa.

This is work of particular interest. Lack of technological knowledge is crippling the progress of this country with an estimated 55,000,000 population chafing almost overcast from a rubber-and-cocoa economy in sophisticated industrial society.

To help solve the problem, the Nigerian government called in the ILO, a specialist of about 100 of the United Nations' headquarters in Geneva. The operation is not direct aid but an UN Special Fund project, involving expert co-operation from the local government.

Life in Lagos, while dramatically different from Dorchester, is no longer the physical trial it was in the days when this "sterny port" was dubbed "the white man's grave." There are night clubs, good restaurants and plenty of beach life.

"The climate's not as bad as New York in summer," says Allaby.

The Allaby, whose eldest daughter Sheri is the first Canadian student at the new University of Lagos, lives in a comfortable single-story house provided by the Nigerian government, four years ago, the average rent amid billions and a man named in Nigeria was independent.

a level comparable with any country in the world." The Geneva organization, which has launched many vocational training programs in the emerging countries, does not train workers but instructs. Its staff must therefore be skilled teachers as well as experts in their various tech-

When Allaby and his British, Swedish and Australian colleagues leave, the Nigerian staff will be ready to continue their work.

The course holds immense prestige for eager Nigerian students. Last year more than 3,000 students lived up at the gates of the centre to apply for 140 places.

"They would stay in the classroom 24 hours a day if we'd let them," said Allaby. "I've even had students knock on my door late at night to ask me about some work problem because they couldn't bear to wait until morning."

Ask Commuters Not To Beat Up Train Drivers

LONDON (AP) — Britain's

state-owned railways today appealed to London commuters not to beat up their train drivers.

The appeal came amid growing complaints in commuter services, caused by a lightning strike of some train crews and go-slow tactics by others.

Worst-affected region was the line bringing people in from the Kentish suburbs, southeast of the capital. For the last week, the go-slow has produced wild scenes at stations crowded with frustrated home-givers, and drivers and conductors have been called for police protection.

Cause of the trouble is a three-day strike by the train crew, their union, the railway's executive.

DEMAND A BONUS
The union is now demanding a productivity bonus of £100,000 on wages for work saving £17,000 a week. They say that has been achieved by the union's work.

But the union says it will not allow its members to be paid to pay if the drivers will agree to a productivity bonus. The union also complains that the government has not provided enough money to run the railways.

High and Humble Pay Last Respects

WASHINGTON (AP) — The high and the humble may find their final respects in the U.S. capital today to Adlai E. Stevenson.

Citizens by the thousands filed quietly past his flag-draped casket in a small, simple chapel in the national Episcopal (Anglican) cathedral, kept open to the public overnight.

President Johnson headed the list of dignitaries paying the last respects to Stevenson, who died of a heart ailment on July 14, 1965.

For the 11 a.m. service, Stevenson was carried by two抬 (抬 is a Chinese character for 'carry' or 'lift') and television, the cat was in the death of five persons in a traffic crash on the Henry Hudson Parkway in the Bronx two years ago.

Permanent Arrangement For Farm Drought, Disaster Relief Being Worked Out

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Harry Hyatt is trying to work out a permanent arrangement for farm drought and disaster relief with the provinces, sources said Thursday.

It could include revisions to the federal-provincial crop insurance plan and a separate program for disaster relief.

The revised crop insurance program could be more attractive to private farmers in Ontario and Quebec, now outside the plan.

Overall federal aim is to greatly broaden the plan's coverage to protect farmers against natural disaster.

In existence since 1960, the plan now covers only small percentage of farmers. Only 10 per cent of farmers in Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Prince Edward Island have operating schemes.

The agriculture department is said to want to eliminate the need for such an ad hoc program as special aid for farmers in Quebec and Ontario hit by a severe drought and Canadian grain growers who have been hit by a severe drought.

The provinces concerned have worked out a federal government program for farmers who will likely be announced next week.

Mrs. Hyatt took over her post with provincial agriculture ministers at a Winnipeg meeting this week. Their reaction was not known.

Details of the federal program are not available.

OTTAWA (CP) — One to two inches of soaking rain have made all the difference in the fortunes of farmers in Ontario who were drought-stricken last week.

Last week's rain, the first since June 10, September 1964, has greatly improved the situation for the rest of the season.

Mr. Hyatt said that the situation is now much better than it was a few days ago.

Vibrant Tradition at 34 Top Theatre Amateur Goes in Summer Stock

BY DENNIS OCHTER
KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Tom Kerr is investing a weighty reputation in summer stock as he is trying on six weeks of professional theatre in Vancouver to air remarkable years of theatrical experience.

The 36-year-old teacher has been a Kamloops pied piper for young people in British Columbia for the last 10 years ago. Greater Kamloops is celebrating his 50th birthday. Kerr has been a vibrant tradition in drama circles with exceptional and Kerr was named the festival's top director.

His North Kamloops PPGA group, a mixture of students and adults, produces the best professional theatre fare in the province. In 1984 they went to the Dominion Drama Festival with Amos Webster's Chances and Kerr was named the festival's top director.

As a fellow of Trinity College, London, his academic qualifications in speech and drama are the highest attainable anywhere in Canada.

Back to school. Kerr has never got around to getting a B.A. He and Norma have been married for 10 years. He does three plays during July and August in Vancouver, then he goes to the degree with the opening of his own experimental theatre company.

"I'm a bit of a new person," he says. "I'm a bit of a new person, especially young people and adults. I'm a bit of a new person."

"In larger areas, the theatre has been a bit of a new person," he says. "In larger areas, the theatre has been a bit of a new person."

"In smaller areas, they have been a bit of a new person," he says. "In smaller areas, they have been a bit of a new person."

King of Jazz Returns to O'Keefe Centre

Louis Armstrong, and his All Stars, return to O'Keefe Centre for a week's engagement commencing July 19. Mr. Armstrong is one of the great living jazz musicians, and he will give six evening performances. There will be no matinees.

Louis Armstrong, the indomitable giant of jazz, recently returned from a triumphant European tour and immediately set out on another North American tour, which took him to Atlantic City, where, on July 19, he will celebrate his 60th birthday. Long a jazz of the "old generation" his birthday brought forth hundreds of screaming legends to help him bring the jazz.

Louis Armstrong is the "irrepressible" of the very musicians who have received more votes than Louis himself in the "poll of the people." And jazz critics are in complete accord.

"Armstrong's career set the pattern for the development of modern jazz," writes Leonard B. Feather of New York Times. "To Virgil Thompson's opinion that Armstrong's 'style of improvisation would seem to have been the greatest of instrumental virtuosity with the most consistent and consistent melodic structure, all of which is one and the same thing."

"In larger areas, the theatre has been a bit of a new person," he says. "In larger areas, the theatre has been a bit of a new person."

Meaty 8-Point Agenda Awaits All Canadian Summit Parley

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers gather at the all-Canadian summit Monday in another bid to find a co-operative way toward future social and economic development.

The nearly eight-point agenda, topped by national health insurance and economic growth, is expected to carry the closed-door meetings at least through Thursday.

It will be the first top-level federal-provincial conference of 1965 and looms as one of the most far-ranging sessions in recent years.

New Impetus was added to it Friday with word from Prime Minister Pearson that his opening conference statement Monday will include proposals on introduction of a national medical care program.

He told reporters after a three-hour cabinet meeting, called to wind up federal plans for next week's conference, that the medical care is "certainly one of the most important" subjects on the federal-provincial agenda.

WONT DISCUSS IT
 But he declined, amid continued great interest, to disclose just how detailed a proposal Ottawa has ready on the subject.

Some reports Friday speculated the federal government is ready to discuss it.

Parley Agenda
 OTTAWA (CP)—Following the proposed agenda for next week's federal-provincial conference, as released by Prime Minister Pearson's office:

- A. Canada Assistance Plan
- B. Health services
- C. Program for low employment
- D. Regional problems
- E. Program for the full utilization of human resources and the elimination of unemployment
- F. Tax Structure Committee
- G. Report of chairman on progress of studies
- H. Shared-cost programs
- I. Possible consideration by the committee of questions relating to university financing
- J. Transportation
- K. Federal-provincial Resources
- L. Federal-provincial co-operation to combat organized crime
- M. Rehabilitation of prisoners
- N. Liaison
- O. Secretariat Arrangements
- P. Other matters
- Q. National welfare program
- R. National electric utilities
- S. Off-shore mineral rights
- T. Any other matter

Efforts to seek provincial endorsement for a nation-wide compulsory medical care plan which might be in operation as early as 1967. Other dispatches suggested next week's discussion would go no farther than a mere declaration of principle.

With Minister Judy LaMarsh, who has been working for medical care for 18 months, appointed to lead the delegation to the summit.

Reveals Medicare Plan

SARINIA (CP) — A proposed federal compulsory medical plan—including a clause that would spell the end of all commercial health plans—was revealed Friday by a member of the government team working on the scheme.

Walter Roy, liberal member of Parliament for Lambton West, gave details of the proposal to be presented at next week's federal-provincial conference in Ottawa.

The plan, which would cost the average taxpayer about 30¢ annually, or a mere 1¢ a week, would include a merger with existing companies and would include a clause that would require the major medical plan, including that provided by any company, London Life, Mr. Roy said, in an interview.

Mr. Roy, a senior official of the insurance company's Saskatchewan branch, said the plan would be presented to the government by next week.

WIN APPROVAL
 Mr. Roy said the 13-member federal-provincial committee would be approved almost unanimously by the cabinet meeting. He said, however, that the plan has a long way to go.

The Lambton member said that about the "comprehensive and comprehensive" plan meets with the approval of the province he would hope further studies could be completed in time.

FIRST CALL with

LA MACAZA, Que. (CP)—A rookie policeman led a hazardous search for a suspected kidnapper who had driven him.

Bouguet was captured Thursday night by the trio who had taken his escape from three men, one of whom was a hostage for 24 hours.

On the night of the provincial police scattered away from his armed abductors by using a slingshot.

After walking around the area in a four-mile circle all day, the trio allowed the 21-year-old policeman to help them gather pine needles for the kidnappers.

One of the kidnappers and his husband near this Bonaric mine had 10 miles north of Montreal.

Bouguet merely went farther and farther to his car, which he needed then bolted to safety.

He then described his capture. His hands were bound, and he was told that he was picked him up at a Mac-

"He always seemed to be in a good mood," Bouguet said.

Postal Strike Is Possible Hideaway Was Summer Cottage Close To City

MONTREAL (CP) — Lucien Rivard, Canada's most wanted man since his escape from Bordeaux provincial jail March 2, was recaptured Friday night where many people predicted he would be found — in the Montreal area.

The hideout chosen by Rivard, central figure in a scandal that rocked the federal Liberal government, was a secluded summer cottage on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River, less than 15 miles from the heart of the city.

Details of the coup were few. High officials of the federal provincial and Montreal police involved in the capture issued a terse statement Friday night.

Three Swimming Pools Are Being Used For Red Cross Water Safety Program

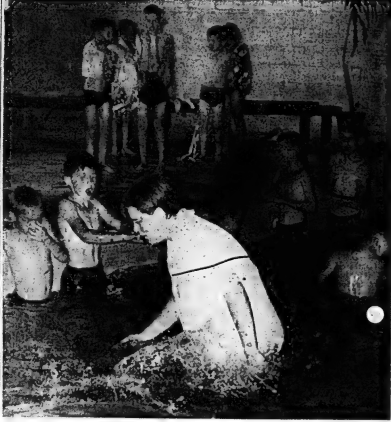

Beginners learn to overcome their fear of the water in the first step of the Red Cross Water Safety program at the Tops Motor Hotel pool.

Three Belleville pools are being used in the Red Cross Water Safety program this summer. The Tops Motor Hotel joins those of the Kitchener and the YMCA in providing Red Cross instruction to city and district youngsters.

Over 700 rural swimmers are receiving instruction from Murray Workman's staff of three instructors at the Tops pool. Fifteen lessons spread over three weeks are given to these children, who are brought to the city every day by bus. Melrose, Marysville, Red, Beaulieu and Shawville are the areas represented and the Melrose Women's Institute and Marysville Catholic Women's League have co-operated in helping to get this program under way.

Similar programs are in progress under Jim Chisholm at the Kitchener pool and Mildred Gray at the Y pool. These two pools provide all levels of Red Cross instruction while the Tops pool does at the junior level. Since this is its first year of operation there are no swimmers from here who have passed this level.

A water safety demonstration was given last night at Belleville by the officials of the Red Cross program.

INTERPOL SEEKS HIK

ROME (AP) — Italian police said Friday night that the International Police Organization—Interpol—has asked them to be on the lookout for Joseph Meunier (alias Joe Raso), 42, of Montreal, wanted to Canada in connection with the 1959 first shooting of Norman Primeau. Bridgmaster Takes Over New Duties

TRENTON — Fred Davis, who has worked for the Department of Transport in the Campbellford district for the past three years, has been hired by the town as bridge-master, to take charge of the swing portion of the present town bridge. His new duties start today.

Mr. Davis, who is in his 40s, is a World War II veteran, having served with the Royal Canadian Navy. He is a brother of Edward Davis, the former town assessor, "Pete" Davis of North Trent, and Kenneth Davis, employed with the hydro locally.

Meanwhile, Harry LaFrance, the bridge-master at Trenton for the past 19 years, took up his duties as canalman at Lock No. 2 on the Trent, yesterday.

Says Reports State Cats Poisoned

TRENTON — Mrs. Hilda Jones, Trenton Police Officer, said yesterday that she had many reports of cats being poisoned in town. Mrs. Jones said that this is a cruel practice and that it is against the law to put out poison where children or dogs may come in contact with it. If it appears to be sick or vicious, the town provides for Mrs. Jones to pick up the animal and have it put to sleep in a humane way by the veterinarian. The Pet Control Officer's telephone number is 262-4122.

Annual Holiday Exodus Begins As Plants Close

The population of Belleville is in danger of decreasing substantially. Beginning today, hundreds of plant workers will be packing their bags and heading out of the city. They'll be back. It's just the annual exodus to the vacation lands caused by the two-week holiday shutdown of most of Belleville's major industries. The Belleville's largest industry, Northern Electric, is closed for the next two weeks. About 800 Northern workers will be enjoying holidays during that period.

A host of other industries are scheduled to close for holidays during the last two weeks in July. Among these are American Optical, Black Industries, Kirby Distillery, Deacon Bros. and others. The Belleville's largest industry, Northern Electric, is closed for the next two weeks. About 800 Northern workers will be enjoying holidays during that period.

LI-Col. G. W. Haynes, new C.O., First Canadian Guards, stands to the rear of LI-Col. H. W. Mulhern in the latter addresses the Guards for the last time in the capacity of Commanding Officer.

Colorful Ceremony Marks Guards' Command Change

PICTON (Staff) — Visibly moved, LI-Col. H. W. Mulhern yesterday said goodbye to some 1200 troops of the First Battalion Canadian Guards in colorful hand-over ceremony at Camp Picton. A large crowd of spectators watched with interest as Col. Mulhern handed over the command of the regiment to LI-Col. G. W. Haynes. The ranks were inspected by both the old and the new commanding officers, not a man waved as the officers passed down the long lines of guards quarterly turned out in summer dress.

The weather was ideal for the occasion and the troops were as perfect in their form as they marched past the saluting base where Brigadier General took the salute. Following the signing of the colors of LI-Col. Mulhern's presentation of commanding officer's colors to LI-Col. Mulhern addressed the troops. He said that during his time with the famous battalion they left nothing to be desired. "I don't need to tell you," he continued, "that in leaving I feel a little leaving behind one of the most important periods of my life." "To think you would be impossible in the future the greatest thing I will be able to say of myself during the last two weeks in July. Among these are American Optical, Black Industries, Kirby Distillery, Deacon Bros. and others. The Belleville's largest industry, Northern Electric, is closed for the next two weeks. About 800 Northern workers will be enjoying holidays during that period.

LI-Col. Mulhern will take up new duties at Canadian Forces Headquarters, Ottawa, after four years as Commanding Officer of the Canadian Guards. The Guards had a three year tour of duty in Germany and more recently saw duty with the U.N. forces in Cyprus. In attendance for the occasion were Major General (retired) C. Voke, Maj. General P. L. Happily Married 5 Years, Rooney Asks What's Wrong

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Gosh, I've been happily married for seven years now," I wonder how many of you have been married for seven years now?

So says Mickey Rooney, who has been in divorce court more times than a ballad.

The Mick once said: "The only thing I regret about my life is the alimony."

But now he is happy that he doesn't even regret the alimony anymore.

Rooney will be at Sept. 2, but he's still Andy Hardy, his energy and a bit of mischief are boundless. And so is his talent.

"I'm different now, Barbara and I have four lovely children. I love my family. I love my home. And I want to be happy."

"I believe I have found true love."

As for his career, he's riding high. He just signed a deal with Stuff & Wink, and he is joining with Eddie Feller to bring Pat Young Woman to the screen.

Fitter owns the movie rights to the first of the Loraine-Lowe movies, including twenty-seven expensives and over sixty cameramen. These expensives stuck off in the studio corners as for the time being back to the time of the studio of love as practiced throughout the world.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN—Stanley Baker is wounded and Michael Caine is at aid during an action by 4,000 warriors in Joseph E. Levine's epic drama "Zulu," which opens tonight at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. The Embassy Pictures release, in Technicolor and Technisound, also stars Jack Hawkins, Ulla Jacobson and James Booth. The feature attraction, the rollicking comedy "The Great Chase," features such comedy greats as Buster Keaton, Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Lillian Gish and many others.

The Golden Years

Man Proves Earlier Values Mean Nothing in Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

The values of your career and the values of your retirement years are two different kinds of apples.

For people at 65 can tell this. Which may be why so few of them make the best of their retirement.

Last week a dramatic example of these values was revealed at one of the monthly retirement communities. It was one of the smaller projects with several cottages scattered over the grounds and a 20-unit apartment house in the centre.

It was a community centre in the middle of a retirement building, with tables, card tables, and a pool table.

In charge of the grounds of the community was a man who would like to be called Mr. J. Mike Sawyer. He does it a higher class as a teacher and flowers and evergreens, watching over the pool, and looking after the community centre in operation.

He is a man who is brought in to do the work.

Mr. Sawyer, a widower, has a retired apartment of two rooms and a small garden. He is paid a salary of $1,000 a month.

He is a man in the retirement community who is brought in to do the work.

RETIRED LIFE PRESIDENT

But six years ago, he retired from his job as a corporate manager in the Midway.

Things to do before going on vacation:

Navigation: Mark your route ahead of time to avoid dangerous spots to read signs or maps.

Big trip: Limit first day to 300 miles then work up. Stop early.

Most accidents occur between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m.

HEALTH: Plenty of rest and reasonable diet prepare you for the monotony and high speeds of highways. And remember, drinking and driving never mix.

HOUSE CHECKOUT: (Long trip). Stop deliveries (if all milk, papers, etc.) Ask neighbor to remove advertisements. Be sure car and windows are locked. Be sure all heating units are "off". Unplug all electric appliances. Ask police to keep an eye on house.

CAR LOADING: Is an art. Truck - stop heavier items in rear. Distribute weight evenly. Balance the load. Be sure nothing on the back of the car obstruct your rear view. Cardinal McGuigan Stricken to an emergency meeting here Tuesday.

TORONTO (CP) — James Cardinal McGuigan, 70-year-old Archbishop of Toronto, suffered a heart attack at his home early today and is in critical condition, his physicians, Dr. Edward Brock, said today.

Bureau Minister Benson, who announced the new pay package, said increases averaged 10 per cent or 12 per cent. This compares with 6.5 per cent increase granted the same group two years ago. All increases are retroactive to Oct. 1, 1964.

Asked whether the government will consider further increases for postmen in view of the threat of strike action, the minister said in an interview: "No, I don't think so." He raises another Friday were easily as recommended to the treasury board by the civil service commission.

The reaction of the major staff associations and the smaller postal groups was unanimously critical.

Postal branches at Vancouver, Toronto, Kingston, Montreal, Hamilton and Ottawa have either approved strike action or announced plans to take action on strikes or work-to-rule (a slowdown created by following regulations to the letter) progress or hold demonstrations on such moves.

THIEVES DISAPPOINTED

"We're very disappointed," Len Hood, president of the Postal employees association said in an interview. "We made a case for $600 across the board strike action will definitely be discussed at Tuesday's meeting."

A spokesman for the Montreal branch said the increase has not been announced. He said the threat of a strike by 3,500 employees in that city. A carrier's duty to strike if the increase turned out to be inadequate will already and made work men will take a similar vote today.

PLAN STRIKE

Fred Robitaille, Canadian Labor Congress co-ordinator, said he was understood Montreal postmen now planned to strike July 18 and 19. If their demands still were not met a full strike would result. National postal officers said any such decision must await the brotherhood meeting.

Mr. Robitaille said there was "no way of preventing violent strikes" even though they are unconstitutional.

saying only that Rivard had been arrested at 5:00 p.m. "in the vicinity of woodlands near Chateaugay" and that he offered no resistance.

Chateaugay is a south shore suburb opposite Montreal Island, and police there said the cottage was situated in dense forest just outside the town limits, about 100 yards of the nearest road and the same distance from the water.

ARREST TWO OTHERS

A detective who took part in the arrest told reporters later that two men were arrested with narcotic suspect Rivard. Accompanying the him official statement of the capture was a flurry of reports that varied widely on details.

One report quoted an unnamed participant as saying that about 100 heavily-armed police set up in the "cottage" through the trees and took Rivard and two companions by surprise.

Another report said Rivard tried to escape by hitting into the woods, and was captured there. Still another said Rivard and two companions tried to escape aboard a yacht they were in readiness nearby, but were cut off by police boats.

An eyewitness to the arrest, 17-year-old Robin Burns, said himself officers launched an unmarked jetboat motorboat on the lake—on the Woodland Yacht Club where he works.

On their return to the club a few minutes later, the police told Burns that Rivard had been captured nearby.

SURROUNDINGS BY POLICE

"A few heading questions pointed the cabin, which was surrounded by policemen when I arrived," Burns said. "I saw Rivard being taken away in a car."

"Rivard may have been hiding in the area for some time, but I'm certain he was only in the cabin where he was captured for a few days."

The youth quoted one of the policemen as saying the cottage had been under surveillance for a week.

Rivard, 50, had been at large 128 days since he had followed prisoner Andre Durocher over the wall at Bordeaux. Rivard had been awaiting the outcome of proceedings to extradite him to the United States, where he was wanted in connection with a $50,000 dope-smuggling racket.

While at large, he was ordered extradited along with three other men charged jointly with him. The three—Charles Emile Grolen, Jean Gaspon and Raymond Jones—have all recently been handed over to U.S. authorities.

There was no immediate word on whether Rivard would face charges of escaping, extradition, and whether this would affect his extradition.

EXPLORE POSSIBILITIES

Montreal lawyer Pierre Laframboise, who acted for the U.S. government during the extradition hearing, said he and U.S. authorities are "exploring all possibilities" of getting Rivard.

Action Delayed Until After Ottawa Parley

VANCOUVER (CP) — Postal employees' strike action will be delayed until after a meeting of the Postal Workers Brotherhood in Ottawa Tuesday. The brotherhood is composed of the Canadian Postal Employees Association, the Federated Association of Letter Carriers and the Canadian Railway Mail Clerks Federation.

At a mass meeting Sunday, the Vancouver branch of the Postal Workers Brotherhood voted to join the Montreal local of the brotherhood in a strike to end the postal workers' salary increase of $600 a year.

The strike action is expected to last next week. The Victoria branch endorsed the Vancouver vote Sunday.

In other western cities, postal workers are also on strike against a federal announcement granting some 22,000 postal workers a salary increase ranging from $200 to $350 a year.

NEWSPAPER APPROVAL

In Calgary, B.C. province, the vice-president of the Postal Employees Association said any strike in a major city would be sanctioned at Tuesday's meeting in Ottawa, any strike in Vancouver or other cities would be "wildcat strikes."

William Kay, general secretary of the Vancouver branch of the association, leaves for Ottawa Tuesday to discuss the strike.

He warned there could be a lengthy walkout "until a negotiated settlement is reached."

He said the Montreal workers' strike would be "a major factor" in the Quebec and Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto postal workers' strike.

Members of the foreign exchange of the postal workers are joining the strike movement. Toronto postal workers are waiting until after the meeting in Ottawa Tuesday before taking a stand.

At Edmonton, postal workers and railway mail clerks voted to support the strike.

Postal members of the National Employers Association were asked Sunday to vote at a meeting in Toronto.

In Toronto, Edward Pollock, president of the Letter Carriers Association, said he would be in Ottawa Tuesday.

Mr. Cardin said Saturday he hoped to sign Rivard's extradition warrant early this week and he immediately was accused by opposition party spokesmen of trying to "push up" possible links between the Liberals and crime syndicates.

Couple of Good Belts Perk You Up — But, Doc, Five Bloody Marvs??

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two doctors may grimace, but the makers of Doc, a new television series, say the show is not about the world over cheering in booby chorus: "I'll drink to you!"

To wit: A couple of good belts perk you up, naturally, make you more vigilant, more perceptive to your surroundings.

Implying general acceptance of this doctrine has been the lack, heretofore, of science fiction's depiction of the doctor who perks you up.

Enter Dr. Doctor, assistant professor of medicine at the University of California, who says that a couple of good belts perk you up, naturally, make you more vigilant, more perceptive to your surroundings.

Dr. Doctor and his colleagues, after giving eye tests and electroencephalograms to a number of subjects, found that straight tonic juice has the effect of perk you up.

Acute Food Shortages Face India

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri says India is in serious economic trouble and that the situation will deteriorate.

Much of the present trouble, he said Saturday, results from taking the easy way out of past shortages and working more for the future.

The prime minister spoke to the national productivity commission in New Delhi on these subjects:

—India's food shortage, which he said would be "really bad" by September.

—The need for action to avert a foreign exchange crisis.

India, chronically short of food in recent years, now is in an "extremely difficult" position on U.S. aid.

PLANTING DELAYED

Annual monsoon rains have been late, many areas in India. This delays planting and agricultural production.

nesday with attempting robbery and obstruction of justice a year ago to free Rivard on bail.

The Dorion report published last month ago said Rivard is a former contributor to the Liberal party whose associate, Robert Dugan, promised the Liberals $50,000 or $100,000 if Rivard was freed on bail.

Rivard, 50, is wanted in Las Vegas, Texas, on charges of murder-murdering a woman and being a racketeer. He was arrested in the U.S. in 1970 and is now being questioned as well in connection with the murder of a man who was killed in Northern Ontario June 11.

PROMISED SPEED

Mr. Cardin said in a telephone interview from Scott St. Louis he would want to be in approving Rivard's extradition to said Quebec authorities without charges of jailbreaking and say that Rivard is a "buddy prisoner" to clear the way for his speedy transfer to the U.S.

Opposition Leader E. Dionne has commented in his dining of Prince Albert that this move "has all the appearance of a cover-up."

"This latest action is certainly a bit of a 'cover-up' picture," which would have been approved by the efforts of the opposition."

He said the government should try to avoid revealing the fact that it is a "happy escape" from the U.S. jail March 2.

Mr. Cardin said the New Democratic and Social Credit parties were equally critical of an speedy extradition.

SHOULD BE TOLD

"We should be told as the Rivard case is being handled, the contribution of the underworld to the Liberal party and the fact that it is a 'happy escape' from the U.S. jail March 2."

He said NDP Whip Stanley D'Amico is in the U.S. on an alarming part of the "White House" business.

U.S. Judge Finally Retires, Aged 105

PLATTSBURG, Mo. (AP)—Albert B. Alexander, born in Ontario 105 years ago and believed to be the oldest man holding a judicial post in the U.S., has retired as probate judge and magistrate of Clinton County.

Judge Alexander, who left Ontario at an early age and spent his childhood near Oshawa City, Mo., gave ill health as the reason. He asked to be relieved of his duties and Governor Warren E. Hearnes Friday announced appointment of D. B. Burnett to fill out the remaining 18 months of his term.

Alexander was first elected to the post in 1900. He had no opposition in 1902.

Alert and active despite his years, Judge Alexander was in his court until last week.

Magistrate Margaret Young of nearby St. Joseph, Mo., stepped in Judge Alexander's office a few months ago to pay a courtesy call. The clerk was sorry, but the judge was gone for the day.

SHOWS LAWN

"That's good," commented Magistrate Young. "He should be home resting instead of in this hot court house."

"Oh, he isn't resting," replied the clerk. "He went home to mow his lawn."

Last November, the judge had a little finger amputated because of poor circulation.

He said then he neglected the operation because "I didn't want to be shut down for life."

Judge Alexander has had several careers. He entered the University of Missouri when he was 30 years old and was admitted to the bar in 1900.

But instead of serving in the legal field went into education, as superintendent of schools.

He bought the Plattsburg Lease in 1901 and published this paper until 1916. Later he served as postmaster, was elected prosecuting attorney, and had a general law practice until he was elected magistrate.

of Quebec earlier distributed the text of his province's brief, for publication at noon.

PROMISES GRANTS

Mr. Pearson said the federal government is not embarking on just another shared-cost program in supporting medicare, but the federal government "will support provincial medicare plans by means of a fiscal contribution of predetermined size."

He did not say how the size of the federal grant will be determined.

But the prime minister established four criteria on which federal financial help for provincial medicare plans would be based. They are:

Benefits should cover all services by physicians, general practitioners and specialists, and include dental treatment, prescribed drugs and "other important services."

In short, the plans must be comprehensive.

Participation should cover all residents of a province on uniform terms and conditions. "It would hardly be logical to bring a federal contribution into play for plans not aimed at universal coverage."

The provincial plans should be publicly administered, either directly by provincial governments or by agencies established by the provincial governments.

There should be "effective" arrangements between the provinces to ensure full transferability for persons moving from one province to another.

Old Violin

Said to Be Worth $2,000

A Belleville man has recently discovered that a violin he purchased for $600 in 1907 is worth over $2,000 in collection today.

His violin is an original Carlo Antonio Testore, made in Milan, Italy in 1736.

Fred Stone, a violinist, 180 Herchimer Avenue, bought the instrument from Barnett Taylor, a violin teacher in England.

Another violin expert, a friend of Mr. Stone's from Kingston, told the Belleville man that his violin was an antique and could be worth a lot of money.

Then a clipping in Examiner, a U.S. publication for musicians, said that genuine Testore's are worth $2,000.

The violin came also included a certificate of authenticity issued March 30, 1977 by John and Arthur Beare of London.

The certificate shows it is an original Testore.

There were two Testore brothers, Carlo Antonio and Paul Antonio. Paul's violins are now worth about $1,000.

"I plan to hang onto the violin for a while anyway," Mr. Stone said. "These violins are hard to come by and I wouldn't want to part with it right now."

Action Delayed

Association, said upon branches from Oakville to Oshawa support strike action.

"I have asked them to hold off until the levied funds meet and I hope they will."

A. F. Penney, president of the Toronto branch of the Postal Employees' Union, termed the government's offer a slap in the face for clerks and sorters.

The Greater Vancouver walk-out decision was backed, Mr. Key said, by the International Brotherhood of America—the largest union in the province—and the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The Teamsters Union promised support in the event of a strike.

Postal union spokesmen here said letter carriers earn a top rate of $4,200 a year and postal clerks second grade $4,000. Their claim the wages are $1,800 a year less than workers in comparable jobs.

Beach Abuses Bring Charges

PICTON — The Ontario Provincial Police, patrolling county beaches and resort areas, once again had a busy weekend and laid over 20 charges against minors and young adults for having and consuming liquor.

This is an increase over 18 charges the week before.

Most of the offences took place in the Outlet area. However, some of the teenagers were picked up in other places such as North Bay, near Coonsec.

The police report they are taking further steps against the practice of abusing the beaches. Beaches and resorts will be more heavily patrolled in the future.

Most of the charges laid were against youths in the 18 to 25 year age group. Police report the largest percentage of those charged were from the Belleville area.

Provinces Playing Cautiously In Medical Insurance Plans

Medical care insurance will be a top subject at the federal-provincial conference starting at Ottawa today. Existing government programs and attitudes are being discussed in the following way.

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Provincial government approval to medical care insurance is a matter of course from deep involvement to waiting. Some provinces intend to change its present status.

A Cross-Canada Survey by the Ontario Health Services Commission is under way. It is a program running; two have been legislated, but have not yet been operational; one is being set up; and two are to be waiting for what may happen over the Hall report on medical insurance.

The federal government has been playing the cards close to its chest. It has been recommending in the royal commission report of Mr. James Macbratney, the former prime minister of Canada for a government-owned, universal and compulsory program.

The federal government has been playing the cards close to its chest. It has been recommending in the royal commission report of Mr. James Macbratney, the former prime minister of Canada for a government-owned, universal and compulsory program.

The Saskatchewan plan has been in operation since July, 1962, when a temporary "withdrawing of services" by objecting doctors there it into a crisis at the start. Since then, the plan has resulted in widespread but unimpaired success.

The scheme covers a broad range of medical services, including psychiatric, drugs and dental work as well as hospital care. The plan was initiated in the office-recently initiated "home care" of drug coverage would be provided should the plan be extended to cover the homebound patients.

All residents of Saskatchewan must be enrolled, now, annuals after three months there. The cost in 1962 was $23,000,000, or $20.33 per capita. Premiums are $12.12 a year for single persons and $24 for families. These cover about $5,000,000 of the cost, with the remaining $17,000,000 coming from half of a one-per-cent "health and welfare" tax.

Alberta's program consists of the supervision of plans run by the private sector, plus government subsidization of premiums for persons with medical needs. The subsidies amounted to $2,300,000 in the 1964-65 fiscal year and the government estimates they could go to $6,000,000 in the 1965-66 fiscal year.

For organizations with approved carriers are approved if they offer the type of standard medical package endorsed by the government at rates no higher than specified treatments. In some cases may not be withheld from approval on the ground of his health condition.

Maximum premiums are $65 for single persons, $110 for couples and $150 for couples with dependent persons are covered by co-insurance. About 20,000 persons are covered by co-insurance. About 20,000 persons are covered by co-insurance.

Provision R. C. Manning has held heavy emphasis on the voluntary nature of the plan. He has said that the plan is a state-to-state arrangement, not a federal-provincial one.

The British Columbia scheme adopted this year, is one of the most advanced in the country. It is a purely voluntary and subsidizes low-income persons, but it differs in that a government-controlled agency administers the insurance carrier.

Originally, the government's proposal was to operate through a government-owned agency. When one of these showed interest, the government with the cooperation of the B.C. Medical Association set up a government-owned, universal and compulsory program.

It will allow ordinary and subsidized insurance, though the government still normal subscriber proposals they may be just as well off to pay a private plan if they already in one. Ordinary rates are $2 a person per month, or $24 for families with three or more. For those with no taxable income it will be half this, and three-quarters for those with taxable income up to $1,000.

The range of treatment is wide including medical and limited chiropractic, orthopedic (eye correction) and naturalistic services.

Private plans are not affected except that some are expected to lose subscribers to BCMP. Among those who want broader coverage at slightly higher cost, BCMP probably also will take over many high-risk clients, since the plan is a state-to-state arrangement, not a federal-provincial one.

published one-on-one royal commission study on health services last fall.

Quebec's position in relation to a country-wide plan is, at the moment, enigmatic. Premier Lesage has not commented on the Hall report but has stated that medical insurance is a major problem of his government.

Last April he appointed a five-man legislative committee to do the research. The committee is expected to report by the end of the year. The start of 1966. The committee is expected to report by the end of the year.

Quebec is key? Premier Robitaille has stated that the Ontario arrangement is a model which he is now conducting a little-

HAWAIIAN MEAT BALLS

The special idea I have for you today reaches its peak performance on a hot buffet table. Proud owners of chafing dishes take note: You can serve this from them. Or it may be served from an ordinary plate at a family meal which is what I did.

It is the popular sweet & sour combination, this time dressing up your meat balls. These will steal the thunder from far more expensive meat dishes you may decide to provide.

Slicing the 1" meat balls requires patience, so all down and heat to re-heat or TV or your child's reading assignment while you wait with your hands.

Home Brew Perfume Brings Tears to Their Eyes

DEAR ANN LANDERS — As I type this letter tears are streaming down my cheeks. No I have not been killed. It's worse than that. For the fourth time today, the woman whose desk is next to mine has sprayed herself with the world's most stinking perfume. She proudly boasts that she has created the perfume herself by combining three different scents and adding a bit of vanilla extract.

I'm not the only one who suffers. The woman on the other side of me gets nauseated after every spraying. Right now she's as green as grass.

The thing that burns me up is that the sprayer went to the ladies' room and asked that cliche smothering her prohibited because it made her sick.

At this moment I'm mending and my head is beginning to ache. I can't breathe. And I think something should be done. What do you suggest? — VICTIM.

DEAR VIC — You could dramatize the problem by falling down on the floor and calling for an oxygen pump the next time the perfume lady sprays — but I'd like to suggest a more practical and realistic approach. Tell the woman you are allergic to her perfume and if she settles for a day behind her ears and not spray the office you'd appreciate it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I am a high school student who will be a senior next fall. Please tell me what I can do to make my last year joyful. If I don't get asked for a date before I graduate I'll just die.

I'm not too tall or too fat or ugly. Kids like me — both girls and boys — but my trouble is I'm the pal, the big sister. During the last month of school three guys asked me who to take to the junior prom. When the four were asked I couldn't stand it any longer so I answered in a half-joking way, "What's the matter with me?" The fellow laughed and said, "You've got to be kidding."

My best I got off to a bad start by playing baseball and football with the guys in the neighborhood when I was in grade school. I quit last year when my mother said it was disgraceful. I need your help and I need it now — PLATONIC.

DEAR PLATONIC — I'm glad you finally gave up the suicidal routine. What fellow wants to get romantic with a third baseman?

Start the new year by lifting one ally at a time to your house to study — or just to talk. A platonic friendship is often the best springboard for a truly meaningful relationship. Remember that love is friendship that catches fire.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My cousin considers herself a housewife. She always thought she was plenty far out and just plain basic. Recently she did something that has the family drilled into three camps.

My dear cousin (her name) is graduating from nursing school soon. She is also planning to marry in a few months. My invitation for graduation arrived in the mail yesterday. Attached was a note saying, "Stuck for a gift idea? Here's help. Go to the linen department of such-and-such department store and ask for Miss Williams. She has the gift all ready. It is a set of men's-grooming towels. The price is $7.98. Thank you in advance."

What is your opinion of this? — ON THE SPOT.

DEAR ON — To use your words I would describe it as "plenty far out and just plain basic." Ignore the instructions and send whatever you wish.

No teenager is as confident as it appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed manila envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

MODERN SIBERIAN CITY — This is a street scene in Novosibirsk, a modern Russian city on the western edge of the central Siberian Plateau. Most people associate Siberia with wilderness, cold weather, labor camps and salt mines but today it is a land of construction and a treasure chest of minerals. Water power, Siberia's key resource will open a new era of industrialization in the Soviet Union when harnessed.

SIBERIA IN JUNE — This is a view of the flat-Siberian wilderness in June with the remains of snow in the background. Most people would imagine that all of Siberia looks like this but new cities have been and are being created, some of them the most modern in the Soviet Union. Salt Mines, Labor Camps Untrue Picture of Siberia

John Best, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow, has completed a 14,000-mile tour of Soviet Asia. In this story he describes his general impressions of economic developments in Siberia.

By JOHN BEST

IRKUTSK, Siberia (CP) — Most foreigners, and a good many Russians, associate Siberia with labor camps and salt mines, wilderness and cold weather. It's a weekly industrial picture, Siberia today is a land throbbing with energy, restless as the mighty rivers that roll northward across its wide breadth to the Arctic.

New cities have been and are being created, some of them the most modern in the Soviet Union.

Siberia's great treasure chest of minerals — diamonds, coal, platinum, copper, zinc — is being unlocked. Water power, counted on as the key resource that will open a new era of industrialization in Siberia but the Soviet Union as a whole, is being harnessed.

Pulling from European Russia to this city of 400,000 on the Trans-Siberian railroad 2,000 miles east of Moscow, you see the cities that typify the mightiness of the land—the Volga and Kama in Europe, the Irtysh, Ob, Yenisei, Angara.

You also see the great closed cities of the industrial Urals and western Siberia — Sverdlovsk, once called Ekaterinburg, where the Russian royal family was exterminated in 1918, Omsk, Novosibirsk, Krasno-

There are stretches of rich-looking farmland, especially around Novosibirsk, breaking the general pattern of woods and water.

And there is Irkutsk itself, halfway between the southern Urals and the Pacific, an industrial and transportation centre, half of an area that has large deposits of coal, iron, copper, zinc, mica and huge hydro resources.

Irkutsk is surrounded by low forested hills, with snow-capped mountains of the south and Mongolia beyond them. It is 40 miles down the Angara from Lake Baikal, where the great river rises. Baikal, elegant and jewel-like in a contemporary shroud of light mist, is 333 miles deep and, the Russians say, is the largest fresh water lake in the world by volume.

Irkutsk was founded in 1622 as a Cossack fort. Like many parts of Siberia, the area around Irkutsk was once a place of banishment for criminals and political prisoners.

The city has a flavor all its own, combining the traditional of a frontier settlement with the modern look of an established community.

BEING AT MIDNIGHT

One Sunday night, after checking into our hotel, I found I was out to sample the balmy June air. It was midnight but on the main street people were still walking along at the tops of their voices.

It was soon evident that they are less carefree, more relaxed and informal than those living in the crowded cities of western Russia. And their character is typified by their mayor, an outspoken, warm and generous man who, given a tongue-lash, could have been the mayor of a city in Canada's West.

But if the pace of life is less hurried, the development of Siberia is dynamic. With only eight per cent of the Soviet population, Siberia still soon be gathering co-ordinates of all investment capital allotted under the national budget.

Millions of rubles are going into hydro projects. On the Angara and Yenisei rivers above, more than twice Canada's present output are planned.

Largely completed is a 4,500-kilowatt dam at Bratsk, the world's biggest in terms of installed capacity, and a 3,000-kilowatt dam at Krasnoyarsk.

Plans are being made to tie all of Siberia's hydro stations into one big electrical system on grid, which would confer immense benefits from the standpoint of efficient power use. And a long-range project is the idea of tying the European and Siberian systems together into a huge national grid.

An example of the development is a big aluminum plant

15 miles from Bratsk. A Canadian delegation that visited the factory recently calculated that it is or will be bigger than the MOORE, VOLTZ, one at Kitimat, B.C., with 500 jobs either in production or in being installed.

The Canadians got a distinct impression that the U.S.S.R. will soon launch a major invasion of the world aluminum market.

People are still a prime resource in this vast region, the main incentive was paid to workers who came here from other parts of the Soviet Union. These means up to 40 per cent above long-range one. Night now we are more concerned with solving extra duty to the shipping season there.

The season has already been lengthened by one to two months at some ports, to a total maximum of 20 months a year, chiefly due to stepped-up ice breakers.

Still there are many who don't last.

"Without incentive, I believe all would go," says Aron Glush, construction engineer for the Bratsk dam and a nearby industrial development. Bratsk is a 400,000-house area. The reasons many leave are the same as in Canada's North. We're turnover is as high as 70 per cent in a year: inability to cope with a frontier environment; feelings of isolation and boredom; dislike of the hot, dark winter.

GETTING WARMER Temperatures that drop as low as 67 below in winter are problems in the northern reaches of Siberia. But there is a great war-ming trend which, if it continues, could have long-term favorable consequences. Scientists say the mean temperature has risen slightly in recent centuries. Measurements have shown that the permafrost has receded 65 miles in the last 300 years, and in the Arctic some pastures that once were locked in ice all year round are beginning to open up a bit in summer.

The climatic change has sparked new interest in a long-cherished dream — a northern sea route connecting the Atlantic and Pacific.

"It's a definite possibility," said an official of the Polar Institute in Leningrad, "but a

Last year ships made 2,000 landings on drifting ice fields to take soundings and help chart their movements. This year they will make 3,000. The northern sea route, if ever materialized, would permit a ship from Leningrad to sail around Scandinavia to Japan, around the Bering Strait to Alaska, across the Bering Strait to the tip of Siberia, graphs are taped to the floor.

RUGS ARE FAKED Real rugs on TV stands sell would attract the wheeled cameras, so full - sized photos across the top of Siberia, graphs are taped to the floor.

Canada, added and shotted by Seagrans, and in 1965 by the beautiful Mississauga golf course has established itself as one of the top golf tournament nations of the world.

The Mississauga course where in the dim distant past Indians of the old St. Lawrence Valley of the Iroquois of palefaced with tomahawks were huddled to replace the drive, drew the accolades of the world's best and most talented golfers.

It has been stated by those who ride the tournaments trail that most of the golden boys of golf have more complaints than a hydropneumatic convention. Conditions of courses, climate, puttings, galleries, marshals, etc. are on the beef agenda.

"These," said a PGA official, "were potently missed both at Mississauga this year and at Pinegrove in 1964. This situation, plus $100,000 made for a wonderful field. The Canadian Open has made the grade."

"Right now," Jim Gaglian, PGA tournament manager, told reporters, "the Canadian Open ranks with such events as the Colonial, Western Open and Thunderbird on the second level just below the big money Masters, PGA, U.S. Open and the British Open."

He paid little tribute to the Mississauga course. "It is tremendous," he said, "I must be because I've heard no complaints and that's unusual. There's no reason why it shouldn't be a great course. After all, it's a national championship."

The 1965 Open drew the best field of the year yet it falls to rank with the big four.

"There's one good reason why the Canadian Open has drawn all the big stars," said Gaglian, "because the purse here is big but these guys pass up big purses and still play in a relatively poor British Open."

"Palmer and Nicklaus have worldwide distribution of their products and an appearance in Britain or Canada is a lot for them. Their distributors can bring a lot of pressure to bear."

But the biggest purse and the biggest field won't guarantee the Canadian Open ranking with the four major events, Gaglian said.

"You've got to have patience first," he explained. "The British Open is an old event played at the birth of golf and Palmer and Nicklaus play it a lot of publicity by playing it. It takes time to acquire that reputation."

"You need organization and promotion," he said. "The Canadian Open is getting as much publicity in the U.S.A. as most of the regular tour spots, maybe a little more. The most important thing would be television exposure in the U.S.A."

"You must always have the best available courses because these guys won't play on a lumpy-dumpy course. Then your field and purse must always be top drawers. But that's no problem in Canada."

He said he didn't think golf fans on the whole were ready for a little prestige event. "You'd diminish the prestige of each one, like baseball did with all-star games."

He said that Canadians should be quite satisfied with the success of this national championship. "Charles Brumfman (Seagrans') won't stop until he's made the event the best." It is progress it is quite true.

And the San Diego amateur, who played at Las Vegas, Nev., feels he never could have pulled it off. He had made a slight alteration in his putting stroke at the St. Paul Open three weeks ago.

Lombanks, Trudeau Win

By ROBERT NEFFELLA
MADOC—A seventh ladies home-run by Rick Locke broke a 3-2 deadlock and gave Belle Villa Trudeau Motors an important 5-3 victory over Madoc on Saturday night. The win kept alive Trudeau's hopes of nabbing the fourth and final playoff spot.

The game could have been won by either team until Locke's late hit, which gave the home team a 5-3 lead. Locke's hit was the first in the first and second innings.

Trudeau's lineup was led by Brian Gray left of the bat with a single, and Larry Griffin, who had a home run in the first inning, scored the winning run.

Hungaria Defeats Parsons

The top-leading Hungary squad dumped Belleville Parsons 5-3 in a Kingston District Soccer League game played in Kingston Saturday.

Toronto next game will be against the Italy Canadians, at 8:30 p.m. at 150 St. George.

The lower Peter Crowls was stopped in the clear early and shortly after the winners hit for two quick goals, by Joe Weil and Gordon.

Parsons fought back and Bonington grabbed a free kick at 1:25 and broke through in a score with a hard drive.

Seconds later, Kovacs led Hungary and Weil scored his second goal for a 3-1 score at half time.

Bellefleur played wide open in the second half in an attempt to overcome the deficit and with the visitors pressing play became very rough. Parsons missed great chances but Hungary to make it 4-1, completed Jankos up the corner to 5-1.

Two fights broke out in the late stages and after Parsons' Joe Jankos and Alan Brown hit Hungary's goalmouth, he was injured in the final minute prevented further outbreaks.

PARIS (AP) — Ron Clarke won home to Australia after a 24-day tour through the United States and Europe that left a trail of world records and set off new chains of thought about the future of the sport.

Billy Mills of the U.S. marines, who started the Clarke record by winning the 10,000-meter race in the Tokyo Olympics, said he was "completely stunned" to see a new 10,000-meter record in only one week.

Clarke himself is more modest, saying he was "lucky" to set a new 10,000-meter record in only one week.

"It's true that times are different," he said. "We're thinking different. We're thinking different. We're thinking different."

Clarke's record was set in the 10,000-meter race in the Tokyo Olympics, where he won in 31:10.2.

Clarke's record was set in the 10,000-meter race in the Tokyo Olympics, where he won in 31:10.2.

Indians Oppose Segregation At N.B. School

PERTH, N.B. (CP)—A visiting member of the Tobique Native Indian reserve says that the Malisee Indian population here does not want the segregation imposed last week by a rate payers meeting.

A group of 100 reservists would go to one last week to ban Indian children from Perth's public school where the school reopened in the fall. There were few objections.

Charles Paul told a meeting last week that the school would be closed to Indian children.

"I will settle for no less than to see our children return to school at Perth. Once we give it, our people will be back 100 years in time."

The meeting deferred decision on whether the population of 500 Indians would permit the children to return to the school should Perth reservists receive their decision to ban the Indian children.

70 VOTE AGAIN

The Malisee said they will wait the outcome of a special meeting next Monday night when reservists will be back 100 years in time.

"The decision deferred decision on whether the population of 500 Indians would permit the children to return to the school should Perth reservists receive their decision to ban the Indian children."

Boys Rescued From Drifting Rafts on Lake

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Police Monday rescued Wade Dennis, 4, of Miami, and his brother, after he had drifted about a half mile into Lake Ontario in an inflatable boat.

The boy and some other children were found on the beach near here and were brought in by the water police. A rescue barge pulled them into the lake. The other children were able to jump off before the boat drifted away. They told the boys' mother, who called the police.

Nationalist Defects to Red China

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China announced today that Li Tsung-shan, acting president of the Nationalist China, had fled to the mainland, reported today.

It was the most important nationalist defection to the Chinese Communist since Chiang Kai-shek's flight in 1949. Li was China's vice president for six years before the Nationalist left the mainland.

The New China news agency said the 76-year-old former soldier-statesman arrived by special plane with his wife, Kuo Hsueh-shan, ending 15 years of self-imposed exile in the United States.

Premier Chou En-lai and other leaders are expected to give a high official of the Red regime.

In an arrival statement Li described the U.S. as "our foreign enemy."

Liberal Youth Shows Interest In Belleville

Job opportunities in equine literature may leave a lot of interest in the city to be desired but most of the youth of the African country show no lack of initiative when it comes to trying to get ahead.

Take, for instance, the example of William D. Tugbue of Harbel, Liberia, who would like to come to Canada to continue training and find himself a writer.

The initiative comes in the manner in which the young African was able to start up a correspondence with a Canadian.

He thought might be in a position to assist him.

Some months ago the name of William D. Tugbue was appeared in an international magazine in connection with a life insurance advertisement.

Braves On Warpath; Win 7 Straight

Four Homers

By MIKEAT CRAIG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ken Johnson, who once ripped off St. Louis' 1968 and set a new baseball pace in Baltimore, was the star of the night as the Montreal Expos beat the New York Yankees 10-4 in the first game of a doubleheader at Yankee Stadium.

Johnson recorded Milwaukee's fourth straight win as he hit four home runs in the first three innings of the game. The Yankees' only hit came in the eighth inning when they scored three runs on a double play.

Johnson's first homer came in the first inning when he hit a two-run shot to left field. He followed that up with a three-run homer in the second inning and a two-run homer in the third inning. He finished the game with a four-run homer in the seventh inning.

Qualify Tomorrow

Ontario Amateur Fields 148

TORONTO (CP) — A close battle for the four Ontario titles was fought in the first round of the Ontario Amateur Golf Championships at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

A total of 148 players, narrowed from 274 in six regional qualifying rounds, are off in a stroke play qualifying round Wednesday to reduce the field to 64. The survivors then will compete in the final round of the tournament with two rounds Thursday and two more Friday.

The qualifying round will decide the four-man team representing Ontario in the inter-provincial championships in Winnipeg Aug. 14.

The team is made up of the four best scorers after 36 holes of the Ontario Open, staged last weekend in Milton, and the Ontario amateur qualifying round winners.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method
by GOLF'S 4-TIME MAJOR WINNER
A GOOD WAY TO ADD DISTANCE

Experienced golfers who feel they need some distance on the tee should look closely at today's new book by the author of the famous drawings of Tony Lawson's golfing technique. This new book, "The Arnold Palmer Method," is a complete guide to the power-on-swing method of golfing. It is a big step up on the downswing.

You will note, in No. 1, Tony's address position finds both the hips and shoulders square to the target line. In No. 2 his shoulders have tilted forward on the 90 degree, yet his hips have turned only slightly.

In No. 3 the ball has been struck. Tony's hips have already turned much further to the left than they are in No. 2. This is the key to the power-on-swing method. The drawings clearly indicate the prime source of Tony's explosive power — on-swinging the shoulders. The result is a tremendous release of clubhead speed during impact.

At The Open

Funny game that golf. In four days of play in the Canadian Open at Midland, Gene Littler had left his lead and finished 10th, 20 miles of additional mauling.

Here it was, the final round and the final putt and that 20 miles didn't count a thing. All that meant anything was five feet of slightly wobbly forearm.

At a time like that, a five foot putt looks like the distance between two and three feet in Saskatchewan. Littler was in a hole. Nicklaus had done all he could do. He lit up the putt, took a few practice swings, initiated for a prayer and plopped the ball into the hole.

Nicklaus didn't look disappointed—he can afford not to. He had a 100 per cent shot, shook the victor's hand and congratulated him on his fine tournament.

Outside of watching Littler and watching Nicklaus hitting impossible distances, the only thing that was a surprise was the play of rookie Mike Bess.

Bess played with the poise of a veteran and the determination of a Hogan. On the 17th, he drove came to rest under the tree of a lone evergreen tree. Undaunted, the rookie drove a club, held it at the bottom of the shaft, and chucked it. The ball came out of the hole, rolled down the green, and was in the hole. He had hit it a yard and ball the ball on a slippery down-sloping green.

The putt was backed very close to the short line.

Expect Dust Nuisance Over In September

PICTON (Staff)—Residents of the town and district are hopefully looking forward to September.

Officials at Lake Ontario College plant, located just east of town, said that installations at the plant will not cause dust nuisance which has been the cause of many complaints.

In a statement to one of the complainants, summer visitor J. W. Wright, a Toronto manufacturer, R. D. McLean for the firm states that a great deal of being done at the plant to make it dust free. One item which is going into operation now is equipped with the filter and electrostatic precipitator are available anywhere. It will remove 75 percent of the dust from its stack. Our other new filter which have been in operation since 1956, are now being equipped with electrostatic precipitators. The installation is expected to be completed some time in September.

"These dust collectors are of the most recent design and will be installed at a cost of over $50,000. I think that most people are aware that there is no dust in the air from the cement plant. It is our intention, however, to operate the plant in such a way as to remove any source of dust nuisance and hope that in a relatively short time we will be dust free."

Mr. Leach claims that while the dust which comes from a ton-mile radius may not kill people, it has resulted in a number of drivers further south in the fact that it is a great nuisance for many residents as well as for the natural beauty of the countryside.

Federal Offer

the plan can be in operation by July 1, 1961.

The federal offer, as outlined by Mr. Pearson, seeks to put health care on the same kind of footing as the seven-year-old national hospital insurance program.

Like hospital insurance, there would be no additional cost on such but rather a series of 10 provincial plans financed in part by federal contributions and operating with local guidelines set down by Ottawa. The medical care guidelines, as set down by Mr. Pearson, total $100 million.

"Any provincial plan must cover all citizens, and must be financed by general taxation, in which the total royal contribution would be $100 million, $50 million, $25 million, $12.5 million, $6.25 million, $3.125 million, $1.5625 million, $0.78125 million, $0.390625 million, $0.1953125 million, $0.09765625 million, $0.048828125 million, $0.0244140625 million, $0.01220703125 million, Winter Onset New Burden For Drought-hit Australia

By ROBERT COLEMAN
KFB-FR Correspondent

MELBOURNE (AP)—The onset of winter in Australia poses an added burden for farmers who have suffered drought through one of the worst droughts in the country's history. It is the first winter since 1944, and in some parts it is the most severe in 50 years.

Thousands of head of sheep and cattle have died during the rainless months, and with winter clothing in, the losses are expected to go much higher.

The worst affected areas are in New South Wales, parts of Queensland in central Australia, and some parts of Victoria.

J. G. Udale, New South Wales conservation minister, and his staff are already heading out $10,000,000 Australian ($24,000,000) in wheat, livestock, drought replanting and beekeeping.

ESTIMATES LOSS

Udale estimated the losses could go as high as $100,000,000 ($270,000,000) to $200,000,000 ($480,000,000) for the year.

The worst drought in the history of New South Wales is a drought of little help to drought-stricken areas. The weather, however, was now in some places where it had been recorded—already is taking a toll.

Many big landowners have sold out most of their livestock in the last months. In parts of central Australia, where the drought has been recorded—already is taking a toll.

Royal Dressmaker's Sheaths Highlight London Fashions

By LYNN EDMUNDS

LONDON (Reuters) — British fashion designers have turned a strong dash of sex, added a dash of sophistication and poured their style models into a form-fitting tube-like creation.

Royal dressmaker Norman Hartnell produced the biggest fashion explosion on the first day of the fall collections Tuesday.

His exotic, undulating sheath dresses crackled with embroidery, with lace or bouclé, with high-necked, outlining the crystal chandeliers in his mirrored Mayfair salon.

Most dramatic form-sweeping dresses were his "Tureen" models. One, in deep ivory printed wool, fell from wide shoulders and jewel-encrusted belt slits, to mould the figure from neck to knee.

A tall gown in gold satin and lace had halting sleeves caught into the wide, sheer, shimmery skirt, which ebbed completely with pearls.

Hartnell's coats and dresses echoed the same tube line in black and jewel-colored tweeds.

A dandling checked coat, in marigold and brown, fell almost from wide, jet shoulders and high collar. Its partner trousers had broad trim around the cuffs in yellow, brown and orange.

Imposing On Relatives Major Cause of Friction

DEAR ANN LANDERS: — I have two children and I'm expecting my third in a few weeks. The problem is my sister Vera.

Vera has been married 15 years but she has no children. Three years ago Vera and her husband moved out of the state. She has come home quite often to help out when any of us had new babies and when Mima was sick.

Lately she's been writing such remarks as, "Little ones wear us out. They make me nervous." Today she wrote, "God know what I was doing when I'd didn't give you any children. I don't think I could take it the way I am."

I have the feeling she doesn't want to take care of my family when I go to the hospital and she's preparing me for the ordeal. I feel it is my sister's Christian duty to help me out. Please tell her so. — TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED: — Christian duty my eye. Just because a woman is childless doesn't mean she's obliged to be a nurse or a maid for her ailing. Imposing on relatives causes more trouble in this world than my five problems combined and I am foregoing about it.

DEAR ANN: — My husband started with his company as a salesman. He has advanced steadily and was named eastern regional sales manager three years ago. Last week he was promoted to general sales manager and named vice-president.

The first question our two sons (ages 12 and 13) asked was, "Does this mean you will get a raise in salary?" My husband answered, "Yes." "Well," the boys both said, "that means we should get a raise in our allowances." My husband said, "How do you figure?" The younger boy replied, "This should allow, if things are going they should be satisfied with Tim. If there is a lot of money around they should be able to do it. We don't know how to handle this. Help!!! — CRISIS IN SUBURBIA.

DEAR CRISIS: — It would be just deadly to increase the allowances. Ask the boys what extra chores they would like to take on to merit the increase.

Explain that Dad's raise in pay is not a gift, it's a reward for past performance and compensation for additional responsibility.

Too many poor little rich kids have enough trouble without adding the burden of king-sized allowances which are handed to them just for breathing. Please don't do this awful thing to your children.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: — My husband didn't have a dime in his name when I married him. I helped him get started and taught him most of what he knows. Now we are well off financially.

The problem is he has a dual personality — one for show and one for me. He is so sweet when others are present it is delectable. When there's no audience to play to he makes insulting remarks or shuts up like a clam.

I am attractive, intelligent, educated, talented and a fine mother. Don't tell me to talk to him because he is always right and I am always wrong. Any suggestions? — FED UP.

DEAR FED — I am not going to suggest that you talk to him because your letter spells out how you talk to him, which is part of your problem.

You both should talk to someone else, preferably a clergyman or a counsellor recommended by your physician.

If excessive drinking is wrecking your health, or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholist" sending with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mother's Helper

IF FREQUENT NIGHT-MARERS are a problem to your child, share the following hints about Ann's TV program.

WEEP NO MORE MY LADY Yours truly is probably the biggest cry baby in the world when it comes to reading columns so of course when I received the following letter from D.V.R. I thought "HAL! Well see about that!"

Well, I still can't quite believe or understand it. I peeked and sliced two whole onions (I'm sure a little lower the lid, I didn't actually shoot a single tear).

Now three of us have read it with one or two onions, with pretty much the same result: no real tears. Do you suppose she could possibly have some thing here? I'd be delighted if a few of you would give it a test and let me know what you think before I say too much about this amazing possibility. Read Dianne's letter for yourself.

Read Dianne's TV given a sweetening solid peeling onion, do not cut off the root and of the often, just peel back the skin and slice down to it (then dispose of the root entirely). Remember you will not cry. — Doreen.

INSIDE PROTECTION Dear Susanna: When winding up wool from a shawl or making a tiny ball of a large loose one, I like to wind it onto a moth ball as a hedge against "barbering" wool. — Doreen.

STOPS SLIPPERY SOLES Dear Susanna: Many of the new shoes now are made with poles and heels of a very slippery material. This can be dangerous both for older people and for young children when they come in contact with slippery floors during the holiday season. I had some success by taping small strips of adhesive across the sole and heel. By the time the adhesive wears off, a bit of a rough adhesive surface is a built up on the exposed area, and the danger of sliding is appreciably lessened. — Mrs. J. Lind.

Refrigeration Imperative When Feeding Lot of People

By JEAN SHARP
OF MRS. BODLEY'S EDITOR

TORONTO (CP)—A picnic is an event which is always a tragedy when warm summer weather and picnic foods combine to give food poisoning a 2 to 1 or a 10 to 1 odds.

Refrigeration is the key to preventing trouble, says Mrs. J. Douglas Bodley, municipal director of the Milk Commission of Toronto.

"It sometimes takes organization, if you are preparing food for a lot of people. But it is imperative that it be refrigerated. Any protein food, mayonnaise, salad dressing—they're perfect breeding grounds for the growth of bacteria which cause food poisoning."

"The contamination can be there and you are not even aware of it. The growth of bacteria which is harmful. And they won't grow unless food is left unrefrigerated."

Storing food in a cool place in the basement or kitchen is not good, says Mrs. Bodley. "It must be kept in the refrigerator, even if that means you have to take other things out temporarily, and rearrange everything."

Mrs. Bodley suggests that if you are making large quantities of a cold dish such as potato salad, you should keep individual refrigerators cool while you work. Leave the potatoes in the refrigerator while you chop the celery. Then when your salad is finished you don't have a long wait while the whole salad bowl cools through.

CAN EAT ANYTHING

Because of the efficiency of modern refrigeration, there is no reason to avoid any particular foods in the summer, as long as you handle them all carefully, Mrs. Bodley says. It is no longer necessary to allow meats to cook before you refrigerate them.

SANDWICHES ITALIAN STYLE

It takes courage to carry out some of my ideas that crop up in the course of a week's work. We had guests invited for a Sunday dinner. They were retired university president and his Danish doctor. And some serious manipulating this became a garden supper with finger food—and bless them, they enjoyed it.

Cold roast beef is a precious commodity that must not be slighted, and I have made it into a lovely hot sandwich for you to serve in your garden. Or, inside in your dining-room from your chafing dish if you like, you can serve it for a late snack. Teen-agers will love it.

In a large shallow frying pan mix together: 1/2 lb. bouillon cube, water, tomato paste, vinegar, salt, crushed garlic, hot garlic salt, brown sugar, covered, for 1/2 hour. During last 5 minutes add slices of roast beef to heat.

At serving time, dip the matching slices of crusty bread, but beef and hot sauce, into the sauce. If desired, cut the slices in half for dainty eating, but there are no slippies to eat. NOTE.

If you want to feature these as the main meat course, double the amounts and make 10 sandwiches. Add generous relish tray with dill, capers, carrot sticks, ripe olives and radishes, and a generous toss of salad including celery and olive, sliced green peppers and tomatoes moistened with Italian French dressing.

WATCH WIG COLOR
EDMONTON (CP)—The first wig a woman buys should be the color of her own hair, says wig consultant Evelyn Haas of New York. Such a wig is more versatile, she says, and a woman avoids the need to replace her make-up for a new hair color.

ITALIENNE REEF SANDWICHES (to serve 3):
NOTE:
Do not be tempted to change color.

Latest Hats Make Talk Impossible

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—Hat designers appeared Monday to have succeeded where hats and heads have failed for years—they've found a humane way of stopping a woman from talking.

A show of autumn and winter hats, designed by the Incorporated Society of London Fashion Designers, produced two darning muzzlers for mullins.

Intentional or otherwise, these two hats would seem to make conversation extremely difficult, if not impossible, of the wearers. The owners might talk, but it's highly doubtful she could be heard.

Maiford No. 1 was modelled by Barbara Becker. The top part was of pastel mink and the bottom part—covering the mouth—of thick brown velvet, a Western adaptation of the Eastern yashmak.

Once she put the hat off Barbara was asked if she felt inhibited conversationally.

"Definitely," was her reply. Muzzler No. 2 was called Turkish Delight. Fashioned in thick printed brocade, the top portion resembled a polished German helmet of the First World War. To this was attached a yashmak that fell to the wearer's shoulders, a real slinger if you ever saw one.

The question remains, of course, will women pay money for a style that will eliminate all communication? Or, should a husband buy one, will his mate wear it?

U.C.W. Meetings

PLAINFIELD U.C.W. PLAINFIELD—Mrs. C. Gibson opened her home for the July meeting of the U.C.W. with an attendance of 13 members.

The president, Mrs. C. Hall, opened the meeting with prayer.

The devotional, based on "Courage," was in charge of Mrs. H. Shelly.

The Bible Study was conducted by Rev. O. Southall, in the form of a questionnaire.

A solo was given by Mrs. A. Ditts. A reading, "What it means to be a member," was given by Mrs. E. Emerson.

The offering was dedicated by Mrs. H. Harrison. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee and a social hour enjoyed.

The August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Treverton.

Campers Hold Bear at Bay

WILL GIVE UP FAMILY IF RAISE DENIED—Toronto postman Clifford Amiro, 41, says he and his wife will separate and give their four children to a church or welfare agency unless his union gets the raise it's asking. He says he can't support the household in a "decent fashion" on his $4,380 annual salary. Postal workers' unions are seeking a $600-a-year wage increase. The federal government has offered $300 to $350. The Amiro children, from left: Julie, 6, Cathy, 6, Bonnie, 5, and Mark, 4. (CP Wirephoto)

CAMPBELLFORD—Two Campbellford men and a small boy had a frightening experience with a bear at Lake Opeongo over the weekend. H. J. Taylor and son Ross with grandson James returned to their tent from fishing to find a huge bear on their table in the tent. The bear had eaten the groceries and when surprised carried off a cooler containing their fish, and large block of ice and dumped it in the woods. The bear offered no escape because it facing the tent the bear investigated the boat, going from there to another tent nearby. It ripped a great hole in this tent, pulled it over a 14-year-old girl who had been sleeping and devoured two loaves of bread and other groceries.

Coming back to the tent of the Taylors it stood in the door. Meanwhile a fire had been made and with a flashlight shining in its eyes the bear hesitated but stood growling and gnashing its teeth. Mr. Taylor and Ross Taylor stayed alert all night, on with an axe and the other with a hatchet. By the sound of its growling the bear never seemed to be more than a few feet away.

Next morning it had disappeared in the thicket. It was reported the exciting episode to the Forest Ranger of the area.

Reporting the incident, the Taylors said it is quite a danger of the situation there were humorous moments as well.

Graham's 'Record of Integrity' Promises Exchange Improvement

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Stock Exchange is in the process of cleaning up its public image following criticism at the hearings of the royal commission on Windfall.

And the "demonstrated record of integrity" of L. Gordon Graham, exchange president, promises an up-graded stock exchange, says Babson's Reports in its latest bulletin.

But the major test of the stock exchange's efforts to raise its standards lie in the area of primary distribution, says Babson's in its investment counselling bulletin.

Primary distribution, the means of survival for some stock brokers and dealers, is the selling of treasury shares of exploration companies through the facilities of the stock exchange.

By this process, an under-writer buys a block of shares from the treasury of a small oil or mining company at a fixed price. He then sells them to the public at the best price he can.

OFTEN ABUSED
One criticism of this is that an underwriter may get a block of 100,000 shares at its cents a share from a company and sell them to the public at 15 or 20 cents.

The recent Windfall royal commission showed that many abuses were associated with this system and the attorney general's select committee on securities legislation said the Toronto Stock Exchange should relinquish its supervision of primary distribution.

Babson's says the limitations the stock exchange volunteers to place on primary distribution will be a good test of its efforts at reform.

At a press conference last month, the exchange president said he doubted that the exchange would yield supervision of primary distribution, although he hinted that there might be modifications in the present system.

Falling Pole Pierces Woman's Skull

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York secretary remained in critical condition today with her skull pierced by a metal-dropped window pole that dropped nine floors.

The pole fell from the sill of an employment agency office, and struck Frances Levin, 45, Police say.

Roslin
ROSILIN—The Roslin Women's Institute held their annual picnic on Sunday at Vanderwater Conservation Park. Following the picnic dinner a number of races and contests were held. These were convened by Mrs. D. Ellis and Mrs. C. Bailey. A number of the younger people enjoyed a swim in the river.

On Sunday evening the Rev. W. Sinclair of Torval, was in charge of the service in St. Paul's Anglican Church and celebrated the service of Holy Communion.

Mr. Kinley who is in charge of the Roslin Parish for the summer month took the service in Sulphur on Sunday evening.

A number of children have taken advantage of the swimming instruction given at the Sun Valley Pool, sponsored by the Township of "Yradinga," who arranged for a bus to pick them up. The 15 day course has been most helpful and interesting in teaching water safety and swimming. The mothers are invited to attend on Friday.

CHAUFFEURED PRIME MINISTER IN 30's—R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada in the 1930's leaves his car in Ottawa with his chauffeur Cliff Allen (left) holding the door open. Cliff Allen Once Chauffeured 4 Canadian Prime Ministers

By PAUL M. DUNN

OTTAWA (CP)—Cliff Allen has retired with a carload of memories—including the years he spent chauffeuring four Canadian prime ministers.

For the last 25 years Cliff has up to his retirement in June he has been employed with the northern affairs department. But it is the years before that, when he waited the call to drive Canada's leaders, that he recalls most fondly.

Sir Robert Borden, Mackenzie King, Arthur Meighen and J. B. Bennett were his passengers. He recalls pleasant drives with Mr. King up to the prime minister's summer home at Killarney, Ont.

"I remember once or twice he asked me to prepare bacon and eggs for him and—I'm not sure I'm much of a cook—he was good enough to tell me he enjoyed them."

Thus there was the day the big black official Cadillac blew a tire on a trip from Ottawa to Montreal, and R. B. Bennett climbed into a field, wrenched loose a fence post and helped Cliff jack up the car.

"We were both covered with mud and I only had mud with me. Mr. Bennett managed to change in the car and arrived looking good as ever."

BEGAN WITH BORDEN

Cliff was born in Cardiff, Wales, in 1904. He came to Canada in 1914 and the same year enlisted in the 38th Battalion of Ottawa and went overseas in 1915.

After three explosions and three trips to hospital he returned to Canada in 1918 with the Canadian Army Service Corps as a driver. In 1921 he became Sir Robert Borden's main chauffeur and two years later left the army to join the prime minister's staff as chauffeur to Mr. King.

"Then came a brief spell with Mr. Meighen ending in 1927, followed by three more years with Mr. King. Five years with Mr. Bennett and a final two-year period with Mr. King."

Cliff has a cynical opinion on each of them.

Borden: "Very honest, easy to talk to."

King: "A nice man but a bit of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde . . . never gave you a hot and cold answer . . . he heard me six times for smoking on the job, but he always expected me back in the morning."

Meighen: "One of the most brilliant men I ever met . . . a kind, thoughtful man."

Bennett: "He could have the hell out of you one minute, then the next thing he'd be patting his arm around your shoulder and telling you he was your brother."

Added to notes which prime minister he preferred, Cliff hastened to add: "I could talk to Mr. Bennett easier than the others, and guess maybe I liked him best."

CARRIED REVOLVER

He recalls the period as one of big cars (Pierce Arrows and Cadillacs) and long hours ("I remember one week when only had 20 hours sleep. If I wasn't driving I was waiting outside the prime minister's office.")

Security in the official car was a revolver Cliff kept in the glove compartment. "I never had to use it."

Since he drove Mr. King over a longer period than the others, he recalls more details of that prime minister.

"I never saw any crystal ball," he replied to a question about Mr. King's rumored interest in the supernatural. "He was a wonderful dancer; not many people knew that. Although he was short and chunky he was very light on his feet."

Asked why he has never put his reminiscences in a book, Cliff said he felt much of his knowledge is "personal and private. I wouldn't want to offend anyone."

After a spell at an inside job

CARDINAL GAINS

TORONTO (CP)—James Cardinal McGuigan, R.O.M. a Catholic Archbishop of Toronto, continues to make satisfactory recovery from a stroke suffered during the weekend. He awoke last Tuesday. Dr. Edward E. Brooks said the 70-year-old cardinal, convalescing at his home, now is fully conscious.

Dinners Thin Surplus Game

LUSAKA, Zambia (Reuters)—Elephant sausage, buffalo plate and grilled hippo steak will appear on Zambian menus soon if an ambitious government project succeeds.

But the reason for the plan is not primarily to satisfy the curious palate of the adventurous gourmet.

The real story in Africa today is of big game stocks retreating before the ravages of man.

But in the Luangwa Valley, one of Zambia's main game reserves, there is overcrowding, buffaloes, elephants and hippos all must be thinned out.

The game department has decided that it might as well make use of the animals killed to provide this protein-lungry nation with much needed meat.

Beautiful Country of Malawi Beset by Numerous Problems

ZOMBA (AP)—Malawi, one of Africa's most beautiful countries, is also one of its poorest and smallest. There are rebels in the bush, Communist Chinese snoring on the door and African critics on the northern border.

Prime Minister Hastings Banda said he is facing the country, formerly British Nyasaland, with roadblocks, setting up detention camps and training Young Pioneers for defence work.

Seven months ago six of Banda's ministers were fired or resigned in a resounding cabinet blowup. Banda charged they wanted him to sell diplomatic recognition to China in return for a $30,000,000 loan.

Five of the ministers have taken refuge in Zambia and Tanzania, trying to ouster Banda with his neighbors, with the Organisation of African Unity (OAU) and even with the United Nations.

The sixth minister, Henry Chipembere, has been leading an ineffective rebellion.

REBEL, KENYATTA Banda's small but smartly trained British-trained army apparently has located Chipembere. But every time it moves against him friendly tom-toms beat and Chipembere slips away.

Both Zambia and Tanzania recognize Banda's government. Portuguese officials suspect they are responsible for recent incursions on Mozambique and for several deposits of weapons found there.

Of his brush with the Chinese and subsequent criticism by other African leaders of his failure to recognize Peking, Banda told a reporter: "Any honest man should admire me for refusing to be corrupted. If other African leaders want to be corrupted, let them."

This country is not for sale," he was equally sharp in answering criticism from abroad about "Africanisation".

There are still many British civil servants and the army and police are British-led.

"I refuse to sack Europeans for having white skins," Banda said. "I will Africanise when the Africans have learned to do the jobs. And I'm doing something about that."

Successful Living Many Parents Think Tot's Too Young for Glasses

DEAR DORIS — I was reading your column about the baby who has glasses.

My oldest boy had to wear glasses before he was two years old. His eyes started to turn in, so I took him to the doctor, who advised he wear him.

It took me some time to get used to the glasses and wouldn't be without them.

I felt bad, at first because he was so young, but I thought there can be children so young with glasses.

His eyes have improved a lot since.

"Eyes Glasses," don't wait. — TRIANGLE, MONTREAL.

DEAR THANKFUL — Good news! Your process will put iron into your weak and nervous to do something. All too many parents let the baby-dogging put them off.

The trick is also too young to say, "Look Pop, you've got me downing me to poor evening for life. When makes you think I can't get used to a little thing like glasses?"

DEAR DORIS — I am a working mother with hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Have to work to make ends meet.

It is taking too much when my husband isn't working at home, to expect dinner on the table when I come home, or to expect certain things to be done without having to tell him and the children, 12 and 14, such as cut the grass, clean the yard, etc. The children and I used to get things done so we could spend the evening together.

I've found out that tireless drives out all feelings, so I have given my mind to quit. Am I selfish? I want to respect my love my family. — WORRIED.

DEAR WORRIED — "Fidgins is woman's greatest enemy" said the late Dr. Martin Hill, outstanding Canadian doctor. It can leave her nervous.

Sometimes those closest to us need things pointed out to them. Would Hubby know how to put dinner on the table? Do you young try new organizing? At a family roundtable each one could be invited to select that house-hold chore he would enjoy.

3 Seek Willingdon Berths

TORONTO (CP) — Eddie Black and Bruce Brewer, two prominent Toronto-area golfers, have withdrawn because of business pressures from today's main qualifying round for the Ontario Amateur championship at nearby Richmond Hill Golf & Country Club.

Black is a former Mississauga club champion and Brewer was a member of the 1964 Willingdon club. Both will be in 17 players to tie off the stroke play qualifying round to reduce the field to 64. The survivors will begin match play Thursday for the remainder of the tournament.

Six former Ontario Junior champions — Gordon Ball, Western: Bob Fair, Stratford; Gary Cowan, Kitchener; Bob Jamieson, Peterborough; Stu Hamilton, Brampton, and defending champion Wayne McFadden, Oakville are included in the field.

FORMER CHAMPS ENTER — The former amateur champions entered are Bill and Dave Watson of North Bay, Nick Wiggins, Toronto, three-time winner Jack Nash, London, and Ray Cook, Kitchener.

The qualifying round will also decide the four-man Willingdon Cup team in the interprovincial championship in Windsor, Aug. 14.

The low scorers after 54 holes of the Ontario Open, held last week at Milton, and the Ontario Amateur, qualifying round were the team.

Week's all-time winner of the Ontario amateur title, is the only player assured of a berth on this year's team. He was the Ontario Open, with 26, on 11 stroke margin over Tom McCullough and Martin Smith, both of Toronto.

Seven other players in contention for the three remaining team positions are Hamilton with 24, Cowan with 21 and Ball of Toronto with 21. In the Ontario Open, George Spencer of Toronto and George Spencer of Toronto are tied with 21, and Spencer's Tom Woodall has 22.

Amicable Mood Broken In Debate On Off-shore Mineral Rights Question

By WILLIAM NEVILLE

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal and provincial governments put the finishing touches today to a four-day summit conference marked by surprising agreement on several key issues and bitter accord on another.

The agreements or near-agreements shared such things as medical care, new developments in social poverty correction and a bigger provincial share of tax revenues from private utilities.

The discord — and by most accounts it was fierce — centred on the thorny constitutional issue of off-shore mineral rights.

Both the agreed and disagreed points are expected to be covered in a white paper to be issued once the Minister Pearson and the 10 provincial premiers and their deliberations resumes during July.

Before breaking off, they re-opened discussion on one of a more effective way to organize crime and what, with relatively sensitive matters as a national wildlife program and electric power development.

WELL HEAD HOME
The provincial delegations then will head home after an extremely productive day highlighted by:

1. A unanimous agreement on a federal offer to split 50:50 the costs of a national wildlife program, to be operated by the federal government and the provinces, with the provinces operating the program by July 1, 1967. Further details are to be worked out.

Robats Hopes For School Aid

By BOB KEEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario's plea for increased federal assistance towards the operating costs of universities has no chance of being met this year, Premier Robarts said Wednesday.

He said the most he could hope for is a possible federal assistance towards the province's $110,000,000 building program for university medical, dental, law, nursing schools.

Mr. Robarts had asked the federal government to change its formula of making operating costs grants to universities. He said Ontario should provide $200 a year for each university student.

At present the federal government pays a 52-per-cent grant based on each province's population. This would work out to an estimated $200 a student in Ontario.

Mr. Robarts said:

"You have to remember, the federal government has to take care for the great increase in the federal-provincial conference on education. The federal government has to take care of the province's university when the university is not a federal institution."

He said the federal government has to take care of the province's university when the university is not a federal institution.

INTERESTED IN OFF-SHORE RIGHTS—Premier Bennett (left) of British Columbia and Premier Robarts of New Brunswick appear to be in agreement that the provinces have the right to off-shore minerals. Mr. Bennett told the Federal-Provincial Conference that his province is determined to have control over off-shore mineral rights in the Pacific. The government has not decided can be made until the Supreme Court reviews the problem.

Gordon on Five Provinces Almost All Utility Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Gordon announced Wednesday he has agreed with the provinces almost all utility taxes on Ontario's revenue from taxes on privately-owned utility companies.

He said the move is being made on the expectation—not the condition—that the provinces, in turn, will refund the funds to the companies in an effort to reduce electric power costs to consumers.

Mr. Gordon, speaking from several premiers, told the federal-provincial conference that the move is being made on the expectation—not the condition—that the provinces, in turn, will refund the funds to the companies in an effort to reduce electric power costs to consumers.

Construction Round-up

Wilson Concrete announces their plant will hold an Open House Saturday afternoon, anyone interested in viewing the operation. The plant and its families will view the plant in the morning, but the afternoon, from 12 a.m. to 3 p.m., the general public will be invited to come.

There will be product demonstrations every week. The plant will be open to the public until 2 p.m. Personnel will be on hand to discuss Wilson's products and manufacturing facilities.

The plant, located on Wilson Avenue, is one of the largest in Belleville. Wilson Concrete Products Limited has gained national recognition as leaders in their field and a tour through the plant should be well worthwhile.

Whelan's Real Estate has plans for a building on the old Layton site on Front Street, where the firm was, but a city by-law has once again complicated the situation.

The city requires a certain amount of parking spaces for a certain amount of square footage of building. This would mean that, on that site, 40 parking spaces would be required. As it is at a premium in that area, 40 parking spots would not be feasible on the city of Belleville. The city would not lift this requirement in lieu of a payment of $1,200 for each parking space. This would mean the builder would be required to pay $4,800 for the city before he even starts to build. A condition to the builder is a condition to the city.

Whelan's report the possibility of a big highway interchange block being built on a road site at the corner of Victoria and John Plans, have been shown for the building which would be over eight floors high and contain about 50 suites. The building project has not been obtained yet.

The Tatham Company is scheduled to begin construction soon on the new office building for the City of Belleville's equipment on Walbridge Crescent.

Houses are going up all over the city. The city has recently started another one. The city has recently started another one. The city has recently started another one.

C. McElroy of the Belleville Branches American Legion reports work is progressing on the re-modelling of the old Belleville Canadian Legion building. The building was started by Bert Outhouse and work began two weeks ago. The building is expected to be completed by the end of August, and the plant will not play about 50 people.

Britons Told How to Sell To Canadians

By PETER BUCKLEY
PETERBOROUGH, England (P.B.)—Britain's drive for export goods to better selling opportunities in Canada was focused today when the British Overseas Chamber of Commerce met in London to discuss the possibilities of doing business with Canada.

More than 20 delegates representing industry and commerce from the eastern Midlands and the west of England gathered at the headquarters of the British Overseas Chamber of Commerce in London for a one-day seminar on "Doing Business with Canada."

Canadian High Commissioner Lionel Cheshire set the tone for the discussion in an opening session, where he said the Canadian government wanted British exporters to accept Canada's "British goods" as a condition of doing business with Canada. He also said the federal government was not only dependent on Canadian goods but also on Canadian services. He said the federal government was not only dependent on Canadian goods but also on Canadian services. U.S. Jets Bomb Bridge Within 41 Miles Of Chinese Border

From AP-Reuters

SARIGON (CP) — U.S. war planes flew closer to the Chinese border than ever before today on an air strike over a North Vietnam — U.S. military problem area.

Three air force F-4s Thursday bombed a highway bridge only 41 miles from the Chinese frontier, the spokesman said. The raiders destroyed the bridge 10 miles northwest of the North Vietnamese capital, he reported.

The pilot reported a heavy Communist guard, but the spokesman said all planes returned safely.

In raids last week U.S. bombers hit targets 41 miles from China.

In the only other raid reported, North Viet Nam reported that eight F-4 Starfighters destroyed buildings and damaged munitions stores at the Dong Gien and then barracks 80 miles inland from the frontier.

The Viet Cong kept up pressure on troops on the night of the fourth night. American soldiers again were reported killed and the initiators were reported.

Beginning about 9 p.m., the guerrillas fired mortars and small arms at Viet Division positions east of the big Hanoi air base 13 miles north of Saigon.

Gens. William C. Westwood, head commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, was today reported as saying he had been given more administrative "allow room" in the U.S. war effort in Vietnam.

South Vietnamese officials announced today the Saigon government had completed the Communist Control Commission of which Canada is a member, that North Viet Nam infiltrated more than the demilitarized border zone on 88 occasions last month.

ENVOY ARRIVES
Kwesi Amah, Ghana's high commissioner in London, arrived in Hanoi today from Amsterdam after being named as the first plane passage to Moscow for Hanoi. Amah said he would go to North Viet Nam via India and Shanghai.

China is a member of the British Commonwealth peace mission which Moscow, Peking and Hanoi returned to resolve. The North Vietnamese invited Ghana President Kwame Nkrumah to visit.

Armed told reporters he is the present deadlock in Viet Nam, he said. "There is every hope that the Russians, too, will want an end to the war at this time."

Some Canadians May Find Britain Excludes Them

By HAROLD MORRISON
LONDON (CP)—Some Canadians may find it more difficult to emigrate to Britain under a restrictive immigration policy likely to be unveiled by Prime Minister Wilson within the next two weeks.

It is understood the restrictions will be designed to curb the inflow from Commonwealth countries, particularly from India, Pakistan, and the West Indies.

However, to avoid charges of discrimination, the new policy may make clear that it is to be applied to all parts of the Commonwealth, to decrease a heavy entry of unskilled and uneducated labour.

Britain got about 75,000 immigrants from the Commonwealth in 1964. The government hopes to reduce the flow to less than 50,000 next year. Britain's total population of some 56,000,000, about 1,000,000 are estimated to be of Indian, Pakistani, and West Indian.

In some factory towns, the heavy influx of non-white labour has led to racial tension and the government has urged co-operation to reduce the immigration. Some 18 out of 100 higher health registrations and the requirement of a two-year post-graduate work permit are some of the measures being taken.

Immigration traffic between Canada and Britain has been mainly towards Canada. Canadian and Canadian authorities are encouraging this movement.

However, British authorities estimate there is also a small flow of Canadian migration to Britain. The total of Canadian emigrants to Britain in 1964 was 5,726 in 1964.

SEES LIKE MONSTERS

Captain A. Vance, port, and fireman Reg Christopher enter the second floor of the blazing Pinnacle Street building yesterday. Firemen managed to save the building from total loss.

War on Cockroaches Results In Fire Leaving 24 Homeless

Twenty-four people were left homeless yesterday when fire gutted their boarding house located at 147 Pinnacle Street, behind the American Optical Co. Damage to the building, a converted barn and warehouse, was roughly estimated at $7500.

The fire started when Clinton Badgley, a tenant in an upstairs apartment was attempting to fumigate the building.

"The whole place was just alive with cockroaches," said one tenant. "We were all going to fumigate our apartments. We thought we'd start with the top apartments and chase the bugs down to the second floor. Then the tenants there could chase them down, and the tenants on the bottom could chase them out."

Mr. Badgley explained, "I had sulphur in a tin pull on some sand with water around it. The pull was sitting in the middle of the floor and when I lit it, it flashed and the whole place was on fire."

Firemen were called at 1:27 p.m. and responded with four trucks, three pumps and an aerial ladder. All available firemen were called out.

"We had a few men out sick and some were on holidays," Chief Ed. Potts said at the scene. "It makes things a bit difficult when we're short-handed."

However, firemen saved the building from being a total loss and prevented the fire from spreading to two nearby buildings.

ONLY ONE INJURED
A total of 24 persons, 18 adults and six children, lived in the building. Seven of the tenants are pensioners, and only one, Gerry Laats, had any insurance on his possessions.

"We're lost everything we had," said Mrs. E. Dushane, a tenant in the upstairs apartment. "The cockroaches were everywhere. I saw them all over the place. I was so scared, I didn't know what to do."

"I was making a cake when the fire started," said Mrs. Moore, mother of a downtown tenant. "My husband, Mr. Moore, was out of town. I was alone. I was so scared, I didn't know what to do."

Only three-quarters of an inch of rain fell in June, before the Toronto wind writers were called in.

They are going to live now. Another tenant, Mr. Joe Brown, stood on a nearby street watching the fire, tears streaming down his face. "My husband is a pensioner and we don't have insurance. My little kids will be homeless."

However, thanks to the fire department's efforts, some of the tenants were able to salvage their belongings. They were saved, and miraculously, small items survived the fire.

The ground floor tenants were a bit more fortunate as the firemen managed to keep the blaze fairly well from their apartments. Though damage was heavy, they did manage to save many of their possessions.

The occupants of the ground floor apartments were Harry Moore, his mother, Mr. Moore, and son, Mr. Howard Brown. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Field and their two daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Silver.

Mr. Brown explained, "The building fire was only partly insured. With nine families living in it, the rates are pretty high. I don't know what I'm going to do with it now."

Firemen fought the blaze for two and one-half hours. The fire was finally extinguished. The fire was slightly injured. Captain Vance got something in his eye and Pat Barrett received minor burns to his hands and face and was treated at the Belleville General Hospital.

Red Cross Aids Victims
The Disaster Committee of the Belleville Red Cross is sending the victims of yesterday's fire on Pinnacle Street by outfitting them with new bedding and clothing, to help them get started again.

The Red Cross is also providing equipment for publishing propaganda documents and other adhesive materials.

The charge, said he was attempting to circulate leaflets and letters to aid Brooke in the overthrow of the Soviet government.

The indictment also said he brought with him to Russia printing equipment for publishing propaganda documents and other adhesive materials.

Only eight lives left. This young gentleman used up at least one of his nine lives in yesterday's Pinnacle Street fire as he spent two hours inside the burning building. He belongs to Mrs. Joe Rivest, another victim of the fire.

Briton Pleads Guilty to Russ Charges

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A young British language teacher pleaded guilty to a charge of engaging in anti-Soviet activities as his trial opened in a Moscow theatre today.

The trial of Gerald Brooke, 22, appears to be the launching point of a major attack by Soviet authorities on Russian emigrant groups.

The indictment read against Brooke also charged that "members of the British diplomatic corps have active contacts with people engaged in working against the Soviet Union."

The prosecution alleged diplomatic corps in London by diplomatic staff. It also charged that Brooke had been in London in sending anti-Soviet material back to London by diplomatic staff.

After Brooke entered his plea the trial was adjourned to go into closed session later today. Brooke was accused of acting on the orders of the Popular Labor Alliance, an emigrant organization set up by students in 1930 which has branches in several western capitals.

The London teacher, pale-faced and thin, continued in the Lubyanka prison here, faces sentences of six months to seven years on the charge.

Security police arrested Brooke April 26 in a Moscow apartment.

The charge, said he was attempting to circulate leaflets and letters to aid Brooke in the overthrow of the Soviet government.

The indictment also said he brought with him to Russia printing equipment for publishing propaganda documents and other adhesive materials.

None Can Tell If Rainmakers Earned Money

OTTAWA (CP)—Have the rainmakers—paid $40,000 so far to relieve parched southern Ontario crops—been successful?

"Nobody can answer that question," Agriculture Minister William Stewart of Ontario told a press conference Wednesday. "but if the rainmakers are responsible for any part of the 14 inches of rain that has come down in July, they are well worth the money."

Some people thought they were ineffective and money should be saved. "But rain didn't, he said, 'but rain has come down 14 inches of rain in July, they are well worth the money.'"

Honored at Trousseau Tea

STYLING — Mrs. George Edwin Warren held a trousseau tea at her home on Balmfield in honor of her daughter, Mary Ellen, a bride-to-be of this month.

The guests were greeted at the door by the hostess, her daughter and Mrs. Gerald Pyper, President, mother of the bridegroom, Miss Sandra Wannamaker was in charge of the guest book. The trousseau was shown by Mary Ellen's sister, Mrs. Gerald Ryan and Miss Martin Anderson, both of Toronto. The shower and wedding gifts displayed downstairs were shown by Miss Patricia Warren, Kingston, and Miss Marian Warren, Stirling, sisters of the bride.

Mrs. Floyd Armstrong arranged the roses and delphiniums decorating the house. The tea table, covered with a castor cloth of oyster linen, was centered with an arrangement of roses, delphinium and baby's breath in a silver fish flanked by miniature twisted 18-kt. gold necklaces and silver holders.

Those pointing were Mrs. R. Patterson, A. Pyper, R. Anderson, A. Evans, Helen Ross, Dr. Martin, Mrs. James A. Warren, W. Warren, R. S. Gibson, Mrs. Walter Warren, R. Skinner, J. Pyper, L. Loeble and R. Johnson.

Those serving tea were Mrs. G. Noble, H. Baskin, H. Baker, G. Flank, C. Potter, R. Lacey, and D. Patterson.

Mrs. N. Flinck, Gladys Sims, J. Armstrong, Rose and Lillian Howard were in charge of the kitchen.

Ann Landers

Rock and Roll Good For the Circulation

DEAR ANN LANDERS — Wouldn't it be great if we could get teenagers dancing like we used to, back in the 40's? Oh, what they're missing.

I'm an antique like you, Ann, crowding 80. Remember Wagon King, Woody Herman, Benny Goodman, Glen Miller, Harry James and Guy Lombardo. What a shame that breed of music doesn't exist any more.

When our two teen-agers turn on the hi-fi and dance my wife and I can't believe it. The fellows just stand there — feet nailed to the floor. The girls jump around as if someone saw them and tried to tickle them. Periodically they both go into convulsions.

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if we could dump every rock and roll record in the Atlantic ocean and return to the beautiful days of 'Star Dust.' How about it, Ann. Are you with me? — OLD CREAKY BONES.

DEAR BONES — Don't knock the rock. Like it or hate it, rock and roll has remained red hot — ten years after everyone says it "ll be dead tomorrow."

For every person who loathes rock and roll you'll find two who adore it. For every paralytic who says it is sick and turned into a speaker sport, there's another paralytic who calls it a healthy outlet for repressed desires.

As for me, I think rock and roll is fresh, lively and fun. Moreover, it gets people off their backsides and moving — and that's good for the circulation.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I was 18 when my daughter Gloria was born. Everyone says I look more like her than I do. My husband and I were divorced three years ago. Ever since that time Gloria seems to think I'm after her boy friends.

Last night Teddy, a handsome young man of 18, came to take Gloria to a dance at the lodge. When he arrived, Gloria was not ready so I saved him to sit down. Suddenly he said, "Why don't you come along?" I didn't have anything to do so I said, "O.K."

When Teddy told Gloria he had asked me her face felt. I had wonderful time at the dance, but Gloria spent most of the time in the ladies' room.

"This morning she told me the next time I accept a 'polite but business' invitation from one of her boy friends that she is staying home."

Is it my fault if I'm more like a girl friend than a mother? How should I deal with this business girl-YOUNG AT HEART?

DEAR YOUNG — Your daughter doesn't need a 35-year-old girl friend. She needs a mother.

Stick to your own age group and say no to all such invitations in the future.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — The letter from the bride-to-be whose mother didn't want her pregnant cousin to be her maid was absurd. Why didn't you blurt that young woman for allowing herself to get as big as a blimp?

I gained nine pounds when I was pregnant with my last child. The time before I gained 16 pounds. No one even knew I was expecting when I was pregnant with my first baby. I have never had to buy a maternity dress.

Some women think that just because they are pregnant they can eat like bunnies and get away with it. Small wonder they get enormous, the way they pack in the food. I wish you'd chew out these foolish women. Ann. When I say anything they just get mad. — NO NONSENSE NELL.

DEAR NELL — I'm not going to tell women how much weight to gain during pregnancy. This is up to their physician. Most obstetricians want their patients to gain between 15 and 18 pounds, depending on their starting weight and general condition.

No many girls can avoid maternity clothes. You are an exception. And, incidentally, your build has a lot to do with it.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — and How Far To Go," including with your request 20 cents in coin and a bona fide address, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LITTLE CHOCOLATE CUPCAKES

Jennifer who will be three this month helped me to do the final assembling of these little chocolate cupcakes. Nothing gives me more fun than baking with my grandchildren around. They are such eager little bakers.

My about New York holiday was made up of mornings with the children in "Shirley" Park, helping Margaret with her gymnastics, meals for guests, playing bridge and going to the theatre.

I was delighted to find a note to myself to "try chocolate cupcakes to freeze while in New York" because if it's chocolate Iets like it. I had no more than got out the flour sifter than Jennifer pointed herself on a chair and asked me to help so help she did.

CHOCOLATE CUPCAKES (to freeze if desired):

1 cup sifted cake or all-purpose flour, 3 tablespoons finely-chopped baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 squares cooking chocolate, 3 cups boiling water, 1/2 cup margarine (or butter), 1/2 cup sugar, 4 eggs, 2 yds. milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, about 1 cup 235 cream (for filling), lemon icing (see below).

Stir the sifted flour with the baking powder and salt. In a large bowl pour the water, melt in your chocolate to melt it. In your electric mixer beat cream the margarine (or butter) until light, then cream in the sugar until both are light and fluffy. Now beat in the egg yolks, one at a time. Add the chocolate liquid which by this time has cooled to lukewarm. Fold in the flour mixture, alternating with the milk and vanilla, one-third at each time until it is fully beaten egg whites.

This batter will fill 25 paper or bake cups that are 2 1/2" in diameter and 1 1/2" high. It will also fill 12 paper or 8 x 8 x 2" pan, paper-lined on bottom.

Spoon batter to half fill paper bake cups which are standing in muffin pans to prevent fluted paper cups from spreading. Bake at 375 deg. F. for about 20 minutes. Note: If you bake half of the batter in the 8 x 8 x 2" pan it requires a little longer baking.

When cupcakes are cool you may simply frost them (see below) if you wish or with a sharp knife cut a wide shallow cone from the tops, fill centers with about 1 tablespoon whipped cream, replace tops (this is when I did and how Jennifer got into the act). Frost tops with Lemon Icing: Into the unwashed whipped cream bowl put 2 cups icing sugar and 3 or 4 teaspoons lemon juice or just enough to make it of this icing.

Put the bowl on the flour cupcakes back in the buffet line and put in freezer to freeze. When hard, remove from pan, pack in plastic bags or in double bags to store in freezer. These freeze excellently and when thawed, thaw almost instantly and securely disappear like wafers!

Mother's Helper

Profile silhouettes are easy and fun for your child to make. Track up a good supply of sheets of white paper on the wall. Sit a young friend sideways in front of it with a bright lamp casting a sharp shadow on the paper. Outline the silhouette in pencil first, then fill in with suitable markers or crayons after the likeness has been captured. All ages like this one!

Successful Living

Grateful Reader Praises Doris for Good Advice

DEAR DORIS — Couldn't resist writing after I read the piece from "K.Y." (who is always the first thing I see looking at in the paper, and it is always me a lot of good advice during the years.

I have brought up ten children, and don't see all these similar situations mentioned in life as described by you. I wish I could have had this sort of reading when the children were small; it would have helped me a lot.

You sure give a person a good push in the right direction. — J. de B.

DEAR J. de B. — Your remarks are worth hawmowing. If something is a good thing, it is a single parent, a judicious push, it is worth while, isn't it?

DEAR DORIS — I am glad and ready to do just what you think is right, and I worry about stupid little things. They just bog me so much I have to let it out. I know it's all nerves, but I'm a very nervous person and just cannot seem to relax. Doris, I hate being like this, and I know it's not temper, because when I was smaller and there a tantrum my parents would never give in to me, but now I'm 30 years old and married and still can't seem to do it.

Don't tell me to see a doctor, as I've been under care now for two years and he just gives me pills which are supposed to help relax my bowels, and I'm told the same thing all the time — just relax, Doris.

Most of my friends have a lot of things I am not but what will strengthen them? Sometimes I just sit and cry — for no reason or so it seems. — EVELYN GRATEFUL.

DEAR EVELYN GRATEFUL — Could be those childish tantrums were overdeveloped. The rage which was prompted by frustration against your mother. You learned to subdue your anger, but away down deep you still felt wronged and misunderstood.

And still do. A trained counsellor might get at some of your deep resentments and help you to do those things. This would be worth anything it might cost you. Consult your local counselling agency for guidance.

DEAR DORIS — I am 22 and still in the race for a man. I have been dating a fellow who fits the description "He is very moody at times. Does this go with his disease?" He is very moody at times. Does this go with his disease?

If I marry him would there be any chance of the children having diabetes? I understand he has gone through the same girls and when they find out he has diabetes they break up with him. If I thought there was no chance of the children developing the disease I would really go after him. — SCOTTY.

DEAR SCOTTY — Many diabetes live normal lives. You want to know how well your friend is disciplined to abide by dietary rules which mean life to him. Since there is some imbalance of body chemistry, there may be occasional mood swings; but these should not be serious.

It is a hereditary tendency to diabetes, but for this reason, and tends to be bred out if the other partner to the union has no family history of the disease.

Cases differ. Your doctor and your friends are your best advisers.

DEAR DORIS — My daughter is getting married in August, but because of her work she cannot come home until two days before the wedding. She works 400 miles from here. Could we have a shower for her without her being there? — IN DOUBT.

DEAR IN DOUBT — A shower by proxy? Unusual, but not impossible, as a shower is a matter of the family give or take. Perhaps someone could represent your daughter; or gifts might be showered on those present, with each one opening one to put it in a pile for the bride.

As a feature of such an evening, you might pass around a piece of paper for each person to write a message on a humorous little (e.g. "Even though you stayed away, we bring good luck to your wedding day"); or a friendly message is prose, with a signature.

Another idea: A shower in absentia might be an idea. Time to assemble a Bride's Book, to be presented to the happy girl when she does make her appearance. You send your instructions, which are available to any reader for ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO CURIOUS — I am sorry but I can't reply to your question in the column. My suggestion would be that you go to your public library and seek the information you want from medical books. Plenty has been written about this condition.

Moira Lake Cottagers Form Association

Association

MADOC — A meeting in the Madoc Centre Hastings Second year school was held to form a Moira Lake Cottagers' Association. About 30 owners of cottages attended.

Following considerable discussion the association was formed with the following appointments in officers: president, Earl Collett; vice-president, J. W. Whitford; treasurer, Bill Collett; secretary, Bruce T. White. Directors are: Ted Collett, Frank Downey, Bill Hearty, Gerry Brennan, Clarence Farlow, Bob Cameron, Al Hastings, Bill Armstrong, Watson, Earl Dennis, Leo Roy. A membership fee of $2.00 per member was approved by those present.

There were many comments by those in attendance regarding the water level in the lake this year. The dam at the foot of the lake was constructed last fall and stops logs from entering in June. Graham Bell, chairman, Water Control Advisory Board, Moira River Conservation Authority, spoke at the meeting. In his remarks he pointed out that the Authority was trying to retain as much water as possible through the dry summer months. It is easy enough, he said, to lower the water in the lake several inches, but it is much easier to hold the level than to raise it, should much water be allowed to flow downstream. In a long period of dry weather, evaporation alone can lower the lake considerably.

Following Mr. Bell's talk a motion moved by Mr. Harry Gibson and supported by Mr. R. Steele, that the water level be left as it is, with the unanimous approval of the meeting.

A notice to the effect that anyone interfering with the stop logs in the Moira Lake dam at Downer's Rapids would be prosecuted, is now posted.

Letter to the Editor
Pollution Threat To Cottage Plan

Editor,
 Ontario Intelligencer:
 Early in 1931 I approached the municipal council of both the Village of Tved and the Township of Hagersburg and advised them of the danger to their water and soil from the sewage treatment plant at the village of Tved. A report of both council meetings was published in the Tved News and the understanding was, as excellent as a step forward, that the village and a nearby cottage plan would be the basis for the township.

Proceeding with plans and spending a considerable amount of time surveying, etc. Finally after long municipalities tried "diplomatically" to put downable blocks in the way of progress, I managed to find that the higher authorities wanted a new public crossing over the railroad track at the village of Tved. This "perfection" finally was accepted from the Federal Department of Transport.

The township made demands for the portion of the crossing which I was eventually able to meet but then the permission was given to the road and the engineer's suggestions, consequently at my own expense, was still refused.

Only the village came up with demands for the extension of Alexander Street that I have not yet been able to meet and some of the demands are such that it could be beyond the power of a private citizen to meet them. Only the village has the power to appropriate land for the widening of an existing road along Alexander Street.

To cap all this was information by a township official that a closed meeting had been held on July 5, 1935, between the township council and the village council and the township council had decided to support the village council.

I find it very hard to understand why the village is still holding out. The village is being discriminated against in the township and the property which three years ago was valued at $100,000 is now valued at $50,000. Medicare Plan

Ontario Premier Robarts' lukewarm reaction to the Federal Medicare program outlined by Prime Minister Pearson is understandable. Having put through a provincial program to be administered through private insurance companies that will cost an almost prohibitive $175 per head annually for doctors' services alone, he must now decide whether to implement this plan or accept the federal-subsidized plan.

There is no doubt, of course, which is the better scheme from the public's point of view. The Ontario plan is one which few would be able to afford and which would benefit the insurance companies at the expense of the public.

The federal plan, on the other hand, offers to share costs on an approximately 50-50 basis with an initial contribution of $14 per capita applicable to all provinces.

The federal plan is something of a triumph for Prime Minister Pearson. His province of Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Quebec and Saskatchewan—have given it virtually unanimous approval and Manitoba and British Columbia appear to have no serious objections.

Only Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Alberta have opposed it unreservedly. Alberta's Premier Manning said that any medicare plan should be open to subscription by residents on voluntary basis, while the two Maritime provinces oppose it apparently on the grounds of cost.

Premier Robarts acknowledged that "some things are like this in this country," and said he was prepared to sit down and discuss it.

His final decision will be interesting.

Student Exchanges

The Federal-Provincial Youth Travel Program for high school students seems to be going with a swing.

The other day, 24 Grade 11 students arrived in Toronto from Saskatchewan just as another group of 24 from the Toronto area were about to board a train for the visit to the Yukon.

Meanwhile English and French-speaking students from Ontario and Quebec were busy getting to know each other at a luncheon in Toronto's King Edward hotel at which prominent the young Yermak was host.

There is a poignancy and drama about these exchange students from the Toronto area who are being sent to the Yukon. It is difficult to describe, but which is all part of the business of growing up. The fact that the exchanges in some cases involve communicating in both English and French adds to the more interesting. From these meetings Canada will assuredly go forward to greater things, to a new degree of understanding and a new sense of unity.

The divisions between Canadians are not as great as they sometimes may appear. Vancouver may be nearly 4,000 miles from Halifax; but for biology, Atlantic and Pacific and the vast social complex in between, do not seem that far distant.

Act like Ontario and Saskatchewan, in a sense, are not that far apart. They are separated by actual distance they are many hundreds of miles apart. From Belleville to Regina is some 1,500 miles and that is a long way by any standards. But in human terms, the distance is not so great. It is perhaps an exchange of students between Berlin and Moscow.

There is an indication of just how big Canada is. In round figures it is 4,243 miles from St. John's to Victoria and 3,460 miles from Halifax to Vancouver.

The Dog Walkers

A reader of poetic bent has sent us 13 Queen Street. The "Dog Walkers". In six elegant verses the writer, N. S. Eaton, of 73 Queen St., complains about early-morning and late-night complaints about flower beds and lawns by our four-legged friends.

In this column we have been urging owners to give their dogs sufficient exercise. However, from the owner of reader Eaton's poem it seems that once out of range of their own homes the dogs are given a little too much rope, with the result that flower beds and lawns suffer.

The writer says it has been necessary to re-plant two flower beds this year because of the depredations of a mongrel dog which is exercised regularly around 7 a.m. and 10.45 p.m.

New Zealand Taking Look At Canadian Legislation Limiting Press Ownership

By L. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND (CP)—The New Zealand government is looking at Canadian plans to deter foreign ownership of the press. The press, here, has been almost entirely New Zealand-owned and editorially independent.

Only small groups of overseas investors have been permitted to acquire shares in the press since 1947.

However, a takeover battle developed last year for ownership of the Dominion, the only morning newspaper in the capital city of Wellington. Editors included local press interests, rival Australian groups and the New Zealand government.

The government threatened to bring in legislation to prevent overseas control and to force the hands of the holders from abroad.

However, the Australian group managed to gain enough shares on the stock exchange to gain a substantial holding.

REVENUE ISSUE

Now the question of British or Australian control of newspapers in New Zealand has arisen again with plans to restrict foreign ownership in all the main cities. This was done in 1947, but the legislation to permit Sunday newspapers has been introduced.

The government is now considering the possibility of continuing measures for foreign ownership in the Dominion.

Commonwealth countries seeking to gain a major influence in the New Zealand press are being examined by the government as being inimical to national independence.

Training Mind for God

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

The well-known theologian, Nels Pless, says he has experienced the conversion of his mind to traditional Christianity. He says he has been converted to Christianity by the Bible.

The second came when, as a student, he began to ask questions about his traditional faith. He was disturbed that he should be asked questions, he read a book by Dr. George A. Gordon entitled, "My Education and Christianity."

While reading this book, Nels Pless discovered he was a Christian and that he had been living in it. He said that he was not a Christian, but that he was a Christian.

There is nothing in the Bible that says we must put our brains outside when we go to church. On the contrary, the Bible constantly urges the training of the mind in the study of God. There is no virtue in ignorance.

Isaiah said, "The Lord God has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word that which is weary." (Isaiah 55:10)

When Paul was confined in a Roman prison, he said to Timothy to bring him the books, and, "also the things which thou hast written for his soul, wanted more food." (1 Timothy 4:13)

Jesus was quick to quote the Bible. "You said, 'I will forsake the Lord God with all your soul, with all your mind.' (Matthew 23:17)

He showed how those who put their mind to the Scriptures of His people, by the commandment of God, "It is written."

That is why it is so important to study the Bible today. The student thought the apostles were not alone. The Bible is today the only book by the simplest questions that have been asked, when people get away from the Bible, they are lost.

All true Christians, by the Bible, the Bible is the only book that can give us the knowledge of moral law, and the Bible is the only book that can give us the knowledge of God.

THE BIBLE IS THE ONLY BOOK

Every Christian should be an informed Christian. Above all, he should be a Christian. The Bible is the only book that can give us the knowledge of moral law, and the Bible is the only book that can give us the knowledge of God.

It is illustrated by a tremendous number of people who are members of a synagogue in Denver. (City 17-11) Jesus said, "I have loved them that love me, but I have loved the low believers in Theology, because, Jesus is a man, and I am a man."

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate "What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Is the real estate broker entitled to a commission who is not a salesman? Mr. Meltzer: Yes, if he is a salesman. If he is not a salesman, he is not entitled to a commission. If he is a salesman, he is entitled to a commission.

I asked a broker to find out if he was a salesman or not. He said he was a salesman. I asked him if he was a salesman. He said he was a salesman.

The broker never took me to see the property or to see the owner and myself on several occasions. He did check with the owner and myself on several occasions. He did check with the owner and myself on several occasions.

The only other time I have been involved was when I asked him to recommend a mortgage. He recommended a mortgage. He recommended a mortgage.

WOMAN'S SPOKESMAN

This government spokesman said this month appeals as a more effective way of fighting that control remains in New Zealand lands while avoiding charges that the government restricts control over individual holdings.

The government already has taken over any New Zealand takeover by a takeover bill from abroad involving overseas interests. This was done in 1947, but the legislation to permit Sunday newspapers has been introduced.

But recent maneuvering has suggested that in the case of the takeover bill, the government is now considering the possibility of continuing measures for foreign ownership in the Dominion.

Consequently drafting of the needed bill has been suspended until the government has been obtained from the United States. The government is now considering the possibility of continuing measures for foreign ownership in the Dominion.

But recent maneuvering has suggested that in the case of the takeover bill, the government is now considering the possibility of continuing measures for foreign ownership in the Dominion.

During the World War II, regular German pastors met regularly for Bible study. They compared what the Nazi leaders were saying with what was read in the Bible. In the light of this, the pastors of the Bible were able to see the error of the Nazi leaders. They were able to see the error of the Nazi leaders.

Also he knows the Bible has a basis for hope. Paul says the Scriptures were written for our instruction that "by the encouragement of the Romans, 16:16) we have hope." (Romans 16:16)

Read the Bible and you will find it as interesting as the Reader's Digest. The Bible is a book that can give us the knowledge of moral law, and the Bible is the only book that can give us the knowledge of God.

A Warning: Never attempt any trench, excavation or hole—until you know it is shored, safe and sound. In no case can you make do by. SPRAWLING COMPLEX — The $235,000,000 mining and processing complex of Wabush Mines at Wabush, Labrador, is situated almost on top of what is estimated to be a one-billion-ton pocket of low-grade iron ore. The plant project was started in late 1961 and is expected to be in full production of 5.2 million tons of high-grade concentrate by the end of this year. (CP Photo)

ORE GRINDS ITSELF — Iron ore at the Wabush Mines at Wabush, Labrador, is of such soft consistency that it is ground by tumbling the chunks against each other in these eight foot by 24 foot autogenous grinding mills in the main plant. Rich Wabash Iron Deposit Will Produce 13 Million Tons

By DAVE BUTLER

WABUSH, Labrador (CP) — On the sides of two adjoining hills near Wabush Lake in western Labrador is an iron ore deposit so large that it will take 14 years just to work it down to the level where it can be mined most efficiently.

The new $235,000,000 Wabush Mines, built in little more than three years, is sitting astride the big pile of ore known as the main quartz specular hematite. The developers say it can be mined in a billion tons and could provide continuous production by the plant for at least the next 80 years.

The project began in 1961 after financing for the project had been arranged by Pickands-Mather of Cleveland, the managing agent.

Participants in the project are the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd., Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd., the Y & S Iron Sheet and Tube Co., Interlake Steel Corp., Island Steel Co., Pittsburgh Steel Co., Pickands-Mather, the West German firms of Henschel A.G. and Mannesmann A.G. and the Italian company of Finisider.

The participating companies have agreed to take the joint production. Two of the companies, Duesen and Dominion Foundries, did not take part in financing the cost of the mill as they both provided their proportionate share of the total investment.

PROCESSED IN QUEBEC

The lease was acquired for the five-square-mile plot from Canadian Javelin which holds the mineral rights from the Newfoundland government. The lease is similar to the one held by the Iron Ore Co. of Canada which has been in production for five years. The 100 undertakings contains a pelletizing plant but the new Wabush mine also high-grade concentrate to Pointe Noire, Que., for pelletizing.

The promoters and the Newfoundland government wanted the pelletizing plant built in Wabush but it was finally decided to ship the ore to Pointe Noire. Specially designed tank-type cars carry the dry concentrate over the 38-mile route to join the 770-mile Quebec railway line to Sept-Îles. The spot was a joint project with the Wabush ore is 35-per-cent iron and 65-per-cent silica. The concentrate is derived by subjecting the crushed and ground ore to crushing force, rolls and electrostatic separators. When ready for shipment, the concentrate contains 65-per-cent iron and 35-per-cent silica. The main crushing plant consists of two 34-inch gyratory crushers.

Before production could begin, the main ore body had to be laid bare as the operation is open pit mining. More than 3,000,000 cubic yards of overburden had to be removed.

Production now is at about half capacity. The ultimate annual tonnage to be taken from the mine is 13,000,000 tons. This will be refined to produce about 5,200,000 tons of high-grade concentrate. The full production rate is due to be achieved by the end of this year.

The ore is dug by power shovels with 15-ton buckets. Then it is hauled to the plant, less than a mile away, by four-engine heavy-duty electric trucks that can carry 60-ton loads.

Electric power is supplied to the plant from the 260,000-horsepower hydro-electric plant operated by the Twin Falls Power Corp. at Twin Falls on a tributary of the Churchill River.

Wabush Mines is one of three owners of the corporation.

Wabush Mines now employs about 1,000 men. During the peak of the construction schedule, 2,700 men were employed.

Many of those laid off when construction was completed stayed on to provide services to users and dependents. In the next, modern towns that was built by the company to house workers and dependents.

The Wabush mill is a bright, light-filled group of rooms built up in the main processing building is a maze of graphs, gauges, charts and computers. Every phase of the operation is under the eye of a handful of engineers through television, light panels and the computer's steering program.

CLIMATE IS TOUGH

At any minute of the day, the engineers can turn a button. Back a switch and receive a printed tabulation of all production and service figures that are less than a minute old. A big part of the operation is maintenance. Temperatures in western Labrador vary from 90 degrees above zero in summer to 65 below in winter. Machinery maintenance proved a challenge.

constant problem and the main maintenance building now has hundreds of men working on six acres of floor space.

The developers feel the greatest benefit of the venture so far is low-grade iron ore can be mined economically even in such a remote area as Labrador. The secret, they say, is continuous production in vast quantities.

If this schedule is maintained, it can compete economically with any other type of iron mining anywhere else in Canada, they contend.

Visitors to the Wabush Lake area are struck by the almost impossible task that faced the developers in 1957 when the ore was first mined on the lake. The ore consisted of thick slabs of black spruce surrounded by vast stretches of muskeg.

Except for an occasional trapdoor or Indian, the only inhabitants needed in preliminary construction were brought in by both plane. Later, barges were used on the myriad lakes and then trucks and rail facilities were added.

Racing cars sweep round one of the bends of the Mosport circuit during the Players 200 international. Canadian Grand Prix in September will be first time world-class Formula 1 cars have raced in Canada.

Below: Canada's newest race track is at Mont Tremblant, 100 miles north of Montreal. Track is situated between a sparkling lake and a trout stream in the heart of Laurentian Mountains.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP) — Sonnie Fongas, a 27-year-old Guelph, Ont., native, drove Baron Atom to a one-length victory in the eighth race at Greenwood Raceway Thursday to register his 100th victory this season.

Fongas, who also won 39 races last year, was about three winners, Jermale in the first, Mighty Bachelor in the seventh and Baron Atom.

The victory netted Baron Atom, owned by the Soby Stables of Downsview, $700 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $29,000.

Nancy Brook B, a trotting mare from John Graham's Maryland farm, defeated four male rivals in the featured $2,000 invitation trot. Nancy Brook B led from the start and finished the length up on Kim Colby.

The winner returned an $8.20 win and combined with Kim Colby for an $18.80 quinella payoff.

The second day of the season was made Thursday when Paul Riedley of Brampton picked up Tom Tally, a 20-year-old gelded pacer, from Ernest Russell of Port Credit for $10,000 in the fifth race.

Possible Fisherman's Strike Threatens B. C. Salmon Catch

By ERIC WILSON

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prospects for a good year in the British Columbia salmon industry are clouded by the threat of fishermen's strike.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union is asking for a 10 per cent raise in the minimum rate paid for salmon.

The B.C. Fisheries Association, representing eight major packing firms, says it cannot offer more than the rates paid in 1967.

Negotiations began April 20 and union representatives say they are not out of progress.

Assuming a strike can be averted, the fisheries association predicts a 1968 wholesale production value close to the $22,000,000 recorded last year. The all-time high was $28,000,000 in 1958.

The last strike of B.C. salmon fishermen was in 1963 when they were off the coast for three weeks. The union estimates fishermen lost $2,000,000 in that time and the fisheries association places gross wholesale value lost at $2,000,000.

because better handling allows them to be sold fresh or frozen. Salmon caught in gillnets or above stream, eight average and 11 below average.

Besides increases in minimum prices for salmon, the union is seeking a medical service plan, an improved welfare fund and a pension plan for its 4,000 members.

The fisheries association has been asked to pay 30 cents a pound for salmon to establish a medical service plan, plus an additional 10 cents a pound to improve benefits now paid to fishermen and dependents under the Salmon Welfare Fund.

The union has asked that a committee be formed to prepare a pension plan to be initiated in 1969. Matching contributions for 3.5 per cent of earnings would be contributed by member fishermen and employers.

This year the union is asking for a 10 per cent raise, to 15 cents a pound for fresh, to 10 cents for frozen and to 30 cents for sockeye and a four-cent increase to 30 cents a pound for coho.

These figures usually apply only to salmon taken by net fishermen. Those caught by hook and line—spring and coho—fetch prices of up to 15 cents a pound.

Drawing Canada's Largest Crowds Sports-Car Racing Goes Full Throttle

Flashing into lead position in the field of Canada's big-time spectator sports is car racing.

Sooner crowds of up to 50,000 (larger than for any other sport) the eye-and-ear-catching, colorful and reverberating spectacle of high-powered race cars, driven by renowned competitors from around the world, is the big attraction at tracks near Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal.

First Canadian circuit specially built for modern racing-car events was Westwood (1.8 miles around) on the West Coast in 1959, followed by Mosport (2.5 miles) near Toronto two years later, and just last year by the track at Mont Tremblant (1.6 miles), 100 miles north of Montreal.

With five big international races held in Canada this year, including the Canadian Grand Prix at Mosport in September, Canadians will be able to see more world-class drivers at work than who prize their hallucinogenic

To see the visions, hear the unearthly sounds, undergo the mystical experience and the heaver and hell of which Aldous Huxley wrote, the thrill-seekers gobble morning glory seeds, certain mushrooms, mescaline and LSD when they are fit to it.

"We are not concerned in this hospital with mystic experience," says Dr. Maclean. "We are concerned with getting people well again as quickly as possible—in the case of the alcoholic, to get him well before he suffers permanent brain damage."

He wants to make LSD and other psychedelic drugs respectable. Unfortunately, like hypnosis, LSD has become a fad among practitioners steer clear of it, he says.

In May, Dr. Maclean and about 50 doctors of similar ideas met at Amityville, N.Y., for an international conference on the use of LSD.

They agreed to form the International Association for Psychoactive Therapy and they named Dr. Maclean as chairman.

His aims are to promote the use of agents like LSD, to encourage research, and "to standardize the ethical use of these agents in therapy."

Dr. Maclean says this association, whose members come from nine countries, look to Canada for leadership because Canadian pioneered the use of LSD.

These methods vary, but Dr. Maclean says the methods pioneered in his own hospital are widely followed as safe and practical.

A paper he published in 1961 on research at Hollywood Hospital drew more than 100 inquiries for further information about a quarter of them from behind the Iron Curtain.

At the May conference, he read a paper summarizing the seven years of work he and his colleagues at Hollywood Hospital have done with LSD.

Of 171 non-alcoholics, 46 per cent were "much improved" and 27 per cent were "improved."

Most were treated only once, but 21 per cent had repeat treatments—mostly because the response is obviously different with multiple doses of LSD, but to prevent relapses. Only five per cent were treated more than twice.

The effect—in the brief room with the record player and padded furniture—is to allow what psychotherapists call "abreaction."

"Spilling mental garbage, you might say," says Dr. Maclean. "Then the patient, his ego defenses blunted by the drug, can see himself as an impartial observer would see him. With guidance, he may also see the road to self-improvement."

Patients reported afterwards being happier, less tense and, er, more confident.

ANCIENT MARINER
LONDON (CP) — Admiral of the Fleet Sir Henry Francis Oliver celebrates his 100th birthday Jan. 23 and he is still classed as a serving officer. A navy spokesman said that sailors of his rank never retire. Sir Henry, who joined the service in 1919, was chief of the Atlantic fleet in 1947.

Use Drugs in Hospital To Combat Alcoholism

By LESTER MILLER

VANCOUVER (CP) — Is a but-colored room with dark green drapes and a sound-proof ceiling, they spill their mental garbage.

To the accompaniment of music they step outside themselves, look objectively at themselves, and—sometimes—find the road to self-rehabilitation.

This treatment in a suburban private mental hospital is supposed to do in a day what conventional psychotherapy may take years to accomplish.

But Dr. Maclean, the man behind the treatment, laments the phrase "miracle cures," mystics and others use" and says he offers neither a miracle nor a cure.

He describes the treatment cautiously—because he is attempting to offset the volatile nature of the drug he uses: lysergic acid, better known as LSD 25.

Another drug used in Hollywood Hospital, of which he is medical director, has a name as notorious as mescaline: mescaline.

These are notorious, they are feared, because of misuse," says Dr. Maclean.

AMA President Tells Doctors To Follow Law of the Land

By ARCE MACKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — The American Medical Association is resigned to a federal medical-care program for the aged after spending millions of dollars to ward off "socialized medicine." One question now is just how individuals affiliated with the 200,000-doctor group will react to the United States' "socialized medicine."

The association in effect has let every member make a personal choice and there is some strong sentiment on the record for boycotting the whole thing. It remains to be seen how the AMA might compare with the situation in Saskatchewan in 1962 when many doctors withdrew their services to protest the provincial plan of compulsory medical care.

Dr. James E. Appel, 58, a general practitioner and surgeon from Pennsylvania, who is now president of the AMA, told a recent association meeting the law of the land—including medicare—had to be obeyed while doctors work for improvements.

FIGHT WITHIN LAW
"Such a campaign cannot include unethical tactics such as boycott, strike or sabotage. It must be based on reason, logic and education and must utilize legal and ethical and legal procedures that are part of a representative democracy."

Dr. Appel said lack of cooperation from doctors would nullify the intent of medicare and probably invite "regulatory legislation."

However, at the same AMA meeting in New York, boycott resolutions were presented by state associations representing Arizona, Ohio, Florida, Texas, South Carolina, Louisiana, Connecticut and Nebraska.

The history of the AMA and its long opposition to any third-party intervention in medical practice explains the hard sentiment. Over the years, the AMA has spent millions of dollars in a Washington and national lobbying campaign.

It is well-behaved, with a 1964 budget of $9,000,000. It has a roster at last report of more than 114,000,000 and it was the first-aid organization in Washington for the first three months of this year. The sum was $60,370—mostly for anti-drug campaigns in late 1964.

That sum was the third-largest on record, even though only for three months. The AMA also held the peak (and second-largest) anti-drug campaign—$1,322,228 for all 1964—$1,206,978 for 1965.

In those years, the AMA was backing—successfully—former President Harry Truman's program for health care financed through social security payments.

The first-quarter bills this year were primarily for a big October 1964 campaign preceding the presidential election in which the AMA was backed by the public candidate Barry Goldwater.

The AMA had been successful

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Friday, July 25, 1965 21

in similar campaigns in every year since 1967 but had been losing ground. The landslide for President Johnson last November spoiled virtually all the congressional support it had.

Similarly, its own internal unity isn't what it used to be. Numbers of the 200,000 members—out of the country's 250,000 doctors—are believed to be too busy or indifferent to make any boycott action.

The AMA increasingly has drawn its strength from the rural or small-town doctors while specialists have tended to give their time to their own organizations.

The American Hospital Association, which has a more liberal attitude to medicare, has shown signs of moving into the AMA's sphere of influence. As now forecast, Congress will approve much more legislation covering the 19,000,000 Americans aged 65 or over, with hospital or home care. There are a number of fringe benefits and most of the cost is to be carried by higher social security taxes.

The AMA presented its "voluntary" program as a substitute which would criss-cross payments for the medically indigent. It worried of a deterioration of medical standards, higher costs, higher taxes and increasing strain on the line of medical doctors if medicare was approved.

STUDENTS LACK MONEY
ALBANY (CP)—Between 25 and 30 per cent of students with the ability to go to university do not do so, says a new report on education in the Atlantic provinces. The main reason, Professor A. S. Mount of Dalhousie University, is lack of money.

Holy Land Using Sin To Attract Tourists

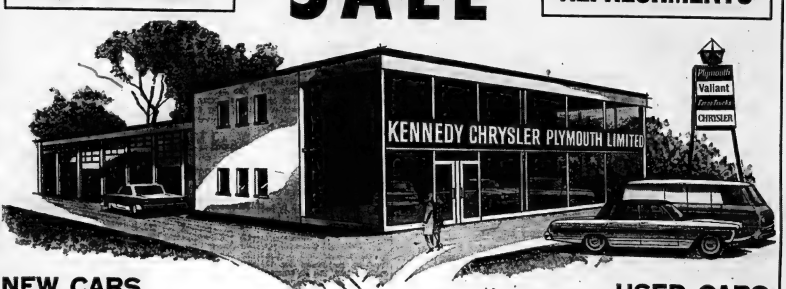

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Holy Land now has a gambling level 3,200 feet below sea level.

It also has a race track and a night club, with an Italian band and Turkish belly dancer, all clustered on the edge of the Dead Sea.

It's the closest thing to the Dead Sea has seen since the disappearance of Sodom and Gomorrah from the Bible some 4,000 years ago. To give ever-growing crowds of tourists something more than numbers, Jordan's Royal Racing and Hunt Club has taken over the Dead Sea Hotel and turned it into the gayest night spot in the country. Before the tribesmen in a desert tent have coffee for the guests.

A swimming pool has sprung up on the shore. Two roulette wheels and a baccarat table have been installed in the only gambling casino in the Middle East outside Lebanon and Egypt. However, most of Jordan's tourists are more interested in seeing the country's holy places and ancient ruins, leaving the gambling tables to eager gamblers. From September to April, when temperatures are more bearable, Arab racing fans move down to the Dead Sea. The track is a makeshift patch of sand marked out with oil drums—but for excitement it's hard to beat. You can bet on Arab stallions straight from the desert or thoroughbred bucks which jump along with athletic jockeys on daily races.

California Is Importing Fish to Fight Mosquitoes

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

BERKELEY (AP) — "Instant fish" will be tested this summer as a weapon against mosquitoes whose larva menace is spreading swiftly in California.

The inchling fish from Brazil and Argentina will be planted in rice fields. They live about a year and gobble mosquito larvae. Each female fish lays hundreds of eggs.

The rice fields are flooded from May to September, but drained at the end of the season. The eggs of the South American fish die within drying out for up to two years, however. When the fields are flooded again, the eggs hatch within 30 minutes, giving rise to the "instant fish."

Despite a $5,000,000 annual abatement program, California is losing its war on mosquitoes. There are more than ever before in the state's history.

Besides their annoying bite and buzz, mosquitoes are potent carriers of malaria, yellow fever, dengue, and other diseases, including heartworm in dogs.

the species of mosquito (culex tarsalis) that carries the disease.

FEARS EPIDEMIC

That was the last serious epidemic of encephalitis in the state. But Richard F. Peters, chief of the California Bureau of vector control, fears another combination of circumstances, identified by continuing failure of control methods, are being set up for an epidemic.

Like other insects, mosquitoes have developed resistance to most of the toxic chemicals used against them.

technology fails completely," says Peters.

In this age of jet travel, a human carrier of a foreign disease — who might appear healthy when he enters the United States — could supply the missing link in a mosquito chain of those and death.

The chief reason for California's mosquito population explosion is the state's intensive farm system, most of it requiring irrigation. Nine million acres are under irrigation now, a quarter of all such land in the United States. Across will be doubled by a vast federal-state water development program under construction.

Mosquitoes complete a breeding cycle in four to six days. They find a happy home in California where the warm, sunny crops may be flooded as much as each batch time.

Alaskan Youth, Age 16, Pedals Bicycle 4,100 Miles To Buy Auto In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — A 16-year-old Alaskan youth who rode a bicycle 4,100 miles to buy a new car here, is enjoying auto industry hospitality usually reserved for dignitaries.

Robert Gregory Layman left his Anchorage home 400 miles away. His father promised to buy him a new car, but he completed the trip.

Robert arrived here early this week and moved into the home of a Ford Motor Co. parts buyer, Robert Tridgion, whom he met on his trip.

Bob Tridgion promptly introduced him to General Motors executives and thereby bought out a small rivalry with GM.

Ford gave him a grand tour of all the divisions, saw plans and introduced Layman to his General Motors car.

He also took a tour of the auto industry. And he was given a 1965 car by General Motors.

GM's plans in Flint, Mich., Layman is scheduled to receive his new car next week. He plans to start his homework drive shortly after that.

Brooke Given 5 Years

By HENRY A. BRADNER
MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet civilian court has given a five-year sentence to Gerald Brooke, a British teacher who pleaded guilty to charges of antisocial activity.

Brooke, 39, heard the sentence Friday without visible emotion. He is to serve one year in prison and four in labor camp. The court gave him seven days in which to appeal to the Supreme Court of the Russian Federation, the largest Soviet republic.

Brooke's Russian lawyer, William Kinnear, said that the lawyer said, "I think we should appeal. I will see Brooke on Monday and we will decide then."

An appeal, he said, may reduce the sentence. "Brooke is a very pleasant," the lawyer said. "He was very afraid when the prosecutor asked for seven years."

The three months that Brooke has spent in prison awaiting trial will count toward his full term.

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — An old torpedo, accidentally dredged from the ocean bottom by a fishing net, demolished the trawler Snoopy in a blast 45 miles off North Carolina's Outer Banks Friday night.

Eight crew members died. And then the Outer Banks, legendary scene of shipwrecks and the Atlantic wrecker's trade, added another chapter to the Second World War, claimed still more lives—300 dead after the war's end.

Today, shattered wood as the Snoopy's mangled wreckage as U.S. Coast Guard and fishing boats circled the area in vain hopes of finding more than the known four survivors, who were taken to shore.

Those picked up Friday night all are in critical condition. The four other crew members were missing and presumed dead.

The Snoopy was trawling for deep sea scallops with a fleet of trawlers off Virginia Beach, N.C., where last October it pulled hundreds of U.S. transports during the early years of the Second World War.

AREA HEAVILY MINED The area was heavily mined during the war and in recent occasions about 100 mines have been spotted, still floating, two decades after they were laid.

What the Snoopy's escape Friday night, however, was a last-minute reprieve.

Several hours after the blast, Coast Guard cutter, the Fall River, Mass., skipper of the popular radio station, by radio telephone what happened.

"The Snoopy pulled along and he kept calling Edward Doody of Portland, Me., called out to have a torpedo haul in."

"I told him to pull clear and he pulled back and he was bringing a mine," Doody said.

"This tremendous blast was heard by all who looked and he was just going."

"There was nothing left but shrapnel."

STRIKE HITS TORONTO — Letter carriers outside Toronto's main post office, some of them still wearing their mail bags, take up picket signs as a sporadic and unauthorized strike by postal workers continued to spread across brother strikers.

One sign reads: "We finally got on the bandwagon to help our postal workers." Truckers refused to cross the picket lines in Toronto to pick up mail for other parts of the city.

Letter carriers have had to delay their strike for one day. It will commence Tuesday, instead of Monday as announced earlier.

This decision was reached at an emergency meeting of Local 45 of the Federal Association of Letter Carriers held here this morning and attended by 16 of the 26 members.

Members of the James Campbell announced after the meeting that it had been decided to await a declaration of national policy from the Postal Workers' Brotherhood, composed of employees of the three postal workers' associations (Toronto, Montreal and Vancouver) who have been promised by Monday evening.

Brotherhood's decision, the local letter carrier will strike by postal workers at tomorrow's action taking with similar strike action taken by postal workers at numerous other centres.

Members of the inside staff at the Post Office here had earlier announced their decision to continue to work as usual, unless official action from the Canadian Postal Workers' Association headquarters in Ottawa.

From Montreal, the paper speculated.

The press says Quintin Hoag, first minister, and attorney general, and a minister has been approached to see if they can get the postal workers' strike to end.

Wreckage Indicates Explosive

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wreckage of an aircraft that crashed and sent 10 persons to their deaths July 8 has revealed chemical traces that have come from an explosive.

Traces of carbon and potassium nitrate were found in fragments of a rear port wheel on the plane.

Members of the RCMP have declared a low velocity explosive, such as dynamite.

Experts here said that an explosive could not be set off by a small explosion, such as a blow. It would have to be intentionally detonated.

The findings were made Friday by chemists in a RCMP laboratory in Vancouver.

Next week after the crash, a near 100 mile crash, a U.S. investigation revealed that the explosion in the rear port wheel caused the plane to lose control.

Seek First Ballot Deadlock To Block Maudling and Heath

LONDON (Reuters) — The Daily Express says a "powerful" backbench campaign in the House of Commons to block the first ballot of the two main candidates for Conservative party leadership in succession to Sir Alec Douglas-Home.

The Express says right-wing Conservative Keith Powell and former defense minister Peter Thorneycroft might run the first ballot. Powell would take votes from Heath and Thorneycroft.

OTTAWA (CP)—Three weeks, when the session of the Dominion report as at its height, prominent Liberal strategists were dismissing any general election for at least a year.

A source close to Prime Minister Pearson said Friday that Mr. Pearson is proceeding on the basis of an Oct. 18 election unless there are compelling reasons there are.

A Lift for Living

History Shows Greatness Hand in Hand With Humility

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Now, in midsummer, the days are heavy with grain, stalks of corn are weighted with ears, and boughs of apple, peach and pear trees are laden to bend under the burden of ripening fruit. The heavier the fruit, the lower about the stalk and limb.

Reverend low is the hall of fruitful people, too. Truly great people seldom feel great, and the smallest people seldom feel small. The prospect who accomplishes little is likely to boast a great deal about his little achievements, while the wise and good benefactor of mankind sees what he has accomplished as far too small in comparison with what he would like to do for the world.

Throughout the Bible, and secular history, too, we see signs that humility and greatness belong to each other. When God called Moses to lead his people out of captivity, he answered, "Who am I, that I should go into Pharaoh's court and am not a slave?"

What do you make of Paul writing to Timothy, "The saying is sure and worthy of full acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. And I am the foremost of sinners?"

It is a strange fact, revealed in the history of greatness, that the better a man is, the worse he seems to be to himself, and the greater he is, the humbler he is to his own.

EASY TO PREACH
Humility, like other virtues, is easier to preach than to practise. The employer thinks it is good quality in his employee. Parents expect it of children, teachers of their pupils. The honest boss to find it in his minister, and the preacher advocates it to his parishioners. Humility has always been regarded as essential to Christian faith. Saint Augustine declared, "Should you ask me, 'What is the first thing in religion?' I should reply, 'The first, second and third thing therein is humility.'"

Humility is the first thing in religion, and it is the first thing in the history of the world. It is the meagreness which makes us feel bigger than our meager mind, and that meagreness which makes us feel so much we know our knowledge is not enough to make us proud.

Humility is the first thing in the history of the world.

power of God, and humility it is the recognition that the good within us is not self-made; it comes from above and beyond us, from God.

FIRST TO PIONEER
The first white woman known to have come to the American continent was Cordoba, wife of Thomas Knapton, who spent three years at Vinland from 1007.

Joseph Knapton expressed the spirit of humility when, after composing the great oratorio "Creation," he contained, "What from me, but from above."

Humility is the recognition of our limitations while being truly aware of the good within us. Indeed, humil-

Cardenas, 21, became the Angels' leading all-around utility Friday night at Los Angeles, hitting a homer, a double and two singles, leading the Angels to a 7-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Car 'Breathes' Via Crankcase Vent System

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

You're probably bored of the crankcase ventilating system, but do you really know why it's important to your engine?

It's the breathing system that rid the crankcase of harmful contaminants such as combustion gases, water and gasoline vapors, thus helping to keep engine oil cleaner, cooler and under normal pressure.

If the filter at the oil filler pipe and at the outlet vent pipe become clogged, crankcase pressures build up and may force past seals, gaskets or bearings. In some cases, the pressure will cause heavy smoke or oil to be blown out the breather pipe.

It is most important that the filters are kept clean and unobstructed. As your service technician will tell you, they should be checked every 3,000 to 4,000 miles.

S. B. writes: "Even after a recent major tune-up, compression test, transmission check and complete lubrication, my '63 sedan still accelerates very sluggishly."

It's possible that dragging brakes are the trouble.

From O.V.: "We have a '63 Scyllander model, a d that's a screeching noise whenever I accelerate hard. The fan belt was changed, but the noise still occurs."

Try lubricating the fan pulley with light engine oil.

P. T. writes: "Any kind of dash light to tell the driver that he has left the headlights on is ridiculous."

Wouldn't a bell or some other audible signal be the practical idea?

Yes... and there's a bumper you can buy for about $4 which so warns that you've left the headlights on after the ignition is turned off.

H. Z. asks: "In checking over my sport ship last weekend, I found that two of them were caked with a wet sludge. What does this mean?"

It could mean worn rings or pistons in these cylinders, or, perhaps, excessive clearance between valve stems and guides.

World's Airlines Watched By Enforcement Officers

By MICHAEL ELAINE

MONTREAL (CP)—If you've travelled on international flights you may have noticed that whatever the airline there is a distinct similarity between the meals: leg of lamb, ticket prices, angle of seats and many other little things.

It's no accident. Any deviation from regulations can result in the airline being fined if it's a member of the International Air Transport Association.

IATA enforcement officers are continually flying on the member airlines checking on such details as the number of vegetables served with dinner, the number of meals served during a flight and a host of other items governed by IATA's international agreements.

Member airlines appear content with the situation and the association, a post-war baby, has grown from 10 members in 1945 to 94 now. Among them they handle 90 per cent of the world's air commerce.

U.S.S.R. STAYS OUT

Each of the airlines is assessed under a formula and must maintain the secretariat's 125 employees who operate on a budget of $700,000 a year. IATA acts maximum on the service an airline may give to a passenger and minimum on the fares charged for flights between 160,000 world centres, says an official of the organization.

The rules govern all major carriers except Aeroflot, the Soviet state carrier, and China's international airline which recently started overseas flights.

IATA in its current form was set up in 1946, taking over from the International Air Traffic Association formed in 1919 but suspended during the Second World War.

IATA's main function is to coordinate international air traffic and negotiate world-wide fare pacts. The spokesman said this has worked well over the years. Less than three per cent of the fare agreements have been rejected, mainly over small points which were quickly settled.

U.S. WANTS MOVIES

The latest rejection of a fare package was by the U.S. government which ruled against a tax on in-flight motion pictures. This has the effect of creating an operating situation and airlines wishing to lower fares may do so until a new rate structure is agreed upon. The likelihood of this happening and starting a rate war is small, however, because governmental pressure would probably force any carrier to maintain the status quo.

The rate structure expired June 7 and a mail vote by members usually takes several months.

The association is often accused of being a monopoly of keeping air fares high and being too strict in its control of passenger services. But statistics disagree this, particularly in the field of fares which have dropped consistently since 1945, the IATA spokesman said.

In 1945 the transatlantic return air fare was $100 but through continued negotiations this has dropped and now can fly across the North Atlantic on a scheduled flight for as little as $300.

"One member has also dropped air cargo rates, and following a recent cargo conference at Vienna some rates were dropped as much as 50 per cent."

The IATA staff, under Director-General Sir William P. Hildred of Britain, has its headquarters here, with regional offices in New York, Paris, London, Madrid, Buenos Aires and Bangkok.

Party Expels Ben Gurion

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — The Israeli Labor Party today formally expelled David Ben-Gurion, former premier who led it for 35 years.

The decision to expel the former leader was made by the party's secretariat following the establishment of the Israeli Labor List, a faction headed by Ben-Gurion, which will compete in the November general election.

The decision of the secretariat was reached unanimously in the absence of "rebel members."

A dispute between Ben-Gurion and his former colleagues has simmered ever since the "La-ron affair," a supposed abortive sabotage plot against Egypt in 1955 which led to the resignation of defence minister Pinhas Lavon.

The cabinet exonerated Lavon in 1960, against Ben-Gurion's wishes.

Fifty-two letter carriers and 29 mail clerks are involved in the strike.

Rebel Students Learning Urban Warfare

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Six hundred young Dominican rebels are learning "urban warfare" at a makeshift military school here.

With obvious enthusiasm, the recruits do calisthenics, learn to use weapons and practice on obstacles which simulate street fighting conditions.

They go to school from 5:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., seven days a week.

Anyone living in the rebel zone is eligible for the one-month course, including members of the 5,000-man rebel army. Many in this army are trained civilians who received weapons for the first time at the outset of the rebellion in April.

The director and the majority of the instructors are members of the leftist June 16th party. The school is endorsed by Col. Francisco Caamaño Frossi, the rebel president, and moderate factions in the rebel movement.

The training course includes lectures on reasons for the rebellion. The explanation is given below. The leading of U.S. troops blocked the rebellion and prevented "the people from achieving their democratic goals."

Refused Audience With Cardinal, Nurse Fatally Wounds Secretary

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A lost, quiet and apparently friendless nurse, who police said was fired from her last job because of "emotional instability," is being held in the shooting death of a young priest.

The shooting took place Friday in the choir of the Los Angeles Roman Catholic Archdiocese.

If investigators have determined the motive, they haven't announced it. However, chief of detectives Thad Brown, said Mrs. Dorothy M. Wade may have been frustrated in efforts to see the archbishop, James Francis Cardinal McIntyre.

Brown said he learned that Mrs. Wade, a 35-year-old unemployed nurse and divorcee, made several month telephone calls in an attempt to gain an audience with the cardinal.

Mrs. Wade, who had been fired from her last job because of "emotional instability," was booked on suspicion of murder.

Rt. Rev. Edward V. Wade said he heard a thump Friday and rushed into a second-floor conference room. He found Rev. John Thum, 32, dying on the floor.

The priest was taken to hospital. He was dead of head and chest wounds.

Father Thum had been working as the cardinal's secretary. Mr. Wade said he saw Mrs. Wade place a dagger into a table when he first entered the conference room.

A dome police car came to the choir, and Mrs. Wade was taken into custody.

8 U.S. Steel Firms Fined As Price-fixers

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight major U.S. steel companies were fined $50,000 each Friday for price fixing in the carbon sheet steel industry.

The amounts were the maximums under federal law.

The action by federal Judge Edward Weinfeld came after the steel firms withdrew pleas of not guilty to "anti-trust" charges and pleaded no contest — a willingness to accept punishment without entering guilty.

Similar pleas were entered by two steel executives, James T. Barton, assistant general manager of administrative services for U.S. Steel, and W. V. Stephens, president of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

Their sentencing was scheduled for September. The maximum is one year imprisonment and $50,000 each in fines.

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj. Gen. Norman Elliot, holder of the Order of Canada, has been appointed colonel commandant of the Cadet Services of Canada, the service organization that administers the Royal Canadian Army Cadets, it was announced here Friday.

Western Ontario Building Strike Is Settled

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A 30-man brotherhood strike which led to a 4 p.m. today after its executive committee on all day Sunday. The brotherhood is not expected to announce publicly its policy in the dispute until this evening.

In Montreal, however, strike leaders William J. Hodge and Roger Desautels said their members are prepared for a long strike.

They would not recognize the authority of Judge Anderson, whose appointment, they said, was too late "because the issue has been before the government for more than six months."

In dispute are increases ranging from 3.5 to 5.5 per cent granted by the government 10 years ago. The union wants an annual salary for letter carriers to $4,600 and for inside mail sorters to $5,040.

There were other weekend developments. Mr. Benson said the government had no intention of taking the strikers back to work. He said he would not take the strikers back to work. He said he would not take the strikers back to work.

Millwrights Return to Work

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — Union millwrights returned to work in Hamilton on Saturday following settlement of a four-day-old strike after a final ratification of the settlement would be sought at a meeting of millwrights.

The settlement followed a contractor's meeting in Toronto called by the Association of Millwrights and Rigging Contractors of Ontario.

The spokesman said the millwrights, members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (UBCA), were given a "substantial" raise in a new four-year agreement.

He declined to elaborate. The union was seeking a rate increase of 30 cents-an-hour over a two-year period plus six per cent vacation pay.

The present rate for millwrights in Hamilton is $3.35 an hour.

A walk-to-rule policy has been adopted by several centres in the Atlantic provinces.

In Ottawa, it was reported that the first of a series of public hearings by Judge Anderson would start this week. An informant said the hearings could start and last long.

As the strike spread, express telegraph and telephone services were disrupted.

A CNR official said the company's telegraph facilities had been able to handle the increase in traffic.

"We don't know how we are going to handle them all," he said.

The Canadian National Exhibition, which opens Aug. 26 in Toronto, has no extra plans to handle competition entries coming in by telephone and teletype, and sent 1,000 pieces of mail for mailing.

Ottawa's Workmen's Compensation Board has set up emergency offices across the province to distribute a daily allowance of 1,000 cheques to disabled workers. New claims for benefits are being taken at the office of police and motor transport.

Wiring Said Cause of Fire

TRENTON — Detective wiring is thought to be the cause of a fire in the two-story frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gardner at 275 Front Street, which occurred Saturday evening.

Fire Chief Clifford J. Smith said he was interviewing an inspector to examine the place.

The fire broke out in the wall of an upstairs bedroom and spread to the living room.

The gardeners and their five small children were away from home at the time.

After he got away from the place, he called the fire department.

This pick-up truck placed on some precast material and hoisted up by a crane, was one of the displays offered for public viewing on Saturday when Wilson Concrete Products held an Open House.

Wilson Concrete 'At Home' Drew Over 1,000 People

Over 1,000 people visited Wilson Concrete Products Limited Saturday in that company's first Open House.

The crowd, coming in a steady pattern from 12 a.m. to 3 p.m., enjoyed the demonstrations on precast, material and mixing.

A giant 300-foot crane outside the plant, held a pickup truck deftly on a slab of precast material and swung it into the air.

The visitors were also treated to a display of the Spiral Core Form Extruder, a machine that makes hollow-core concrete slabs in seconds for footing and flooring.

A Wilson Concrete spokesman said, "This was our first attempt at an Open House and we are very happy with the response. We plan to do it again in the future and it would be nice to see other visitors hold Open Houses too because it gives the people of Belleville a chance they wouldn't otherwise have to see what is being manufactured in the city."

Wilson Concrete Products, organized only 16 years ago, has grown from a concrete block supplier to the Quinte District with a handful of employees, to a supplier of both block and precast and prestressed concrete products to many areas, southern Ontario and Eastern Quebec. It now employs over 250 people.

The company started operations in 1940 in a small rented barn in the south end of the city. Today, it has grown to a large plant with a large staff.

Indians, Wankkees Split

Twins Win

By DICK COONCE
Associated Press Sports Writer

In a pinch, Forrest (Snaky) Harrison, Burgess gave Chicago White Sox plenty of bounce to the game.

Old pitcher, veteran of many All-Star games, broke the major league record for pinch-hitting Sunday with a "twice double" — the first pinch hit of his 16-year career — as the White Sox split an American League doubleheader with Detroit Tigers.

The veteran catcher's hit, which kept an eight-run inning alive in Chicago, won him a spot in the White Sox's first three-game victory, broke him out of a slump and had 107 pinch-hits for three National League clubs from 1959 to '64.

"The thing that makes Snaky a great pinch hitter is the fact that he is always swung and sent a pitch to the ball," Lopez said after the second game, which the Sox won 1-2 with a four-hour barrage. "It's not how the ball is hit. It is just taken by him."

Burgess, 38, with 12 hits and 10 RBIs as a pinch hitter this season, has the eighth most pinch hits in the majors.

The Pittsburgh Pirates' catcher, who has a total of 104 pinch hits, has come close to hitting a home run, four more than Snaky.

WHITE TIGERS LEAD
Chicago and Detroit were splitting their twin bill Sunday night.

Tony Oliva and Zoilo Versalles came from their lead in the second game, Orioles to 3-0.

Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees split a doubleheader, the Indians taking the night game 4-2.

Red Sox took the lead in the second game, Orioles to 3-0.

ROUGH LOOKING CITY — This is the main street of Yakutsk in eastern Siberia. The 332-year-old city appears as though it were born yesterday, an impression conveyed by rough-hewn log buildings, primitive roads and services. It has grown to 80,000 population despite the fierce geographic and climatic conditions (CP Photo)

80,000 Yakuts Inhabit Log City Which Is in Its Fourth Century

John Best, Canadian Press Moscow correspondent, visited Yakutsk in eastern Siberia during a 24,000-mile tour. He describes the ancient city and its people in this story.

By JOHN BEST

YAKUTSK, Siberia (CP) — Tucked deep in eastern Siberia this barely city presents an enigmatic face to the visitor. On the one hand it looks as though it were born yesterday, an impression conveyed by rough-hewn log buildings, primitive roads and services, and the rather rustic informality of its people.

On the other hand it has a weather-beaten appearance, suggesting ripe age and durability. Its astonishing, however, to learn just how old it is—years and one is led to wonder how it could have survived this long and grown to 80,000 people in spite of the fierce geographic conditions.

Yakutsk has to face. Situated on the Lena River about 2,800 miles from the nearest city in the Soviet Union, Yakutsk is the capital of what is called the easternmost republic of Yakutia, a sprawling region of woods, marshes and great rivers covering 465,000 square miles in eastern Siberia.

The republic has a population of 480,000, little more than one person to the square mile. Between 40 and 50 per cent are Yakuts, most numerous of the minority groups who inhabit the northern reaches of the Soviet Union.

A Mongolian, Turkish-speaking people, the Yakuts migrated from the south several hundred years ago.

RAISE REMINDER

They go in for livestock breeding, for hunting and reindeer husbandry. The swampy tundra that covers much of Yakutia makes a congenial environment for antlered animals. The Yakuts also grow a variety of crop including potatoes and vegetables and, in more southerly regions, grain.

Remote and forbidding, Yakutsk is a place of bastionment for political exiles during the last century and the home of forced laborers from the late 1930s to the 1950s. Many former inmates are believed to have stayed on after the camps were disbanded.

Yakutsk is a place where winter arrives early and stays late. The ice begins forming on the Lena in October and remnants of snow remain on the ground through early June.

A deep and heavy layer seems to settle over the city when the warm days of late spring arrive. People promote slide up and down the streets or on downtown leading to the river.

Though toughened by the harsh conditions under which they live, the Yakuts are a gentle, quiet people, tranquil and likable.

There are few motor vehicles in this odd fascinating city. But river traffic is heavy in the summer months. Supplies are brought downstream from the railroad at the Khatanga, 900 miles southwest of here, by barge, and also for a couple of months of the year by icebreaker.

That 200 miles north on the Arctic.

Other supplies come in by air to Yakutsk's meagerly busy airport.

The city has an easy charm that would attract a fair number of tourists if it were more easily accessible. But Yakutsk isn't much interested in tourism.

"We have other things to think about here," says A. V.

Ochelnikova, attractive woman president of the republic. One is a new residential area being built here, complete with school and service establishments, to accommodate people now living in old, dilapidated houses. Another is a new university on the planning board.

Authorities say they expect Yakutsk will continue to grow with the exploitation of its mineral wealth, including gold, diamonds and iron ore. And a pipeline is being constructed to bring natural gas from the north.

But if the people aren't too concerned, they nevertheless are hospitable to the few visitors who bide in from time to time.

During my stay I had dinner at a prominent Yakut's home. There was cold beef, potato salad, cheese, crab, bread, noodles, chicken, fish, cold roast, fermented mare's milk, wine, mineral water, vodka, cognac and champagne.

At one point there was a welcome pause in the feasting while everyone got up and walked around the table to desert—a variety of cakes and coffee.

Thai Maid Named Miss Universe

By KELLY SMITH

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Two thousand people crowded an oceanfront hotel to watch Thailand's Miss Universe celebrate the biggest party of her life—her coronation ball.

Hundreds waved, applauded and hoisted banners as Aomera (Pook) Hongakulak walked through the hotel lobby on a red carpet to the ballroom Sunday night.

In the ballroom, her escort had to battle photograph seekers to keep his wife within arm's reach. It was the 18-year-old dark-eyed Pook's first dance.

Six hundred persons paid $50 to eat a seven-course candle-lit dinner and gaze at the Miss Universe levities.

Rumored to be contest was Finland's Monie Virpi Hotiainen, a model first seen on Anne Downey, Miss U.S.

Miss Dominion of Canada, Carol Ann Fisher, 24, of Hamilton, was among the 15 semifinalists.

Col. Fern Hongakulak, a colonial officer in full dress uniform of the Royal Thai Air Force, was the proud escort at the ball.

The coldest said he wished Pav. Pink Peak and Pop could have been there too. That's the end of the family, he said, Bangkok.

The petite dark-eyed queen was crowned Saturday night. With the title goes a year-long $10,000 appearance contract, $10,000 in cash and other gifts.

Aerialist Falls, Breaks Legs

TORONTO (CP) — James Cochran, 21, a high-wire performer at the Toronto Police Athletic Association games here Saturday night plunged 60 feet to the ground breaking both legs. There was no safety net.

He is in satisfactory condition at Toronto General Hospital after surgery on the bones of his right leg, which a metal pin was inserted in one leg.

The aerialist, who was working under his professional name of Miles Kinsella, was walking up a sloping wire to the top of an aluminum scaffold tower when the tower collapsed. Workmen believe that a guy wire supporting the tower snapped.

Curtains Part, Show Venus, Botticelli-like -- and Alive

By BOB THOMAS

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The curtains part, and Venus stands before us in a new, less-faded look, but as Botticelli painted her 400 years ago. Indeed she is alive, this glowing, golden-haired nude, and she can be seen this summer night in one of California's unique tourist attractions. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Laguna Beach Festival of the Arts, which attracts so many tourists that it is sold out for its five-week run.

The setting is an amphitheatre carved out of wooded hills a mile from the beach. Under star-filled skies, 800 volunteers contribute to the festival in some of the world's most sublime works of art—also, say some critics, some of the most banal.

"I'll have that argument to the critics. There are many, as you might expect in a community with a large number of artists. This year's festival brought a minor storm when retired misologists picketed the place. These were actually based on exhibitions in the past which displayed an important feature of the festival."

EXHIBITS VARY
The festival program includes everything from an El Greco Chiton to a Norman Rockwell magazine cover, and from a modernist's Night Watch.

The festival began in 1912 when several citizens decided it would be best to concentrate for art and, not incidentally, for Laguna Beach. The summer festival continued to grow—minus the war years—until now admission amounts to $300.00 annually.

"The festival's cultural projects are supported by the community," says the festival director, "and the profits contribute to an opera season and a school of art and design. And the change of commerce profits from the program."

The festival also supports artists in a manner in which they are not supported elsewhere. The festival's cultural projects are supported by the community, and the profits contribute to an opera season and a school of art and design. And the change of commerce profits from the program."

The festival is operated with only five paid staff members; all others contribute their time and talent. Laguna Beach, a small town of 10,000 people, is proud to host the festival.

TORONTO STRIKE SUGGESTS LETTER CARRIERS MAY TAKE

Letter Carriers Here Decide To End Strike

Belleville letter carriers voted today to end their strike.

They made this decision in spite of the fact that striking postal employees at Toronto voted to continue on strike—and local carriers had earlier stated they would follow strikers' example, whatever that might be.

The reasoning behind the change in heart was a belief that the Toronto strikers' decision was taken prior to the announcement that Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville had recommended that postal employees recently awarded a $300 increase should receive $360, retroactive to last October.

Meanwhile, resentment during the hitherto cheery outlook of the pickets this morning, they learned their pay cheques were ordered withheld.

Postmaster J. A. McManus confirmed the cheques had arrived on schedule—but he had ordered to hold them.

"So far we can't reach the cheques to those who are on strike," he said.

Robert Temple, 39, who is confirmed by the union as "working on it," with Ottawa, he apparently learned about the action yesterday afternoon while conferring with the strikers.

Mr. Temple said he was at 7 a.m. today and said he planned to meet at 10 a.m. MAIL STOP MOVES

McCall is thinking in—and out—of the Belleville Terminal.

However, with train routes now out, delivery trucks are being pressed into use.

"We're using whatever way services we can," said post master McManus.

It also had called for some assistance by local postal authorities.

For instance, east-bound mail now is being taken to the train to Trent and transferred to the train to Smiths Falls, Ontario.

They also had the co-operation of the Belleville operation employees, said the postmaster.

Meanwhile, the hardest working man in the post, office continues to be Douglas Burns, who as chief postal officer now

Hellyer Nearing His Goal

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Defense Minister Paul Hellyer is rapidly nearing his goal—and possibly that originally estimated—of annual administrative savings of $100,000,000 by cutting the defense establishment.

When Mr. Hellyer took over the defense portfolio in 1963, the armed forces numbered 123,276. When integration of the command structure officially took effect last August they stood at 118,252.

Authorities say that at May 31, 1965, last date for which figures are available, the number of military personnel was 112,317 and still falling. The figure is the lowest in 10 years.

Mr. Hellyer's aim was to reduce the monetary strength of the services to about 100,000 by 1966, and then save $100,000,000 a year.

Officials estimate this goal may be reached long before that date. The reduction may take the force strength slightly below 100,000.

Defense officials say getting one serviceman back in civvy street saves the government $1,000 a year in direct costs, such as pay and allowances.

The indirect savings in such items as travel, medical and dental are estimated as $1,000 a year, as recommended by the civil service commission.

Integration is saving and since Mr. Hellyer took office 10,322.

DOUGLAS BURNS, chief postal officer here, has been sorting and delivering downtown business mail during the strike of Belleville letter carriers. He is now doing carrying out his usual (or ill) delivery chore.

WASHINGTON AP—President Johnson announced today that the U.S. military forces in Viet Nam to 150,000 men.

News, reporting on Viet Nam policy talks, said a press conference that "additional forces will be needed later and they will be sent."

But he said he has concluded there is no need at this time to mobilize military reserves or call any national guard forces to active duty.

LONDON (Reuters)—The British pound sterling made its biggest recovery in weeks on foreign exchange markets today following news of severe cuts in spending announced by Prime Minister Wilson's Labor government Tuesday.

But some members of the Labor party were reported shocked at the austerity plan and the announcement that several key plans from their election platform will be shelved in the campaign to strengthen the pound and ease the balance of payments problem.

On the foreign exchange market, the price of sterling went from $2.70 to $2.785 within an hour this morning.

Reports from Zurich indicated that the pound also was stronger in relation to the Swiss franc.

The London stock market, however, was slightly depressed awaiting a trend, with reduction in share prices of many companies most affected by the new economy measures.

The moves in London, said the exchange, cut most shares in the building industry and credit financing—and topped $10,000,000 last year's defence programme.

Toronto Postal Workers Hold Key As Montrealers Soidly Turn Down Truce

OTTAWA (CP)—Judge J. C. Anderson said today he will recommend to the government that postal workers who were recently given $300 annual pay increases should instead be given $360, retroactive to last October.

The interim increase would amount to five dollars a month and does not come close to the $690 increase demanded by the strikers.

Judge Anderson, the commissioner appointed to investigate the wage dispute behind the current postal strike, also said he is of the opinion there should be a "further substantial increment" for all postal workers in group D.

He told a press conference he is not yet in a position to make a detailed recommendation of this question.

Judge Anderson read a prepared statement and declined to comment on it.

John Anderson, who was appointed to the job last Friday, said he has not had enough time to determine whether the wages paid in postal workers following the all-party announced truce are "fair and reasonable in all the circumstances."

"The circumstances now prevailing are different from those prevailing as of July 1, 1964, the date upon which the civil service commission made its recommendations to the treasury board, but not, stated beyond that date.

"Nevertheless, I am now prepared to indicate that my report will recommend that, instead of $300 as recommended by the civil service commission postal clerks, I letter carriers and mail handlers should be given a 5 per cent increase in postal clerks 2, namely $300, retroactive to Oct. 1, 1964."

Judge Anderson said he was of the opinion that three should now be a further substantial increment in all postal classes in group D, the exact amount of which I am not yet in a position finally to recommend.

Before going to a cabinet meeting this morning Revenue Minister Lester said he has no question of firing postal employees who failed to return to work places from their leaders.

He said the government still is waiting to see what the postal strike situation will be after the scheduled strike for today at Toronto and Hamilton.

Vancouver police employees are back at work, he said, and the government will guarantee the return of postal workers to Montreal and Toronto on Thursday night to meet their demands for a $600-a-year increase. The government has offered $200.

Mr. Benson said today's strike was the first since the government's back-to-work order was issued in Ottawa, Newmarket, Kitchener, Niagara Falls, Owen Sound, Guelph and Windsor.

But mail services in these centres were being maintained because of the federal embargo on all but first-class mail in the strike cities. The federal embargo's 20 postal workers were back on the job but had no mail to deliver.

Drought Shrivels Crop Prospects In Widely-Scattered Parts of World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Severe drought conditions have laid waste to crops in scattered fields, estimated cattle, dry streams and black prospects for crops in many parts of the world.

The drought has hit parts of Australia, Korea, India, Italy, Portugal, Egypt, Panama and the northeastern United States, among other places.

Parts of Australia are undergoing one of the worst droughts on record. The outlook is grim in many of that country's richest agricultural areas.

Heavy rains the last few days broke the drought in the coastal areas of eastern Australia, but vast sheep and cattle ranches to the west still are dry.

The federal minister for primary production, C. P. Armstrong, said "undoubtedly the drought will have adverse effects on our wheat and other cereal production in the coming season. Wool, meat and milk production also will be affected."

Here is a brief summary of drought conditions in other areas:

PORTUGAL

Poor harvests are predicted in most regions. In the southern region, drought and wide tracts of abandoned farmlands have brought a plague of locusts, which damaged tomato and flower crops. Corn and potato crops both dropped this year, although wheat is not in bad shape, according to the National Institute of Statistics. Grapes have not been affected.

INDIA

Eastern India suffered under the worst dry spell in a decade this spring, but food ministers in New Delhi said that officials on an India-wide basis, there appeared to be no fear of serious economic dislocation. Officials in Calcutta estimated at least 1,000,000 acres of rice, India's big money-making export, were damaged. Another 50,000 acres of the crop were not planted this year.

Exact damage to crops and to India's food position cannot be appraised for several months until the impact of the belated monsoon rains is studied. Even a slight drop in yields is harmful because India already eats more than it grows.

PANAMA

A 30- to 50-per-cent drop in average rainfall in central Panama has affected that country's richest farming zone and prime citrus area.

Cattle herds find little food on the parched cracking pastures. Unless rain comes soon, the cattle will be a total loss. The Panama Canal restricts the kind of shipping due to low lake levels.

KENYA

Two years ago Kenya was a food exporter. Today it must stand shrivel in the fields and the nation is importing tons of U.S. corn to feed its people. The drought is the worst since 1961 when vast cattle herds were decimated and many people died.

ITALY

Drought in northern Italy this spring was the worst since 1933. The threat was slower than usual and in addition there was no rain all May. Rice industry spokesmen estimate a crop yield about four per cent below normal. The corn crop also is expected to be affected.

SOUTH AFRICA

Vast areas of the cane belt have suffered an unprecedented summer drought and many rivers have stopped flowing, preventing irrigation of sugar cane fields. The shortage of water over the cane crop of 1,500,000 tons from an expected 1,800,000, officials estimate said. The wood chip is down.

this spring was broken this month when the rainy season finally set in. Crop prospects, which had been forecast to rise again crop.

Inadequate rains in the provinces of Corrientes and Santa Fe will affect corn yields. Some late-planted areas have been abandoned for use as forage.

UNITED STATES
The drought area in the northwestern United States extends from Maryland to Maine, and is most acute in a wide band from Pennsylvania northwest to the Canadian border. Farmers are harmed by the 46-month dry spell, and will most likely have to buy livestock feed. Harvest for storage of public water supplies are depleted and cities like New York are conserving water.

U.C.W. Meetings

WELLINGTON U.C.W.

WELLINGTON — "God and His Purpose" was the theme used at the regular meeting of the United Church Women, held in the Continental parlor Thursday.

The devotions were led by Mr. H. Pierson on the theme "Our Church." Members who visited Toronto on the bus trip gave a description of the visitation. This mission is made possible by donations from many sources and relies entirely on faith for its survival. It has functioned successfully since 1920 to serve the needy. One hundred and thirty meals and free meals are given a year, five foot parcels are sent to other countries and summer camps are maintained outside the city. There are 12 employees and many volunteer workers. The mission is interdenominational with a Sunday school enrollment of 140.

Passages of Scripture were read by Mrs. B. Bishop, Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. J. Dart. Miss Susan Pettigall sang a solo and Miss Dorothy Parks played piano selections.

During the business portion of the meeting, chaired by the president, Mrs. C. Hicks, an invitation from Coanara United Church Women to attend a tea on Wednesday afternoon, August 4, was accepted. Mrs. C. Taylor, supply secretary, read a letter of thanks from the clothing depot in Toronto for the hats packed and shipped from Wellington. Over 300 pounds of clothing were sent. Plans were completed for the annual tea to be held on the afternoon of July 31.

Mrs. C. Garwood, Mrs. D. Fairbairn and Mrs. W. Jackson served refreshments.

Says Skirts Soon 6 Inches Above Knee

LONDON (AP) — British

clothes designer Mary Quant predicted Tuesday that within the next few years skirts will go up to six inches above the knee.

"My own collection gets shorter each time," the London designer said, "but legs would look better. New leg coverings will be evolved. I shall use a reporter and a photographer on a great line hunt."

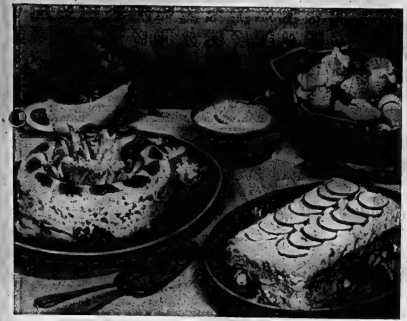

The result was an eight-colour spread of above-the-knee skirts, encountered in London, and for reaction of their wearers.

The Telegraph found that to per cent of the skirts are already a good inch or two above the knee.

Sixty per cent have around the knee.

WARN OF CROP DANGER

A British firm has developed a frost-warning device for farmers which rings a bell in the farmhouse when the temperature in the fields falls below a set limit.

Keep yourself calm and your kitchen cool by producing meals from the refrigerator instead of the stove. Mary Moore gives you two cool beauties — Salmon Mousse and Chicken Aspic — with the friendly hope that they will make your summer cooking more comfortable.

COOL SALAD MOLDS

Today I am combining two ideas and both ideas are used in two recipes. The main meat course is to be cold and jellied and served as the basis of a summer salad meal. One cake for omelet salmon; the other, for cooked chicken.

These may be made 24 hours in advance and stored in refrigerator — perfect for summer cottage housewives expecting to hear a car coming down the roadway drive away any moment. Dandy to have ready for the Civic Holiday guests.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Scotch Broth; Pork Hocks with Sauerkraut (see Monday); Mixed Mustard Pickle; Roast Turkey; Celery; Green Beans; Carrot Slices; Green Pepper Rings; Chilled Baked Chicken with Treen Berries; Coconut Caps (see Tuesday); Tea.

SALMON MOUSSE (serves 6):

One lb. can best-quality red salmon, 1 teaspoon green onion flakes, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon bottled grated lemon peel or 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon curry powder (optional), 1 tablespoon chopped parsley or parley flakes, ½ cup water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup genuine mayonnaise (not salad dressing), ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ tablespoon unflavored gelatin.

Soak salmon carefully, including bones and liquids in salmon but not skin. Soak gelatin in ½ cup of the cold water for 5 minutes. To the drained salmon add the remaining water, onion flakes, pepper, lemon peel, curry powder, if used, Worcestershire sauce and parsley. Stand the soaked gelatin over very hot water and stir to dissolve. Stir into the salmon mixture thoroughly.

Pour into a small, made-up loaf pan and chill until firm. To turn out dip mould in hot water for 10 seconds, then invert on large plate. Garnish at discretion with lettuce leaves, cucumber slices, radish slices and meat pickles.

CHICKEN ASPIC (could be moulded in ring — serves 10 to 12):

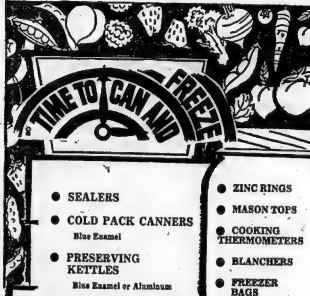

2 packages unflavored gela-

line, ¾ cup water, divided, 4 chicken bouillon cubes, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons green onion flakes, ½ teaspoon pepper, ½ to 2 cups diced cooked chicken, ½ cup finely chopped celery, ½ cup chopped green pepper, ½ to 1 teaspoon chopped onion.

Sprinkle gelatin on 1 cup of the water to soften. Add bouillon cubes. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin and bouillon cubes are dissolved. Remove from heat and add remaining ¾ cup water. Worcestershire sauce, onion flakes and pepper. Chill to thicken slightly with consistency. Fold in cooked chicken, celery, green pepper and onion if desired. Turn into aspic mould and chill until firm. Unmould on serving plate and garnish with salad greens, diced eggs and tomato slices if desired.

Lovely served with

Orange-Sour Cream Dressing: Mix together until blended 2 teaspoons grated orange peel, 1 tablespoon water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 envelope prepared sour cream sauce mix, ½ cup milk, ½ cup mayonnaise. Chill.

Ann Landers

Blames Insurance Plans And Sex for Age Barriers

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I read with interest the letter from the 45-year-old widow seeking to re-enter the business world, and found all doors closed until she was advised by a personnel director to shave 10 years off her age.

You asked for an answer to the widow's question, "Why does industry refuse to hire women over 40?" As a secretary who began her career at 37 (22 years ago) I believe I can answer.

Many companies, especially large organizations who offer fringe benefits are reluctant ANN LANDERS to hire older people because the benefit programs are underwritten by insurance contracts which have a maximum age limit for new employees — usually 28. Taking on employees over 28 increases the cost of the program.

Then there's a second reason that isn't discussed in polite business society, but it's very real. The men want younger women around the office — not older ones. They may scream about inefficient, lame-brained, wet-behind-the-ears, dumbbells who can't spell, can't punctuate, can't get on in time, and so on, yet they continue to hire the cute young things with their high bosoms and tight skirts. The grey-haired, motherly types with 18 years' experience are told, "Sorry. We have nothing for you." — P.C.I.

DEAR P.C.I. — Wow and thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I've been in my room crying for an hour. My eyes are so swollen I can hardly see to write this letter.

Last night I had some kids over. (We are all between 16 and 17). Bill (a boy I like) told a joke that had some nuttiness about it but everybody knows what they mean. That very minute my dad walked in. He was in the next room and he heard everything. I almost died when I saw him.

He said, "Who told that joke?" Bill answered, "I did. All the things in it you don't understand, Clyde!" All the kids laughed. My dad got real mad and said, "We don't allow that kind of talk in this house, young man. There's the door." He took Bill to the arm and ushered him out.

The kids were flabbergasted and left right away. My party was ruined. I'll bet they'll never come here again. I know Bill is through with me for good.

My dad is not mean or prudish. I never saw him act like this before. How can I "square this with the kids"? Please help. — ALICE

ALICE

DEAR ANN — I don't see that you have anything to squre. Food language is out of place in decent company. Bill is the one who should be squaring things.

If Bill doesn't come around anymore you haven't lost a thing. He sounds like a wet work to me.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-Age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Swedish Industry Needs Part-time Women Helpers

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — equal to that of her husband at his job. The number of part-time women workers.

The Labor Market Board says about 800,000 of them will be needed by 1960 if the desired increase in the production rate is to be achieved.

"Recruitment this year has been slow," said Mrs. Jacobson, director of the board. "Last year, some 10,000 housewives were re-trained in about 40 different types of industrial work."

"This year we have had to cancel 10 out of 43 planned industrial courses because of a lack of pupils. Only 11 women turned up at one course, to which about 15,000 had been invited."

One of the main reasons why women decline to work in the industrial system, husband and wife are taxed jointly, and this can boost taxes to 44 per cent of the total family income even when both are earning only average salaries.

Even so, the board says, Sweden probably has one of the highest employment rates of female labor in industry in the world in proportion to the population.

No statistics are available, but major companies are becoming increasingly aware that women work as well as men, and equal pay is gradually becoming more common.

Sweden is still what women call "a man's world." But old prejudices are undoubtedly disappearing. It is not even known for a man to take on the role of housewife while his mate runs the family.

Swedish law clearly indicates that the woman's role in the home, when she does not work outside it, is just as important as the man's role in the office. It stipulates that in divorce cases the courts must assess the value of the work done by the woman in the home as

Uranium Sale to France Off Under Present Policy of Federal Government

Quits Well in Incubator, Pop Still in the Clouds

AUCKLAND (CP)—New Zealand's uranium enthusiasts—four girls and a boy—were reported to be in good condition today in a hospital incubator.

But Sam Lawson, said he hasn't come down to earth yet.

Within half an hour a doctor told them "sit down Sam. It's all over. You are the father of five."

The girls weighed up to four pounds, three ounces each; all five were placed in an incubator.

The hospital's medical superintendent, Dr. K. A. Warren, said they were in perfect condition.

"Naturally we are pretty excited," said Warren. "We knew we were going to have multiple birth but we did not know exactly how many."

OFFICE POINT OF VIEW
Offers of help for Lawson and his five-year-old daughter, 10-year-old Amy, and messages of congratulations poured into Auckland today.

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake, who spoke of the birth as "an occasion of great joy for New Zealanders."

He added that he would send the Lawson girls to a boarding school, nursing him and grandfather, William Meeks, was a son of former M.L.A. John Meeks.

He said, "I'm so excited I can't sleep. I feel like I've been hit by a truck."

Mr. Lawson said, "My five-year-old daughter Lee Ann is absolutely thrilled. As for my husband, I think he's flabbergasted, but the mother said he will have Sam among his names."

The Lawsons are the first recorded multiplets born in New Zealand and the first known living set of quintts.

Japanese Industrialists Say Canadians Are Too Timid To Be Business Partners

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 200 Japanese industrialists who toured Canada last fall said they were approached about forming business partnerships with Canadian businessmen.

"They tend to be pre-occupied with consolidating and maintaining value of what already have, rather than taking the risk of starting a new venture," the 325-page report said.

"They leave the field quite open to the adventures and entrepreneurs and will step in later to purchase stocks and debentures when the business has proven to be a sure commodity."

A summary of the report has been prepared by the Ontario department of economics, which is studying the group when the industrialists visited Toronto. The summary says that Japanese will influence Canada's commercial policy toward the U.S.

Y. Iwasawa, president of Yawata Iron and Steel Co., a Tokyo group leader, pointed a noticeable difference in attitude to Japanese businessmen and Canadian businessmen.

"In industrialized America, businessmen are rather cautious and rather sensitive to the needs of Japanese investors in Canadian markets," he said.

"They are more open to the prospect of a joint venture—a company that is a combination of Japanese and Canadian capital."

TORONTO (CP)—A group of 200 Japanese industrialists who toured Canada last fall said they were approached about forming business partnerships with Canadian businessmen.

"They tend to be pre-occupied with consolidating and maintaining value of what already have, rather than taking the risk of starting a new venture," the 325-page report said.

"They leave the field quite open to the adventures and entrepreneurs and will step in later to purchase stocks and debentures when the business has proven to be a sure commodity."

A summary of the report has been prepared by the Ontario department of economics, which is studying the group when the industrialists visited Toronto. The summary says that Japanese will influence Canada's commercial policy toward the U.S.

Y. Iwasawa, president of Yawata Iron and Steel Co., a Tokyo group leader, pointed a noticeable difference in attitude to Japanese businessmen and Canadian businessmen.

"In industrialized America, businessmen are rather cautious and rather sensitive to the needs of Japanese investors in Canadian markets," he said.

"They are more open to the prospect of a joint venture—a company that is a combination of Japanese and Canadian capital."

Bratsk Hydro Project Is World's Greatest

During a 14-hour tour of Siberia, John Best, Canadian Press Moscow correspondent, was shown a huge hydro-electric power project at Bratsk. He describes the development in this story.

By JOHN BEST

BRATSK, Siberia (CP) — Soviet power authorities are fast of quoting Lenin's dictum that "electricity will run a new Russia."

The Bratsk hydro-electric power project is a striking symbol of the determination to use the province's water resources. Stretching more than three miles across the Angara River in the backwoods country of south-central Siberia, it has a capacity — as soon as it will have when the last of its 30 generators goes into operation — of 4,500,000 kilowatts, greatest of any hydro installation in the world.

Its other statistics are equally impressive. It is 414 feet high. Its lake is 300 miles long and 2,000 miles in circumference. The dam's centre portion, 4,000 feet wide, holds 105,000,000 cubic feet of concrete and its earthen flanks contain 42,000,000 cubic feet of earth.

The power capacity of Bratsk is greater than that of all the power stations on both sides of the Niagara River whose capacities total about 4,000,000 kilowatts.

It is nearly double the planned capacity—3,750,000 kilowatts—of the Peace River in northern British Columbia.

And in Canada it will be exceeded only by the 5,000,000 kilowatt Churchill Falls project in Labrador.

Work on Bratsk has been going on for 10 years. The first power began flowing 3½ years ago.

It asked how much it cost. Construction boss A. G. Orlov said: "It cost 200,000,000 rubles more than anticipated — 20 per cent."

That would make the figure 800,000,000 rubles. Bratsk that represents. At the official exchange rate the ruble is worth about $1.20 Canadian. But in international markets it's worth about one-third of the Canadian dollar.

Across the top of the dam runs a railway stop connecting with the Trans-Siberian Railway line about 175 miles away from here at Tayshet. The dam also carried a two-lane highway.

Before the waters of the Angara River rose, 72,000 people had to be moved from places to be flooded. Fourteen thousand small farms had to be abandoned. Many of the people were brought into Bratsk to help build the dam and accompanying industrial development here.

Six hundred thousand acres of forest was buried under Angara's floodwaters, though before nearly a billion cubic feet of timber was removed.

LISTEN FOR TROUBLE

The dam is built on solid rock and anchored in rock on both flanks. To detect trouble, three inspectors are constantly at work with electronic sounding devices listening for "telltale sounds" in the concrete.

SIBIRIAN HYDRO INSTALLATION — Map locates Bratsk in Siberia where the greatest hydro installation in the world is nearing completion. The Bratsk dam, stretching more than three miles across the Angara River in south-central Siberia, will have a capacity of 4,500,000 kilowatts. (CP Newsman)

Though the dam is believed working well short of capacity at present, even for the 10 generators installed, electricity is being carried on seven high-voltage lines totaling 1,300 miles in length to towns and development sites in central Siberia.

An illustration of how power is transforming this part of the Soviet Union in Bratsk itself. Ten years ago there was nothing here but forest and bays.

Now there are 140,000 people. These apartment blocks, looking depressingly like those in every Soviet city, are being pushed to completion, and many live in it in any case. It answers the Soviet Union in preparing a major assault on world markets.

Some of the cutting machines in use are being purchased from Canada. Other machinery is coming from Sweden.

WORLD'S BIGGEST POWER PROJECT — This is the Bratsk hydro-electric project in south-central Siberia. Stretching more than three miles across the Angara River, the dam is 414 feet high. The project, when completed will have a capacity of 4,500,000 kilowatts, greatest of any hydro installation in the world. The dam is built on solid rock and anchored in rock on both sides. (CP Photo)

"The factory will treat the whole tree from the roots to the top," says Gudim, head man on this job as he is on the dam. When completed, the plant will employ 12,000 and will be a major producer of car tires as well as steel for automobiles.

With gas and petrochemicals brought in from outside the region, the factory later may produce synthetics such as rayon.

Investment in the first stage will also be an aluminum works employing 10,000. And a water-asbestos factory, employing 4,000, has been set up just to turn out concrete and licenses for the power enterprises.

TOMORROW Master dam-builder completes his 17th project will be based on timber. There let.

No 'Victorious' On Wolfe Statue

QUEREC (CP) — The word "victorious" was dropped from the inscription on the recently restored Wolfe monument on the plains of Abraham, it was disclosed Monday.

Jean-Guy Langlois, spokesman for the national battlefields commission, said the word was left out because it seemed to be "too ready" to celebrate the victory.

The sentence in which the word appeared formerly read: "Here died Wolfe, victorious."

The monument commemorates the capture of Quebec and the conquest of Canada by the British in 1759.

Pulled down by Separatists in March 1970, it has recently been restored by the commission with bilingual inscriptions replacing those formerly in English only.

Dominican Republic Crisis May Harm Entire Hemisphere

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Dominican crisis has produced a paradox which can be seen something dramatically new for Latin America.

It has also produced dangerous. There are a number of Latin American countries facing critical internal situations, politically and economically. One more explosion such as that in the Dominican Republic, or one more military intervention, could have dire results for the hemisphere.

And in at least one country — Guatemala — there is a possibility of an internal explosion not unlike that in the Dominican Republic.

What has been the overall result of the Dominican crisis thus far? The answer must be a complex one, dealing with the paradoxes it has produced. Even the United States' friends see the Dominican action as a mistake, not because they feel it was unnecessary but because of the way the job was done — or not done, in the estimation of some.

So some influential Latin Americans, it was a diplomatic Bay of Pigs for President John F. Kennedy. It was a diplomatic invasion of Cuba in 1961, which U.S. power failed to support.

Latin Americans who agree that the U.S. action in Santo Domingo may have averted Castro — like takeover complete that something had not been said anywhere. Washington is criticized to do this circles for failing to do all the way to end Col. Francisco Caamaño Domín's rebellion.

"Macho" is an important word in Latin America. It signifies toughness, manly courage. It was "machos" to take such action against a threat. Latin Americans admit they respect strength. It was not "machos" to permit the crisis to drag on. Sam had a tiger by the tail.

The initial impact of the Dominican crisis in Latin America was shock. But those who govern and belong to middle and upper classes seemed to recover fairly quickly. Worry about the results remained, but there is a broad body of opinion that it may prove healthy in the long run, not as the result of reaction to shock treatment.

Realities are seldom faced in Latin America. There is still fighting with ghosts long laid to rest, still resistance to the facts. Many still play and Yankee games for their own opportunistic purposes. Many put say in public what they admit privately they do not believe.

"Non intervention and self-determination" are sacred cows. Thus the Dominican crisis is being used as a dead or dying many who dread the specter of intervention, particularly that probably the intervention had to be. Many believe the date of the Organization of American States and regard it as dead or dying.

The Communist sort of intervention, however, leads to internal uprisings, and Latin American politicians, minded of their sacred cows, will grant no right, either to the United States or the OAS, to interfere in their internal affairs. The Caribbean crisis hit many Latin American politicians like a blow of a hammer. They emerged gasping, but some deny the crisis badly damaged the OAS, already ailing. Few deny it is a Caribbean event, aroused feelings of insecurity in the hemisphere.

Few deny the crisis damaged the U.S. image, raised the ghost of the "big stick" and memories of past interventions. Few who deny the crisis badly damaged the OAS, already ailing. Few deny it is a Caribbean event, aroused feelings of insecurity in the hemisphere.

Cuban Trade Hits Slump

By WILLIAM NEVILLE
OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's export trade with Cuba has hit another slump.
For the month ending in 1964, during which exports to the Caribbean island totalled almost $10,000,000, sales have dropped off to the point where trade officials expect the 1965 figure to be no better than half that total.

Official export figures for the first nine months of 1964 show sales to Cuba of $12,000,000 compared with $24,000,000 in the January-April period last year.

Trade department experts say they don't have a detailed picture of the slump, although they assume the Castro regime has again suspended foreign exchange deliveries.

When and how shipments resume to top Canadian exporters to Cuba.

Prairies in Dilemma Over Water Shortage

By BOB TRIMMER
EDMONTON (CP)—For two decades the three Prairie provinces have been trying to reach common ground on the problem of a growing water shortage.

The dilemma involves the Saskatchewan River system, which rises in the Rocky Mountains, flows through Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba and empties into Lake Winnipeg.

Each province has a stake in the river's water. Their governments agree co-operative action is essential, but they are still far apart agreeing on a formula for dividing up their liquid asset.

The river system is the key to the water problem in the prairie, which would either redistribute water to solve the problem or handle additional supplies from rivers to the north and west.

A particularly urgent problem is the South Saskatchewan River system which rises in the Rockies and flows through Saskatchewan and southern Alberta and empties into Lake Winnipeg.

It is the source of water for the Prairie Irrigation and most of Saskatchewan's potato developments, and it will experience the earliest and greatest need for additional water.

MANITOBA HANTS MORE
Manitoba, which bears a serious water shortage by 1960, seeks additional supplies through the Saskatchewan.

The extra water would be tapped near Outlook, Sask., and fed to the southeast by way of the Qu'Appelle and Assiniboine rivers.

Saskatchewan says the additional flow for such a project could be obtained through a series of diversions which would cut water from the Columbia River and the Rockies. But this would complicate an already difficult problem of negotiation.

Since 1920 the provinces have had jurisdiction over water resources, but their control is limited to navigable and international rivers.

Inter-government negotiations to solve the problem are continuing through a special ministerial committee, but no solution is in sight.

Water board chairman M. F. Fitzgerald of Regina has indicated that a comprehensive study of water needs and availability is needed before a project can be undertaken.

can be worked out. The ministerial committee finally agreed and a $4,000,000 project is to be completed by late next year.

AGRICULTURE MINISTER H. E. STORM of Alberta, head of the committee, said he realized the apprehension of Saskatchewan and Manitoba that Alberta might on day turn off the gas after floods have been reached.

Mr. Storm added that Alberta's water board would meet water demands from the eastern provinces, but said he realized that industrial and water requirements would be a priority than hydro, he said.

"Power development requires a constant flow and once water has been allocated to such a development it is not easily reallocated. If a large flow of water is needed upstream from a hydro development for irrigation you can visualize the havoc."

"That is why allocations must be made carefully. Power needs downstream on the Saskatchewan was certainly an important, but we can't jeopardize the rights of our people to water because of these projects, especially if the downstream water is destined for export."

Mr. Storm said the South Saskatchewan dam at Outlook, 80 miles south of Saskatoon, is an example of how circumstances can change once a water allocation has been made.

When the $100,000,000 dam was proposed it was estimated 50,000 acres of farmland would be irrigated, he said. "Now it appears that less than a quarter of this irrigation development will be realized and the remainder of the allocated water will be used for hydro development. This makes it difficult for Alberta to get additional water for irrigation along the South Saskatchewan."

NEEDED FOR SEWAGE

While the Prairie provinces are still far from agreement on their internal problems, they can't even agree on the need for B.C. water.

In an unexpected attempt to get to the bottom of the problem, the provinces have agreed to a study of the Columbia River Treaty.

Additional clauses were inserted giving the Prairies the right to divert Columbia water for domestic needs, the Saskatchewan government said.

"There is evidence to indicate that even at today's level of economic development, the maintenance of flows for sewerage and drinking water is a heavy burden on certain (Prairie) rivers."

"Water released into rivers and lakes may render the whole downstream flow unsuitable for other uses unless an adequate minimum flow is maintained to dilute pollution."

"The pace of industrial development in the Prairie region is increasing rapidly and it seems evident that minimum flow requirements for sewage dilution will place a heavy burden on the river for the nation as a whole."

(Saskatchewan River system in the future.)
It estimated diversion of Columbia River water into the Saskatchewan would be a "wound cost" of $250,000,000.

"While the government of Saskatchewan has never accepted the fact that a Prairie diversion would be a heavy burden on the co-operation of British Columbia, it is our view that the fact that a river rises wholly within one province should not be considered as giving that province exclusive control over the ultimate use of the water."

"The government of Canada would insist that our rivers be viewed as part of the total water supply of Canada and it seems evident that minimum flow requirements for sewage dilution will place a heavy burden on the river for the nation as a whole."

Pinch Hitting

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

If there is any doubt that playtime time on the local ball scene has arrived, check the attendance at gates during the next few weeks.

Persons who have not attended a game since last September suddenly are turning up with a hot back to spend for the privilege of telling the visiting club that it is a bunch of bums and a bunch of losers.

This is no complaint, though, for sponsors across the country count heavily on home-game gate receipts to help defray expenses for on-and-off trips.

Last Saturday night's game in Picton was a fine example. The hometown Bloomfield boys were taking on Walley's Tweed Lombanks in a sudden-death affair for second place in the Belleville and District Softball League.

While Bloomfield has likely withdrawn any other of the boys' seven clubs this summer, the school grounds in Picton has seldom been full. It seems, Saturday, and most of the fast went home when the Bloomfield-Gerrys boys unloaded a booming attack which easily.

Both teams wanted the victory badly. One reason was to avoid meeting the high-flying Ellis Juniors in the first round of the league playoffs. The second reason was that first and second place clubs will do the home game in the semifinals, and with the teams as evenly matched as they are this summer, it could mean a great deal.

Trevelan Commercial Printers found that out. They made the regular schedule of games for the season with Trevelan Motors for the fourth and final playoff spot, facing an Ellis-Gerrys game. Walley's boys were not even in a game in Belleville this season, against either a Kilders or a Trevelan.

Trevelan won the flip for home diamond in the extra hit and went on to copy the final playoff spot with a tight 5-0 win at the Fairgrounds here. It seems funny to see Pat Maracle and his mates on the sidelines but the boys had five good clubs and a few good players.

Trevelan travel to Picton tonight for the first game of their series with Bloomfield. The county boys are favored to win the series but don't count "Walley's" boys' boys strong on another all-around team. The team started to rattle base like any hummer while coping four wins in a row during the season.

The same two clubs go right back at it here tomorrow night, at the Fairgrounds. And by the way, don't forget that the starting time for all summer play games in Belleville, it's 8:30, and Ellis' and Trevelan are hoping for some well-deserved support.

Meanwhile, Ellis Juniors opened at home last night against Trevelan and since this was their first game, results will be found elsewhere. The Juniors carried an 11 game unbeaten streak, which started with that great 16-inning win over Trevelan back in early June.

While the Juniors had not lost a league game since June 7, they will find the path to another league title no easy road. Any one of the three clubs could give them a real battle. Trevelan's boys appear to ride on how soon Blaine Hester gets back into action. The speedy pitcher has a health problem which kept him out of that 16-1 whipping in Bloomfield.

The Juniors and Lombanks also play the second game of their Saturday night, in Natick, at 8:30. One of the north boys has had the same season as last but Trevelan usually has a great following in playoffs.

We look for two hard-fought series, with greatly improved crowds for both—and despite the hot weather "coolers" don't let us go to play a winner.

LATER
Tweed captured Ellis' key department in last night's 7 game but, in any of the pooly number of fans who turned out did not care for some of the losers' poor display of sportsmanship. The youngsters here had plenty of experience winning lately but they could take in a few lessons in losing. Bat throwing, swearing and rude remarks of words with the fans are definitely out of place in any ball park.

Switching to baseball, this city's four entries in provincial minor playdowns also had the playdown this week.

Kingsford prepared the opposition in best-of-five series against Belleville Midwinters, hosts of T.Y. Jones, Joe Bennett, Maricosta and the Ellis Flyers last night. The midwinters started tonight, at the Fairgrounds, at 8:45, while the flyers play at 10:00 noon, the previous at 1:30 and the last game at 4:30, Saturday.

Local minor officials are looking for some much-needed support for these boys. They play a surprisingly good brand of ball.

City Hotel Wallops Ter-Haars

City Hotel fanned their Commercial Softball lead last night, the expense of everybody's "poor relatives" last night, dumping the tall-ten Ter-Haars Lombanks 8-2, at the Hotel.

City has lost only one game this season and Ter-Haars has but a single victory.

The winners posted three in the first and were never threatened, striking out three and walking a pair.

Hamlin gave up nine hits and saved the situation in defeat. He did not fan a man while he was out.

Brooks added a single to Al Hester's circuit double and the pitchers, along with a double and single from How Hawkins.

Jack Martin, Rocky Duggan, Mullin, Gerry Genereux and Dave Barry each had a hit.

City Hotel 30 hit 101-3-8-2 Ter-Haars 900-1-0-4-4
Batteries: D. Feeney and J. Martin; Hamlin and Wickert.

Jax Suns Split With Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Manager, Billy Herman's home team, the Leafs, split one game out of last place in the American Baseball League, will probably be placing a long-distance telephone call to Toronto tonight.

He'll no doubt be calling up right-hander Ted Lunde of the third-place Maple Leafs of the Cincinnati League.

Lunde, whose 8-12 record is the best in the league with the Sox, pitched out nine innings at Boston, hasn't lost a game since July 1, and a two-run homer brought him a record.

The 29-year-old pitcher's record is 10-7-2-27 night as the Leafs edged Jacksonville Sun 5-2 before losing 4-2 in the second game of a doubleheader.

Making every hit count in the first two out none passed, the Tiger-Cats whipped Ellis Juniors 7-1 to snap their Belleville and District Softball winning streak at 11 games here last night.

The win also gave Lombanks a 1-0 lead in their three-day league semi-finals. Ellis' travel to Mador for the second game at 8:30 Thursday in Picton tonight the other half of the semi-finals played under very hot conditions in the stadium, at 8:00 p.m.

Tweed got the jump on the Juniors by leading them with clutch hits, steady pitching and hustle before a good crowd at the Fairgrounds.

An error put a man on second in the initial frame and Gort doubled him home. That set the pace of Tweed's attack.

They scored four in the third. Ellis got his first hit in the fourth frame when he doubled and hit a single.

Harmon slugged a hard shot off Challenor's arm for a double and ran. Woods' throw to home was late on T. Ledge's ground ball and it was 3-0. Ellis' error doubled to right, drove Challenor's 30, Mather's 30, and a two-run homer by Mather.

Tweed opened up to 5-0 in the third. Sherry got an infield hit and came around on an out of wild pitches.

Blue's error came in the fourth.

Junior Golf Championship

Trenton's Beatty Second

BRAMPTON (CP)—Graham Cooke, an 18-year-old junior club champion at Coodesville Golf Course, won the 36-hole Ontario Junior golf championship here Tuesday with a four-over-par 141.

Cooke edged Brock Beatty, 17, of Trenton, who had 150, in third place was Rocky Pantalone, 17, of Concord Ont., with 151. Tim Thomas of London, Ont., shot a 154, one stroke ahead of Jim Short of Thornhill.

Cooke came up with a one-under-par 71 in the morning round. He scored an eagle on the 10th, and birdied the 11th and 12th.

PORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—Nesaree Hill, owned by Frank Sherman of Hamilton, won the $2,000 Golden Gate Club Pure at Port Erie Race Track Tuesday by 1 1/2 lengths.

The big son of Nesaree, ridden by Noel Turcotte, hit Shank and River Party set the pace until the first turn when he pulled away.

The race was regarded by trainer Wolfgang von Richelieu as a warmup for the $10,000 Harvey Stakes next Monday when Nesaree Hill will meet Victoria Eve. Queen's Plate is a 7 furlong Stakes. Good Old Mother and Fingert.

Nesaree Hill was Turcotte's second win of the day and his third of the meeting.

Nesaree's first victory came with hog shot Doc Grecco who combined with Loy's Trind in the second for a $250.30 daily double.

Defending champion Wayne McDonald of Milton, shot two winners of $1.

Stengel Surgery Success

NEW YORK (CP)—Indolent old Casey Stengel, his left hip held together by a metal ball following successful surgery for a displaced fracture, looked forward today to being back on his feet and walking with the aid of a cane by the end of the week.

Stengel, who'll be 75 Friday, was expected to remain in Roosevelt Hospital for three weeks. The 45-minute operation Tuesday was described as not complex, but, because of Casey's age, a serious one.

Casey's wife Edna, flew from their Glen Ridge, Calif. home to be at her husband's side before the operation.

Stengel suffered the injury early Sunday following a party for oldsters of Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants.

Wes Westrum, the Mets' pitching coach, will manage the club in Stengel's absence. Warren Robinson, manager of the Mets, is the Mets' farm team in the International League.

Stengel will take over the coaching duties in New York.

Residents Protest Quarry Work

NAPANEE — Clarkeville residents attended Napanee Council in support of a petition sent to have the by-law enforced which states a stone quarry shall not be enlarged or operated within the town. The petition, signed by the H. J. McFarland Company is called a nuisance and a hazard to the health in this area.

Councillor Douglas asked how as he had of the Police Committee had received no call on this issue.

Mr. M. Vanbuitene remarked that the police had already warned the company that unless their blasts should be used, but since then the blasts are bigger all the time. Chimneys have been ruined and slacks had to be replaced as well as windows. The residents in this area now ask that the Company be completely stopped from blasting.

Sewers and water mains are being installed on William St. to improve the property, but it is not much improvement if the homes are destroyed by the blasting, state one resident.

Mr. Vanbuitene remarked that the town has a by-law governing this situation and if it is not enforced then town should pay for all the damages which occur in the future.

The council feels these taxpayers have a legitimate complaint and voted to have the by-law enforced and the police are to investigate immediately.

Board Says Property Is Unsuitable

NAPANEE — The Napanee Planning Board sent a recommendation to council to turn down the application from Mrs. McDonald to operate a burning home on property which is located in a commercial area.

The board states the property is question is unsuitable as the grounds are not large enough to allow patients to be outside, there is no space for parking, no plans were submitted and approval was obtained from the M.O.H. or the Fire Marshal.

The council voted to accept this recommendation.

Councillor Woodcock, chairman of the Sanitation Department, recommended that a clerk be purchased at a cost of $1100 to be placed at the present dump site. Council voted to purchase this equipment and to hire a full time clerk to operate it, and to allow dumping at controlled hours only. This is felt to be answer to the problems which have arisen over the past few years. This will get rid of the rats as everything will be buried and the cans which will be used in the old time will be piled and removed by the county. Fill will be dumped here and the grounds properly landscaped.

Residents in this area are still concerned about the smoke which might be caused by this incinerator, but as no other disposal location can be found it will be placed here.

May Unite Areas School Areas

PICTON (Staff) — The union of Picton Township with the Village of Wellington school areas for public school purposes may become a reality after all. Some officials believe the amalgamation may be done under a section of public school legislation which permits "enlarged township school areas."

Last June 25, Prince Edward County Council passed a by-law uniting the two school areas as a county school area. The department of education replied that Bill 88 which amends public school legislation was proclaimed on June 22 and it requires any county school area formed to be at least the size of a district high school area.

At the time the letter came in, it was interpreted by some people as washing out all chances for an enlarged county school area to take in both Picton Township and Wellington. There is now hope the by-law can be amended to form an enlarged township school area which would mean basically the same thing.

The amendment is expected to come before the next regular meeting of Prince Edward County Council on Aug. 9.

Hog Producers Hold Meeting

PICTON — The farm of L.C. Kennedy Campbell (home) on Highway 41 at Conlay was the scene of a recent meeting of hog producers.

Personal speaker at the meeting of 100 farmers was Professor Robert Forsythe, of the University of Guelph, the speaker on swine production emphasizing breeding aspects. Prof. Forsythe also touched on hog feeding and management.

The other speaker was John Long, a grading inspector with Ontario Dept. of Agriculture. Mr. Long exhibited two ear-cases: "A" and "C".

He pointed out the methods of grading hogs to the assembly and answered farmers' questions.

Both visitors were introduced by G. M. Mills, County Agricultural Representative.

Police Probe Owner Assault

PICTON (Staff) — Provincial police of the Picton detachment said they are still investigating an incident at Cove Beach during the weekend in which the owner of the resort area was assaulted.

Walter Steinhart, who lives at the resort, just west of Cherry Valley, was taken to Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital with severe cuts on his arm.

Mr. Steinhart had ordered a youth off his property and then went to phone police. He is was about to enter his house, but was pushed from behind and crashed through the glass door. A Picton youth has been arrested in connection with the incident.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Two weddings were held in Wallbridge United Church on Saturday when Miss Shirley Wannamaker and Mr. Raymond Foley were married at high noon and Miss Marlene Garwood and Mr. Don Price, at 2 p.m.

Miss Janet Skinner spent a few days with Miss Susan Evans.

Mr. Allan Lott has returned home from the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Grills of Cornwall, Ont., are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grills.

Mrs. Mildred Gault of Barrie, Nova Scotia, spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. James Gault. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gauder spent a quiet week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Gauder.

Mr. Ed Cole and Mr. Allan Wannamaker were recent guests of the brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cole at their cottage, Cow River.

Will Restore Antique Home

PICTON (Staff) — There's at least one of those old houses in the town area which will not be an eyesore.

Roger Greig, a Belleville high school teacher and member of the Hastings County Historical Society was driving around Prince Edward County when he spotted a deserted house in the Point Peter area which, he said, he just had to have.

Mr. Greig, when he saw the condition of the antique building, said "It went through me like a knife."

He bought it. Time is now under way to restore the antique home. The project will include 26-space windows, similar to the original and a double door for the rear entrance. Mr. Greig has already uncovered five fireplaces in the house during the process of rebuilding and restoring it.

The house dates back to sometime before 1840 but little of its history is known, apart from the fact it was once owned by a Scot. Local rumour claims the house was through me like a knife.

Greig is urged to go to Smithfield to get first-hand information and learn the proper technique.

The Rural Scene

PICTON (Staff) — There will be a bug-grating demonstration at Smithfield Farm on Thursday, July 28th at 2 p.m. sharp.

During the past few years, the number of Robarts No. 5 root-grafting has been set out in these areas and many of these areas are ready to be grafted over to the desired variety this year.

Growers are urged to go to Smithfield to get first-hand information and learn the proper technique.

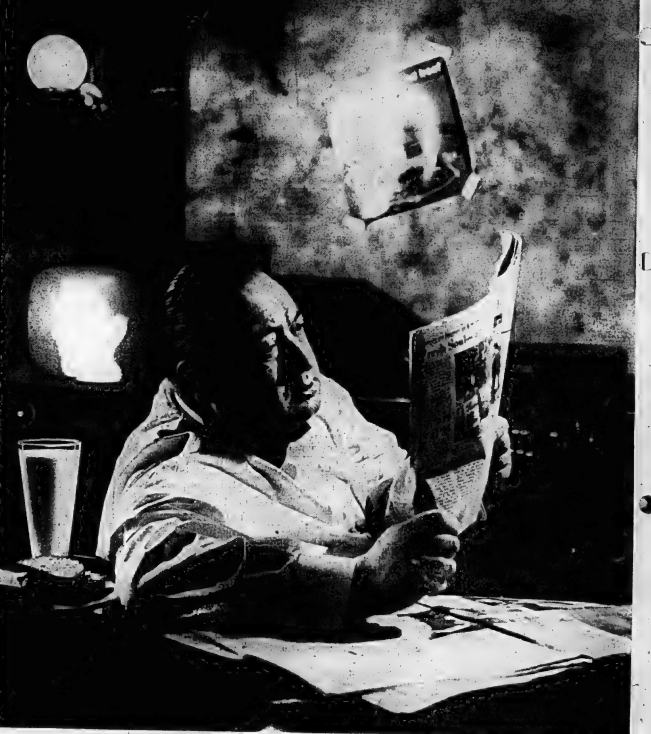

SAFETY BALLY. The Prince Edward Farm Safety Council held its annual Safety Rally in Bloomfield Town Hall on Tuesday, July 27th.

The safety program included a film "Safety Rally" where — All the Time; a discussion of safety by Mr. H. E. Wright, a quiz and a second film, "In No Foot in Water". Mr. Wright, a safety specialist with the Ontario Department of Agriculture, used slides and aerial pictures to impress all who were present that it is necessary to think safety always.

There were approximately 100 4-H Agricultural and Homemaking Club members and adults in attendance.

Door prizes were won by two 4-H members, Miss Helen Whitehead, R.R. 1, Bloomfield and Mr. Wayne Miller, R.R. 3, Milford.

ACTOR'S WIFE DIES. STRATFORD (CP) — Mrs. Gertrude, 73, wife of actor Bruno Gertrude, died at home in Stratford, Tuesday, Mr. Gertrude, who began acting at the Stratford Shakespeare Festival in 1954, has been playing Antony in Julius Caesar this season.

One thing about daily newspapers:

they give you the whole story

Television and radio are fine for immediate news bulletins. But when you want the whole story, you reach for the daily newspaper. And you're in good company, because most people do exactly that. In a recent survey, validated by the Canadian Advertising Research Foundation, 55% of the people interviewed chose daily newspapers as the source of most complete information. Further, 51% regarded television, and 49% regarded radio, as media from which "you must be missing a lot when you get things in such a condensed version."

Yes, whether it's news of events in Southeast Asia... Chamber of Commerce meetings in your home town... or Sally Winter's wedding... you reach for your daily paper to get all the details. And you get them. The same holds true for advertising. Because they're not time-bound, newspaper ads can tell you more, and you can read them in your own sweet time. Two good reasons why so many people like newspaper advertising. And people do. 83% in the survey said they use newspaper ads as a shopping guide. And 41% find them reliable, as opposed to only 16% who find television ads reliable, and 5% who rely on radio ads.

Most advertisers are aware of these facts. Which is why so many use daily newspapers to tell you about their products and services. Smart move, when you consider it. Using daily newspapers, they can give you the whole story.

Bypass to British Riviera Overcrowded by Holidayers

By RON HOWARD (CP)

EXETER, England (CP)—The motorist who takes his mother-in-law to the beach and the children over to the beach on a road that is usually empty south of Devon and Cornwall is faced with a different scene. He is faced with a road that is packed with cars, with a line of cars waiting to get on the road, with a line of cars waiting to get on the road, with a line of cars waiting to get on the road.

The bypass, built in 1958, is one observer put it "to keep the motorists from seeing the beauty of the coast and the beautiful city" is not the whole picture as far as the transport industry is concerned.

"It's not that the road itself is inadequate," a motorist spokesman said in an interview. "It's just that the roads are crowded at one point that traffic has no alternative."

Says Toronto Swing Strike

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Newspaper Editor James G. Thompson said today that a swing strike by Toronto's news workers would place a bet with a limited return at account at the end of the strike and the road to a late evening paper from London, 170 miles to the east.

Hi-ho Silver and Away, We Use Dog Sleds Today

DEAR DORIS — Why, when it comes to the subject of Canada, are Americans, as a majority, uninformed? In our Canadian schools we study the U.S.A., its people, geography, government and history. Why don't Americans learn about us? Why do we find ourselves answering such questions as: "Where do you park your dog sleds in the winter?" And "Are you still having trouble with the Indians?" They must think we are a bunch of hillbillies — CURIOUS.

DEAR CURIOUS — Couldn't say; although there have been times when similar thoughts have flitted across my mind. I don't think it is a "majority" trend. Considering how the world is shrinking, it behooves us all to learn the facts about other countries. How much do we know about those 15 nations which co-operate in NATO, an organization which is performing signal service in "serving the peace?"

What, indeed, do we know about those parts of Canada which are not in our own back yard? Our Canadian Government Travel Bureau can supply exciting facts about places to visit, in the 5,000-mile stretch between St. John's, Newfoundland, and Victoria, B.C. But we don't get around to them nearly enough!

P.C. (Villager) There are places where we still depend on dog sleds.

DEAR DORIS — I am a 13-year-old girl with many dark brown freckles which I dislike. I would like to know your opinion of a freckle remover. — FROBEN-STRUCKEN.

DEAR STRUCKEN — Freckles are not merely stains on the outside of the skin. They are hereditary collections of pigment, formed by the pigment cells in an effort to shield tissues beneath from the sun's rays. In some people the freckles are so numerous that they are known as "peppering" of those pigment-forming cells.

The most effective action against freckles is to prevent them by wearing sunnys or a sun hat. As a bleech, lemon juice may help a little, in fade them out.

DEAR DORIS — Freckles can be kept and cute.

Needing to worry about.

DEAR DORIS — I was truly shocked at my reply to the young man who was dissatisfied with his first name and wished to change it. He wanted to be re-baptized and he had to have a new name on a new baptismal certificate. "That you can't."

Baptism is a sacrament which can only be administered once in the new little one is made a member of God's family.

I grant you there are folks who join various sects and get themselves re-baptized, but it is none the less quite wrong, and in any case does not do change their given names.

Doris, I do hope you will not take this, and in will tell your equivalent "No" when there is anything to prevent the young man calling himself anything he likes, as people seem to get used to it, but he simply cannot be re-baptized. — C. E.

DEAR C. E. — I checked your information with a minister and he feels the same way you do. Change of names is a re-baptism. Thank you for putting us right.

Confidential to LOVE SHIP — Needing one of you love him not real love. About another nice boy friend — several others. The day will come, probably quite young, when they will wonder why you wanted so much precious time in love letters.

From Viet Nam With Love ... And Water Buffaloes

By RAL BOYLE

DA NANG, Viet Nam (AP) — An open letter home—Dear friend home—Believe me, baby, when I get back home you're going to see the one who carries out his beginning to think makes the custom that a lot of American men over here are beginning to think makes sense.

I know that there is nothing like a U.S. woman making that she has a man's easy life—she is overprivileged and is d-d-r-worked. But I tell you, my eyes, your eyes would get even rounder if you saw how South Vietnamese women live—apparently it is.

Men have only two chief labor-saving devices in South Viet Nam—women and water buffaloes. You can tell the women from the buffaloes because the women's country is the rice paddy country the men and the buffaloes feed them. But I tell you, when they're finished plowing, that women tell the buffaloes to go to the children, do the cooking and the laundry, and the care of the children, ducks and pigs. The ideal life is not your problem a good rice crop and a baby every year.

CARRY BURENS
Most of the country's products seem to be transported on women's backs. The women's backs are padded with bamboo splinters from the back of a water buffalo. The splinters are suspended from the back of the buffalo, the women walk with a peculiar rhythmic shuffle.

The South Vietnamese tailor earns her dough the hard way in the city, too. About 20 per cent of the labor force is female.

Women work as ditch diggers, dock walkers, bar carters, planters and gardeners on heavy construction projects. They get a daily wage of from 40 to 80 piastres—about 85 cents to $1.20—depending on their skills. The average women gets almost twice as much as a man in a day, said an American construction engineer. "Of course, I don't

BUN ADVERTISING FIRM—Sisters Dale (left) and Shirley Smith of Edmonton, who own and operate an advertising consultant's firm, examine samples of their work. Advertising by Smith and Smith Associates varies from fashion to sawmill promotions. The sisters do the art work, layout and copy and sometimes make commercial films or undertake radio and television advertising.

SAY AAAAAH!
Dear Susanna: Of course fruit frozen in ice cube trays makes a cool summer treat, and if you wish to convert the cube into frozen suckers, those wooden tongue depressors sold at the drug store are just right for handles. In set these sanitary sticks into position when the juice is firm enough to hold them upright.

If you have a large children's party coming up, you will need plenty of protection for your good dining room table. First comes the all-ice cloth, then a plastic covering over this. Next, lay out two large beach towels well smoothed down so as not to leave any ridges of bumps, and finally the party cloth itself. Even if the party cloth is only a paper one, there will be enough material between it and the table to take care of all possible spills—Mrs. J. Allan.

The ultimate in table protection. If you can't absorb it, repel it—SUSANNA.

Says Woman's Institution Asset in Advertising

By ANNE MASON

EDMONTON (CP)—Women and public relations work. And men's intuition is an asset in their job, say two sisters who run their own advertising business. "A woman's intuition works creatively in advertising," says Shirley Smith who, with her younger sister Dale, owns and operates an advertising consultant's firm, Smith and Smith Associates. "She is versatile and usually able to see both the male and female viewpoint."

Their work includes fashion advertising, fashioning home decor, menus and pamphlets and multi-serving and sawmill promotions.

The vicarious part of advertising is the pleasure in the work, says Shirley, a slim brunette. "You have to be prepared to work long hours and have the ability to concentrate, especially when you have to meet regular deadlines."

"We really are a free-lance outfit. Unlike an agency which accepts a firm's advertising for a percentage, we plan individual campaigns on a fee basis."

"Our client must know what he hopes to accomplish when he comes to us with his product. We then learn all we can of the merchandise, plan a suitable campaign and do the production work."

IDEAS IMPORTANT
Prediction may involve such widely varying tasks as copy-writing, artistic design, layout, the writing and filming of commercials, and national campaign.

Difference in Children's Attitude Bothers Mother

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Something has been bothering me and I don't know who to talk to. My husband suggested I write to you and so here I am.

The family next door has seven children. The mother is relaxed, organized and also seems to have time and energy to spare. We have four children. I'm always behind on laundry and housework and I haven't had time to serve on a committee since my last child was born three years ago.

The problem I need help with is this: The children next door wear the hand-downs of their older brothers and sisters and there are ANN LANDERS never any trouble over it.

Yesterday the 12-year-old neighbor boy said to me, "Look at my jacket. It was Timmy's." The jacket was quite shabby but it was obvious that the youngster was proud to wear it.

My 8-year-old refuses to wear anything that belonged to his older brother. Last winter he said no to a coat that was almost new. I am puzzled by the difference in our children. Please explain.

—T.M.

DEAR T.M.—The condition of the clothing is no factor. It's the way children feel about one another that makes the difference.

It's normal for brothers and sisters to be competitive. Show me a family where no rivalry exists and I will show you a collection of vegetables. Nasty hostility, however, is something else. When brothers and sisters actively hate each other it means the parents have not given each of them enough love.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—My husband and I were engaged for 10 months because we decided to have all our furniture paid for before we married. Glen (not his real name) said the frustration of not being paid and wife (physically) was making him a nervous wreck. He became more and more impatient and I was ashamed to say I gave in to him three months before we were married.

We got along just fine now and everything is lovely, except for one thing. When we are out with friends Glen always turns the subject to our furniture. He says a wedding bride is a thing of the past and obnoxious way to marry.

Whenever he makes these remarks I feel like dropping through the floor. I've tried to tell him that such talk makes it plain that I was not a virgin when we were married. Glen says I am a little sensitive. What do you say? —BONNY NAW.

DEAR NAW—I say Glen should keep his big trap shut. Nothing is more deplorable than a man who "tells" on his wife and Glen is doing just that whether he realizes it or not.

I hope you single girls are listening. This is a classic example of a man who wears down a woman's resistance then blames her later because she gave in.

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Last week when I was hurrying to meet my husband I became confused as I neared a bridge and didn't know which way to turn.

The car behind me began to honk their horns and the passing motorist showed signs of impatience. I was in a bit of a holding up traffic but I was so nervous I didn't know what to do. Just as I was about to break down and have a truck driver pulled up alongside me and said, "Where are you trying to go, lady? Maybe I can help." I told him and he said, "Follow me."

Well, Ann, that man just about saved my life. He gave me exactly the kind of help I needed and I will always be grateful to him. So, ladies, if you ever run into trouble while driving, remember the truck driver is your best friend. —RED WAGON.

DEAR RED—Thanks for telling the world, Lady. Tin not going to print the same old story city or state because I'll bet dozens of truck drivers have helped confused ladies all over the country this week. Let's let each truck driver ask himself, "Am I the star?"

LEVEQUE—McGRATH
Florence Thomas McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McGrath, Belleville, and Wayne Archie Leveque, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leveque, Kingston, were united in marriage by Rev. Father S. Walsh on July 24, 1965, at 11:00 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Belleville.

The organist, Gary Fitzgerald, accompanied the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length white gown with a lace over-lap collar, long sleeves and a full skirt.

The bride's hair was styled in a cascade and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and pink carnations.

The maid of honor was Miss Maureen McGrath, sister of the bride.

The bridesmaids were Misses Donna and Camilla McGrath, sisters of the bride and Miss Patricia Leveque, sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom, Miss Sandy Ball, the bridegroom's niece, wore a white suit.

Grandmother, Four Mothers Volunteer as Firefighters

By ANNE MADON

EDMONTON (CP)—Four mothers and a grandmother are among the volunteers at the department in Sherwood Park, a residential suburb on Edmonton's eastern outskirts.

"We're treated just like one of the boys," says Mrs. Tina Lukacz, a mother of two.

The women usually work alongside the men fighting fires. They usually go out in the truck with only one man, the fire truck driver.

When a siren sounds to summon the volunteers, the first person to reach the station goes out on the call, says Wayne Rantyre, chief of Sherwood Park's volunteer fire department.

The women do a really good job," Rantyre says. "Twice they've successfully fought fires on their own."

And they have fought all kinds, including oil, dynamite, barn and household fires.

Of the five original volunteer members, four are still on duty. Mrs. Ernie Osborn, an original, has three grandchildren, and her son Bob is the department's chief of a time around.

Other women are Mrs. MacMaster, Mrs. Fay Dufresne and Audrey Jordan.

WEAR OVERALLS

Twisted eight years ago when Sherwood Park was built, the department put five women on its staff mainly for daytime protection.

They must be available at all times and occasionally "get called when we are having our hair done in the beauty parlor."

It's the Time to Read
The Book You Missed

BY JACK HUTTON

The scene was a very large back. We were sitting in a row, my uncle and I, in a brilliant sunshine with our balled fishing line dangling over the side.

"Tell me," my uncle asked, "what are you reading these days?"

The question caught me off guard. After all, it was summer, a time to relax, swim, and forget about school bells and assignments. Why think about serious reading?

My uncle checked the worm on the end of his line, dunked it back in the water. "You know," he said, "I'd strange how little time you find later to just read. I mean the books that you'll remember for years, and books that fill in an evening."

We never did catch any fish that afternoon - not even a nibble. But I went to bed that night with a mental list of books that my uncle (you might have guessed correctly he was a university professor on vacation) had supplied.

Looking back, the list was a strange one but a good one. "War and Peace by Leo Tolstoy isn't an easy book," my uncle said, "but everyone who reads it before he's 30 years old has supplied."

I took his advice the summer I was 16 and that once I got past the Russian habit of giving each character two or three names I couldn't put the book down. It finished it in two days and still recall the book as one of the most moving experiences of my life.

He also suggested the Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens, turn-of-the-century journalist who was one of the first to take his pen to corrupt political conditions around him. I read that when I was 16 and never had as close a threatener that I'd be overpowered.

Not every book can be expected to have that great an impact on you. But Jerry, midway through the summer of 1965, in my personal list of books I wish everyone could read.

"This the end of my life. Not to work - that's why I like death. And I don't want to die."

SOVIET DAM BUILDER - Aron Gindin, 62, who has been building hydro dams in the Soviet Union for 36 years, takes Northern Affairs Minister Laine and delegation on a tour of the Bratsk dam. The Bratsk dam, the world's biggest in terms of installed capacity, stretches three miles across the Angara River in south-central Siberia. The dam is the 17th that Gindin has worked on. (CP Photo)

Soviet Engineer Interviewed On Giant Siberian Projects

Engineer Aron Gindin is typical of the men who are directing the dramatic projects that are opening Siberia. He is interviewed in this story by Jack Best, Canadian Press correspondent in Moscow.

BY JOHN BEST

BRATSK, Siberia (CP) - Aron Gindin, a stocky, neatly dressed man of 62, has been building big dams for 36 years.

The first dam he worked on produced 1,700 kilowatts of electricity. The latest - the 17th - the 4,300,000 - kilowatt Bratsk dam, nearing completion, is the world's biggest in terms of installed capacity.

He takes a positive pride in Bratsk, which is concrete and steelwork stretch more than three miles across the Angara River in south-central Siberia.

"There is something artistic in the way a project like this develops," he said. "It requires an artistic approach." His solution is apparently infectious.

Subordinates regard Gindin with respect mingled with admiration. "His whole soul is in his job," says one who has worked with him for several years.

Gindin, who is in addition, building the dam is in charge of construction at a big pulp mill and cellulose project here, says he takes "great joy" in building things. "I feel it every time I participate in a project."

"Think of everything that has been done here. Before, there was nothing but bears and forests. When my first came here the first and most important job was to make it possible to live. They were so thick, cattle had to be kept indoors. Finally, in 1926, they were killed by a big spray operation."

"I have a warm feeling for the people who made all this possible. . . . You should be here in the winter when it's 40 below zero. People worked in that kind of weather with their collars open, feet alone."

Gindin is even more eloquent when he talks about the future of Siberia. "Siberia is the future of our country. It has colossal riches. It is a reservoir of electrical power. It can provide us with as much power as we can possibly need. It has iron ore, coal, a great variety of minerals."

"We have an enormous future. The climate is good even though we live in the winter. At the beginning it is naturally difficult. But we have to exploit our riches. We have to build cities with the same conveniences and comforts as cities elsewhere."

Gindin was born in Krievich, Byelorussia, and graduated in 1929 from a hydro technical institute in Moscow. He was a part of the early career in the south - Azerbaijan, Georgia, Tajikistan.

Since then he has accompanied him from one job to another, sometimes living in tents and barracks. "I feel I present here in Bratsk is comfortable and Gindin says proudly: "He was the first to grow flowers here."

"They have two sons, one a hydro engineer like his father, and two grandsons."

Gindin keeps well informed about hydro developments in other countries and can discuss them on Grand Canyon, Kilimanjaro or Fawcett River power.

Recently he talked Canada's visiting northern affairs minister Arthur Laing, for an explanation of why British Columbia's Kilomat station, with a 2,000,000 kilowatt capacity, was built, generating only 600,000. He praises Canada for taking "brave decisions" to develop hydro resources in the face of severe climate problems which being in Siberia, he can appreciate. And he leaves no doubt he would leap at an opportunity to visit Canada and talk about with dam-builders.

Gindin was asked how long he expects to go on building dams in Canada and talk about with dam-builders.

"This the end of my life. Not to work - that's why I like death. And I don't want to die."

Translator: Forth Press says Aron Gindin.

Summer's half over. And Jack Hutton advises today, just enough time remains to read some of the books you've always wanted to. Why not the humorous writings of Stephen Leacock, pictured above.

That would grace any library. And you've got all summer left.

Dead-End Road For Dropouts
If someone had only told me - That's the refrain, repeated over and over again, by dropouts who said, "I'm different. I can make it." Read in August Reader's Digest how discouraging it is to be "last kind, first drop-out" and going nowhere. Is it really that bad? This important article says, "Much less! Parents of all teenagers should read this article. Get Reader's Digest today!"

Gather Wild Mayapples To Make Unique Marmalade

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Something for nothing has perennial lure, especially for housewives faced with utilizing food costs. Fruit is an expensive item now that it almost comes to buy jams and jellies rather than make them at home. But the roadside of the Quinte district will help reduce the picking that will help reduce the cost of jam and jelly sold for next winter.

Everyone knows that wild strawberries and raspberries are common and are readily found in garden varieties are, provided you have the patience to look out and pick the smaller wild ones. But one delectable fruit belongs to a broad umbrella of leaves, unseen and unknown to gardeners of wild berries. It is the Mayapple, a plant that pushes up from the ground in May when it has never furred like an umbrella and spread out by its peduncles to look like a green, open, three leaf high.

The plants grow close together in clumps in the woods along the edge of woods. In getting a yellow white bloom in the axils of the stalks where the two leaves branch off. By the second week in August the fruit, which is round like a small yellow plum, is ready for picking.

The Mayapple is not prolific. Perhaps that's why it's so little known. It is a small tree or shrub, about 10 feet high and highly pruned by the Indians and pioneer farmers, who ate the little plums raw. Mayapple cooks down to a marmalade with a unique taste that puts it in the gourmet class. A small jar of Mayapple marmalade has been awarded a prize relative who "has everything."

If you know a country road where you need spraying grapes, carry out your should be able to find a good supply of Mayapple. Pick enough fruit to supply two quart berry baskets. Take them home, wash them and follow this tested recipe for Mayapple marmalade.

Ann Landers

Recurrent Funeral Scene Case of Mistaken Identity

DEAR ANN LANDERS—Recently I read a letter in your column from a reader who asked why people go to funeral chapels when they don't know the family or the person who died. She wondered if there are nuns like that in every town. I had to report something that happened at my father-in-law's funeral which may settle the question once and for all.

My husband's family and close friends were seated around the closed casket in a private room of the chapel. Suddenly a woman in a black dress and white gloves, looking like a nun, walked up to the casket and began to sob. She was the wife of my father-in-law.

My mother-in-law turned aside. My husband was unable to move. Could it be that this man whom all of us had loved and beloved in had been leading a double life? It was too fantastic.

For heaven's sake, Sarah, cut it out. We're in the wrong chapel.

What do you think of this, Ann Landers?—WREN CHICAGO.

DEAR CHICAGO—I think this proves the wisdom of the adage, "Believe nothing you hear and only half of what you see."

DEAR ANN LANDERS—I am 14 and my little brother is 12. Dad made it clear that we are to earn our own money this summer which is all right with us. We need some cash to settle a problem.

I started to cut a neighbor's lawn once a week for $2.00. It's a very big lawn and even with a power mower (no cash) it's a lot of work. I went about and gave myself enough job paying errands for a drug store and sub-contracted this lawn job to my little brother. He said yes. I had said yes. I'm cheap.

Matter of Consciences

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Someone has suggested that a good motto to follow is: "Serve with only what you love; honest with all." Too often people try to turn this around. They love of God is to be expressed in their service to Him and in the love of men, and end up by being dishonest even with themselves.

Paul would have approved this. The Christian life is a day faced a strange problem. Since they eat food which is dedicated to pagan gods...

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate "What's Your Problem?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

An investor having less than 10 percent interest in a piece of real estate usually finds that his share is worth less than the whole when he alone must sell it.

This market fact is often understood and should be considered when one is investing with others.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I made a real estate investment and yet I cannot get my money back. This is a very messy case.

Last year 10 persons each invested $10,000 and we bought an apartment house. I am getting a 15 percent return on my money which is excellent by any standard.

I now need money for my business and want to sell my share. I am told that a valuable investment of $10,000 for my $10,000 investment is a very good thing. I would appreciate a Confused Investor.

ANSWER: You have an excellent investment but still you will have trouble getting back your money. It is because a fractional interest in real estate cannot be sold in real estate and therefore will sell at a market discount.

This should have been explained to you at the time you made your investment.

Anyone buying a fractional interest in real estate is at the mercy of the other parties. Sometimes it results in a disadvantageous situation.

The 20 percent discount for your one-tenth interest is typical. On the other hand if 11 parties were to sell along with you, you would find that your share would probably be worth a premium.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: My father left all his real estate to me and completely disinherited my two brothers. I know he used bad judgment but he was over 30 years old and in very poor health so he can be forgiven. He left that his two sons were suffering him and they visited only occasionally; my brothers were not to blame. One lived more than 1,000 miles away, and not only the postal employees' and letter carriers' associations but also the Canadian Railway Mail Clerks Association (C.R.M.C.A.).

SUGGEST PAY BOOSTS
The C.R.M.C.A. is requesting pay increases of $300 annually for letter carriers, $400 for mail clerks, and $500 for postal employees.

However, postal workers in Montreal and Vancouver are not so sure. They are not so sure about the pay boost, which they feel is not justified.

The return to work move must begin Tuesday after brotherhood leaders agreed to work for Judge Anderson's report and government reaction.

While Montreal decided to stay on strike at a mass meeting that produced a unanimous vote Tuesday, Vancouver voted to return to work.

The Toronto strike, carried by 1,825 to 341 votes, reversed a vote taken Wednesday and left Montreal as the last major "at-bound" city.

Postmen in the Windsor area, however, the Toronto local within hours.

Postmen here, who received their pay cheques Thursday, remain confident in their course of action.

They have the backing of the Quebec Federation of Labor and the Quebec-Banad Confederation of National Trade Unions.

Both groups have said they are prepared to offer practical as well as moral support.

DAMAGE HEAVY
ROME (AP) Damage in two days of earthquakes and whirlwinds in Northern Italy was estimated at about 1,000,000 lire ($200,000). Several persons were injured.

Forest Fires Take Toll Of Rich Siberian Timber

By JOHN BEST

IRKUTSK, Siberia (CP)—Forest fires are burning in the rich timber wealth of Siberia.

Flying over the tree-covered forest, one can see scores of fires burning.

A number—those close to settled areas and those—appear to be controlled flames for burning dead trees. But there are many others deep in the wilderness.

A responsible Siberian official said that forest fires are causing "a very large amount of damage."

Between the Ural Mountains and this city, forested highway across the southern portion of Siberia had many, dozens of fires could be seen burning in early June. There were others around Irkutsk, 250 miles north.

of here, and around Yakutsk, 1,000 miles to the northeast.

At Irkutsk late one afternoon a brilliant orange sun was obscured now and then by what appeared to be smoke.

LAND IS SWAMPY
Flying out of Yakutsk one day, we saw the air thick with smoke from dozens of fires burning on the ground.

"You can even smell the smoke in here," said a companion on the aircraft.

Most of the fires wouldn't burn for hours, because the wind was blowing from the west and the smoke was being carried westward.

North American lightning has been striking the forest in Siberia, the official said. Most are caused by carelessness, a point that was difficult to reconcile with the fact that large numbers of fires were in the depths of the vast wilderness.

The standard method of fighting outbreaks is to isolate them by bulldozing a wide swath around the fire zone and letting the flames burn themselves out.

Bulldozers and men are often ferried to the spot by helicopter.

The Canadian technique of bombing the fire with water has been little used in Siberia, if at all.

Helicopters and small planes are used to spot fires and observe their progress and observation towers are used to some extent.

Pearson Says Uranium Sale Still Possible

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday the possibility of a Canadian uranium sale to France are still open.

"I don't think it's doomed by a press conference," Pearson said.

The government had been in discussion with the French government regarding control provisions on Canadian uranium sale.

Canada was obligated to do so by international commitments that the uranium was only for peaceful purposes.

The prime minister was commenting on statements by Stephen B. Roman, president of Denison Mines Limited, The Canadian uranium producer, who had been negotiating to sell France 100,000,000 pounds over a 25-year period.

Mr. Roman said he assumed France would go along with the kind of controls insisted upon by the Canadian government.

He said he was not aware of any blocking the sale.
